Commissioners Meeting.

Office of the County Commissioners for Garrett county, Oakland, Md., June 15th, 1916.

The Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, Maryland, will meet in their office in the town of Oakland, on to transact routine business.

By order of the Board,
W. G. MEYERS, Clerk.

Federal Inquiry or Railroad Strike?

Faced by demands from the conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen that would impose on the country an additional burden in transportation costs of $100,000,000 a year, the railroads propose that this wage problem be settled by reference to an impartial Federal tribunal.

With these employes, whose efficient service is acknowledged, the railroads have no differences that could not be considered fairly and decided justly by such a public body.

Railroads Urge Public Inquiry and Arbitration

The formal proposal of the railroads to the employes for the settlement of the controversy is as follows:

"Our conferences have demonstrated that we cannot harmonize our differences of opinion and that eventually the matters in controversy must be passed upon by other and disinterested agencies. Therefore, we propose that your proposals and the proposition of the railways be disposed of by one or the other of the following methods:

1. Preferably by submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the only tribunal which, by reason of its accumulated information bearing on railway conditions and its control of the revenue of the railways, is in a position to consider and protect the rights and equities of all the interests affected, and to provide additional revenue necessary to meet the added cost of operation in case your proposals are found by the Commission to be just and reasonable; or, in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission cannot, under existing laws, act in the premises, that we jointly request Congress to take such action as may be necessary to enable the Commission to consider and promptly dispose of the questions involved; or

2. By arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Federal law" (The Newlands Act).

Leaders Refuse Offer and Take Strike Vote

Leaders of the train service brotherhoods, at the joint conference held in New York, June 1-15, refused the offer of the railroads to submit the issue to arbitration or Federal review, and the employes are now voting on the question whether authority shall be given these leaders to declare a nation-wide strike.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is proposed by the railroads as the public body to which this issue ought to be referred for these reasons:

No other body with such an intimate knowledge of railroad conditions has such an unquestioned position in the public confidence.

The rates the railroads may charge the public for transportation are now largely fixed by this Government board.

Out of every dollar received by the railroads from the public nearly one-half is paid directly to the employes as wages; and the money to pay increased wages can come from no other source than the rates paid by the public.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its control over rates, is in a position to make a complete investigation and render such decision as would protect the interests of the railroad employes, the owners of the railroads, and the public.

A Question For the Public to Decide

The railroads feel that they have no right to grant a wage preferment of $100,000,000 a year to these employes, now highly paid and constituting only one-fifth of all the employes, without a clear mandate from a public tribunal that shall determine the merits of the case after a review of all the facts.

The single issue before the country is whether this controversy is to be settled by an impartial Government inquiry or by industrial warfare.

GRANTSVILLE.

A meeting in the interest of the Boy's Corn and Potato Club was held in the Broadwater Hall on Thursday afternoon. Reuben Brigman, Henry Edward Warner and Mr. McGill, the Allegany County Agricultural agent, addressed the meeting. Mr. Warner is from the Baltimore Sun and Mr. Brigman from the Maryland Agriculture College. Mrs. Warner accompanied her husband on his trip. The gentlemen are most anxious to secure cooperation in this work and are meeting with success in their State tour, in their efforts to interest the boys and girls in corn and potato culture. Clubs are being organized and committees to look after the work. The gentlemen will make another tour of the state in the autumn, when the result of the work will be made known. The general Committee appointed here consists of J. J. Bender, chairman; H. S. Yoder, vice chairman; J. O. Getty, secretary. Entertainment Committee—Mayor H. C. Bonig, Chairman; Wm. Stanton, J. A. Beachy, U. O. Blocher, Peter H. Yost, Ralph Engle, Elmer Beachy and H. H. Baker. Transportation Committee—C. A. Bender, chairman; L. H. Diefenbach, H. P. Miller, G. E. Shaw, J. U. and W. E. Stanton. Mothers Committee—Mrs. Fred Livengood, Mrs. Wm. Wright, Mrs. J. O. Getty, Mrs. H. C. Bonig, Mrs. C. B. Getty, Mrs. G. C. Keller and Miss Christine Winterberg. A chairman will be selected from this number at the first meeting and a more detailed outline of the work will be given the members of the different committees.

The young graduates from this place are Misses Vida Engle and Almira Boucher from Frostburg State Normal; John Engle, from the Western Maryland College at Westminister, and O. Broadwater from the University of Maryland. A number of friends attended the commencement exercises at Frostburg and the class held a picnic at the Stanton dam on Saturday; they were taken up by Milt Rack's team.

A surprise party was given to Mrs. Lewis Gingerich on Saturday night in honor of her forty-ninth birthday. The occasion was quite a surprise, indeed, to the recipient, who had gone out to spend the evening with a neighbor and was called home to find her home filled with friends and neighbors, armed with many and beautiful gifts. Mrs. Gingerich is an honest hard working-woman and a loyal neighbor, always ready to help in time of need, whether it be housecleaning, cooking, sewing or taking care of the sick, and her neighbors, nearly all of whom have profited by the assistance at one time or other, were glad to show their appreciation in this manner. Mrs. Gingerich is also the central operator of the Avilton Mutual Line, aside from her other duties. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Richard Younkin, Mr. and Mrs. James Younkin, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Swauger, Dr. J. A. Carney, Messrs. Gilead Broadwater, Emons Younkin, Clarence Miller; Mesdames C. S. Zeller, Harvey Miller, Fred Livengood, Joel Miller, Marshall Beachy Ellen Younkin, Tom Younkin, C. H. Younkin, John Zehner, H. C. Bonig, Ida Hershberger, Mark Bender, Chas. Getty, C. A. Bender, J. U. Stanton, Misses Mary and Sabina Blocher, Christine Winterberg, Minnie and Clara Miller, Edna Bender, Frances Bevans, Guinavere Horden and the host and hostess and family—Misses Effie, Edna Harry and Clarence Gingerich. Refreshments appeared as if by magic. They consisted of sandwiches, cake, coffee, icecream, fruit salad and candy. The gifts included almost everything, among them being several pretty new dresses and aprons, table linen, towels and kitchen utensils. Several delightful piano selections were rendered by Emons Younkin and Miss Edna Bender.

Rev. E. E. Oney and Miss Charlotte Boyer, of Elk Lick, Pa., were married on Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the Lutheran church, in Elk Lick, of which he is pastor. Rev. Dr. L. P. Young performed the ceremony. Rev. Dr. Johnson, an aged pastor of that place, who baptized and confirmed the bride, was also present and offered prayer. The bride was beautifully gowned in white silk and net, with picture hat trimmed with white roses. She carried a shower bouquet. The two bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Oney and Miss Mina Harding were gowned in white and carried roses, and each wore a picture hat trimmed in roses. The four ushers were selected from the different congregations in Rev. Oney's pastorate, Emons Younkin, of Grantsville, being among the number, Dr. Lloyd Loechel, of Elk Lick and two young men from the Greenville and St. Paul charges. The bride was given away by her brother and Rev. Roy Hauser, of Somerset, was best man. Rev. Baumgartner, of Pittsburgh, sang "O, Promise Me," and another solo. Mrs. Della B. Livengood, an accomplished pianist, played the accompaniment and the wedding march. There were four pretty little flower girls. The church was filled with friends of the bride and groom and many waited outside. Immediately after the ceremony the newly wedded couple left for parts unknown. Rev. and Mrs. Oney will reside with the bride's mother, Mrs. Savilla Boyer, upon their return. Both are very popular and the number of handsome and costly presents attest to the high regard in which they are held among their friends.

The barn of John Yommer, of near Grantsville, was burned to the ground on Tuesday night. Everything in it was destroyed except one cultivator. The fire was caused by gasoline from an automobile belonging to his brother-in-law, Galen Beachy, who left his car in the barn for the night. Discovering a leakage, Mr. Beachy came in too close proximity with a lantern which caused an explosion. Mr. Beachy was badly burned and his car partly destroyed. Mr. Yommer's loss is considerable.

The State Normal School graduat- time only the welfare of the people of the United States. We shall prove false to our ideals and our professions ing class, of Frostburg, came to Grantsville on Monday in motor truck and took supper at the Victoria Hotel.

The State Normal class of 1915 drove up from Frostburg Saturday and picniced at the Casselman River. A number of Grantsville girls joined in the festivities, all enjoying the occasion.

A number of high school girls are spending their vacation at the Casselman River.

Miss Marie Connor spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Frostburg.

Quite a number of our people attended the commencement exercises in Frostburg and enjoyed them greatly.

NOTICE.

As I have sold my store to Mr. G. C. Martin, I wish to settle all accounts by July 1st. Any and all accounts unpaid by that date will be placed for collection.

May H. Cassidy, Plaintiff v. Rosco C. Cassidy, Defendant.

No. 2067 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill states that on the 6th day of March, 1912, the plaintiff was married to the said Rosco C. Cassidy at Grafton, West Virginia, with whom she resided in said town for about a month after their marriage, and then moved to Cleveland, Ohio, and there resided with her husband for a period of about eight months, at which time the plaintiff was to make a visit to her parents in Garrett county. On this trip her husband accompanied her as far as Wheeling, W. Va., and then told her that he would follow her in two weeks, and upon her return to her home in Garrett county she received a letter from him dated Illinois stating that he was going as far away as he could and that he would never live with her again.

The bill further states that the conduct of the plaintiff towards her husband has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, and that the defendant has without just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and declared his intention to live with her no longer.

That such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond hope of reconciliation.

That there was one child born of said marriage, viz., Cora, about three years of age.

That the plaintiff has resided in Garrett county more than three years prior to the filing of this suit, and that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

The bill prays for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant, guardianship and custody of said infant child, general relief and an order of publication.

It is thereupon, this 31st day of May, 1916, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county once in each of four successive weeks before the 1st day of July, 1916, give notice to said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, 1916, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

BRISCOE

"The Best-liked Car in the Country"

Not Only Leg-Room—But Toe-Room, Too

Remember the man who got into the front seat of a car and said, "Well, there's plenty of leg-room, but my feet seem sort of crowded"?

Come and sit in the front seat of a Briscoe Twenty-four—right next to the driver. You'll find that you can give your legs a long, luxurious stretch and still not bump your knees on the cowl.

The special exclusive Briscoe toe-board arrangement gives more seat-room in front than in any other car of its type. And that's merely one of a dozen exclusive Briscoe comfort-features.

We'll be glad to demonstrate them to you at any time—the sooner the better.

Make the Change Now

WHY hold off from tractor farming any longer? A Mogul 8-16 kerosene tractor costs less than the horses it replaces. It does more work than those horses are now doing. Counting fuel, interest and depreciation at top figures, it costs less than horses to keep.

You can use it for all the heavy work your horses do, and for belt work that horses cannot do. In these days of kerosene engines, can you see yourself hitching eight teams to a horse power machine to run a thresher? Then why do plowing, disking, seeding and harvesting with horses when a Mogul 8-16 does that work also better and cheaper. We've got one here. Come in and take a look at it.

ROOSEVELT FOR HUGHES.

No surprise will be occasioned by the news from Oyster Bay that Col. Roosevelt will publicly indorse Charles Evans Hughes, Republican nominee for President, immediately after the Progressive national committee meeting next Monday, says the Pittsburgh Gazette Times, editorially, in its issue of Tuesday. Col. Roosevelt's course and that of his chief associates in the Progressive organization have been consistent with the pledges made in statement of that party's executive committee last January 9, so it is to be expected they will not depart therefrom at this time. Faith in the fidelity of their four-year leader to his principles and promises has led vast numbers of Progressives to return to the Republican party and enter heartily into the campaign for the election of Mr. Hughes in advance of decesive action by Roosevelt. These men simply appreciate the situation as it exists. They know Col. Roosevelt shares the Republican party trust in the integrity, Americanism and patriotism of Mr. Hughes, and, in common with all who read, realize the Republican platform stands four-square with that of the Progressives on all vital subjects. What else, then, can they do than join in the effort to rid the country of Democratic control by the election of Hughes and Fairbanks.

It is to be expected that Col. Roosevelt will not content himself with a mere indorsement of the Republican ticket, but will, if his health permits, take an active part as a speaker in the campaign for Republican success. The newest enterprise of President Wilson makes more than ever imperative the defeat of Wilson and Marshall. His sudden and astonishing warlike move toward Mexico will impress anew the importance of having in the White House in the time of crisis a President who can be swayed by no impulses not proceeding from the profoundest patriotism and consistent common sense. Col. Roosevelt can be in no doubt as to where his duty lies.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mrs. Brent Maxwell and Mrs. John W. Ruhl and their families of Clarksburg, W. Va., are here for the summer.

Mrs. Rockhold, of Baltimore City, is the guest of her sisters, Misses Anna and Emma Hamill.

Mrs. Gertie Thraves was a Cumberland visitor the first part of the week.

Our market is supplied with home grown strawberries, lettuce, radishes, etc. The farmers are making daily trips to the Park and are finding a ready market for their produce.

Mr. Bruce, wife, two children and a friend of the family, from Meyersdale, Pa., picniced in the Chautauqua Park Monday.

The ladies of the Methodist church will give a chicken supper at "Journey's End," the delightful home of Mrs. Winchell, this Thursday evening beginning at 5 o'clock. Everybody invited to the supper.

Mrs. Harry Searls returned to her home in Cincinnati, Ohio, last Friday night after having spent several weeks with her sister, Mrs. J. A. Turney.

The announcement of the death of Mr. John W. Young, at Cumberland, Monday morning was received with much sadness. Mr. Young was a Christian gentleman, a valuable citizen of Allegany county and a prominent member of the I. O. O. F.; was a member of the reunion committee in charge of the great I. O. O. F. meeting at the Park next July 22. He was a stockholder of the Mountain Lake Park Association and at one time was a director and secretary of the Association.

The Pentecostal encampment closed late Sunday night. The tabernacle was crowded with people. Six people were immersed in the lake at 2 p. m. The wet weather greatly interferred with the attendance at the meetings.

The camp meeting instituted over a quarter of a century ago begins its annual session tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. A get-you-acquainted meeting will be held on the large veranda of the Deaconness' home, led by Rev. Dr. Baker and Dr. Dunham, an old friend of the Rev. John Thompson. Another meeting will be held on the Hotel Chautauqua porch, led by Dr. Gilmour. The public are invited to be present at these meetings. The camp meeting will continue until and including Monday night, July 10. Preaching service usual hours next Saturday. The camp meeting workers will arrive tomorrow. There are already camp meeting people here.

Albert White, secretary of the Odd Fellows reunion, is sending out printed matter about this great gathering. He received a letter last week from Romney, W. Va., Odd Fellows asking to be included in the arrangements. The program for the day is being arranged. Noted public speakers will be here. The parade of the Daughters of Rebecca will be of interest. The bands will be enjoyed.

The usual Camp Meeting services all day at the Tabernacle. Sermons by very able preachers. The usual fine choir will be in attendance led by Dr. Gilmour.

Rev. Dr. W. D. Reed, of Grafton, West Va., former Superintendent of the Oakland District, M. E. church, is here for a day or two attending the Epworth League convention now in session in the local Methodist church.

MEMBER OF PIONEER FAMILY VISITS OAKLAND

Interesting Bits of Early Garrett County History.

Mrs. Townshend was born and raised in this county, her father coming here in the year 1833 from Prince George's county, settling on what is now known as the Meshack Mattingly farm at Hoyes, where Mrs. Townshend was born in 1834. Her father, Singleton Townshend, Sr., died there in 1836, and was buried in the Drane family private burying ground at Accident, 80 years ago. She lived on the old place until the year 1847, when she moved with her mother to the Armstrong farm, now the home of Mr. John T. Mitchell, near Oakland, and from there they moved to town in 1851.

She married a cousin, Mr. John Townshend, of Prince George's county, in 1851, the year the railroad was completed as far as Oakland, and took a wedding trip east, going on the first passenger train running through here.

Mrs. Townshend was a sister of the late S. L. Townshend, of Oakland, and is the only surviving member of the family, and is now 82 years of age. She had not visited Oakland for many years, and recently decided that she would like to make a trip to her native county. She was much surprised to see the many improvements which have taken place on the farms and the good roads as they now are. She visited many of the scenes of her childhood, going by automobile, and looked up many of her girlhood friends and acquaintances. During a visit to the Mattingly farm, where she was born, she was able to recall many of the old landmarks and located the old log home that stood just in front of the present house, and also noted where stood the cabins that were occupied by the slaves that belonged to the original Townshend family and which stood nearby. The old spring and its ever refreshing waters brought back many vivid recollections of the past. She stood on the foundation of the old chimney and had her picture taken, surrounded by the old trees and hills of her girlhood days.

Quite a number of her old associates are still living, among them being Mrs. Mary Browning DeWitt, her girlhood chum, widow of the late Arch DeWitt, who lives at Hoyes on the old DeWitt farm with her son, J. Arthur DeWitt, and another of whom is Fish Commissioner R. T. Browning, Mrs. DeWitt's brother, who was a schoolmate at the old Sang Run school. These people had not seen each other for about 70 years, and during Mrs. Townshend's visit here, Mrs. DeWitt motored to Oakland and spent a day living and talking over the olden days and the conversation was interesting, not only to these old friends, but to the younger people who were present.

Mrs. Townshend is one of the few people still living who was well acquainted with many of the early settlers of this section of the county and was a personal friend of Mr. and Mrs. McCarty, the founders of Oakland, and remembered well Mr. and Mrs. McHenry, who settled on a farm at the place which now bears their name, together with a number of slaves, who are buried on the old McHenry farm.

When Mrs. Townshend left for her home, she was profuse in her thanks to relatives and friends who assisted her in making the trips to these various places of especial interest to her, and she could hardly realize the great changes that have taken place. The country between Oakland, McHenry, Hoyes and Sang Run was a vast wilderness of pine forest, which has been mostly cut out and where unimproved at this time is timbered with oaks and shrubbery.

BITTINGER.

The Children's Day program, rendered by the Lutheran Sunday school last Sunday evening was a most successful and entertaining affair, and the young ladies who had charge of the training of the little folks deserve commendation for their untiring efforts and the pleasing and entertaining manner in which each number was rendered. The music furnished by the choir was very excellent.

The heavy rain on Saturday night hindered to a great extent the success, financially and socially, of the lawn fete announced for the evening.

Clyde Broadwater made a business trip to Oakland one day last week.

It is reported that a few nights ago John Beitzell heard some midnight prowler about his premises and used his shot gun, but with what effect is not known.

Thomas H. Brenneman was numbered among the sick last week.

It is announced that there will be protracted services at the Bethel Baptist church, on the Foxtown road next week.

Mr. Lloyd C. Shaffer and family, who have occupied a house on Third street during the past winter and spring, are moving to the recently remodeled cottage located on Mr. Lewis Bush's property overlooking town. The new home of the Shaffer family is delightfully situated and is quite an improvement.

Hog cholera has become epidemic in certain portions of the county and as a result many farmers have lost at least portions of their droves. Recently Dr. Melody, the veterinarian, has inoculated some fifteen droves of the animals and this has checked the ravages of the disease to a great extent.

Mr. Ross C. Durst, son of Mr. Madison Durst, of New Germany, who graduated about a year ago from a western university where he completed a course in civil engineering, is in his native county for a short vacation. Mr. Durst is now in the employ of one of the great western railways with headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind., having the road from that point on to Chicago under his charge.

Mrs. Elmer Haulenbeek and her son Elmer Haulenbeek, Jr., of 315 E. 24th street Baltimore City, are at Deer Park for the summer. Mrs. Haulenbeek is a great believer in the healthfulness of this beautiful mountain section of Maryland, and her son, Elmer Haulenbeek, Jr., who has been visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Geo. Haulenbeek, at Uplands Cottage since he was a tiny tot, is a fine specimen of manliness and good health.

Mr. J. W. Whorton, of Oakland, has added a complete power cement mixer to his equipment, the machine having been received here the latter part of last week from the manufacturers. On Tuesday Mr. Whorton with a crew of men took the machine to Accident where he will be engaged for the next several weeks building pavements and laying a cement roadway from the present State road to the entrance of Senator Ravenscroft's grounds some distance below.

Mrs. Lewis Walter, of this city, spent several days of last week visiting her son Dave and family at Deer Park.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Half Hearted Service.

In 2 Kings 13th chapter we have a striking illustration of this. A certain King was encouraged by Elijah in his wars with Syria. He bids him take bow and arrows and shoot. It was the custom to shoot an arrow or cast a spear into the country they were to invade. When Alexander the Great arrived on the coast of Ionia he threw a dart into the country of the Persians. The dart, or spear, or arrow thrown, was an emblem of hostilities begun. Thus war was proclaimed. The chief of the heralds went to the confines of the enemies country, and after some ceremonies, said, with a loud voice, I wage war with you and then threw the spear. The parties thus defied or warned must take the matter under consideration and if they did not in 30 days war was begun.

The act of King Joash was then a declaration of war. It declared that deliverance in trouble can come from God only and hence He is the only source from which to seek it. But He employs human agencies in His deliverances. The bow and arrows were symbols of this.

Joash was to put hand on bow and shoot, indicating that man has his part to do in the Divine deliverances. But human agencies can only succeed as God strengthens the agent. Elijah's hand on the Kings signified that the power to gain the victory came from God.

The King was to shoot, which he did thrice and stopped. The incensed prophet told him he should have shot six or seven times then would the Syrians have been wholly conquered, but as it was, he would gain but three victims. Stopping as the King did showed a weakness in his character, a want of perseverance, a tendency to be satisfied with partial results; to stop short of the ultimate goal.

The reason we do not have more from God is because we ask not. The shooting of those arrows were prayers for and pledges of victories. He asked for and got three, whereas if he had asked for more he would have gotten them. We ask too little of God, hence like Joash, miss the full blessing by ceasing to ask.

It showed a lack of zeal on the Kings part. He did not enter into the spirit of the symbolic act, which represented the smiting of his enemies. The prophet was justly indignant at this evident lack of zeal in obeying his commands, for he saw the greatness of his opportunity, the abundant favor which God was ready to grant, and the way it was stinted by the king's lack of receptiveness. He showed lack of zeal. Zeal is a passionate ordor in anything, eagerness in any cause, ardent and active interest. It is essential to success and a mark of a character governed by a supreme purpose and a thing much to be desired.

We do not value the intermitting spring as much as we do the clear brooklet, which laughed on its course unmindful of the scorching rays of the summer's sun.

We do not guide ourselves by the glow worm's fitfull flame. No, we look to the sun, which is our light poured through the window, lightening up our room, as if he knew how glad we were to see him brighten the flower cup and cheer the plant. We do not prize the affection of a stranger awakened by some casual congeniality and displayed in kindly greeting or in occasional courtesy, half so much as the patient bearing, the ready sympathies which make a summer whenever there is a house. In the natural and social relations; in the busy activities of men; in the enterprise of the world, the necessity for uniformity in zeal is recognized by all. Society puts its brand on the man who has not perseverance as well as earnestness about him. Society marks the builder without an object; who does not roof his house, either because of inability or because some other object dazzles his brain.

So matter of fact is the world now that it jostles the genius off the foot path, while the plodder, whose eye sparkles less brilliantly, but more evenly and longer, steadily proceeds on his way to success. It was zeal that led the Son of Man to cleanse the temple, upon seeing which his disciples remembered that it was written the zeal of thine house hath eaten me up. It is demanded in secular things, how much more then in things religious. If it is essential in acquiring this world's goods, how much more in securing the endurable riches of heaven. If it is so commendable in warning of danger, how much more so in urging flight from the wrath to come. A story is told of the noted Welsh Evangelists, who was called a fanatican on account of his zeal.

One day, he said, "as I passed by a sand bank I saw some workmen buried in the falling sand, and I raised such a cry that I was heard more than half a mile away, but it rescued some of the workmen." You did not call me a fanatic then. No, that was zeal. Why call me fanatic, so soon as I raise my voice to warn men of a worse danger, that same zeal enabled him to lead many to the Saviour. A chaplain at the battle of Gettysburg, was so injured by the fall of his horse, that he was compelled to lie down on the field for the night. As he lay there he heard a voice crying in distress. Unable to walk he rolled to the sufferer, who was a dying soldier, to whom he presented the Saviour and soothed his last moments. Then he was sent for to attend a dying officer, to whom he had been carried by two soldiers. Thus he passed the long night, the soldiers carrying him from one dying man to another with whom he prayed, and spoke though he was compelled to lie on his back beside them. Such zeal on the part of the church would soon make it impossible to have anymore bloody Gettysburg's. A splendid illustration of the kind of zeal that ought to characterize Christians, is told of a Chinese convert who came to Hong Kong, from a town 100 miles in the interior. He had been converted through the labors of a Colporteur, but sought the missionary for instruction and advice Next year he came bringing a new convert whom he had won. The next and the next he came bringing two each time. The fifth time he came with nine. At the commencement of the next year he came again with sixteen converts. That was zeal worthy of imitation. There was no half heartedness there.

BRICKYARD OR BAKERY.

The Peril of the Country Church.

Everywhere we find flourishing churches. Numerous organizations are succeeding, but we must not form our opinion by single examples. The truth remains that only one out of every three churches is growing. The others are slowing dying.

Dr. Edwin L. Earp of Drew Theological Seminary in speaking of the insufficiency of the church services in backward country districts says: "The message of the minister in the neglected pulpit of the dilapidated church building is about as effective in creating a community spirit as the noise of a lone wood-pecker on a dead tree in a swamp."

Dr. Earp believes in facing facts. So should we who compose the rank and file of church membership. To continue his remarks: "The greatest peril the church of the present has to face in the community is not the hostility of the people, but their indifference; the peril of unattractiveness to those who need her fellowship—the peril of being let alone by the multitude."

Instead of letting the church alone, the people should rally around it as a centre. People who claim to live according to its high ethical standards should recognize it as the front from which has flown all that makes for hope and happiness. All that is good of their lodges and fraternities, their clubs and their societies, was born of the church which they are now deserting. It has done much, but there is much yet to be done. It should not now be left anemic and dying.

However, in defense of the people let us say here that the church cannot be held blameless. In many communities the church represents simply a Sunday Service—a chance for the selfish to attain—dare we say it—a "Fire Insurance Policy". Consequently the non-church people take the view that if soul salvation is all that it represents they can get along without it.

Brickyard or Bakery! Is the desertion of the church due to the growing feeling that it is a brickyard whose silent walls care not for the everyday cares, the bread and butter side of life! Does it matter to the church if ignorance abounds, if avoidable poverty and drudgery are prevalent! Should the church cease its dreaming of the Other World for a part of the time and work more vigorously in bringing a little Heaven to this World!

Does it matter to the church whether the farmer makes a decent living! Should the janitor close the church doors on Sunday night and its function be considered as fulfilled for another two week period, tho the boys and girls seek doubtful pleasures elsewhere or leave for town, where the play instinct is recognized.

The "Brickyard" church is dying. It may well be dispensed with, but the "Bakery" type will live. It will seize every opportunity to serve its community and the community will repay it many fold. The decline of the country church will be checked, but it will be by ministers who preach the gospel and then help their congregations to apply it to community life.

The Country Life School and Conference for Maryland Ministers will deal with this and other opportunities of the country church, in its sessions July 24th to August 4th. Anyone interested may obtain complete information by writing to the Secretary of the Country Life Conference, College Park, Md.

EARLY SPRAYING OF THE ORCHARD IS URGED

T. B. SYMONS,
Maryland Agricultural College.

The man who wins in the orchard business is the man who prepares for the harvest in the early spring. Trees should be pruned properly, and all dead wood and brush removed from the orchard. Both apple and peach orchards should be sprayed with the concentrated lime sulphur at a dilution of one part of the solution to nine parts of water. Growers can buy this material and make it themselves using 100 pounds sulphur and 50 pounds stone lime, 55 gallons water and boil for one hour. The home-made solution had better be diluted at the rate of one to seven or eight parts of water.

The above treatment will control the San Jose Scale, and aid in preventing leaf curl, a disease especially bad on the Elberta variety of peaches. All spraying apparatus should be gone over and put in good shape for work. It is expensive to stop work in the field to fix up parts or mend hose, etc.

Be sure that the spraying is done thorough, that is all parts of the trees should be hit especially the terminal twigs for it is on the tender wood that the scale settles. Trees can be sprayed with this dormant solution until the buds begin to swell.

Small Orchards.

It is the small growers that sometimes neglects this treatment. There are many home orchards in the state that are not producing a revenue. Now is the time to make their fruit good by first giving them a severe pruning and good spraying. In many places, such as towns, a group of people should get together and employ some one to spray their trees. In this way the work can be done more cheaply and satisfactorily, buy using a good barrel pump, than if the individuals attempt to do the work with small pumps. Orchardists who have been troubled with scab in apples should prepare to spray with Bordeaux mixture just as the bloom shows pink. Persons desiring further information should communicate with the Extension Service, College Park, Md.

EARLY HATCHED PULLETS MAKE WINTER LAYERS.

Poultry Keepers Are Advised As To Best Time And Methods of Hatching.

ROY H. WAITE,
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

In order to get a flock of pullets that will produce well in early fall and winter the chicks must be hatched early enough so that they will have time to mature. A partly matured pullet cannot grow, keep warm, and lay eggs in cold weather. The time to get her matured is during the natural growing season when the weather is most favorable.

The period required for maturity varies with different breeds and it also varies with the way the chickens are cared for and fed. Two flocks of the same breed, hatched at the same time, may look very different when they are a few months old. Some flocks under favorable conditions may even mature twice as quickly as others poorly cared for.

Five or six months is usually considered about the proper time to allow for maturing the Leghorn varieties. They can sometimes be grown in a shorter period but it is not considered good practice to force them too much.

The heavier breeds like the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, etc., require more time. Six or seven months should be allowed for them and with some of the extremely large breeds like the Light Brahmas an even longer time is required.

Hatch In April.

White Leghorns hatched during April will usually commence laying a few eggs about the first part of September and be laying in "full blast" in October. April is an ideal month in which to hatch this breed for the weather is usually such as to give the chicks a good start and they mature in time to fill in part of the gap between the moulting and the starting of the old hens to lay. White Leghorns hatched even as late as June sometimes begin laying about December and June hatched Leghorns are usually considered successful.

March is considered an ideal month for hatching the large breeds but it is often difficult, especially to those on farms, to have things in shape for such early hatching. In any event chickens should be hatched as early as possible.

Where one can make use of an incubator the problem is considerably simplified. An incubator is broody any time the lamp is lighted and the machine regulated, but it is often difficult to get hold of sitting hens before April.

OUR FARM BOYS AND GIRLS.

The boys of today will be the men of tomorrow, and the girls of today will be the homemakers for tomorrow's men. Wherefore let every one, now careless concerning the boys and girls on the farm, wake up and go to work to solve the greatest of all the questions before the American people: how to save the bright, wide-awake youth for the land and for the right kind of living, and home-making and farming in the country.

At Last--A One-Adjustment Cream Separator

BEFORE you buy any cream separator, come in and look at the Primrose. But one adjustment is needed to keep it in perfect operating condition. This adjustment is a simple one for keeping the bowl at the correct height—an adjustment that you or your wife can safely make.

The adjustment is made from the outside of the separator by either raising or lowering the bearing containing the hardened steel point, upon which the spindle revolves. A slight turn with a screwdriver, perhaps once a year, does the work.

The Primrose is a well-constructed, close-skimming, durable cream separator, one it will pay you well to buy. When can you arrange to see it?

CARRANZA MADE CARRIZAL ATTACK

U. S. Demands Prisoners Back and Refusal Would Mean War

BAKER RUSHES MOBILIZATION

An Ultimatum sent to Gen. Carranza in Reply to One Received From Him Admitting Responsibility in the Carrizal Affair.

General Carranza, the head of the de facto government of Mexico, has assumed responsibility for the military regulation which resulted in the attack by Mexicans upon American troops at Carrizal. This fact was announced by the State Department, and promptly thereafter Secretary Lansing dispatched a communication to Carranza, demanding the release of the American prisoners who were taken by the Mexicans and a declaration of the attitude of the de facto government towards the United States.

While the communication is not a declaration of war, it is looked upon as a close forerunner of actual hostilities, inasmuch as upon the answer of Carranza will depend the issue of arms.

President Wilson at a conference in the White House gave Congress leaders the facts in the Mexican crisis and told them what his policy will be. Secretary Baker sent out orders for the State corps to hurry mobilization and start for the border.

Representatives of the Latin-American republics in Washington are conferring constantly with a view to preparing a combined proposal for mediation as a means of preventing a break.

The Mexican embassy has been officially advised that General Carranza has accepted "in principle" a tentative proposal to this end received by him from other Latin-American republics.

FUNSTON ASKS FOR 65,000 MILITIA

Request for Strengthening of Frontier Patrol.

Washington.—Major-Gen. Frederick Funston wired to the War Department asking that 65,000 men of the National Guard be sent to him as soon as they are available, to be stationed along the Mexican frontier "from Brownsville to the Pacific Ocean."

The request is understood to have been based on disturbing reports which have reached Funston's headquarters concerning the activity of Mexican forces south of the border.

Important developments of the Mexican situation were:

The United States sent to the Mexican Government a war note warning Carranza of the grave consequences that will follow a resort to arms by Mexico.

The President and Cabinet reached the firm decision to back up the note with the armed strength of the nation, even to the extent of calling out 500,000 volunteers to supplement the regulars and militia.

Ambassador Designate Arredondo suddenly cancelled an engagement with Secretary Lansing. Mexican Embassy officials regarded the war note as an affront, and possibly a casus belli.

Special Agent Rodgers informed the State Department of anti-American demonstrations in Mexico City, and said he had arranged to take all Americans on special trains to Vera Cruz, where the United States transport Hancock will be waiting to bring them to the United States.

At a White House war council it was decided to ask Congress to add 20,000 sailors to the navy at once and to increase the number to 33,000 in case of emergency.

Reports regarding conditions in Mexico City, recabled to the United States via London, state them to be appalling. There is no money. The people are resorting to barter. Food supplies are limited. The anti-American feeling is intense. Attacks have been made on all American property, including oil properties, it is added.

SOLD MILITIA GUNS TO MEXICANS

Austin, Tex.—In the Federal District Court, Judge Russell presiding, Col. Emmet H. Walker of the Texas National Guard, residence, Austin, and Captain George J. Head, residence, Brownsville, were convicted by the jury with improperly disposing of property belonging to the War Department of the United States to residents in Mexico in rebellion against the constituted authorities of that country.

BLINDED HER HUSBAND

Disfigures Him With Lye So He Would Be Less Attractive.

Sherman, Tex.—Because she regarded her husband as too attractive Mrs. L. P. Gathright told authorities here she poured a quart of concentrated lye on his face and body while he slept, burning out both of his eyes and badly burning and disfiguring his body. "I did not want to kill him, but I did want to put his eyes out and spoil his handsome face so he would not be attractive to other women."

SAVE MOREY FROM DEATH IN DESERT

SENDS REPORT OF BATTLE

Wife, at Austin, Texas, Receives Wireless Message Stating He Had Reached Pershing's Lines Safely—Mexicans Fired First Shots.

San Antonio, Texas.—General Funston has received the following report from General Pershing, transmitting a report written by Captain Lewis S. Morey, in a cave, wounded, after the Carrizal battle:

Major-General Pershing reports from Colonia Dublan, June 25, following message written by Captain Morey shortly after Carrizal battle, found in the hands of three men of Troop K returning from Carrizal and sent to Ojo Frederico by Lieut. Mayer:

Carrizal, Mex., June 21, 1916, 9:15 a. m. To commanding officer Ojo Frederico: "My troop reached Ojo Santo Domingo at 5:30 p. m., June 20, met Troop C under Captain Boyd, came under Captain Boyd's command and marched my troop in rear of Carrizal at 4:15 a. m. Reached open field to southeast of town 6:30 a. m.

"Captain Boyd sent in a note requesting permission to pass through town. This was refused. Stated we could go north, but not east. Captain Boyd said that he was going to Ahumada at this time. He was talking with Carranza commander.

"General Gomez sent a written message that Captain Boyd could bring his force in town and have a conference. Captain Boyd feared an ambush. He was under the impression that the Mexicans would run as soon as we fired.

"We formed for attack, his intention being to move up to the line of about 120 Mexicans on the edge of the town. We formed Troop C on the left in line of skirmishers, one platoon of K Troop on right of line, and another, K Troop platoon, on extreme right and eschaloned a little to the rear.

When we were in 300 yards, the Mexicans opened fire, and a strong one, before we fired a shot. Then we opened up. They did not run, but to make a long account short, after about an hour's fire in which both troops advanced. Troop C in the position of the Mexican machine guns and K closing in slightly to the left.

"We were very busy on the right keeping off a flank attack. A group of Mexicans left town, went around our right and our led horses left in a gallop.

"At about 9 o'clock one platoon of Troop K, which was on our right, fell back. Sergeant said he could not stay there. Both platoons fell back 1,000 yards to the west and together with some of Troop C, who were there, these men scattered.

"I was slightly wounded. Captain Boyd, a man told me, was killed. Nothing was seen of Lieut. Adair after fight started, so men stated.

"I am hiding in a hole 200 yards from field, and have one other wounded and three other troopers with me."

(Signed) Morey, Captain.

Commenting on Capt. Morey's letter General Pershing said in his dispatch:

"Three men referred to by Morey are three men who had above message in their possession. The wounded man was from Troop C, shot through the knee. Lieut. Meyer reports that the three men were rather dazed as to where they had left Captain Morey, but stated that on night of 21st they had carried him two miles; that Morey became weak, could go no farther and told them to leave him. The men thought he was dying from loss of blood and lack of water.

Fear for the safety of Americans at Vera Cruz, and the desire of many Americans to leave, has caused the Navy Department to issue orders for the transport Hancock to proceed as speedily as possible from San Domingo for that port.

Secretary Lansing delivered to Elieo Arredondo, Mexican Ambassador-Designate the formal reply of the United States to the threatening note sent by the Carranza Government, demanding withdrawal of the American forces from Mexico. The American reply flatly rejects the demand and serves notice on Carranza that "grave consequences" will result from any attack on American forces.

RUSSIANS OCCUPY ALL OF BUKOWINA

Pressing Drive, Czar's Forces Capture Two More Villages in the South

MANY PRISONERS SEIZED

London.—Russian troops have conquered all of the Austrian crownland of Bukowina, and the Austrians are falling back into the Carpathian Mountain passes as the Czar's forces continue their advance.

Kimpolung, in the southern part of Bukowina, has been occupied by the Russians and the Austrians have retired between that town and Jokobeny and to the northwest have evacuated the heights south of Betrometti and Wiznic.

In the drive along the River Pruth the Russians have captured two more villages and large war stores of the enemy and many prisoners.

In Volhynia Petrograd records the capture of a redoubt near Czartorysk, the repulse of attacks southwest of Lutsk and an advance north of Radziviloff, while Berlin reports the putting down of Russian attacks to the east of Vladimir-Volynski and west of Dubno. Heavy fighting continues throughout this region.

The French during late attacks recaptured from the Germans trenches west of the Thiaumont redoubt northeast of Verdun and also made some progress in the village of Fleury, according to the War Office communication. There is no infantry activity in the Verdun region, but the bombardment on both sides of the Meuse continued without interruption.

On the British and Belgian front there have been heavy artillery bombardments of the German positions. This action is taken to indicate the British are preparing for their new offensive.

In the Posina region and south of Arsiero, in the Austro-Italian theatre, the Italians have attacked and driven back the Austrians at several points.

RUSSIANS TAKE BUKOWINA TOWN

London.—The Russian army, in pursuit of the fleeing Austrian forces, has continued its drive in Bukowina, capturing the town of Radautz, thirty-five miles directly south of Czernowitz. This advance is at a rate of ten miles a day. More officers, men and guns have been captured by the Russians.

In Volhynia the Germans and Austrians have taken the offensive against the Russians in an effort to halt the westward drive, and sanguinary conflicts are in progress throughout that district. Petrograd reports the enemy has been repulsed but Berlin asserts the Russians have been driven back. On the Stripa, in Galicia, portions of the trenches of the Central Powers have been captured by Russians.

An ajjarently general offensive has been opened by the Germans in the north from the Pripet marshes to Riga. Russian positions have been bombarded or infantry charges hurled against them. Petrograd asserts the infantry attacks have failed.

Heavy fighting has been resumed before Verdun and to the east in the Woevre sector, and at the foot of the Meuse hills the Germans are bombarding the French positions. Heavy attacks have been made against Hill No. 304 and Le Mort Homme and northeast of the fortress around Thiaumont, the Vaux Wood, Chapitre and Fort Laufee. Germans captured some advanced French trenches between Fumin Wood and Chenois, northeast of Verdun, at night, but the French official communication reports the positions regained in counter-attacks.

French aviators have been active, dropping bombs on Treves, Karlsruhe and Mulheim. In the air battles four German aeroplanes were brought down. The French lost one machine through motor trouble.

The Petrograd War Office announced the number of prisoners captured in the offensive in Volhynia and Galicia up to June 15 as 172,484 men.

HIS REWARD FOR ENLISTING

American Serving With British Fined as Unregistered Alien.

Plymouth.—George White, an American citizen and native of New York, after serving with the Royal Marines at Gallipoli, was charged with failing to register as an alien.

He had been invalided with a small pension and explained he did not register because he had been in the British service and thought it was unnecessary to do so. The nominal fine of five shillings was imposed.

ITALIANS BEAT FOE BACK

Lines in Trentino Unshaken, Despite Heavy Attacks by Austrians.

Rome.—Heavy attacks are being delivered by the Austrians between Magna Boschi and Boscon in the Trentino. The War Office announced that all the assaults had been repelled and that the Italian line remained unshaken. Progress was made northeast of Asiago and north of the Frenzela Valley.

The battle continues fiercely on the Sette Comuni plateau.

LANSING DEFINES PURPOSE OF WAR

To End Chaos in Mexico, He Announces to the Pan-American Nations

WORD OF CLASH AWAITED

Carranza Parleys May Lead to Fresh Negotiations — Wilson Against Any Mediation—Note to Latins to Forestall Their Action.

Washington.—While President Wilson was awaiting further information on the Carrizal ambush of American soldiers to determine his future course with Mexico, Secretary Lansing made public a communication to the diplomatic representatives of the South and Central American republics giving assurance that the United States, if war comes, will have no other purpose than to protect her own borders and her own citizens and will not intervene in Mexican affairs.

The action of the State Department in outlining to the southern republics this Government's policy in the event of war, was interpreted in some quarters as indication that the Administration is impressed by the imminence of conflict with the Mexican armies.

Whatever basis there is for this belief, it is known that one of the actuating motives in issuing the memoranda was to correct a rather prevalent impression in South and Central American countries that the United States is about to embark in a war of conquest against a weaker nation.

The charge of bad faith against the Carranza Government is phrased more diplomatically and less directly in the recent note to Carranza to which the attention of the South and Central American republics is invited.

It is plain that President Wilson wants Latin America to keep its hands off at present, fearing that an offer of mediation might embarrass him, and this memorandum is meant to assure that Mexican integrity will be respected.

HOUSE FOR MILITIA DRAFT.

In Opinion of Congress Emergency Demands Use of Guard.

Washington.—By practically a unanimous vote the House passed a joint resolution saying that "in the opinion of Congress," an emergency exists which demands the use by the President of the National Guard and authorizing the chief executive to draft the militia into the service of the United States. The vote was 332 to 2.

The same resolution appropriates $1,000,000 for the support of dependent families of National Guard members who have been called out because of the Mexican crisis.

Representatives London of New York, Socialist, and Huddleston, Democrat, Alabama, were the only members voting against the resolution on a roll call vote.

Mr. Huddleston asserted that the resolution amounted to conscription and drafted for a possible service of three years on foreign soil National Guardsmen who had enlisted for service within the United States.

CARRANZA IS BANDIT'S AID.

American Troops Will Not Be Withdrawn and Must Not Be Impeded.

Washington.—The American note, flatly rejecting Gen. Carranza's demand for the withdrawal of United States troops from Mexico, and rebuking the Carranza Government for the discourteous tone and temper of its latest communication, was handed to Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican Ambassador-Designate for transmission to Mexico City. Copies were furnished to all the foreign embassies and legations, and a summary was cabled to Mr. Rodgers, the United States special agent at the Mexican capital.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

The Thiamont field work, southwest of the village of Douaumont, which has been subjected to repeated attacks by the Crown Prince's army in the past few weeks, fell to the Germans along with the French first line positions.

Huge movements of German troops from the western to the eastern theatre of war are under way. Within two days 100 troop trains passed through Aix-la-Chapelle. The troops are being used to stem the great Russian drive which threatens the Austro-Hungarian forces operating in Galicia.

Despite the fact that Germany has rushed three immense armies to relieve the Russian pressure on Austria, the German artillery and the German infantry have been attacking the French at Verdun with undiminished strength and violence.

According to Petrograd dispatches nothing but a miracle can avert the destruction of General Pflanzer's army, as General Letchitzky now holds a stretch of twenty miles on the Sereth River.

Spain and Germany have been in communication concerning peace. King Alfonso may make a move soon.

BOYS' CORN AND POTATO CLUB FOR GARRETT COUNTY

Movement Looking To Organization of Such Now Under Way.

Since Garrett County through some of its public spirited citizens has shown a decided willingness to do its part toward making the "Home State Tour," which is to be given this fall to the prize winners of the boys' corn and potato clubs, Mr. Reuben Brigham; assistant state agent, in charge of Boys' Club Work for the State of Maryland and representing the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Maryland State College of Agriculture, is having a boys' corn and potato club organized in Garrett county, in order that Garrett may be represented by two prize winners, along with all the other counties of the state, in this "Tour."

The organization and care of the "Boys' Corn Club and Potato Club in each county is generally handled by the County Agent, but as Garrett has no County Agent as yet, Mr. Brigham has arranged with Mr. John McGill, Jr., of Cumberland, who is County Agent for Allegany County, through his assistant Mr. G. E. Eaton to organize and as far as possible assist the public spirited citizens of the county, among which are Messrs. R. E. Sliger, Dr. Fleming Howell, and Mayor Giessman of Oakland, Senator, Brown, Senator Speicher, also Mayor Bonig and Mr. J. O. Getty of Grantsville, in caring for the clubs this season.

Following is a letter to the boys whose names have been suggested, and a description of the "Home State Tour." Every boy between the ages of 10 and 18 who wishes to be enrolled should send his name and address, at once to Mr. R. E. Sliger, at Oakland.

June, 27th, 1916.

My dear Friend:—Your name has been given me as a boy who would like to compete for the "Home State Tour" of Maryland, a description of which is herewith enclosed. This trip will be given as a prize to the boy who wins first place in either corn or potato contest, which will be held in each county of the State.

You will compete with boys in Garrett county only. The requirements of the contest are as follows:

Boys between the ages of ten and eighteen years are eligible and must grow an acre of corn or an eighth of an acre of potatoes. Keep an accurate record of the cost of growing this crop in a small book which will be forwarded to you upon receipt of your application blank. You will make an exhibit of ten ears of your corn or one peck of your potatoes at the Oakland Fair, and will write a small history of how you grew your crop. All of those points will be given a value in determining the awards.

CORN SCORE CARD:

Yield 30 per cent.
Showing of profit 30 per cent.
Exhibit 20 per cent.
History 20 per cent.

POTATO SCORE CARD.

Yield 40 per cent.
Showing of profit 30 per cent.
Exhibit 15 per cent.
History 15 per cent.

Usually the boy prepares his own seed bed, and plant his own crop, but since it is now too late for that you may select any acre of corn or eighth of an acre of potatoes which may now be growing on the farm, and care for it the rest of the season.

The cost of bringing this crop to the present point may easily be estimated. The time of each horse used must be charged at 5 cents per hour; your time or your father's time at 10 cents per hour; seed and fertilizer at actual cost; manure at $2 per ton, and rent of land at $5 per acre.

You should measure off your ground now, being sure it is large enough, and keep an accurate record of all labor expended on it from this time on. An acre is 4840 square yards.

Just before your crop is harvested, a committee of two disinterested parties will visit you, measure with tape and stake off your plot.

Please sign and return your application card, to Mr. R. E. Sliger at Oakland, who has agreed to help in the organization of these clubs for the present. If you know of any other boys between the ages of 10 and 18, who would like to compete for this trip, have them send their names and addresses to Mr. Sliger as soon as possible.

There may be other prizes for the boys who win 2nd, 3rd, and 4th places in the contest.

Very truly yours,
JOHN MCGILL, Jr.
County Agent for Allegany county.

P. S. Since Garrett has no county agent, I have been requested to act in his stead, for the present time and will write you as often as I do my boys in Allegany county.

The preliminary plan for the "Home State Tour" provides that early in November, the two first prize winners from the various counties shall be brought to Baltimore by rail, there being about 50 in all, and there divided into two parties of 25 each, and armed with credentials and carrying thousands of folders explanitory of the project, for distribution, will leave Baltimore and travel by automobile, one half to the Eastern shore, and the other half to the Western boundary of the state.

The Eastern shore party will go to Crisfield by way of Belair, Havre de Grass, Elkton, Cecilton, Chestertown, Centerville, Denton, Easten, Hurlock, Cambridge, Sharpton, Salisbury, Berlin, Snowhill, Pocomoke, with possibly an extra side trip to Princess Anne, all the points named will be automobile relay stops, while the night stops, where the boys will sleep, will be Elkton, Centerville, Cambridge, and Salisbury. At Crisfield the tourists will board a steamer for Baltimore.

The Western man and party will go to Oakland by the way of Ellicott City, Ridgeville, Frederick, Hagerstown, Hancock, Cumberland, Frostburg and Grantsvill, returning by rail. They will have a side trip to Harper's Ferry, and their night stops will be made at Frederick, Harper's Ferry, Hagerstown and Cumberland.

Owners of automobiles in Baltimore will take the boys to the first relay on both trips. Each relay point selected will furnish automobiles to take the tourists to the next point beyond, and so on to the end of the journey. It is roughly estimated that 200 automobiles will be required to travel from 30 to 40 miles. Organization of all the committee is now complete.

Upon the return of the boys to Baltimore, they will visit in a body Governor Harrington at Annapolis, and President Wilson at Washington. From there they will go to The Maryland State College of Agriculture, where they will be given a banquet. From there they will return to Baltimore and spend a day inspecting "The Maryland Week Exhibition", the greatest agricultural exhibit in the state. Returning to their respective homes by rail the next day.

The boys will be carefully chaperoned during the entire trip, which will occupy about two weeks, and a Mothers' committee has been appointed in each town through which the boys will pass to do every thing possible for their comfort while there. At every stop the tourists will be shown all local features of interest, and in many towns special programs and entertainments will be provided by the local boys and girls.

This will be one of the largest events of its kind ever held and is well worth every effort or sacrifice the boys may make to win it.

The tour is being given under the auspices of "The Baltimore Sun" cooperating with the "Maryland State College of Agriculture" and the boys taking it will be at no expense whatever.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

A Walk Out Third Street.

To the Editor of The Republican:

The following paper was read before the Civic Club at a recent meeting and its publication in the columns of your journal was requested. Will you kindly give it space. THE CLUB.

A few days ago I had occasion to walk from the Court House to a place several blocks north, and no very keen observation was required to notice several features which the town or county might well improve.

The first place to strike the attention is the Court House itself. At first glance it appears to be the handsome, well kept structure which was Oakland's pride a very few years since; but a second look shows that the concrete wall, which consumed a whole summer in building, is literally crumbling to bits in many places. Not only is there not a square yard without cracks, but also in several spots the top dressing has come off and the inner work itself is giving way. At this rate it can only be a short time until the wall is a ruin. The pavement outside, too, is in bad condition, and the lamp globes are so badly cracked that some of them cannot be cleaned. It is a thousand pities that we cannot be made to realize the lack of efficiency manifested in building a handsome structure and then letting it fall into absolute disrepair. Would it be possible, one wonders, to plant ampelopsis (which takes hold splendidly on concrete) at the top of the wall, and train it downward to cover some of the worst scars?

Across from the Court House is the town's perennial eyesore, the vacant, partly excavated lot with its heaps of rough stone and its flourishing weeds. The dock is in full flower now, and adds much to the general effect.

Going on a little way, we discover that two old buildings have recently been torn down by order of the town council. An excellent move, surely—but after all, are the piles of debris much improvement over the buildings themselves? There they lie—laths, plaster, old iron and tin, all sorts of things heaped up in crazy confusion. It seems rather a pity to have two full fledged junk piles in the very heart of town.

But to go on: The mill-yard is an unsightly spot, strewn with trash, and boasting a series of deep mud-holes after the heavy rains of last week; and the shaky little platform over the mill stream is hardly safe. The one-time cinder walk which runs a long block from here is now just a dirt path, and a narrow one at that; for the weeds have so encroached upon it and are so tall that pedestrians must walk in single file, perhaps, if they have vivid imaginations, fancying themselves strolling along some meadow byway. Even when the board-walks are reached, conditions are not always much improved: there are many excellent pavements at the north end of Third street, but also, alas! many ricketv, toppling boardwalks bordered on either side by high weeds.

But why continue; the sure-enough knocker, with eyes wide open for any defect, could probably find many more things to cavil at; but these are merely the notes of a random observer. Third street is probably a fair example of average Oakland. It is not the most beautiful street; neither is it the worst. (If you want a really educational walk, try Water Street.) As this tries to show, there is plenty of room for improvement. Is there anyway of bringing it about?

Gass by the car load at Treacy's Garage. Retail price 25c. gal. In drums of 53 gallons you can still get it cheaper. Fire-Stone Tires, we beat them all. Ford repairs, the largest line in town.

Mortgagee's Sale

OF VALUABLE

Coal Lands

Together with Houses and Equipment of Operating Coal Company, the Property of Waitman Smokeless Coal Company at Steyer, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from the Waitman Smokeless Coal Company, a corporation, to the Coudersport Trust Company of Coudersport, Pa., dated the first day of May, 1914, and recorded among the mortgage records of Garrett County, Maryland, in liber No. 67, folio No. 32, etc., there being default in the covenants and conditions of said mortgage, the undersigned mortgagee will sell to the highest bidder at public auction in front of the Court House in Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, on

WEDNESDAY,
The 2nd Day of August, 1916

at two o'clock P. M., all the following described property:

All surface and surface rights of the following parcels of land situated in District No. 8 of Garrett County, Maryland.

(1) Four small parcels of land comprising together nine acres, together with all the buildings and improvements thereon, including eleven tenement houses, more or less, and a large store building.

(2) All the coal in place including all those four tracts of land adjoining the above mentioned parcels of land containing 480 acres, more or less.

(3) All those parcels or tracts of land described in lease from the Bayard Coal & Coke Company to the Waitman Smokeless Coal Company, containing 493 acres more or less.

All of said tracts of land containg in the aggregate about 982 acres of land, nearly all of which is underlayed with the six feet and four feet veins of coal of quality and condition usually found in the Upper Potomac Region.

Reference is hereby made to the mortgage above mentioned and the several deeds therein mentioned for a more particular description of this property by metes and bounds. Also for reservations of several small parcels of coal which are reserved to original owners in said deeds, but which do not materially effect the value of said property.

(4) Also the following personal property: 65 one-ton 26 inch gauge mine cars, more or less, 23 tons of steel rails, more or less, one set Fairbanks Scales, one set Blacksmith's tools, one lot of mining tools, two boilers, with pumps, one engine, and all appliances and appurtenances thereto, all tram ways, hoists, mine props, and all other tools, buildings, structures, appliances and equipment for operating the said coal mines and mining plant, together with all the rights of ways of every kind and nature, including said tracts and switches, and all the houses, residences and buildings, tipple dumps, etc., now erected upon the said above described premises.

The mining plant has recently been repaired and put into good condition for the mining and shipment of coal, and is now an actual working proposition. Inspection of the property by prospective purchasers is invited.

TERMS:—A deposit of $2000.00 on the day of the sale, and the balance in cash upon ratification of the sale by the Court.

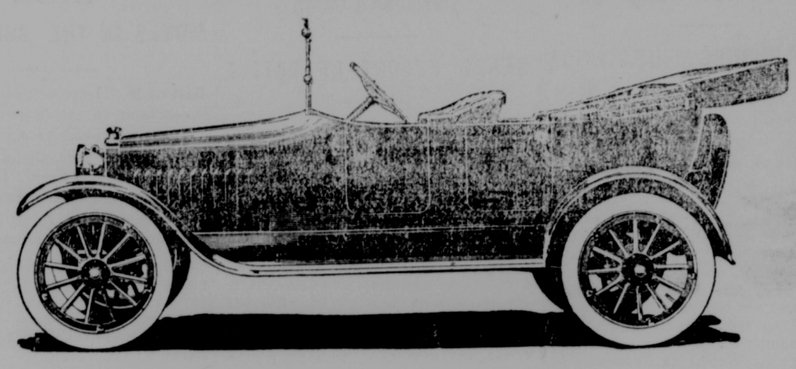
SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people



Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $5,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle the question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

Do You Use Gas?

If you do come to W. E. Shirer and inspect and have demonstrated to you the Direct Action Gas Range, with the regular cooking top, and the Direct Action Oven with the fireless cooker convenience added. The oven is the most essential part of all ranges and this range possesses the most marvelous oven yet produced which is a cooking oven as well as a baking oven and can be used to boil and bake at the same time.

The oven of this gas-range is operated on a distinctly new principle. The burners are placed in the oven itself; hence the name, "direct action." In design the range is on efficient cabinet type with a comfortable working height of thirty-two inches. Connected with the oven is a thermostat which reduces automatically the amount of gas allowed to flow through the burner at any temperature indicated. Thus at 200 degrees F. only a sub-flame burns, while if the thermostat is set for a temperature of 300 degrees F. the furners show a full flame until 325 degrees F. is reached, when the supply of gas is cut off and the flame is reduced to a mere pin-point, capable of maintaining the temperature set. With this arrangement an oven of known temperature can be indefinitely maintained, and this is a marked advance in gas-cookery. The food is first placed in the oven, the gas is then lighted, and the thermostat is set for the desired temperature. The practical results obtained in this oven, as well as the temperature readings, show it to be an excellent investment.

Call and see this range at the store of W. E. Shirer any day or if you phone W. E. Shirer he will demonstrate to you any evening. This range must be seen to be appreciated.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

In Which Mrs. Charles Harvey Is Injured and Car Damaged.

On Tuesday at Addison, Pa., Mrs. Charles Harvey, of the Park, was slightly injured and the automobile of Mr. Harvey was badly damaged when it collided with another car driven by John Augustine, of Addison.

The accident occurred in the town of Addison and resulted through a misunderstanding of signals between the drivers of the respective cars.

Mrs. Harvey's injury consists of a lacreation of her foreherd which came in contact with the bows of the car driven by her husband, the forward portion of the car being badly wrecked. The Augustine car was also damaged to some extent.

Burglarized Planing Mill.

The office of the planing mill in Oakland owned by Messrs. W. H. Kahl & Sons was burglarized on Tuesday night or yesterday morning, entrance to the office being effected by cutting away the woodwork of the door leading into the office, but nothing was obtained by the burglars and no damage done except to the door and the destruction of some papers that were of no material value.

Finger Mashed Off.

Edgar Helbig, an employe in the Treacy Garage, had the misfortune on Saturday of having the second finger of his right hand so badly mashed when a car which he was repairing slipped from its fastenings and fell upon his hand, necessitating the amputation of the member. Dr. Darby performed the operation.

Dr. A. F. Speicher, of Los Angeles, Cal., accompanied by Mrs. Speicher and two daughters, arrived at Meyersdale, Pa., Monday and will visit relatives and friends in Garrett county before returning to their western home. Dr. Speicher was born and reared in the Cove and is a brother of Mr. Charles C. Speicher, of Accident. The trip from the west was made via Seattle, Washington, by boat to Vancouver; thence by the Canadian Pacific to Toronto and from there by boat through the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence to Montreal; from Montreal to Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, etc.

THE DEATH RECORD.

AUBURN RODEHEAVER.

Auburn, the little four year old and eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rodeheaver, died at the home of her uncle, Patrick H. Rodeheaver, near Oakland, Sunday evening, July 2. The little one contracted measles and later spinal meningitis at Akron, Ohio, and was brought by her mother to Oakland with the hope that she would recover, but she survived only about one week.

Burial was made July 4th in the family graveyard near Sand Flat.

ELIZABETH NAYLOR SHARTZER.

Elizabeth, aged six months and a few days, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shartzer, died at the home of its parents in Oakland Monday morning, of spinal meningitis, after a week's illness and was buried in the Oakland cemetery Tuesday morning, the Rev. O. A. Bremer, pastor of the Lutheran church, officiating.

BENJAMIN F. HARVEY.

Benjamin F. Harvey, aged eighty years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry B. Harvey, near Mountain Lake Park, Sunday morning at an early hour. The deceased was a soldier of the Union and participated in many of the important battles of the Civil War, being attached to the Tenth Cavalry. At the battle of Gettysburg Mr. Harvey was wounded and after being confined to a hospital for many months he was honorably discharged from the service. For more than forty years the deceased was a great sufferer resulting from his army experience. His funeral took place Tuesday with interment on the home farm. He is survived by a number of children, among them being Mrs. H. B. Harvey and Assemblyman Elliott C. Harvey.

Oakland Public Library Notes.

Five beautiful ferns were presented to the library by Messrs. H. Weber & Sons Co., which add greatly to the attractiveness of the rooms.

A number of donations have recently been made of books and money by Messrs. L. L. Lohr, Jos. E. Harned, James Stemple, William Traver, Robert Porter, Robert Brown, George Rodeheaver, Howard Smith, Mrs. R. E. Sliger, Mrs. J. C. Renninger, Mrs. Guthrie, Miss Fundenberg, Miss Helen Bush.

The porch party held at the residence of Mrs. Benj. H. Sincell last Thursday evening was a success. Part of the proceeds will be used immediately for the purchase of new books for the library.

In this paper today Mr. Gilmor S. Hamill, assignee of the mortgage, advertises at public auction a valuable house and lot located in the town of Friendsville. The sale will occur in front of the court house in Oakland on Saturday, July 29th. See the advertisement for particulars.

DROWNED IN CHEAT RIVER.

Mr. Earl M. Lantz, Cashier of Kingwood National Bank, Met Untimely End.

Mr. Earl M. Lantz, cashier of the Kingwood National Bank, at Kingwood, West Va., was drowned in Cheat River, near Kingwood, Monday evening between six and seven o'clock while bathing in the stream, presumably as a result of an attack of cramps which seized him while in the water.

His companion, a young man named Devore, attempted to rescue him but his efforts were unavailing, Mr. Devore nearly losing his own life in the attempt.

The deceased was a splendid man of exceptional ability. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Lantz, of Aurora, West Va., and a nephew of Mrs. Louis Bush and Lloyd C. Shaffer, of Oakland. The funeral will occur at Kingwood today.

I. O. O. F. Reunion.

The first annual reunion of the Western Maryland and West Virginia lodges of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows will be held at Mountain Lake Park on Saturday, July 22nd, arrangements for which have just been completed and which promises to be an event in Odd Fellowship of the two states named. Representatives, from every lodge, and in many cases the entire membership of some lodges, will be present at this reunion. Special rates have been made by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company and special trains will be provided for the handling of the crowds expected to be present. Mr. A. T. White, one of the live wires of the Park, inaugurated the plan to have this reunion which may become an annual event should the one for this year prove successful and indications are that it will.

Church Exchange.

The ladies of the Oakland Lutheran church will conduct an exchange on Saturday afternoon from two until six o'clock at the store of Messrs. Shaffer & Bush on Second street.

VERA CRUZ TO CARRIZAL
MEXICAN HISTORY.

If we were Mexicans, we could consider our recent history in about this fashion: A large nation to the north of us, about six times our size, had endeavored to humiliate our national dignity because of an untoward but unimportant incident in the harbor of Tampico, where an overzealous Mexican officer exceeded his authority and acted discourteously to some American sailors.

Our president was commanded to make reparation for this by saluting the American flag. He refused to do it, and an American force took possession of Vera Cruz. The American fleet made this possible, but the American force never got beyond the protection of the guns of the fleet. Gallant Mexican cadets faced the big gun fire, answered it with rifles, and were annihilated, preferring death to surrender. They added a glorious chapter to the record of Mexican gallantry and patriotism.

The United States army could not advance beyond the protection of the navy's guns, and, after a period of occupation of the city, was withdrawn. Many Mexican civilians had been killed, but our president did not salute the American flag and Mexico was protected from invasion by her brave army.

There followed a period after this demonstration of Mexico's ability to defend her soil when it seemed possible to maintain the friendly relations between the two nations, but a band of outlaws, brave Mexicans, but outlaws, evaded the vigilance of our government and attacked a town across the border. We disavow these outlaws, but we must recognize their bravery and chivalry. The town they attacked was Columbus, at which was stationed a part of the American army. They did not attack an unprotected town but one well guarded. Their purpose, unfortunately, was not only to attack the troops but to murder civilians. They held the troops off successfully while they devoted themselves to their murderous work.

When they had accomplished it they withdrew. Later, when the government of the United States had collected its forces, they were pursued. Our government, striving sincerely and eagerly to preserve peace, permitted an American expedition to enter Mexico to catch the outlaw leader, making it plain that the invasion was endured patiently not because of helplessness but because of friendliness.

The outlaw leader was not caught. The effort was futile. The government of the United States then was advised that if it would devote itself as thoroughly to patroling its border as the Mexican government was devoting itself to the task of running down the scattered bands of outlaws, such regrettable incidents as that at Columbus could not occur. Our reasonableness and patience had no effect upon the American government. Foreign troops remained on our soil. We were obliged to give our army the task of stopping the invasion.

At Parral the invaders were told that they could not proceed farther. They attempted to do so, were attacked and put to flight with losses. Our government, still maintaining its friendly intent, informed the American authorities that the United States army was interned in Chihuaha and asked them to remove it.

When this request was unheeded, our government took the matter in firm hands and advised the United States that a movement of troops in any direction except northward, in retreat, would be stopped by force.

This advice was ignored, and at Carrizal an American force endeavored to move through the town. It was attacked and routed. We retained twenty-four prisoners and much booty. The American force was destroyed.

Our force was outnumbered, but the gallantry of our troops was not to be enied. Three men at a machine gun sustained an American charge, and by remaining at the gun until death, broke the attack and decided the day. Their heroism never will be forgotten.

Our government magnanimously returned the prisoners to American territory, a state of war not being then recognized to exist, but with the prisoners went a firm demand for the withdrawal of the aliens who had been violating sacred Mexican soil. This demand contemplated no evasion or equivocation. It was indignant and downright. Our patience was at an end. Our soldiers had proved their courage and efficiency. Mexico was ready to expel the foe. (The end, or to be continued?)

This is all wrong. It must be all wrong. But, at what point, looking at it from the other side of the border, would you find an error? If we regard Bunker Hill as a victory over the British, why should not the Mexicans regard Parral as one over the Americans? And they came out of Carrizal in possession of the prisoners, the booty and the field. Why should they not regard that as a victory?

Our men cannot conduct a war under orders from the state department. If they are fighting, they must fight under military, not diplomatic, direction. Otherwise they will be defeated. They were defeated at Carrizal. Our Mexican policy constantly defeats itself. It is mighty poor policy to slap a man's face. That is ineffective violence. We are slapping Mexico's face. Mexico hits back, and we, continuing merely to slap, get the worst of it.

Mexicans cannot understand that there is any deliberate patience in our conduct. They interpret it as cowardice. Their contempt for Americans will be increased. Carranza can outwrite President Wilson, and the Mexicans will outfight the Americans if the Americans continue to have their hands tied.

If Carranza forces the withdrawal of American troops he will have won a complete victory. If they are not withdrawn, the episode at Carrizal will be repeated. If they have something to do in Mexico why not do it? If they have nothing to do, why not get out?—New York Tribune.

GRANTSVILLE.

Mrs. Irene Hayes had a birthday last week and a few of her friends learned of it and dropped in with a freezer of icecream and some cake and candy and had a most enjoyable evening in honor of the event, the lady in question knowing nothing of it until her return from H. C. Bonig's store where she is employed as clerk. The evening was pleasantly spent in music and conversation. Mrs. Hays received some very pretty gifts.

On Satuaday a postal shower was held for ex-Postmaster Michael Nathan in honor of his seventy-third birthday, a number of tokens of affection coming to him from friends and neighbors here and relatives elsewhere.

On June 16th a birthday demonstration was accorded Harry A. Leatham and Chas. H. Younkin, which the former solemnly refers to as "a light sprinkle," consisting of each man sending the other a card on their natal day which occurrs simultaneously. This practice has been religiously observed each year, no one else knowing about the affair.

A party of small girls and boys held a picnic luncheon in Broadwater's store on Wednesday, it being too rainy to go to the woods as planned. The children were chaperoned by Mrs. Milton Miller and Mrs. Mark Bender.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Bishop of Grafton, W. Va., are guests of their sister, Mrs. H. P. Miller.

Mrs. Montgomery from Cumberland is visiting her mother, Mrs. Sophia Bonig.

Miss Plitt and Miss Isabel Powell from Baltimore were guests last week of Miss Ethel Broadwater.

Mrs. Annabel Brown and son Albert, Mrs. G. C. Keller and Miss Margaret Brown were treated to a joy ride to Cumberland and return on Wednesday, with Albert, himself, as the host in his handsome new car.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bittinger, Mrs. Irene Hayes, Miss Bertha Reckner, Mr. and Mrs. John Zehner and daughter Esther, Gustave Hanft and Will Schaefer all motored to Brownsville, Sunday, to spend the day, making the trip on motorcycles.

W. H. Ryland is visiting his daughter, Mrs. C. H. Younkins, having come over from Meyersdale Saturday.

Miss Viola Broadwater is home from college for her vacation.

W. E. Stanton spent Saturday evening in Frostburg.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stanton and family spent last Sunday in Oakland.

Mrs. Lewis Hockman and daughter, Miss Cora, were Frostburg visitors Saturday.

Misses Ruth Keller, Marie Connor, Angela Getty, Blanche Miller and Winifred Bonig have gone to Oakland to spend a week with friends. The former four will attend teachers' institute while there.

Mrs. Chas. Plitt and nurse, Miss Brown, from Meyersdale, are guests at the National Hotel for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Yutzy and children from Mt. Savage spent Sunday with their sisters, Mrs. C. A. Bender and Mrs. Ida Hershberger. They were accompanied by James Welch.

Harold Miller and grandmother Mrs. P. M. Miller, who spent the winter in Washington, D. C., are home again at Stone House farm.

Mrs. Chas. Leatham from Frostburg, is visiting her brother and sister.

Murray Smouse and Miss Louise Wilson from Cumberland were guests of Mrs. Marion Broadwater, Sunday.

Mrs. C. S. Zeller and Miss Maud Bevans spent Thursday with Mrs. W. C. Loechel.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Dean and sons, and father, H. L. Dean, from Addison, spent Sunday here, guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Getty.

First State Bank building is having a new roof put on this week.

Wm. Gnagy and sisters, Mrs. W. C. Loechel and Mrs. Harvey Parsons, were Accident visitors Sunday, motoring up in Mr. Gnagey's new car.

Sheriff Albert Ashby and his geniel deputy spent a few hours in this village one day last week.

Conrad Oester and family, of near Grantsville, were guests at A. J. Oester's on Sunday.

G. W. Engle and daughter Miss Flora, of Baltimore, are visiting friends and relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Broadwater are visiting relatives on Mill Creek for a few days.

NORTH GLADE

Harold Moon and wife, of Washington, D. C., after visiting parents here for two weeks, returned to our nation's capital last Thursday.

Albert Baker has gone to Akron, Ohio, to engage in the carpenter business. He talks of moving his family thither.

Clay Rhodes and wife of Cumberland are also visiting here.

Harrison Wiley, of Oakland, made us a brief visit. He seems much inclined to take a Dye.

Wm. Enlow is a frequent caller at the Judge's The Judge as yet has failed to pass sentence upon him.

J. L. Fitzwater and mother attended services here Sunday.

Earle Harvey is employed by Arch Beckman. He is thus pleasantly located; but we hope he will not be required to labor seven years for his Rachel.

Miss Della Custer is making a two week's visit to parents and friends.

C. T. Rhodes is making considerable improvement to his home.

Rev. Smearman preached for us very acceptably Sunday night.

Rev. McCamic gave us another interesting and effective sermon Sunday morning.

General Assessment of State Planned

The State Tax Commission of Maryland has sent out invitations to all boards of County Commissioners, to the Attorneys of the Boards and to the Clerks of the County Commissioners, besides the Supervisors of Assessments in each county and to the Assessors in towns urging upon them the importance of attending the conference in Baltimore at the Court House today at 10 o'clock. The Mayors and the Members of Councils of all incorporated towns in Maryland have been asked to attend the conference and it is expected that not less than two hundred persons will be present. A session will be held in the afternoon, beginning about 2 o'clock, after a luncheon tendered by the Commission for those attending the conference. Governor Harrington will be present and make an address.

At this conference it is proposed to outline a plan for a general reassessment of the State of Maryland, to be conducted by the Board of County Commissioners under the direction and supervision of the State Tax Commission.

VERA CRUZ TO CARRIZAL

MEXICAN HISTORY.

If we were Mexicans, we could consider our recent history in about this fashion: A large nation to the north of us, about six times our size, had endeavored to humiliate our national dignity because of an untoward but unimportant incident in the harbor of Tampico, where an overzealous Mexican officer exceeded his authority and acted discourteously to some American sailors.

Our president was commanded to make reparation for this by saluting the American flag. He refused to do it, and an American force took possession of Vera Cruz. The American fleet made this possible, but the American force never got beyond the protection of the guns of the fleet. Gallant Mexican cadets faced the big gun fire, answered it with rifles, and were annihilated, preferring death to surrender. They added a glorious chapter to the record of Mexican gallantry and patriotism.

The United States army could not advance beyond the protection of the navy's guns, and, after a period of occupation of the city, was withdrawn. Many Mexican civilians had been killed, but our president did not salute the American flag and Mexico was protected from invasion by her brave army.

There followed a period after this demonstration of Mexico's ability to defend her soil when it seemed possible to maintain the friendly relations between the two nations, but a band of outlaws, brave Mexicans, but outlaws, evaded the vigilance of our government and attacked a town across the border. We disavow these outlaws, but we must recognize their bravery and chivalry. The town they attacked was Columbus, at which was stationed a part of the American army. They did not attack an unprotected town but one well guarded. Their purpose, unfortunately, was not only to attack the troops but to murder civilians. They held the troops off successfully while they devoted themselves to their murderous work.

When they had accomplished it they withdrew. Later, when the government of the United States had collected its forces, they were pursued. Our government, striving sincerely and eagerly to preserve peace, permitted an American expedition to enter Mexico to catch the outlaw leader, making it plain that the invasion was endured patiently not because of helplessness but because of friendliness.

The outlaw leader was not caught. The effort was futile. The government of the United States then was advised that if it would devote itself as thoroughly to patroling its border as the Mexican government was devoting itself to the task of running down the scattered bands of outlaws, such regrettable incidents as that at Columbus could not occur. Our reasonableness and patience had no effect upon the American government. Foreign troops remained on our soil. We were obliged to give our army the task of stopping the invasion.

At Parral the invaders were told that they could not proceed farther. They attempted to do so, were attacked and put to flight with losses. Our government, still maintaining its friendly intent, informed the American authorities that the United States army was interned in Chihuaha and asked them to remove it.

When this request was unheeded, our government took the matter in firm hands and advised the United States that a movement of troops in any direction except northward, in retreat, would be stopped by force.

This advice was ignored, and at Carrizal an American force endeavored to move through the town. It was attacked and routed. We retained twenty-four prisoners and much booty. The American force was destroyed.

Our force was outnumbered, but the gallantry of our troops was not to be denied. Three men at a machine gun sustained an American charge, and by remaining at the gun until death, broke the attack and decided the day. Their heroism never will be forgotten.

Our government magnanimously returned the prisoners to American territory, a state of war not being then recognized to exist, but with the prisoners went a firm demand for the withdrawal of the aliens who had been violating sacred Mexican soil. This demand contemplated no evasion or equivocation. It was indignant and downright. Our patience was at an end. Our soldiers had proved their courage and efficiency. Mexico was ready to expel the foe. (The end, or to be continued?)

This is all wrong. It must be all wrong. But, at what point, looking at it from the other side of the border, would you find an error? If we regard Bunker Hill as a victory over the British, why should not the Mexicans regard Parral as one over the Americans? And they came out of Carrizal in possession of the prisoners, the booty and the field. Why should they not regard that as a victory?

Our men cannot conduct a war under orders from the state department. If they are fighting, they must fight under military, not diplomatic, direction. Otherwise they will be defeated. They were defeated at Carrizal. Our Mexican policy constantly defeats itself. It is mighty poor policy to slap a man's face. That is ineffective violence. We are slapping Mexico's face. Mexico hits back, and we, continuing merely to slap, get the worst of it.

Mexicans cannot understand that there is any deliberate patience in our conduct. They interpret it as cowardice. Their contempt for Americans will be increased. Carranza can outwrite President Wilson, and the Mexicans will outfight the Americans if the Americans continue to have their hands tied.

If Carranza forces the withdrawal of American troops he will have won a complete victory. If they are not withdrawn, the episode at Carrizal will be repeated. If they have something to do in Mexico why not do it? If they have nothing to do, why not get out?—New York Tribune.

GRANTSVILLE.

Mrs. Irene Hayes had a birthday last week and a few of her friends learned of it and dropped in with a freezer of icecream and some cake and candy and had a most enjoyable evening in honor of the event, the lady in question knowing nothing of it until her return from H. C. Bonig's store where she is employed as clerk. The evening was pleasantly spent in music and conversation. Mrs. Hays received some very pretty gifts.

On Satuaday a postal shower was held for ex-Postmaster Michael Nathan in honor of his seventy-third birthday, a number of tokens of affection coming to him from friends and neighbors here and relatives elsewhere.

On June 16th a birthday demonstration was accorded Harry A. Leatham and Chas. H. Younkin, which the former solemnly refers to as "a light sprinkle," consisting of each man sending the other a card on their natal day which occurrs simultaneously. This practice has been religiously observed each year, no one else knowing about the affair.

A party of small girls and boys held a picnic luncheon in Broadwater's store on Wednesday, it being too rainy to go to the woods as planned. The children were chaperoned by Mrs. Milton Miller and Mrs. Mark Bender.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Bishop of Grafton, W. Va., are guests of their sister, Mrs. H. P. Miller.

Mrs. Montgomery from Cumberland is visiting her mother, Mrs. Sophia Bonig.

Miss Plitt and Miss Isabel Powell from Baltimore were guests last week of Miss Ethel Broadwater.

Mrs. Annabel Brown and son Albert, Mrs. G. C. Keller and Miss Margaret Brown were treated to a joy ride to Cumberland and return on Wednesday, with Albert, himself, as the host in his handsome new car.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bittinger, Mrs. Irene Hayes, Miss Bertha Reckner, Mr. and Mrs. John Zehner and daughter Esther, Gustave Hanft and Will Schaefer all motored to Brownsville, Sunday, to spend the day, making the trip on motorcycles.

W. H. Ryland is visiting his daughter, Mrs. C. H. Younkins, having come over from Meyersdale Saturday.

Miss Viola Broadwater is home from college for her vacation.

W. E. Stanton spent Saturday evening in Frostburg.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stanton and family spent last Sunday in Oakland.

Mrs. Lewis Hockman and daughter, Miss Cora, were Frostburg visitors Saturday.

Misses Ruth Keller, Marie Connor, Angela Getty, Blanche Miller and Winifred Bonig have gone to Oakland to spend a week with friends. The former four will attend teachers' institute while there.

Mrs. Chas. Plitt and nurse, Miss Brown, from Meyersdale, are guests at the National Hotel for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Yutzy and children from Mt. Savage spent Sunday with their sisters, Mrs. C. A. Bender and Mrs. Ida Hershberger. They were accompanied by James Welch.

Harold Miller and grandmother Mrs. P. M. Miller, who spent the winter in Washington, D. C., are home again at Stone House farm.

Mrs. Chas. Leatham from Frostburg, is visiting her brother and sister.

Murray Smouse and Miss Louise Wilson from Cumberland were guests of Mrs. Marion Broadwater, Sunday.

Mrs. C. S. Zeller and Miss Maud Bevans spent Thursday with Mrs. W. C. Loechel.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Dean and sons, and father, H. L. Dean, from Addison, spent Sunday here, guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Getty.

First State Bank building is having a new roof put on this week.

Wm. Gnagy and sisters, Mrs. W. C. Loechel and Mrs. Harvey Parsons, were Accident visitors Sunday, motoring up in Mr. Gnagey's new car.

BITTINGER.

Prof. J. C. Beahm, formerly a resident of this community and for some years principal of our public school, is conducting a series of special services in the Bethel German Baptist church this week.

B. H. Wiley and friend Miss Alice Dye, visited at Mr. Wiley's home here last Sunday.

Conrad Oester and family, of near Grantsville, were guests at A. J. Oester's on Sunday.

G. W. Engle and daughter Miss Flora, of Baltimore, are visiting friends and relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Broadwater are visiting relatives on Mill Creek for a few days.

NORTH GLADE

Harold Moon and wife, of Washington, D. C., after visiting parents here for two weeks, returned to our nation's capital last Thursday.

Albert Baker has gone to Akron, Ohio, to engage in the carpenter business. He talks of moving his family thither.

Clay Rhodes and wife of Cumberland are also visiting here.

Harrison Wiley, of Oakland, made us a brief visit. He seems much inclined to take a Dye.

Wm. Enlow is a frequent caller at the Judge's The Judge as yet has failed to pass sentence upon him.

J. L. Fitzwater and mother attended services here Sunday.

Earle Harvey is employed by Arch Beckman. He is thus pleasantly located; but we hope he will not be required to labor seven years for his Rachel.

Miss Della Custer is making a two week's visit to parents and friends.

C. T. Rhodes is making considerable improvement to his home.

Rev. Smearman preached for us very acceptably Sunday night.

Rev. McCamic gave us another interesting and effective sermon Sunday morning.

Stock holders of North Glade Telephone Co., had a well attended meeting Friday evening.

Children's Day, Sunday evening at the Lutheran Chapel was largely attended and was quite a success.

General Assessment of State Planned

The State Tax Commission of Maryland has sent out invitations to all boards of County Commissioners, to the Attorneys of the Boards and to the Clerks of the County Commissioners, besides the Supervisors of Assessments in each county and to the Assessors in towns urging upon them the importance of attending the conference in Baltimore at the Court House today at 10 o'clock. The Mayors and the Members of Councils of all incorporated towns in Maryland have been asked to attend the conference and it is expected that not less than two hundred persons will be present. A session will be held in the afternoon, beginning about 2 o'clock, after a luncheon tendered by the Commission for those attending the conference. Governor Harrington will be present and make an address.

At this conference it is proposed to outline a plan for a general reassessment of the State of Maryland, to be conducted by the Board of County Commissioners under the direction and supervision of the State Tax Commission.

Mr. Horace R. Rose and daughter, of Johnstown, Pa., motored to Oakland last Sunday and returned home Monday accompanied by Mrs. Stewart F. Hamill, who will spend July and August as the guest of her parents in that city.

The Republican is issued today in a condensed form. This is made necessary owing to the illness of members of the composing force, the Fourth of July holiday and our inability to secure help to take the place of the force who are ill.

The regular dances at Loch Lynn Hotel will be on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings. A nominal price will be charged outsiders (unless registered for dinner) who have not received cards of admission.

In its happenings of forty years ago the Cumberland News of last Monday contained the following: "Gen. Grant went to Deer Park to spend the summer." As a mere boy The Republican's editor remembers the occasion and had the pleasure of meeting and shaking hands with the hero of many a hard-fought battle.

Mr. B. H. Wiley, who was recently appointed truant officer by the Board of School Commissioners, left Oakland Tuesday afternoon for Baltimore where he will take a six weeks' training course in his new duties at Johns Hopkins University. Mr. Wiley will have charge of the school truants of Oakland and near-by points and will see that all children of school age are regular attendants at the school sessions.

A delegation of the leading citizens of Selbysport met the Board of County Commissioners in Oakland last Monday and laid before that body a proposition for the building of a road from Selbysport to connect with the National Pike at Watsondale, Pa., which will give an outlet to the residents of that section of the county over a water grade road of less than three miles in length. The Commissioners went to Selbysport Tuesday and looked over the proposed route, returning to Oakland the same evening. Among those who visited Oakland in the interest of the new road were Messrs. C. V. Guard, former County Commissioner W. M. Lowdermilk, Hiram M. Frazee, Kimmell Frazee, George W. Frazee, U. S. Frazee, Norval Speelman and others.

Married.

SMITH—HARDESTY—On Saturday afternoon, June 24, at two o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Groves, Mr. Ramsay Smith and Mrs. Nora Hardesty were united in marriage, Rev. T. A. DeWitt officiating. The parlor was beautifully decorated with ferns and roses. The couple left on train No. 55 for a short tour of the middle states. They will reside in Akron, Ohio, where the groom holds a position. They have the best wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy wedded life.

DURST—KEYES—At the home of Philip Keyes at Barton, Thursday evening Ross Compton Durst and Miss Hilda Keyes were united in marriage by the Rev. Carder, of Grantsville. The bride wore a gown of white silk messaline, over net trimmed in white taffeta ribbon and carried a wreath of roses. The maid of honor, a sister of the bride, Miss Bessie Keyes, wore a beautiful gown of crepe de chine, trimmed in silk taffeta ribbons, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was John Fitzwater, of Oakland. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Keyes, of Barton, and for the past few years has been a Garrett county school teacher. The groom was graduated from the Ohio Northern University, receiving a degree of B. of Science and Engineering in 1915, and is now employed on the engineers corps of the Pennsylvania railroad company, with head-quarters at Ft. Wayne, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. Durst will spend their honeymoon at Washington, D. C., and other eastern points. After the ceremony refreshments were served. Only relatives of the contracting parties, and only a few intimate friends were present, namely Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Martin and children, Mr. and Mrs. David Boal and children, all of Barton; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Keyes, of Piedmont; Mr. Madison Durst and daughter, Dora, of New Germany; Mr. and Mrs. Christ Durst and daughter, Stella, of Grantsville; Mr. Samuel Otto, of New Germany; Miss Bessie Griffith, of Guard; Vernon H. Broadwater, of Firm Rock; John Fitzwater, of Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, Beverage, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Keyes, Leonard Keyes, Benj. Keyes and Miss Bessie Keyes all of Barton. Mr. and Mrs. Durst will reside at Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Messrs. D. M. Dixon, George Warnick and A. C. Smith, composing the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county, accompanied by Clerk Walter G. Meyers, left Oakland yesterday morning in company with Dr. Webster Ravenscroft for Baltimore, where the Commissioners will attend a meeting of the State Tax Commission. The trip was made to Baltimore in Dr. Ravenscroft's Super Six Hudson and the journey was an exceedingly pleasant one.

Hundreds of troops for the border have passed through Oakland during the week, the first trains to go through being those of last Thursday night which bore the First Maryland Regiment, followed later by troops from Pennsylvania on their way west. Yesterday afternoon eight trains of twenty cars each, containing the Fourth and Fifth Maryland Regiments, were sent on west toward the Mexican border, and today seven trains more are expected, these carrying troops from the New England States. When the first train carrying the First Maryland Regiment reached Oakland at five o'clock it was met by a number of Oakland ladies and gentlemen who placed aboard it refreshments in the way of lemonade and sandwiches which were highly enjoyed by the boys.

Funeral of George Crowe.

The funeral of George W. Crowe, who was killed in Consolidated mine No. 10 Frostburg Wednesday, took place Saturday afternoon and was in charge of Frostburg Lodge Loyal Order of Moose, of which deceased was a member.

The cortege left the family home at 1 o'clock for the M. E. Church at "Johnson's" where services were held by Rev. R. Carl Maxwell. Burial made in the churchyard.

Mr. Crowe is survived by a wife, one son and two daughters, Elden, Violet and Ellis; five brothers, Floyd, Thomas and John, of Garrett county, and Clarence and Eugene, of Meyersdale, Pa., and the following sisters: Mrs. William A. Murphy and Mrs. Calvin Wilson, near Johnson's farm, and Mrs. Lawrence Finzell, Johnstown, Pa., who is confined to her home with a severe cut on the head and face caused from being thrown from a street car.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

The program for Garrett County Day is in preparation. Saturday, September 2nd, is to be a memorable day in Garrett county. Invitations are being sent out to "old timers" to return home and help celebrate. Prominent men have been invited to be present to address the multitude who will assemble in the amphitheatre. It will be an old time picnic, the kind enjoyed by our fathers and grandfathers, mothers and grandmothers. Baskets will be checked free. Superintendent Rudisill is consulting the earlier settlers upon "the doin's of the day" and they are enthused on the subject. Our West Virginia neighbors and Pennsylvanians are to be invited to come and enjoy themselves.

The Civic Club is delighted over the improvement to the bowling alley building. That porch will supply "a long felt want." What splendid occasions will be enjoyed on it. It will be an ideal resting place, a favorite meeting place, a center of social gatherings.

Malett's stand is open for business. Mr. Malett is hopeful, cheerful and ready to give his customers choice fresh goods.

Mrs. Major Jarvis has opened her cottage for the season. She has had a number of improvements made to her cottage, including hot and cold water, bath, etc. Major Jarvis is on the border with his regiment.

Miss Jennie Smith will be a guest of Hotel Chautauqua during the camp meeting. She will be glad to meet her many friends.

An automobile from Garrett, Pa., containing six people, was here Sunday.

Mrs. Jennie Hoffman (nee Murphy) of Johnstown, Pa., is here visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. P. T. Garthright is here for a visit to his old friends. He goes about the Park with a little aid.

The short but rather violent wind and rain storm Sunday night created quite a commotion in the audience attending the camp meeting. It was soon over, however.

The chicken supper given by the M. E. Ladies' Aid last Thursday evening at the beautiful home of Mrs. Winchell, (Journey's End), was well patronized and those attending were pleased with the eatin's.

The dust on the road between the Park and the State road at Weber's Sunday was simply suffocating. Complete the road to the Park before next season. We would suggest to the traveling public along this road that during the dusty season they take the back road, leaving the main road at the Gov. Fleming place, thereby avoiding the most of the dust.

The camp meeting opened Friday night. The attendance was not large, but an excellent meeting was held. Rev. Dr. Dunham, of Delaware, Ohio, is in charge. He has a strong team of workers associated with him, who are preaching most excellent sermons. The camp meeting will close next Monday night. The singing of the meeting is greatly enjoyed. Dr. Gilmour, the leader, is doing splendid work. The services Sunday last were well attended and greatly enjoyed.

A conference for Bible instruction will be held in Miss Harris Faith Home July 13-26. Among those present will be Prof. George Shaw, and Rev. J. J. Gregory Mantle, D. D., of London, England. Dr. Mantle is one of the greatest preachers of England. He will doubtless preach in the amphitheatre July 16, 11 a. m.

The annual meeting of the Community of Mt. Lake Park will be held next Wednesday at 10 a. m., in Assembly Hall.

Robert Moomaw is running the second trick at the electric light plant.

The bowling alley is open for business. Already the lawn tennis courts are well patronized and are in good condition.

Secretary A. T. White is mailing printed matter telling about the Maryland-West Virginia Odd Fellow reunion, July 22. The circular says, "Spend the day in the Mountains. Get your lungs full of fresh air. Boating, bathing, base ball, tennis, bowling, addresses by leading members of order, music, etc." Bands of music will be present. Everybody invited to be at the Park on the 22d.

If Congressman Lewis possibly can get to the Garrett County rally day, September 2d, he will do so. Senator Zihlman, Dr. France and Mr. H. Dorsey Etchison, the Democratic candidate for Congress, have been invited to attend and participate in the exercises of the day.

On the 4th instant the children and grand children of Thomas H. Cuppett gathered at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. H. Enlow, on F street and held a family reunion. There were forty-four members of the family seated at the dinner table. One son and his family were detained at his home by sickness. The occasion was a most enjoyable one. The judge will soon be 78 years old, is in good health and enjoys life. The Judge and his good wife were delighted with the happy day given them by their loved ones.

The services in the tabernacle next Sabbath will be in charge of the best talent of the Camp Meeting Association and will be of great interest.

The young people of the Baptist churches of Allegany county are talking about an outing at the Park during the Bible Conference.

Mrs. C. F. Enyart, of Chicago, Ill., who a few years back was the manager of the Mountain Lake Hotel, has opened the Assembly House for guests. Mrs. Enyart is a very pleasant woman and will make all who are guests of her house feel that they have made a wise selection by choosing the Assembly House for their summer home.

The Camp Meeting Association is planning for the next year. One of the leading business men of Wheeling, W. Va., will be publicity manager. He will have charge of the advertising department. His success in his own large business is evidence that the Camp Meeting will be well advertised. Arrangements are being made to bring 20 deaconesses here during the camp meeting of 1917. They will be guests of the Deaconness Home. A letter from Mrs. John Thompson will be read next Sabbath. Mrs. Thompson is full of vigor and ready for the winding up of a most useful life.

Gass by the car load at Treacy's Garage. Retail price 25c. gal. In drums of 53 gallons you can still get it cheaper. Fire-Stone Tires, we beat them all. Ford repairs, the largest line in town.

TAX SALE

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

In Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett County, Maryland, by section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title "Garrett County," sub-title "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned late Treasurer in and for Garrett County, Maryland, will, on the 14th day of July, 1916,

FRIDAY,

at 10 o'clock a. m. at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Md., offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all of the following pieces or parcels of land lying and being in Garrett County, Md., to wit:

No. 4.—All the right, title and interest in and to all those pieces or parcels of land located in Election District No. 6 of Garrett county, known and designated as Military Lots Nos. 1665, 1670 and 1673, containing the quantity of fifty acres each and being the same property which was conveyed to N. H. Casteel by Milton W. Lytle et vir., by deed bearing date the 24th day of February, 1913, and which is duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 64, folio 460, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, and will be sold to pay and satisfy the balance of taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of N. H. Casteel.

No. 5.—Thirty-five acres of a tract of land known as the S. H. Ryland Farm, located in Election District No. 5 of Garrett county, and being the same property which was conveyed and is described in a deed for the same from T. H. Speer et al., bearing date March 14, 1914, to Harry Holliday, and also from Thos. E. Null et al., bearing date March 13, 1914, to said Holliday, both of which deeds are of record in Liber E. Z. T., No. 66, folio 425. Said property adjoins the lands of John Failinger, the State line, George Sibert and Sarah T. Kerr, and will be sold, excepting 25 acres thereof which was sold previously to Henry Sausman and described in a deed for the same bearing date April 18, 1915, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 68, folio 179, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, to pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1914 and 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of Harry Holliday.

No. 6.—All that tract of land known and described as Military Lot No. 3076, containing 50 acres and being the same land which was conveyed by Fred. A. Thayer et vir., to William A. Carr, by deed bearing date the 31st day of December, 1912, which deed is duly of record in Liber E. Z. T. No. 64, folio 379, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915, as is charged upon the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of the said William A. Carr. Said land is located in Election District No. 6 of Garrett county.

No. 7.—One-half interest in all that lot known and designated as Military Lot No. 3054, containing the quantity of fifty acres, and being the same property which was conveyed to Chester Schnopp by Levi Schnopp by deed dated October 1, 1915, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 66, folio 141, one of the Land Records of Garrett county. This property is located in Election District No. 6 and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of Chester Schnopp.

No. 10.—All that part of a tract of land called "Cheviot Dale," containing 64½ acres, located in Election District No. 4 of Garrett county, and being the same property which was conveyed by Clayton Purnell, trustee, to Lewis Popp by deed dated May 22, 1897, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 277, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of Lewis Popp.

No. 11.—All that parcel of land known as Lot No. 5 in the town of Bloomington, in Election District No. 4 of Garrett county, which lot is fully described in a deed for the same from William E. Ambrose et ux. to Ephraim K. Wilson, bearing date June 6th, 1914, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 66, folio 494, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of Ephraim K. Wilson.

No. 19.—All of the surface rights of a parcel of land containing 13 acres, being a part of the tract known as Military Lot No. 536, located in Election District No. 9 of Garrett county, and being the same property which was conveyed by Andrew Rosenberger to Philip H. Knepp by deed dated October 7, 1914, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 68, folio 100, etc., one of the land Records of Garrett county, reserving however, from the opertions of this sale a strip of said land one rod wide along the first line of said tract. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of said county in the name of Philip H. Knepp.

No. 20.—Parts of Lots Nos. 2 and 3 of the sub-division of a tract called "Bear Camp," containing 49 acres and 156 perches and being the same land described in a deed for the same from Uriah M. Stanton to Samuel H. Orner, dated March 5, 1913, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 64, folio 474, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, said land being located in Election District No. 11 of Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of said county in the name of Samuel H. Orner.

No. 21.—Lot No. 20 of the sub-division of the tract known as "Lochiel," located in Election District No. 11 of Garrett county, containing 132 acres, and being the same property which was conveyed by Ulysses S. Jackson to Thomas J. Rayner by deed bearing date the 23rd day of September, 1914, and recorded in Liber E. Z. Sausman.

No. 23.—All those lots or parcels of land, located in Election District No. 9 of Garrett county, known and designated as Military Lots Nos. 682 and 686, containing 50 acres each, and being the same lots conveyed by Owen E. Hitchens to Daniel Bevans by deed dated the 24th day of November, 1914, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 68, folio 93, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of said Gorrett county in the name of Daniel Bevans.

No. 24.—Lot No. 12 of the sub-division of the tract known and designated as "Lochiel," containing 210 acres, saving and excepting a right of way 20 feet wide and described in a deed for the same to the Consolidation Coal Company from George W. Beeman, dated October 2, 1908, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 58, folio 199, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and being the same property which was conveyed to said Beeman by Andrew J. Beeman and wife by deed dated July 21, 1906, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 27, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and will be sold to pay and satisfy the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of George W. Beeman. Said land is located in Election District No. 9 of Garrett county.

No. 26.—Part of a tract of land known as "Mill Run," and also known as a part of the James Morrison lands located in Election District No. 4 of Garrett county, and being the same land which was conveyed to Annie Green by deed from Jas. Morrison dated the 20th day of April, 1887, and duly recorded in Liber T. L., No. 63, folio 548, one of the Land Records of Allegany county. Said tract originally contained 251½ acres and will be sold, except so much thereof heretofore conveyed by Annie Green, to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1914 and 1915, as charged on the Assessment Books in the name of the said Annie Green.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on the day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

The 2nd Day of August, 1916

at two o'clock P. M., all the following described property:

All surface and surface rights of the following parcels of land situated in District No. 8 of Garrett County, Maryland.

(1) Four small parcels of land comprising together nine acres, together with all the buildings and improvements thereon, including eleven tenement houses, more or less, and a large store building.

(2) All the coal in place including all those four tracts of land adjoining the above mentioned parcels of land containing 480 acres, more or less.

(3) All those parcels or tracts of land described in lease from the Bayard Coal & Coke Company to the Waitman Smokeless Coal Company, containing 493 acres more or less.

All of said tracts of land containg in the aggregate about 982 acres of land, nearly all of which is underlayed with the six feet and four feet veins of coal of quality and condition usually found in the Upper Potomac Region.

Reference is hereby made to the mortgage above mentioned and the several deeds therein mentioned for a more particular description of this property by metes and bounds. Also for reservations of several small parcels of coal which are reserved to original owners in said deeds, but which do not materially effect the value of said property.

(4) Also the following personal property: 65 one-ton 26 inch gauge mine cars, more or less, 23 tons of steel rails, more or less, one set Fairbanks Scales, one set Blacksmith's tools, one lot of mining tools, two boilers, with pumps, one engine, and all appliances and appurtenances thereto, all tram ways, hoists, mine props, and all other tools, buildings, structures, appliances and equipment for operating the said coal mines and mining plant, together with all the rights of ways of every kind and nature, including said tracts and switches, and all the houses, residences and buildings, tipple dumps, etc., now erected upon the said above described premises.

The mining plant has recently been repaired and put into good condition for the mining and shipment of coal, and is now an actual working proposition. Inspection of the property by prospective purchasers is invited.

TERMS:—A deposit of $2000.00 on the day of the sale, and the balance in cash upon ratification of the sale by the Court.

INJURIES WERE FATAL TO FIFTEEN-YEAR OLD BOY

Clarence L. Guthrie Died Friday Morning After Having Been Mangled By Train.

Clarence L. Guthrie, of near Oakland, aged fifteen years, received injuries at Bridge No. 88, a mile and a-half west of Oakland last Friday morning about four o'clock and as a result he died at the office of Dr. Darby an hour or two later, where he was taken on the engine of the train which struck and ran over him.

Young Guthrie accompanied Arthur Cogley, who was employed in guarding the Baltimore and Ohio bridge where it crosses the Big Yough river, on Thursday night, intending to remain with him. Along about four o'clock Guthrie fell asleep on the track and Cogley being at some distance from him in the performance of his duties, did not know of the danger impending until his companion had been caught beneath the wheels of an eastbound freight engine and his leg and hip badly mangled. He was brought into Oakland by the train crew and taken to the office of Dr. Darby, as above stated. His injuries were such that nothing could be done for his relief and his death ensued.

The body was prepared for burial at the undertaking rooms of D. E. Bolden and the funeral took place on Saturday, Rev. Bremer, of the Lutheran church, officiating.

The boy was the son of LeRoy Guthrie, whose death resulted several years ago by being thrown from a buggy. His mother and several younger brothers and sisters survive.

NOTICE.

As I have sold my store to Mr. G. C. Martin, I wish to settle all accounts by July 1st. Any and all accounts unpaid by that date will be placed for collection.

KILLED AT FROSTBURG.

Michael Harden, Former Accident Resident Met With Fatal Accident.

While driving across the tracks of the Western Maryland Railway near the Borden Mining Company's farm, a short distance above Frostburg, at noon on Tuesday, Michael Harden, employed as a farm hand on the farm of James Engle, his son-in-law, was ground to pieces and his two horses were instantly killed when struck by passenger train No. 2 on its way east from Pittsburgh. John Sullivan, who was walking in the rear of the wagon, escaped injury. The train as a result of the accident was delayed an hour.

For many years Mr. Harden, prior to moving to Frostburg, resided at Accident and was employed as star route carrier between Oakland and his home town. He was a brother-in-law of the Messrs. Shartzer of Oakland.

The body of Mr. Harden was taken to Frostburg where it was later removed to his home, at Sand Springs, near Frostburg. Mr. Harden is survived by his wife, Mrs. Barbara Harden, and the following sons and daughters: Mrs. James Engle, Mrs. W. Blocher, Mrs. Harry Kellar, Samuel Harden, Edward Harden, all of Frostburg; Mrs. James Harden, of Eckhart and Mrs. McGuire, of Grantsville.

Washington College, Chestertown, Edward Miller, Kitzmiller. The school authorities have several other valuable scholarships to be given applicants, which will be awarded when applied for and the applicants meeting certain requirements.

GARRETT COUNTY'S OLDEST CITIZEN HONORED

Uncle "Abe" Wilson Celebrated His One Hundredth Anniversary Tuesday

All hats off to Uncle "Abe" Wilson, Garrett county's centenarian, who passed his one hundredth milestone surrounded by relatives and friends at his home near Altamont on Tuesday of this week, upon which occasion the whole countryside turned out to do the patriarch honor, to wish him well and to congratulate him upon the distinction of being the oldest living man in this whole section of the country and Uncle "Abe" enjoyed every moment of the day, especially when he was informed that several photographers who were present had their cameras directed toward him, when his kindly old face lighted up and he smiled broadly, realizing the fact that after he is gone his kindred and friends will have something to treasure by which they will remember his century natal day.

Uncle "Abe," as his custom has been for many years, looked forward to Tuesday with more than ordinary interest. It has been his desire for a long time to live to celebrate his hundredth anniversary. In former years a few intimate friends of the old gentleman and his niece, Mrs. Feeley, who has been his housekeeper, were always invited to the celebration of the occasion, but this year, according to the expressed wish of Mr. Wilson, it was decided to widen the circle and to invite a large number, with the result that more than three hundred persons from every point of the compass, from Vermont, Maine, Oregon, Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and other states, responded and thoroughly enjoyed the hospitality of the home that has sheltered Mr. Wilson for probably ninety-two years. The guests arrived by train, automobile and by carriage.

Mr. Wilson was born on the farm where he now resides. Shortly afterward his parents removed to Kingwood, West Va., [where they resided a short time and then returned to Maryland and their former home, where he has since resided. Never having married he continued to make his home with a brother, Jonathan Wilson, who reared a family of sons and daughters, Mrs. Feely, the hostess at the Wilson home, being one of Jonathan's children. Mrs. Feely has been the comfort of her uncle during his declining years as she was also the comfort of her father, whose death occurred in the eighties. In young life Uncle "Abe" was a most powerful man, it being related of him that he could handle a four year old steer with his hands, throwing and branding the animal and was always successful in the feat. Stock raising and grazing animals occupied his attention for more than sixty years, but in the meantime he also gave some attention to the purchase of vast tracts of lands, and thus for a few dollars originally invested he is now the owner of some of the most valuable coal lands in the county.

Tuesday's celebration was not marred in any particular. The crowd present came to pay their respects to a venerable man and they did it in a quite, unobstrusive and most becoming manner. Some presented him with flowers, while others gave him tokens of love and esteem in another form.

An orchestra had been provided for the occasion which furnished most inspiring music throughout the day, the first selection being "America," which was well rendered and befitted the occasion most admirably. Rev. Frank McCamic, of Deer Park, who has been Mr. Wilson's pastor for the past two or three years, was master of ceremonies and after introducing Rev. Wm. J. Barnard, of Bloomington, the latter offered a fervent prayer of thanksgiving and praise for the long and useful life of Mr. Wilson. Then followed refreshments which were in abundance and consisted of ice cream, cake, coffee, sandwiches, etc. In the meantime Mr. Wilson showed signs of fatigue and he was allowed to rest for an hour or two in his room. Afterward he was wheeled out to the front of the residence where his photograph was taken. Immediately afterward he was placed in the centre of the assembled guests and a panoramic view of the entire crowd was made by one of the photographers present. These views will be printed in this paper next week with a short history of the early forbears of the Wilson family, it being too late this week to secure the views for The Republican today.

Following the picture making addresses were delivered by Rev. McCamic, of Deer Park, who spoke of Mr. Wilson's life since he knew him; by Mr. Merritt Wilson, of Wildell, son of the late George W. Wilson and a former member of the Maryland Legislature, who reviewed briefly the history of Uncle "Abe" and his branch of the family; by Mr. E. H. Sincell, of the Oakland bar, who spoke of the Wilson family generally, relating some matters of history in connection therewith; by Mr. King Wilson, of Portland, Oregon, and by Rev. Paul L. Flanagan, of Mountain Lake Park.

The day was an ideal one in every respect and will be remembered for years to come by those present. It was an enjoyable day and was an occasion none there present may ever again be permitted to witness—the celebration of a centenarian.

PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON,
Washington, D. C.,

Abraham Inskeep Wilson, on his 100 birthday, and about two hundred of the Wilson family of Garrett county, Maryland, send greetings to you and wish you success in all your undertakings.

Yours for the best name on earth,
ABRAHAM INSKEEP WILSON AND RELATIVES.

DONIPHAN'S MARCH INTO MEXICO 70 YEARS AGO

With His Missouri Mounted Volunteers He Captured Jaurez and Chihuahua and Brought Back a Hundred Battle Flags.

Seventy years ago the ground in Mexico where Pershing has his command was traversed by "Doniphan's expedition," and the city of Chihuahua was captured by Missouri Volunteers. A bill is now before the Library Committee of the United States Senate to erect a monument to Doniphan and his men, whose exploits were brilliant feaures of the first war with Mexico. The taking of Chihuahua by the American troops is to be one of the first objects in case of a second war with Mexico, it is reported from Washington, but this will not be effected with the negligible losses of Doniphan. With a command of 1100 men he defeated an army of 4,500 Mexicans the day before he entered Chihuahua, having a loss of only 2 killed and 8 or 10 wounded.

The Doniphan expedition into Mexico has been called "The March of the One Thousand" by a writer who claims it surpasses the retreat of Xenophon 22 centuries ago.

"Xenophon's story of the March of the Ten Thousand, as told in his Anabasis, is the most famous military narrative ever written; it is used as a textbook in colleges and schools, and is familiar wherever the history of Greece is read. Yet how many of those who know the "Anabasis" by heart are aware that Xenophon's exploit has been surpassed on our own continent, in our own times and by our own countrymen? Where is the textbook which contains so much as a reference to the 'March of the One Thousand'? How many of the students who can glibly rattle off the details of Xenophon's march across the Mesopotamian plains have ever even heard of Doniphan's march across the plains of Mexico? During that march which occupied 12 months a force of American volunteers, barely 1000 strong, traversed upward of 6000 miles of territory, most of which was unknown and hitherto hostile, and returned to the United States bringing with them 17 pieces of artillery and a hundred battle flags taken on fields whose names their countrymen had never so much as heard before."

At the outbreak of the Mexican war Alexander William Doniphan, a lawyer of Clay county, Missouri, and a brigadier-general of militia, raised a regiment of eight companies of cavalry, which was mustered into the volunteer service and he became its colonel. From Missouri the regiment marched with Gen. Stephen W. Kearny to Santa Fe., N. M., making the 1000-mile journey in 60 days in the summer of 1846. Doniphan's regiment consisted of 856 men and the total of Kearney's command was 1685. Santa Fe was reached on August 18 and Doniphan and Private Willard P. Hall, later Governor of Missouri, prepared a code of laws for the territory, most of which is still a part of the statutes of the state. Kearney was ordered to California with all his force except the Missourians, who had subdued the Navajo Indians, ordering Doniphan to report to General Wool at Chihuahua. Doniphan started with 1100 men, in December. On Christmas Day he routed a Mexican army of 3000 at Brasitos, 30 miles north of El Paso. Senator Thomas B. Catron of New Mexico, in a speech in the Senate said of Doniphan's later movements and personality:

"He followed the Mexicans rapidly into the city of El Paso, or the city of Paso del Norte, for El Paso did not then exist, being the place now called Juarez. There he had another slight engagement with the Mexicans forces, upon the fignt and took possession of the city of Juarez, or of Paso del Norte, and held it for two or three weeks, when he moved on to the city of Chihuahua. About 15 miles north of the city of Chihuahua with his 1100 men, he encountered about 4500 of the Mexican army.

"He had six pieces of artillery, commanded by Captain Weightman, who returned to New Mexico after the Mexican war, and on the organization of the state government at that time was elected a United States Senator to this body, but was not allowed to be admitted because the state was not admitted under the Constitution which it formed. Captain Weightman was afterward a prominent officer in the Confederate army, and was killed at the battle of Wilson's Creek, in Missouri. I belonged to his command at the time.

"Doniphan met those 4500 Mexican soldiers at a place called Sacramento. He deployed his men moved around them, attacked them both in front and rear, and, with a loss of but 2 men killed and 9 or 10 wounded, dispersed them, killing something like 200 or 300 Mexicans and wounding probably twice as many more. He drove them into the city of Chihuahua, the next day taking possession of it and holding it. It was there that he expected to report to General Wool, but he did not find him. Wool five days before had been engaged in the battle of Buena Vista under General Taylor. Wool had been ordered not to come to Chihuahua, but that order had not reached Donighan or Gen. Kearney, and therefore Doniphan went on, expecting to report to Wool, but not finding him there, he proceeded within a week or two afterward down by way of Buena Vista and Saltilla and by the capital of Coahuila on to the Gulf of Mexico.

"By this time the year's service of his men for which they had enlisted had expired and he was ordered to take them home. Before leaving the City of Chihuahua he wrote a communication to General Wool, having learned that Wool had been engaged in the battle of Buena Vista, at which place they learned of that battle and among other things, he said in that letter that General Taylor had been designated as 'Old Rough and Ready.' He stated that all of his men were entitled to that designation, but could go General Taylor one better—that they were not only 'rough and ready,' but they were also 'ragged.'

"It is a historical fact that no clothing was issued to Doniphan's expedition from the time they left Leavenworth until they reached home, 12 months afterward. They obtained their provisions en route from the time they left Santa Fe until they reached the Gulf of Mexico, where they took shipping back by way of New Orleans and by the Mississippi and Missouri rivers to their homes. Their horses and other livestock they fed upon the grasses of the plains.

"That expedition, out of 856 that composed the regiment of Colonel Doniphan, did not lose exceeding 56 men in the entire expedition, and more than half of these remained in Santa Fe to help start and build up that government.

"Doniphan was a man who was entitled to immense credit. Everyone in Missouri loved him. He did not seek office. He served two terms in the Missouri legislature, being elected both times without having himself requested to be designated as a candidate. He was tendered the office of brigadier general in the Confederate army and refused it. He was always true to the American flag. He always believed in the permanency and perpetuity of the Constitution of the United States and the Union of his government.

"It was my pleasure to know him intimately, personally. Several times I heard him address audiences on the stump. I once asked him why he did not accept the tender of the brigadier generalship in the Confederate army. He replied: 'I have lived in a community nearly every member of which sympathized with the Southern people'—that is the community where he was living when the war between the states commenced—'but,' he said, 'my education, that of a lawyer, has been upon the Constitution of the United States, in part, and I have learned to revere it; I have learned to believe that that Constitution was intended to effect a permanent and perpetual union of the states; I did not believe that the Union ought to be severed; I did not believe that it ought to be broken up and weakened. For that reason I was unable to accept a commission in the Confederate states' army, although I sympathized with those who were in that cause. I believe that my duty to my government was such that I should, at least, do something to tear it down.'

"This was the character of Doniphan throughout his entire life, so far as I knew him—and I knew him for about 20 or 30 years before his death—in fact, he was one of the board of curators of the University of the State of Missouri at the time I graduated."

Doniphan died in Missouri in 1887.

GORTNER

Tom Davies, who was visiting his friend Miss Ruth Irwin, left for his home in Pittsburgh Tuesday morning.

Miss Alburn Smith, of Hoyes, was the guest of W. R. Spoerlein and family.

Misses Dora Lichty and Emma Burkholder spent a week at Springs and Meyersdale visiting friends and relatives.

Geo. Lee has purchased a Ford car.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Petersheim were Sunday visitors at D. J. Swartzentrubers.

Will Sanders, wife and children spent Sunday on the Mountain, at the home of Mrs. Sanders parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Conneway.

WHOSE WAR?

(From the Philapelphia North American)

The real history of the threatened war (with Mexico) is not recorded in public documents; it is buried in the files of the executive offices at the White House.

In a word, the war with Mexico, if war it becomes, will be the exclusive production of President Wilson. There is no single achievement of this administration which bears so indelibly the imprint of his personality and management as this impending struggle, the, end of which no man can foresee.

Some readers, no doubt, will deprecate this making of a foreign involvement a vehicle of criticism. "Stand by the President" is a popular, insistent and justifiable demand. A Wilson newspaper remarks. "We know pretty well where we are, and how we arrived is of small consequence." But there is a sharp distinction between support of the executive in measure for defense of national interest—in which this newspaper loyally joins—and indorsement of acts on his part which produced the emergency. It emphatically is the right and the duty of Americans to inquire "how we arrived" in this deplorable situation; and they will find that it was through the ill-considered, unintelligent and headstrong policies of the man whose chief claim to re-election is that "he has kept the country out of war."

It will be urged, of course, that in a time of national stress politics should be excluded from discussion of governmental affairs. But it is President Wilson's partisans, not his critics, who are determined that the Mexican problem shall be made a political issue.

The Democratic party insists upon making a political issue of the Mexican policy and the threatened conflict; and the only proper answer to the challenge is a statement of the facts. We have said that this is President Wilson's war. What is the testimony of the record?

With manifest high purpose he selected the Mexican problem as the first and most important matter to be dealt with by his administration. Within a week of assuming office he took personal charge of it, devised and applied his own solution, and committed the government and the people of the United States to the course which has produced the present situation.

Typical intrigue and revolution had placed in power in Mexico Victoriano Huerta; his government was a dictatorship based upon usurpation and ruthless force, but it was far more real than any that succeeded it, and it had the vital virtue of possessing the forms of authority. Without warning and without consulting any known person, President Wilson made public proclamation that the regime of Huerta was obnoxious to the United States, and that it would never be recognized.

This was, of course, the inauguration of an entirely novel policy in international affairs. The act appalled the diplomats of Europe and of Latin-America, first because it involved direct interference with the domestic affairs of Mexico; and, second, because it tended to undermine the only existing authority in that restless country, which is a condition fatal to order in regions inhabitated by people like the Mexicans.

It was useless to plead that President Wilson acted from motives of genuine friendship toward the distracted republic. He had taken it upon himself to overthrow its defacto Government and to demand that one be set up which would satisfy his own views, and this course sowed in Mexico the seeds of distrust which have produced the present harvest of hatred and hostility.

But the fundamental miscalculation was that the President regarded his extraordinary action as negative in nature—a mere withholding of American recognition from an unworthy executive. It was, on the contrary, an affirmative procedure. It implied that the Government of Mexico must be not only effective but in harmony with the purposes of Washington.

"Watchful waiting" and "the steady pressure of moral force" failed to dislodge the adroit dictator. President Wilson involved the United States in secret partnership with Huerta's enemies, Carranza and Villa. To those unscrupulous bandit leaders envoys from the White House were sent, and their sanguinary military operations were deliberately encouraged, not only by official approval, but by the issuance of orders which enabled them to obtain arms and ammunition from this country.

But in placing responsibility, the chief point to be remembered is that all these proceedings were dictated and supervised by President Wilson personally. The regularly accredited envoys of the government were ignored; all negotiations were conducted by privately named agents of the President, whose reports were kept secret; there was no consultation even with the Foreign Relations Committees of Congress. Mr. Wilson, whose favorite theme is the need for "taking counsel," from the very beginning excluded all public counsel save his own.

It was President Wilson who, when the country was patiently awaiting a definite policy for the protection of American rights in Mexico, declared that it was "none of our business" how long the warring factions took to settle their quarrels nor how much blood they spilt in doing it; and it was he who, six months later, committed the country to intervention by announcing that he would recognize that group which proved the strongest in the field.

By that time the United S ates had lost all the prestige that had been behind its first move and retained only the responsibilities. As a consequence, the first wise action in the whole record taken—co-operation with the Latin-American countries; but even this advantage had been annulled by the present need for independent intervention.

When it is said, therefore, that the threatened war is of President Wilson's making, the assertion is historically accurate. He made war inevitable by personal intervention; by teaching the Mexicans that American rights could be attacked with impunity; by treating with irresponsible bands of criminals; by a policy of temporizing and contradiction; by the belligerent act of seizing Vera Cruz and the furtive expedient of with-drawing therefrom; by announcing programs of action behind which there was no preparation; and finally, by employing half measures in a military enterprise that could succeed only if prosecuted with relentless force.

President Wilson's sincereity and patriotism are above question, and he will have, as he should have, the undivided support of the nation in whatever action the will of Carranza imposes upon the United States. But since his advocates are determined to make the war, if it come, a poltical issue, it is well that Americans should understand that responsibility for it, as well as for its prosecution, rests upon "the pacificator of the world."

PREPARING FOR CAMPAIGN

State Chairman Tait Has Opened Republican Headquarters In Baltimore.

The Republican State Headquarters in the Calvert Building, Baltimore, have been opened and the preliminary work of the Republican campaign for 1916 has been started.

The Chairman of the Committee, Galen L. Tait, recently returned from New York, where he called on Mr. Charles E. Hughes, the Republican presidential candidate, and Mr. William R. Willcox, the newly appointed Chairman of the National Republican Committee. Maryland political conditons were referred to and Mr. Hughes was assured that he would have the united support of Maryland Republicans. He was invited to speak in Maryland during the campaign, and both Mr. Hughes and Mr. Willcox stated that the invitation would be considered when the itinery of the candidate is made up.

The notification of Mr. Hughes' nomination will take place late in July. Through the Republican State Chairman of Maryland, Mr. Wilcox, Nationa Chairman, extended a cordial invitation to Maryland Republicans and supporters of Mr. Hughes to attend this meeting.

The State Committee has also conferred with the Republican National Congressional Committee to enlist its activities in the Maryland campaign.

Galen L. Tait, Chairman of the State Committee, O. O. Weller, recent candidate for, Governor, and Joseph I. France, Republican nominee for the United States Senate, recently visited Washington and called upon Representative Frank D. Woods and Richard W. Austin, and John C. Eversman. Mr. Woods is chairman and Mr. Eversman is Secretary of this Committee. They also called upon Congressman C. Bascon Slemp, who is in charge of the Speakers' Bureau, and also had a conference with Senator John W. Weeks, Chairman of the Committee of Senators appointed to aid in securing a Republican majority in the United States Senate. The political conditions in Maryland were discussed and the officers of the Republican National Congressional Committee and the Senatorial Committee promised to cooperate in Maryland with a view to promoting the election of Dr. France as Senator and Messrs. Duer, Lawrence, Main, Fox, Mudd and Zihlman as representatives. Great interest was manifested in the Maryland situation and the belief was expressed that Maryland will be carried not only by Hughes and Fairbanks but that Maryland will also elect the Republican Senatorial nominee and a strong Republican Congressional representative.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR MARYLAND

Electoral Vote, U. S. Senator and Two Additional Congressmen Claim of G. O. P.

Under the heading, "The Winning of Maryland," the Baltimore American takes the following rosy view of Republican success in Maryland at the coming November election:

The National Republican committee regards Maryland as being a first-class fighting chance in the list of doubtful states. That, in effect, is the message which Chairman Galen L. Tait brought back on his return last week from New York, where he had a talk with Chairman Wilcox, of the national committee, and Mr. Hughes. Mr. Hughes will deliver at least one speech in Marvland and there will be a general focussing of effort in the endeavor to win this state. It can be done; Maryland can be bunched in the Republican column when the November election count is in if the right campaign effort is made. Not only are Maryland Republicans expecting to deliver to Mr. Hughes the electoral college vote, but they are expecting to send a Republican senator and two or possibly three members of the House to make sure Republican control of the next Congress. Maryland Republicans are lined up behind the proposition that the government, in all its branches, must be taken out of wobbly Democratic control and be placed with the party that has always used responsibility with courage, firmness and soundness of judgment.

The clerical forecasters of the Democratic party are already issuing statements in which Maryland, along with Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee is being classified as a solid-South state; which is to say as being one of the states that is as sure to go Democratic in a presidential year as the sparks to fly upward or water to fall downward. The four states just mentioned are listed in the Democratic estimates in making up the 166 electoral college votes for the Democratic candidate that, according to the Democratic theory, are absolutely certain. If this so-called solid South vote of 166 were absolutely certain there would yet be a shortage of 103 electoral college votes to make the 269 votes necessary to elect. But Maryland is first-class fighting ground for the Republican party this year and so, also, The American believes, are Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee. Counting the split Republican vote of 1912 as a whole there is indicated a small Republican plurality in Maryland and small Democratic pluralities in the other states referred to.

The Republican party in Maryland is not only completely reunited but there is a reason to expect that the very large independent vote in this state will swing to the Republican side in the November election. The nomination of Justice Hughes as the presidential candidate of the party will attract the votes of thousands in Maryland, who, on the poll books are listed as Democrats. It is stating the case very moderately when it is said that the Democratic administration has fallen far short of pleasing that class of Democrats which measures matters of national and international politics with discriminating judgment. That the administration has radically changed its theories with regard to certain issues—its theory about putting the country in condition of military preparedness, about the need of a tariff board made up of experts and in other important respects—does not tend greatly to the strengthening of public confidence in its capabilities. There is yet no indicated change about that watching and waiting theory of dealing with the murderous anarchy of the Mexican situation.

The Republican party in Maryland is lined up for a winning fight. The probabilities are large that this state will send Dr. France, the Republican nominee, to succeed Blair Lee in the United States Senate. And the probabilities that the electoral vote of the state will be given to Hughes are quite as large. The campaign is not yet into active swing in any part of Maryland, but there is a sufficiency of expression relative to the national aspects of politics to indicate the drift of popular sentiment. As to the present status of prosperity—there are no illusions among Maryland voters concerning the origin of the rush business that has characterized the past two years. And people having industrial connections are not forgetting the general demoralization in industrialism that followed the introduction of the Wilson-Underwood tariff. Democratic effort to appropriate war prosperity as a campaign argument is going to be a flat failure—is already a flat failure.

Federal Inquiry or Railroad Strike?

Faced by demands from the conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen that would impose on the country an additional burden in transportation costs of $100,000,000 a year, the railroads propose that this wage problem be settled by reference to an impartial Federal tribunal.

With these employes, whose efficient service is acknowledged, the railroads have no differences that could not be considered fairly and decided justly by such a public body.

Railroads Urge Public Inquiry and Arbitration

The formal proposal of the railroads to the employes for the settlement of the controversy is as follows:

"Our conferences have demonstrated that we cannot harmonize our differences of opinion and that eventually the matters in controversy must be passed upon by other and disinterested agencies. Therefore, we propose that your proposals and the proposition of the railways be disposed of by one or the other of the following methods:

1. Preferably by submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the only tribunal which, by reason of its accumulated information bearing on railway conditions and its control of the revenue of the railways, is in a position to consider and protect the rights and equities of all the interests affected, and to provide additional revenue necessary to meet the added cost of operation in case your proposals are found by the Commission to be just and reasonable; or, in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission cannot, under existing laws, act in the premises, that we jointly request Congress to take such action as may be necessary to enable the Commission to consider and promptly dispose of the questions involved; or

2. By arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Federal law" (The Newlands Act).

Leaders Refuse Offer and Take Strike Vote

Leaders of the train service brotherhoods, at the joint conference held in New York, June 1-15, refused the offer of the railroads to submit the issue to arbitration or Federal review, and the employes are now voting on the question whether authority shall be given these leaders to declare a nation-wide strike.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is proposed by the railroads as the public body to which this issue ought to be referred for these reasons:

No other body with such an intimate knowledge of railroad conditions has such an unquestioned position in the public confidence.

The rates the railroads may charge the public for transportation are now largely fixed by this Government board.

Out of every dollar received by the railroads from the public nearly one-half is paid directly to the employes as wages; and the money to pay increased wages can come from no other source than the rates paid by the public.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its control over rates, is in a position to make a complete investigation and render such decision as would protect the interests of the railroad employes, the owners of the railroads, and the public.

A Question For the Public to Decide

The railroads feel that they have no right to grant a wage preferment of $100,000,000 a year to these employes, now highly paid and constituting only one-fifth of all the employes, without a clear mandate from a public tribunal that shall determine the merits of the case after a review of all the facts.

The single issue before the country is whether this controversy is to be settled by an impartial Government inquiry or by industrial warfare.

LEMBERG FOURTH CITY OF AUSTRIA

May Fall Under Control of Russia a Second Time.

Unless the Russians meet suddenly with a signal reverse in their drive along the Austrian east front, Lemberg seems destined to pass under the dominion of the Czar for a second time since the beginning of the great war. This, the fourth city of Austria, is described in the following war geography bulletin of the National Geographic Society, issued from its Washington headquarters:

"When the fortifications of the inner city of Lemberg were dismantled in 1811 and the space which they occupied was converted into promenades for the prosperous citizens of this modern Galician capital of 200,000 inhabitants it was doubtless assumed by many that having suffered 'the sling and arrows of outrageous fortune' for the first five centuries of its municipal existence, fate would allot it a surcease from siege and capture.

"Lying 60 miles almost due east of Przemysl, and more than 450 miles northeast of Vienna, Lemberg is situated on the banks of the Peltew River, an affluent of the Bug. It nestles in a small valley which opens to the north, and is surrounded by hills, the most picturesque being the well-wooded Franz-Josef Berg, to the north east. To the east, a distance of 87 miles, is Tarnopol, near the Russian border, one of the first points of attack when the Muscovites recently pushed beyond the Galician frontier.

"A description of the modern city of Lemberg as it existed in August, 1914, requires many modifications today, for the scars of war are to be found in its many handsome homes; its broad, well-paved streets; its Roman Catholic cathedral, a handsome gothic structure completed in 1480; its Greek cathedral completed in 1779; its Armenian cathedral in the Byzantine style, dating back to 1437, and its magnificent monuments to such Polish patriots as King John III Sobieski, who, after having saved Lemberg from the same enemy a few years previously, in 1683, saved all Europe from Mohammedan invasion by routing an army of 300,000 Turks encamped about Vienna, his own forces numbering only 70,000.

"Called Lwow in the Polish tongue and Leopolis in Latin, Lemberg was founded by a Ruthenian prince in 1259. Nearly a hundred years later it was added to the domain of Casimir the Great, who bestowed upon the city the charter and privileges widely known during the middle ages as the Magdeburg Right.

"Following the fall of Constantinople, Lemberg enjoyed a revival of trade with the East, but it was caught in the maelstrom of rebellion and pillage which swept over the Ukraine and a part of Poland during the last half of the seventeenth century, when the Cossack hetman, Chmielnicka, was directing the infamies of the 'serfs' fury.'

"Lemberg was one of the Polish cities to fall before the arms of Charles XII of Sweden when the ill advised Augustus II, was drawn into the Great Northern War, which devastated central Europe for the first twenty years of the eighteenth century. In 1772, upon the first partition of Poland, Lemberg became an Austrian possession, and twelve years after this event Joseph II, established the University of Lemberg which, at the time of the outbreak of the present war, had more than two thousand students.

"One of the most attractive parks of Lemberg, and a favorite promenade, bears the name of the Polish patriot, Jan Kilinski, a humble little shoemaker who fought bravely in 1796 was captured and taken to St. Petersburg. After his release he returned to his shoemaker's bench and in his leisure hours wrote his recollections, a valuable record of this period of his country's history.

"Since the establishment of the Galician Diet in 1861 Lemberg has enjoyed increasing prosperity. Its manufactures include machinery and iron ware, metal, liqueurs, chocolate, leather, bricks and tiles, while its commerce is largely in linen, flax, hemp, wool and oil.

"In 1907 two interesting finds were made in the vicinity of this city by laborers boring for oil. The bodies of an elephant and a rhinoceros were unearthed in a remarkable state of preservation, even the hides being intact, due probably, to the preservative qualities of the oily soil in which they were buried.

GRANTSVILLE.

The motorcycle as an aid to Cupid was brought into requisition on Wednesday, June 28th, when William Schaefer of this place and Miss Bertha Reckner of Confluence, Pa., drove to Cumberland, and after procuring the necessary license, were married at the Lutheran parsonage at that place, the Lutheran minister performing the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bittinger, cousins of the bride, were the attendants, traveling in a second motorcycle, both machines having side attachments. Miss Reckner is a popular Confluence girl and decidedly pretty. Mr. Schaefer is a son of Henry Schaefer, Sr., of this place and is a sober, industrious, and genial young man. They have known each other about a year. The bride wore a handsome blue traveling suit, with hat to match. The groom also was attired in blue. After the ceremony the bride and groom motored up the Pike to Confluence where the bride's mother had prepared the wedding dinner and on Sunday evening they returned to Grantsville where they will reside with the groom's parents for a few weeks before beginning housekeeping.

Paul, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Wisseman, of near Grantsville, was operated upon for adenoids at the family home on Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Zehner and son of near Keyser's Ridge were taken to the Western Maryland Hospital at Cumberland this week for operations for adenoids and enlarged tonsils.

Miss Wilda Getty has been appointed by the directors of First State Bank to fill the position of assistant bookkeeper, her father being cashier and H. H. Baker assistant cashier. Miss Getty has just completed a course in stenography at the Tri-State College in Cumberland, and is well qualified to fill the position.

Lawrence H. Bittinger, the rural mail carrier, has gotten a new motorcycle with mail box attachement, attractively painted. This can be readily removed and the regular passenger seat attached when taking out his family.

Among the new cars here are an Enger Twin Six owned by Gurney Shaw and sisters, a handsome Madison for G. J. Gnagev, a seven-passenger Briscoe for Joe A. Beachy and a new Ford runabout for A. T. Shirer, the Western Union lineman.

A party of friends gathered at the home of Mrs. H. C. Bonig on Saturday night in honor of her birthday, the guests bringing the refreshments which consisted of icecream, cake and candy. The ladies present were Mesdames C. H. Bill, John Zehner, C. A. Bender, Rush Montgomery, C. S. Zeller, J. A. Carney, R. Bowen and J. O. Getty; Misses Carrie and Mollie Dorsey and Christine Winterberg. Conversation and games helped the evening pass pleasantly until shortly before midnight when the party dispersed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stanton and family were Accident visitors, Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bill and Rev. E. E. Cney were dinner guests of Mrs. John Zehner Sunday.

Rev. E. Roy Hauser of Somerset, Pa., motored through Grantsville with his pretty bride, whom he had wed at Oakland, Md., the previous week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Loechel and family and Mrs. Harvey Parsons and son were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Susan Durst.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Blocher on June 29th an eight pound girl. Mother and baby are doing nicely under the joint care of grandmamma Blocher from here and grandmamma McLaughlin from Pittsburgh, also several adoring aunts.

Dr. H. T. Robinson of Cumberland spent Sunday here.

W. E. Stanton and daughters, Misses Beulah and Edna Bender, Miss Christine Winterberg and Mrs. Rush Montgomery were among the people from here who attended the Sunday School Convention at Elk Lick during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Dean and father were Grantsville visitors Thursday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonah Johnson of Garrett are spending a few weeks with their mother.

Mrs. M. Lowenstein and son Harry and Mrs. J. Martin of Oakland motored to Grantsville, Sunday, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bonig. Miss Winifred Bonig, who had spent the week in Oakland as their guest, came home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bill, Mrs. Sophia Bonig and Mrs. C. B. Getty motored to Accident in the former's car, with Bruce Miller as the capable chauffeur, on Sunday evening.

A picnic was held at New Germany by the Methodist Sunday school on Saturday and the affair was a great success. Addresses were made by Senator Zihlman, of Cumberland, Rev. Wheeler and D. Sloan, of Lonaconing, Rev. Carder, of Grantsville and Rev. I. S. Monn, of Elk Lick.

at 10 o'clock a. m. at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Md., offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all of the following pieces or parcels of land lying and being in Garrett County, Md., to wit:

No. 5.—Thirty-five acres of a tract of land known as the S. H. Ryland Farm, located in Election District No. 5 of Garrett county, and being the same property which was conveyed and is described in a deed for the same from T. H. Speer et al., bearing date March 14, 1914, to Harry Holliday, and also from Thos. E. Null et al., bearing date March 13, 1914, to said Holliday, both of which deeds are of record in Liber E. Z. T., No. 66, folio 425. Said property adjoins the lands of John Failinger, the State line, George Sibert and Sarah T. Kerr, and will be sold, excepting 25 acres thereof which was sold previously to Henry Sausman and described in a deed for the same bearing date April 18, 1915, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 68, folio 179, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, to pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1914 and 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of Harry Holliday.

No. 11.—All that parcel of land known as Lot No. 5 in the town of Bloomington, in Election District No. 4 of Garrett county, which lot is fully described in a deed for the same from William E. Ambrose et ux. to Ephraim K. Wilson, bearing date June 6th, 1914, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 66, folio 494, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of Ephraim K. Wilson.

No. 19.—All of the surface rights of a parcel of land containing 13 acres, being a part of the tract known as Military Lot No. 536, located in Election District No. 9 of Garrett county, and being the same property which was conveyed by Andrew Rosenberger to Philip H. Knepp by deed dated October 7, 1914, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 68, folio 100, etc., one of the land Records of Garrett county, reserving however, from the operations of this sale a strip of said land one rod wide along the first line of said tract. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of said county in the name of Philip H. Knepp.

No. 21.—Lot No. 20 of the sub-division of the tract known as "Lochiel," located in Election District No. 11 of Garrett county, containing 132 acres, and being the same property which was conveyed by Ulysses S. Jackson to Thomas J. Rayner by deed bearing date the 23rd day of September, 1914, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 68, folio 21, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of Thomas J. Rayner.

No. 22.—All that parcel of land located near the Pennsylvania State line, in Election District No. 5 of Garrett county, containing the quantity of 29¼ acres, and being the same property which was conveyed to William H. Sausman by Sarah T. Kerr by deed bearing date the 6th day of April, 1914, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 68, folio 164, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of Garrett county in the name of William H. Sausman.

No. 23.—All those lots or parcels of land, located in Election District No. 9 of Garrett county, known and designated as Military Lots Nos. 682 and 686, containing 50 acres each, and being the same lots conveyed by Owen E. Hitchens to Daniel Bevans by deed dated the 24th day of November, 1914, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 68, folio 93, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of said Gorrett county in the name of Daniel Bevans.

No. 24.—Lot No. 12 of the sub-division of the tract known and designated as "Lochiel," containing 210 acres, saving and excepting a right of way 20 feet wide and described in a deed for the same to the Consolidation Coal Company from George W. Beeman, dated October 2, 1908, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 58, folio 199, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and being the same property which was conveyed to said Beeman by Andrew J. Beeman and wife by deed dated July 21, 1906, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 27, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and will be sold to pay and satisfy the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1915 as is charged upon the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of George W. Beeman. Said land is located in Election District No. 9 of Garrett county.

No. 26.—Part of a tract of land known as "Mill Run," and also known as a part of the James Morrison lands located in Election District No. 4 of Garrett county, and being the same land which was conveyed to Annie Green by deed from Jas. Morrison dated the 20th day of April, 1887, and duly recorded in Liber T. L., No. 63, folio 548, one of the Land Records of Allegany county. Said tract originally contained 251½ acres and will be sold, except so much thereof heretofore conveyed by Annie Green, to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1914 and 1915, as charged on the Assessment Books in the name of the said Annie Green

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on the day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

C. A. BEACHY,
Late treasurer of Garrett County.

BRISCOE

"The Best-liked Car in the Country"

Built Like the Famous "One-Hoss Shay"

You remember the "one-hoss shay" that we used to "speak a piece about" in childhood—

"The wheels were just as strong as the thills
And the floor was just as strong as the sills;
And the panels just as strong as the floor
And the back cross-bar as strong as the fore."

That's the Briscoe ideal of construction—to make a car so sturdy, so strongly built throughout, that every part will deliver the utmost possible wear—and upkeep expense be small.

Selected heat-treated steels, tested to a point far beyond the strain you'll put on them; extra reinforcements where the extra wear comes; every part not only as strong as it ought to be, but as strong as it can be.

Briscoe construction pays you big dividends in longer service and lessened repair bills.

And the Briscoe Twenty-four—"the latest Briscoe beauty"—brings this construction to you at a remarkably low figure—

$625 f. o. b. Factory

Stop in today and look it over thoroughly.

Make the Change Now

WHY hold off from tractor farming any longer? A Mogul 8-16 kerosene tractor costs less than the horses it replaces. It does more work than those horses are now doing. Counting fuel, interest and depreciation at top figures, it costs less than horses to keep.

You can use it for all the heavy work your horses do, and for belt work that horses cannot do. In these days of kerosene engines, can you see yourself hitching eight teams to a horse power machine to run a thresher? Then why do plowing, disking, seeding and harvesting with horses when a Mogul 8-16 does that work also better and cheaper. We've got one here. Come in and take a look at it.

VALUE OF BREVITY.

The ability to say a thing grammatically in almost any order in which the words or thoughts occur is of no advantage when the thinking is not straight and accurate. The power is there, the semaphores are set right, but the engine must be able to move and to keep on the track. Much of what is written is made up of the connective tissue of thought. It is not meat but what makes meat tough. Perhaps it was for this reason that a great scholar advised writers to cut every sentence to the bone. Others think, however, that flesh is needed on the skeleton. A lean man once boasted that every fiber of him was scraped before it entered into his composition. However more comely fat would have been, he was at least ready for the race. The long-winded sentence is the product of the short-winded mind.

The final reason for brevity is the demands of space. These are negative thou shalt not's. The column can not be trimmed to fit. It was the step-sister's feet that had to be pared away to enter the slipper. A two inch bit of of news may take precedence over one twice as long, to slip into a corner. The relatively unimportant must submit to the same inexorable compression that is practiced on the subordinate members of a sentence. The phrase may object but the main idea dominates. The need of getting through, of saving it, of compressing it, in the space before bedtime, has given to parts of journals the aspect of being the product of a cult of the brief.

Forty Years Ago.

A hayes and Wheeler club was formed in Oakland, the following being elected as its officers: Wm. H. Tower, J. M. Arnold, Thomas Coddington, Ralph Thayer, C. A. Snyder, George L. Bosley, S. L. Townshend, Samuel Lawton, A. A. Perry, Truman W. Casteel, A. G. Sturgiss, G. W. Legge, Wilson Proctor, John C. Dunham and Theodore Bush. Of this number but three survive at this time: Messrs. Sturgiss, Casteel and Legge.

News of the massacre of Gen. Custer and his command had been received and an attempt was made to trace the lineage of the Federal forces. It was found, after much research, and generally believed that Gen. Custer was born in Allegany county and had many relatives residing in Garrett county.

New Naval Cadet.

George M. Sanner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Sanner, of Somerset, and nephew of Capt. R. R. Sanner, of Oakland, has successfully passed the physical examination for admission to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis and has entered the institution as a student. The young man is but seventeen years of age and was appointed as an alternate, the principal having failed in the examination for entrance to the academy.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

The Dust Nuisance.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Persons looking for a place in which to spend the summer find the clouds of dust arising from the thoroughfares of Oakland a serious objection to this place. It would be to the interest of the town if the principal thoroughfares, at least those most used by automobiles, were well oiled.

It is encouraging to see that one property owner, Mrs. George L. Bosley, has begun the good work, with the cooperation of the town, by having the street in front of her house and lot, on Oak street, oiled.

A SUMMER VISITOR.

THEY WERE SORELY DISAPPOINTED

Fake Telegram Published in Clarksburg Paper Brought Thirsty Ones to Oakland.

A Clarksburg (W. Va.) paper recently published the following telegram which had the effect of bringing numerous thirsty ones to Oakland who, upon their arrival here, found that the report was false and concluded to move on to Allegany:

ATTENTION, THIRSTY ONES!

OAKLAND, MD., July 1.—This town became wet again today, after having been a Sahara for a year. From today's appearance Oakland will again step into its place as an oasis for thirsty West Virginians. Never in its history, say the inhabitants, has the town entertained so great a crowd of the denizens of the Panhandle state as on this, the opening day.

THE DEATH RECORD.

JOHN McFADDEN.

Shortly after noon on Monday John McFadden, aged 64 years, died at the home of Mrs. Alice McFadden on High Street, Grafton, West Va. Complications were the result of his death.

The deceased was the last member of his family and went to Grafton from Frankville, this county, a week ago to stay with his sister-in-law, Mrs. McFadden. The only other relative, even by marriage, is a brother-in-law, John A. Beckman, of Cumberland.

The funeral took place from the McFadden home on Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock, with Rev. W. D. Reed officiating. Interment was made at Grafton.

MRS. ANNA EARHARTE.

Mrs. Anna Kepler Earharte, daughter of the late Rev. George W. Kepler and Mrs. Anna Kepler, died at the home of her mother at Sistersville, W. Va., on Friday, July 7th, after an illness of many months. The following concerning the deceased is taken from a recent issue of the Sisterville (W. Va.) Weekly Review:

Succumbing at last to the raveags of a malignant illness, Mrs. Anna Earharte, wife of A. V. Earharte, answered the call of her Master Friday evening, dissolution taking place at 10 minutes after seven. Death occurred at the home of Mrs. Earharte's mother, Mrs. G. W. Kepler, where the deceased had been for the past two months.

Mrs. Earharte had been in ill health for three or four years and on July 24, 1915, was taken to the Ohio Valley hospital in Wheeling where she remained until a little over two months ago, having been brought home to await death, by her father, the late Rev. George W. Kepler, who died suddenly afterwards, just two months and a day before his daughter's demise. Every thing known to medical science was done to alleviate Mrs. Earharte's suffering and to check the disease but in spite of all efforts it proved fatal. The terrible ordeal of pain through which she passed during the last year was born with remarkable courage and fortitude and at all times her patience in her affliction was truly wonderful. Most admirable of all was her willingness to accept her cross and the beautiful Christian spirit with which she embraced it.

Deceased was born near Oakland, Md., Sept. 9, 1872, and was the daughter of Mrs. George W. Kepler and the late Rev. Kepler, who was one of the best known and best loved Methodist ministers in the state. Reared in the atmosphere of a thoroughly Christian home, she developed a sweetness and purity of character that had greatly endeared her to countless friends.

On June 9, 1897, she was united in marriage to A. V. Earharte, a well known newspaper man and printer, who, at the time of her illness, was editing a paper in Gassaway, W. Va., but who has been in Sisterville for several months to be near his beloved companion. Her father performed the ceremony. Mrs. Earharte is survived by her husband a mother, Mrs. G. W. Kepler, and a sister, Mrs. G. A. Sharp, of Stocking avenue.

Dr. D. L. Ash, pastor of the M. E. church, officiated at the services held at the home at 11:30 o'clock this morning and the remains were taken to Williamstown on the Spencer accommodation this afternoon for burial.

"One Horror Upon Another, Etc."

On the evening of the Fourth, Walter Kinkead, of Dodson, Md., with two other occupants in his machine went over the bank of the new road from Elk Garden to Blaine. They all escaped with scratches and bruises and though the auto plunged down the side mountain some distance the brush saved it from a complete smash up. Lloyd Oates with the help of others cleared the ground and drew the machine to the road with a large rope, but the rope being defective, broke at a critical moment and the machine turned end over end three timesdown the mountain making complete smash up of a bad cripple.

Junior Order To Attend Services.

All members of Garrett Council No. 35 Jr. O. U. A. M. are requested to meet at their hall in the K. of P. building on Sunday, July 16 at 10:15 a. m., for the purpose of attending services in the Lutheran church at Oakland.

GRANDFATHER ROAD BUILDER CENTURY AGO

New Highway Commissioner of Pennsylvania Has Dreamed of Good Roads.

F. B. Black, of Meyersdale, recently appointed state highway commissioner by Gov. Brumbaugh, has gone to Harrisburg, where, it is understood, he will take charge of the work and learn some of its routine before returning home. Mr. Black on leaving gave no hint as to how soon his return could be expected.

An interesting fact about the new state highway commissions developed today. This is that he is a grandson of John Bradfield, who in 1815 was awarded the contract for building the section of the famous National pike from Uniontown, Pa., over the mountains to Grantsville, Md. The records show that Mr. Bradfield sublet part of the contract and himself built only the section between Somerfield, Somerset county, and Grantsville. This work occupied him from 1815 to 1818. Mr. Bradfield is said to have been one of the most expert road builders of his time, the substantial nature of his work being evidenced in the longevity of the pike he constructed.

F. B. Black, Mr. Bradfield's descendant, has literaly dreamed about good roads, his friends say. Improved highways have been a passion with him, and his friends declare that the appointment to the state commissionership came to him as an opportunity. He has organized his mining interests thoroughly, with his oldest son, Frank Snyder Black, acting as assistant superintendent, so that he will be able to devote all his time and energy to the new work. When he gets accustomed to his new duties, it is said, he will begin making tours of the state, to become acquainted with road difficulties and needs in each section.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Mrs. Annie Rasche Brunton, of Salt Lake City, Utah, spent from Thursday until Sunday morning in Oakland where she was the guest of her, step mother, Mrs. Kate Rasche, going from here to Vineland, New Jersey, where she will take a course in teaching the feeble minded, expecting to return to the state institution of Utah teaching those whose mental faculties are undeveloped, and her trip east is for the purpose of acquiring new and better methods.

Elsewhere in this paper Mr. E. A. Weimer, of Oakland, advertises his stock of goods, consisting of shoes, furnishings, clothing, etc., at private sale. Mr. Weimer has been engaged for some months past as a representative of the Witt Shoe Company and as such much of his time is required to cover the territory assigned him by his house. The goods offered by Mr. Weimer are seasonable and at the prices asked no doubt he will find a buyer.

County Superintendent F. E. Rathbun will spend the next five weeks in Baltimore where he is taking a course at John Hopkins University in school administration, supervision and methods. This course is being taken by nearly every superintendent in the State as well as by many educators engaged in various capacities in school work. Mr. Rathbun will make weekly visits to Oakland during the summer, coming home on Friday evenings and will be at the School Board office every Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Speicher and daughters, Maud and Elizabeth, of Los Angeles, Cal., arrived here July 4th and are visiting Mrs. Speicher's brother, Dr. W. T. McMillan, and other relatives and friends. Dr. Speicher who is a native of the Cove, Md., formerly practiced medicine at Grantsville and Salisbury and located in Los Angeles in 1903 where he has a large practice and has prospered greatly. Dr. and Mrs. Speicher and their charming daughters will spend several weeks revisiting the scenes of their youth. Mrs. Speicher is a native of Accident, Md., and a sister of Mrs. D. W. Wolfersberber, of Rockwood.—Meyersdale Republican.

Employes of the eastern lines of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad are arranging the program of their thirty-fifth annual reunion and picnic at Harper's Ferry, W. Va., July 27. In accordance with custom Miss Jennie Smith, the national railroad evangelist, who originated the gatherings of the railway employes, will deliver an address. J. W. Gardner, chairman of the committee of employes, reports that the program provides interesting entertainment during the entire day. The list of speakers includes Rev. A. L. Boda, T. E. Stacey, secretary of the railroad Y. M. C. A., at Baltimore, and W. C. Montignani, secretary of the Cumberland Branch. Miss Emma Southland will sing a number of selections, including several folklore songs of the railroad men. Two special trains will be operated from Baltimore, one from Mount Airy and one from Cumberland, for the accommodation of the railroad men, their families and friends.

MOVING HELPING STATION

Baltimore and Ohio Preparing to Take Helpers from Deer Park.

A large number of men are engaged at a point midway between Deer Park and Mountain Lake Park on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad building the proper yards and erecting water tanks and coal tipples for the accommodation of helping engines used to facilitate the movement of heavy freight trains up the grade to Altamont at the head of the Seventeen-Mile Grade.

These helping engines as well as the crews of men that handle them have until the present time been stationed at Deer Park, just opposite the Baltimore and Ohio hotel at that point and their removal to the new location is mainly for the purpose of eliminating the noise and dirt at the famous summer resort.

RESULTS OF TEACHER'S EXAMINATIONS

County Superintendent Rathbun Highly Pleased With Progress Shown.

The County Superintendent has issued certificates to the following persons, all of whom took the examinations therefor at Oakland upon Friday and Saturday, June 30th and July 1st, 1916:

Second Grade:—Jessie O. Friend, Ida Liston, Margaret Slabaugh, William Fox, G. Prentiss Porter, George W. W. Friend, J. J. Knapp, Francis McKenzie, Dale Mosser, Clarence R. Hetz, J. Mahlon Speicher, Lulu Hartman, Anna B. Shaw, Viola Hetrick Durst, Myrtle Wilson, M. Elizabeth Smith, Margaret R. Athey, Marie Frances Reilly, Ida V. Engle, Clara Bush, Lillieth B. Wiley, Henrietta W. Hobing, Mary Eggers, Margaret Hannon, Eleanor Hannon, Verna Orendorf, Elsie Custer, Letty Selby, Emma McKenzie, Sarah B. McKenzie, Harvey Fike, Edith L. Durst, Florence H. Warnick, R. W. Umbel, Roy S. Umbel, Dora V. Steiding, Fanny Cutter, Alice Dye, Eva Dodge, Alma Miller, Verna Speicher, Edna Beckman, Lorenzo Calhoun, Lovada Wilt, Bessie E. Griffith, Letta Friend, Estella Sturm, Amelia Bowen.

Highest honors for first place were tied for between Miss Lillie V. Cutter and Mr. Owen Foster Friend, as applicants for first grade certificates, while Miss Lovada Wilt led in the general averages among those who made application for a second grade certificate.

The County Superintendent is highly gratified by the results of the examinations, they showing material advance made in the equipment of the teachers for their work. Especially is this so of those who attended the Summer School conducted this year at Oakland, decided improvement being very evident in the type of work of the teachers as exemplified in the examinations.

Oakland Public Library Notes.

The Library Board acknowledges with sincere thanks a gift of $10 from Mr. McHenry Howard; also a book of which Mr. Howard is the author.

A growing interest is being manifested in the Library.

In spite of the fact that it was closed for more than a week during the month of June, 262 books were taken out.

DEUTSCHLAND IS SAFELY DOCKED AT BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, MD., July 10.—The German submarine Deutschland was entered formally at the Baltimore Custom House today.

Definite announcement that the great grim super-submarine Deutschland, which reached the Chesapeake Bay yesterday is but the first of a fleet of such craft built to ply regularly in the trans-Atlantic trade, was made here early today by Capt. Paul Konig, master of the submarine trader.

"This is not the only one of these ships that is coming," said the Captain. "Just wait, there will be more here soon and we are going back for another cargo. We are going to have a regular line."

It was to a port officer that the Captain talked as his vessel was preparing to dock from the lower harbor, where she dropped anchor at 11 o'clock last night at the end of her memorable voyage across the Atlantic through lanes of vigilant enemy warships. He spoke freely to the officers and laughed over his feat.

All during the night a considerable part of the Deutschland's crew had been astir and a small search light played almost constantly upon a newspaper yacht anchored nearby. The tug Thomas F. Timmons, convoying the submarine, also kept the yacht under close surveillance.

Shortly after 4 o'clock when daylight was beginning to show faintly through the heavy low lying clouds and a steady drizzling rain a boat with health and customs officials aboard put out from quarantine station and went along side the submarine. To the municipal health officer, Dr. Thomas L. Richardson, the submarine's skipper, presented his bill of health issued to him by William Thomas Fee, United States Consul at Bremen on June 14.

The document describes the Deutschland as "a vessel engaged in the freight trade between Bremen and Boston or other Eastern Atlantic port." It records her gross tonnage as 791 and says she "is newly built" and has a cargo of dyestuffs in good condition and a wholesome supply of water taken from the Bremen waterworks.

One thing the boarding officers noted particularly—there was no torpedo tubes or guns of any description visible aboard the vessel. They had been told that she mounted two small caliber rifles for defensive use but the officers came ashore convinced that the visitor was wholly unarmed.

It was learned that the boat left Bremen with her load of about 750 tons of valuable dyestuffs which her owners hope to sell to American manufacturers for a fortune. At Heligoland she waited nine days, leaving there June 23 to plow deep beneath the surface of the North Sea to escape the watchful eyes of the allied blockaders. Captain Koinig intimated that the purpose of his long delay at Heligoland was to deceive the enemy who undoubtedly had heard rumors of the submarine's going.

When the vessel was released from quarantine she moved up the river to the pier of the Eastern Forwarding Company, six miles away to a carefully guarded waiting berth. On the way up she passed a dozen merchantmen lying at anchor. The first, a big Norwegian freighter, dipped her flag and her whole ship's company lined up against the rail raised three rousing cheers which were answered with a will. With another Norwegian and two Dutch ships the submarine exchanged formal salutes. She moved close to a number of British tramps in silence observed with great interest by the English crews.

A force of longshoremen were ready on the dock to begin unloading the cargo, which is to be shipped as soon as possible by the Eastern Forwarding Company to the purchasers, New York Chemical Companies. Probably only a day or two will be required to discharge and then the submarine will take on a cargo of crude rubber and nickel consignments already stored in the company's warehouse for her return trip. Extraordinary precautions have been taken to protect the Deutschland. As soon as she reached her dock an army of guards drove away all river craft and a huge chain of logs was drawn around her to prevent vessels from approaching within 100 feet of the ship. On the land side of the dock a high board fence reaching far out into the river had been erected. On top of the fence are half a dozen rows of heavy barbed wire and curtained with burlap to shut off all view. No one without a permit was allowed near the entrance to the dock.

"My orders are from my home Government," said Captain Konig. "No one can go aboard without authority. I am sorry. I would like the whole world to see."

Capt. Konig issued the following statement today:

"The submarine Deutschland which I have the honor to command, is the first of several submarines built to order of the Deutsche-Ozean-Rhederie G. M. B. H. Bremen. She will be followed by the Bremen shortly."

"The idea of the building of this submarine emanated from Mr. Alfred Lohmann, then president of the Bremen chamber of commerce. He brought his idea in the fall of last year confidentially before a small circle of friends and the idea was taken up at once and the Germania Wertt, Kiel, was entrusted with the building of the submarines."

"We have brought a most valuable cargo of dye stuffs to our American friends. Dye stuffs, which have been so much needed since months in America and which the ruler of the seas has not allowed the great American republic to import. While England will not allow anybody the same rights on the ocean because she rules the waves we have by means of the submarine commenced to break this rule. Great Britain can not however, hinder boats such as ours to go and come as we please. Our trip passing Dover across the ocean was an uneventful one. When danger approached we went below and remained below the surface and here we are safely in an American port ready to return in due course."

NEW GENERAL ASSESSMENT IN MARYLAND

Has Been Planned By Tax Commission To Begin In August.

Details of the plan for reassessing all the real estate in Maryland to establish a more equitable distribution of taxes throughout the State, as formulated by the State Tax Commission, were discussed from all angles at a conference today in the Criminal Court-room. It was attended by more than 300 persons—County Commissioners, clerks of the Boards of County Commissioners and Supervisors of assessments.

In keeping with laws enacted in 1914 and by the last Legislature the Commission plans to start a reassessment of all real estate in Maryland, excepting Baltimore city, on August 1. The work will consume 90 days. The assessors are to be appointed by the County Commissioners, who must also provide the other machinery needed. It was primarily to explain to the Commissioners the necessity of the reassessments, and the method worked out, which it is believed will remedy many defects of the present system, that the conference was called.

Chairman Gorman of the State Tax Commission explained at length the needs of a general reassessment, in which he dwelt upon some of the unfair methods now prevailing. He told of the necessity for the Commissioners to appoint capable and efficient men as assessors, men who know something of the value of real estate, and he figured that the work will cost $112,370, to which must be added counsel fees and other expenses which the Commissioners must incur.

Governor Harrington opened the proceedings with a word of welcome, after which he launched into a lengthly discussion of the objects of the conference. In advocating the reassessment throughout the counties the Governor indulged the hope that a more equitable system of taxation can be worked out by the conference. Then he called attention to the injustices of the present system, saying that he understands that the taxable basis in some counties is from 50 to 60 per cent. of the cash value of the property, not looking to a forced sale, while in other counties the basis is 75 per cent. of the cash value, while in Baltimore city the basis closely approaches 100 per cent. of the cash value of the property.

"It is unfrir to Baltimore city and some of the counties," he added, "that they should be assessed to a point closely approaching the cash value of the property, while the assessments in some of the counties are very low. No honest man can defend that situation. If it is necessary to establish a basis of 100 per cent. of the cash value then that basis should apply to all the counties alike. I understand that in some counties they have a different basis for county and State taxation, which is eminently unfair."

Comptroller McMullen made a short address, in which he urged the officials not to make the reassessments too high until the Legislature has passed laws to prevent those in authority from expending the money in a willful fashion.

New Road Commissioner.

Frostburg, July 7.—Frank B. Black, of Meyersdale, who was recently appointed a State Highway Commissioner by Gov. Brumbaugh, is well known in Garrett county. His appointment is a matter of great satisfaction to local people who are interested in creating a greater prestige for the National Pike.

Since Mr. Black resides so near the National Pike, it is felt he will leave nothing undone in his co-operation with those who are trying to make the pike one of the great trans-continental motor routes.

With Clinton Uhl, a Maryland State Highway Commissioner, living but a stone's throw from the historic road, and Mr. Black, a Pennsylvania Highway Commissioner, having his home but little further away. the famous old road has the prospect of receiving more attention than ever before.

WATER SUPPLY FOR THE COUNTRY HOME

Necessity Of a Good Water Supply And Points To Be Considered In Selecting The Source.

T. H. TALIAFERRO,
Maryland Agricultural College.

In view of the fact that pure water in abundance is a necessity in the country home, it is of interest to consider in a general way the sources of water supply and the methods of rendering it available for use.

A plentiful supply of pure water adds, not only to the comfort of the home, but to the health of the members of the family. It tends to make the home more attractive, not only to the adults, but to the children. In so far as it accomplishes this fact, it has a marked tendency in keeping the young people in the country, since, in many instances, they go to the city to escape what they term the discomforts of country life.

Sources Of Supply.

Water may be obtained from streams, lakes, ponds, springs, and wells. Rain water is collected from the roofs of buildings. Health demands that water for home use must be free from hurtful germs. Therefore, it should be tested at intervals to determine its condition as to purity.

Streams, lakes and ponds are formed by springs and the drainage from the surrounding country. When the water supply is obtained from such a source, this watershed should be carefully examined to see that no center for pollution exists.

A spring should be cleaned out and surface water drained away from it, unless it is definitely known that such water seeps through a sufficient depth of soil to filter out any impurities. Hog pens and privies should never be placed above a spring.

Rain water should never be stored until after sufficient rain has fallen to cleanse thoroughly the roofs and gutters.

Locating A Well.

A well, particularly a shallow well, should be constructed, if possible, on ground higher than the house site, barnyard, cesspool, etc., so that the drainage would be away from it. It is, however, seldom possible to select such a position for the well, but it is possible to locate the well from forty to fifty yards from any source of pollution whatsoever; and considerations of health demand that it should be done. At this distance, any drainage water seeping through the soil should be sufficiently filtered before reaching the well. This is not, however, always true, even at this distance.

The necessity for thorough filtration of the surface water before it reaches the source of water supply is a strong argument in favor of using deep wells in preference to shallow ones. Further, the water from a deep well is usually cooler and more palatable.

HOW TO DETERMINE THE NEED FOR LIME.

H. J. PATTERSON,
Maryland Agricultural College.

There have been numerous methods proposed for determining the need for lime and the probable quantity required, none of them are very reliable and all take more or less skill in their application. The most reliable test is evidenced by the crop, but this takes considerable time. Probably the easiest test is the use of blue litmus paper for testing the acidity of soils, and if it turns red rapidly it will generally indicate the need for lime. The blue litmus paper test is very simple, it is made by bringing a piece of blue litmus paper in contact with the moistened soil and observing the intensity and rapidity of the redness thus produced.

The general characteristics of the land as to its derivation can not be taken as a sure indication of the lack or supply of lime. It is not infrequent to find in lime-stone regions and on the so-called lime-stone soils that applications of lime produce most marked results. This is due to the fact that the lime of lime-stone soils has been removed in a great part through prolonged decay and the dissolving action of the carbonated waters. This, not infrequently, leaves such soils so siliceous or ferrugenous as to be quite barren and of a nature to be benefited by application of lime. Throughout the Trenton Lime-stone areas in Maryland, nearly every farm has, in years past, had its quarry and lime-kiln for fitting and supplying lime once more to soils that had been so thoroughly leached as to render them lean and poor.

THE LOCAL GRANGE SHOULD FOSTER BOYS' AND GIRLS' SCHOOL CLUBS.

Every local grange or neighborhood club should foster a Boys' Farm Club and a Girls' Homemaking Club in the local school. It can do nothing more helpful both to itself and the neighborhood than urging the organization of such clubs in connection with the school. In connection with these clubs it could conduct contests in growing corn, potatoes, or tomatoes; in raising pigs, poultry or other live stock; in doing sewing, canning, or cooking. No one thing that I know of is calculated to make the local organization more useful or popular in its neighborhood than the giving to our boys and girls an opportunity to take a real interest and excel in farm and home industries.

Are You Wasting The Price Of a Titan Engine?

TITAN engines run on kerosene.

Average cost of gasoline so far this year, 16.9 cents per gallon.

Average cost of kerosene 7.7 cents per gallon.

Gasoline costs over 100 per cent more than kerosene. Gasoline is going up steadily. Kerosene is not.

At present fuel prices Titan engines, using kerosene, save their owners about 1.1 cents per horse power per hour.

Are you running a gasoline engine? What horse power is it? Figure what you'd be saving if you had a Titan kerosene engine. Rather surprising, isn't it? How long would it take that saving to pay for a Titan engine of the same size?

JOHN'S DECEPTION

By GEORGE MUNSON.

"I think you're nice—very nice, Mr. Hardy. But I like you so much better when you don't make love to me."

"Why?" asked John Hardy, the new assistant to the United States commissioner of Tongo Island, South Pacific, as they sat under a palm tree. "Why?"

"I'll tell you what the trouble is, Miss Lydia," said the young man brazenly. "You don't care for any of us, because you happen to be the only white girl on the island, with nearly twenty men to pick and choose from."

The girl flushed angrily; then laughed. "Yes, and none of the other nineteen is on speaking terms with me because I have refused them all," she confessed. "That's why I want to save the only friend I have left to—talk to."

John Hardy had only been in Tongo a month, but already he knew that Lydia was the one girl in the world for him. So he took hold of the little sunburned hand.

"I can't help it," he said. "I love you, Lydia. Just tell me there's some hope for me."

"Now you're talking nonsense, Mr. Hardy," she answered severely, nevertheless letting the hand lie in his clasp. "I confess I am a little fond of you. But I'll have to know you a good deal better before—before I can even listen to that sort of conversation."

"I'll wait another month, then," said the young man gloomily.

The truth was that Lydia was decidedly spoiled. But then, at twenty-one, with a score of eligible young men upon a tiny island, with dances and entertainments going on all the time, one does love a little amusement before one settles down to the staidness of married life. Lydia knew that she had loved Hardy from the moment they set eyes on each other. But she was not going to let him know yet. Not, perhaps, until her father's term of service ended with the next year's presidential elections, which, everyone knew, would throw his party out of power.

Before the month had gone anywhere near half way, John Hardy knew that his love was the overmastering impulse of his life. And Lydia seemed as distant as ever. Worse, she had become reconciled with diverse and sundry ancient suitors, who, finding life unsupportable without feminine society, had conquered their feelings and humbly craved Lydia for her friendship, which she had been pleased to accord.

Then one day John failed to turn up, as usual, and the next day, instead of excuses, he brazenly said that he had had an appointment. During the ensuing weeks he came far less often to the residence. Lydia pretended not to care. But somehow the society of the callow youths who had made love to her began to be intolerable. Willingly or not, she realized that John was necessary to her life.

When he did come he was as pleasant as ever. But never another word of love passed his lips. And about the end of the month he had given himself he came gleefully up the path.

"Ship's in the bay," he called.

"Yes?" inquired Lydia, without enthusiasm.

"Putting in at Raree. And say, Miss Lydia, what do you think? There's a party of English girls going to spend a whole month in Raree. Now we'll have some jolly times, eh?"

"What are they doing in Raree?" inquired Lydia suspiciously.

"Blessed if I know," said John.

"I hope you'll have a good time, then," said Lydia acidly, and left him. From her window upstairs she looked across the bay toward Raree through her father's telescope. She saw the tiny town, and the ocean liner in the harbor, and suddenly she found that she was crying.

She looked at herself in the glass and discovered that she was not really pretty—only pleasant-looking and good-natured. John Hardy would find equal or greater attractions in any of a hundred women with whom propinquity might throw him. And she had as good as lost him!

She felt sure of it during the ensuing days. Not for a world would she ask any of her friends about the English girls in Raree. But she was miserably unhappy, and she treated John like a dog, which is the way of some women when they are in love.

The worst of it was, John did not seem to care. He spent a lot of time away from her now, and whenever she asked him where he had been, he always said "Raree."

"I'm tired of hearing you tell me you have been over there," she burst out at last. "If you find it so fascinating in Raree, you can just stay away from here."

"Why, Miss Lydia!" protested John. "I didn't know you minded my going to Raree."

"I don't, and I don't want you to think I do—so there!" cried Lydia, unable to control the tears.

"But Lydia. Dearest!"

"How dare you call me 'dearest' when you spend all your time across the bay? No, don't you dare to try to put your arms round me. You can just go to your pack of English women and keep away from here for—for ever! I shouldn't care at all if you hadn't protested that you—you loved me!"

"But I do love you, Lydia! I love you with all my heart."

Angry as Lydia was, she could not help the thrill that came to her when John said that. And she suffered him to take her in his arms without resistance; and she knew that she loved him with all her heart too.

"But what do you go to Raree for?" she demanded presently, stifling the sobs that would still come from her lips.

"Why, I—I haven't been to Raree quite as much as I pretended to you," admitted Hardy. "You see—"

"Yes, I see very well. It's that pack of English women over there."

"But there aren't any English women—not real ones," said John. "You see, they are Kanaka women, the wives of some of the black workers in Australia, who are waiting for their husbands to come home after serving their term on the plantations."

"John! Black women? Natives? You said they were English women."

"Well, they are, legally, Lydia, dearest."

"You said that you were blessed if you knew what they are doing there."

"I did," answered John Hardy brazenly. "I knew what they were doing there, and I am blessed. I'm blessed with the love of the sweetest girl in the world, am I not?"

"I—I—suppose so, John," said Lydia weakly, yielding to his kisses.

SOME LAUGHABLE BELIEFS

In the most superstitious part of the Russian empire, which is known as "White Russia," it is considered unlucky to meet a priest on the road, so that if that happens to a peasant on his way to work, he usually goes back home and takes a holiday, but if he desires to continue his journey, he adopts a ruse to deceive the evil spirits. Waiting at the side of the road until the "batiushka" has passed, he turns and walks back and across the road for some distance until he thinks he has convinced the watching spirits that he could not possibly have met the priest on that path, and then goes on his way with an easy mind.

Witches and wizards are believed in, the latter—as in Irish legends—often being millers, who, because they generally live at some distance from their village, have plenty of opportunity for intercourse with the devil. There is no difficulty about this in White Russia, as all you have to do is to stand still in a strong wind, spit three times, and shout "Devil, devil, let me see your tail!" He will then appear.

It is customary in Russia to make the sign of the cross when yawning in case the devil should be waiting to jump in. Evil spirits, perhaps by association with "spirits" of another kind, are generally believed to enter by the mouth.

How to "Economize."

"I think we ought to have someone in to cut up that old tree for logs," said the wife.

For one half hour he persisted. The net results were two logs, a broken saw, a pair of trousers scarified by saw. It was at this point that he went indoors and said: "My dear, after all, I think at this time of the year the jobbing gardeners will need work. I'll ask a man to come round and finish the job."

"Yes," said the tactless wife, "and at the same time you might leave those trousers at the tailor's and see if you can get a new handle fitted to our only saw. The worst of this war is the way you men will economize."

Surely Record for Meanness.

American Visitor—I say, Brown, is it true that your father is a man of means?

"Certainly," replied Brown, rather proudly.

"Because," retorted the Yankee, "I was told he was the meanest man in town."

"But," said Brown, "have you read this paragraph in the paper of your brother in Chicago? — you really should."

Brown—Well, it says: "He stole his wife's teeth, and then got a divorce on account of her physical defects."—London Tit-Bits.

COUNTRY LIFE LESSONS FOR MARYLAND MINISTERS

Annual Country Life Conference And School At Their State College Of Agriculture The Source Of Much Practical Benefit.

Progressive rural ministers of Maryland have come to look forward with much anticipation to their annual country life conference as guests of the State College of Agriculture. In this conference many earnest workers, perplexed with the problems of ministry in rural Maryland, have found inspiration and opportunity to learn new ways of solving old problems or profiting by the example of others, have gone back to their own particular fields with renewed hope and energy. The intensely practical nature of this conference appeals to the rural minister, who has neither time nor money to waste in attending purely inspirational conferences or to listen to theoretical instruction. The occasion is a definite conference of Maryland ministers—an opportunity for them regardless of sect or creed, to get together on the common essentials of every day country life, and work out their common salvation and that of their several communities. The addition of a country life school extending over the period of a week preceding the conference itself has added much to the value of the latter. Many a minister unfamiliar with rural conditions and farming practices has the opportunity to post himself on these matters, and is thus enabled to discuss more intelligently the economic features of rural ministry. More and more the life of a country minister appeals to the intelligent young man as an end in itself instead of as a stepping stone to a city church. More and more he realizes that the man who is qualified to effect the physical regeneration of his community is better fitted to be its spiritual leader.

Champion Of Country Life.

This thought is well expressed in the statement of the Rev. Wm. S. Gerhard, of Frederick county, regarding the mission of the conference:

"A suggestion was made to me recently that very often in our country schools the teacher is a city-bred boy or girl, and the ideas and the ideals of that teacher are entirely connected with the city, and he or she is constantly presenting before the pupils those ideals. The suggestion is made that one reason why there is such a tendency for boys and girls to go to the city is because they have imbibed their ideals from the teacher.

That is true somewhat of the ministry. Most of the ministers are trained in institutions that are located in the city, and even if they were born in and spent their early years in the country, yet, they were associated with city ideals in their courses and they hold them up before the country.

One of the needs, I believe, is the vision of the country on the part of the school teacher and the country minister, and is suggested, I think, in this program, that the ministers should not make the country ministry a stepping-stone for a city field; but that they should make the country ministry their life work, and that they should hold up ideals before the young people of the wonderful opportunities of the country and of country life."

The Country Life Conference for 1916 will be in session August 1-4, being preceded by a Country Life School beginning July 24, announcements regarding which are being issued by secretary of the Conference Organization, B. H. Darrow, College Park, Md.

THINNING FRUIT A PROFITABLE PRACTICE.

S. B. SHAW
Maryland Agricultural Extension Service.

Thinning is fully as important as pruning in securing the best development of the fruit crop. It not only causes the development of much finer fruit, but it is a means for conserving the energy and vitality of the trees. Orchards that bear heavily one year do not, as a rule, produce much fruit the following year. While trees are producing a crop of fruit they are also forming buds for the next crop. Overloaded trees cannot well develop a proper number of fruit buds for the following year, consequently many trees perform each function in alternate years.

In some sections systematic thinning has come to be regarded as an indispensable practice in successful fruit growing. It costs but little, if any, more to thin at the proper season, than it does to pick the same fruit at the harvest time. In addition there will be a higher percentage of good fruit, and more assurance of securing a crop the next year. The best time to start this work is after the season for the "June Drop" is safely past. The sooner excess fruit is removed after this, the better will be the development of the remaining fruit.

The ideal method of thinning is practically the same as in harvesting. Hand-picking is most desirable as it causes less injury to the fruiting wood. Another advantage of this method is that the best developed fruits can be left on the trees. For most ideal results fruits should not be closer than from four to six inches. When first thinned to this distance they may appear very scattering and the prospects will not look at all good for a profitable crop, however, if the average size of the fully developed fruit will be kept in mind it will soon become evident that a normal crop can be expected.

CORN CLUB CHAMPION TELLS HIS STORY

1915 State Winner Produces 105.5 Bushels Of Shelled Corn At a Cost Of 19.9 Cents Per Bushel.

WILLIAM TROY,
Queen Anne's County.

I succeeded in growing my acre of corn by making up my mind to complete the contest when I asked my brother to let me have an acre of ground to enter the Corn Club. Mr. H. S. Koehler, our County Demonstration Agent, told me to get a piece of ground and have it covered with a heavy coat of manure. I was given the ground at the last School Fair. It had grown a crop of tomatoes and was heavily set in crimson clover and turnips. I did not apply any manure as it had been manured the previous spring, a crop of clover plowed under, and a ton of ground oyster shell lime drilled in before the tomatoes had been planted.

After a large portion of turnips had been gathered, we turned our hogs on the acre to feed on the balance of turnips and clover. They remained there until the first of April this year. On Saturday, April 3, the ground was plowed and rolled to preserve the moisture. On Saturday, April 17, I used a spring tooth harrow on it, and afterward rolled it tight, and this was done again on May 8 and May 22. On Monday, May 31, we used a levelling square drag and ran the ground out with a tomato marker, opening the cross rows about three inches deep. The next morning I was out bright and early and dropped the corn by hand, putting three or four grains to the hill, and planting the hills thirty-six inches apart each way. I covered the grain with a small, fine toothed cultivator. I had to stay home from school to do this work. This was the only time that I missed from school.

On June 12, the corn was dragged with a spike-toothed harrow. The corn was given thorough cultivation on June 24, July 5, July 16, and July 29. I would have cultivated it again but the storm, August 3, twisted it about so badly, that I could not get through it.

It was cut on August 30 and allowed to stand in the shock until October 25, when it was husked, the total weight being 7,356 pounds. The corn was not in the best condition, being rotten on the tip from lying on the ground. It was nearly all twin corn, standing three to four stalks to the hill.

My expenses were as follows:

Rent of one acre of land	$5.00
Plowing, 4 hours @ 20c	.80
Harrowing with spring tooth, 3 hrs. @ 20c	.60
Harrowing with spike harrow, 2 hrs. @ 20c	.40
Rolling, 7 hrs. @ 20c	1.40
Planting, 3 hrs @ 10c	.30
Marking the ground, 3 hrs. @ 20c	.60
Cultivating, 12 hrs. @ 15c	1.80
Replanting, 3 hrs. @ 10c	.30
Cutting, 15 hrs. @ 10c	1.50
Husking, 15 hrs. @ 10c	1.60
Lofting, 3 hrs. @ 20c	.60
Labor of man hoeing, 18 hrs. @ 10c.	1.80
Kainit, 200 lbs	1.25
Pulling weeds, 20 hrs. @10c	2.00
Labor of putting on kainit, small amounts of wood ashes, chicken manure, etc., 5 hrs. @ 10c.	.50
Cost of seed corn	.50
Total expenses	$20.95
Total value of crop, 105.5 bushels @ 50c	$52.75
Less expenses	20.95
Net value of crop	$31.80

100 lbs. of cob corn shelled 83.5 lbs., the percentage of moisture being 18.1 per cent. according to the test made by the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station of the sample sent them by County Demonstration Agent, Mr. H. S. Koehler. The variety of corn I used as seed was Boone County White.

(Signed) WILLIAM TROY.

The above story of how he grew his crop of corn by William Troy is authorized by the Department of Boys' Club Work, Co-operative Extension Work of the Maryland Agricultural College and the Department of Agriculture, College Park, Md., Reuben Brigham, Assistant State Agent, in charge.

VALUE OF VEGETABLES IN THE DIET

Suggestions For The Use And Preparation Of Vegetables For The Table.

KATHLEEN C. CALKINS
Maryland Agricultural Extension Service.

Vegetables are valuable sources of heat and energy, protein and mineral matter. By careful choice of vegetables a person may eliminate meat from his diet entirely. People who suffer from auto-intoxication are advised to reduce the meat in the diet and substitute vegetable protein. The vegetables, rich in protein, may be cooked in many appetizing ways to give variety to the diet. Vegetables and fruits as well, are especially adapted for stimulating the activity of the intestines and by increased bulk of the food mass help the eliminative processes.

Vegetables with large quantities of raw starch should not be given to children. Indeed, it is difficult for most grown people to digest raw starch.

The source of vegetables which are to be eaten raw should be examined carefully, for vegetables which are grown on sewage-sick soil cause disease. Sewage-sick soil may be brought about from septic tanks or outside closet drainage into the garden.

Principles Of Cookery.

The most important principle of vegetable cookery is softening the vegetable fiber without destroying the flavor or dissolving away the ash constituents of the vegetable. The walls of the individual starch cells when in contact with moist heat; i. e., boiling or stewing, expand and break so that the saliva and other digestive juices attack the starch more readily.

The starch should be thoroughly cooked, because cooking not only makes the food more easily digestible, but also makes it more palatable.

Food is cooked to develop the flavors. Any method whereby flavor is lost is not satisfactory. Both flavor and mineral matter are lost by boiling vegetables. The only way to retain this valuable material is to use the water in which they are boiled for soups and sauces.

Cooking Vegetables.

Baking and steaming are both very good methods of cooking vegetables, for no nutritive value is lost.

In cooking vegetables in a large amount of water and then draining the water off, the mineral matter and flavors are lost because they are dissolved in the water. For an economical dietary this method should not be followed because it is wasteful. In cases where the housewife can afford to get the necessary mineral matter from meats or other sources, it may be allowable. This method may also be used for old potatoes, beets of rank flavor and strong onions.

A better method for fresh vegetables is stewing or cooking in a small amount of water so that it is almost boiled away by the time the vegetables are cooked.

Points To Remember.

1. The general rule is to allow one teaspoon of salt to each quart of water.

2. Violent boiling water is no hotter than boiling water, and violent boiling mashes and breaks the vegetables.

3. With some vegetables like corn, it is more satisfactory to add the salt toward the end of the process, otherwise it hardens the fiber.

4. Drain the vegetables as soon as tender.

5. Cook strongly flavored vegetables; i. e., onions and cabbage, in an uncovered dish.

6. Vegetables that should be cooked with a small amount of water are greens, tomatoes, and tender young peas.

7. The less tender vegetables, such as the peas, carrots and the outer pieces of celery and celery tips may be cooked and put through a sieve for soups. Left-over vegetables may be used for soups.

WHEN AND HOW TO SOW ALFALFA.

The best time for seeding alfalfa in all of Maryland, excepting the mountain section, is between August 1st and September 1st; preferably between the middle and last of August. In the mountain section seeding may commence after June 15th, but usually it is better to wait until about the middle of July. Nothing is gained by spring seeding, for little or no hay is obtained that season, because weeds usually crowd out the young alfalfa plants during the hot summer. On the other hand, fall seeding will yield full crops the following spring and is seldom subject to serious injury by weeds the first year.

The rate of seeding should be 25 pounds per acre. The seed should be sown by itself; never with a nurse crop. The method of seeding may be broadcasting by hand or with one of the various makes of machines on the market for that purpose. Among these the Wheel-barrow seeder gives good satisfaction. The seed should be covered to a depth of about ½ inch, and for doing this no implement is better suited than spike tooth harrow with the teeth slanting back, or a weeder.

HOW THE FRENCH FARMER IS FINANCED

Ample Provision For Rural Credits Make Efficient And Organized Co-operation Possible.

F. B. BOMBERGER,
Maryland Agricultural College.

In France there are two agricultural credit institutions: first, the Credit Foncier, or long-time land mortgage credit institution; second, the Credit Agricole, or short-time personal credit system. The Credit Foncier is a stock company, organized under the strictest government supervision, the Governor and two Vice-Governors being appointed by the President of the Republic. Its capital stock was originally $2,000,000, the state having granted it a subsidy of an equal amount; now, however, its capital stock is $45,000,000 and it is independent of government aid. It pays annual dividends of 6.4% and its stock in 1914 was worth about 180 in the open market.

The Credit Foncier makes loans on agricultural land and to municipalities. It operates on substantially the same basis as the German Landschaften, except that it is not co-operative. It makes short-time loans not to exceed nine years and not subject to payment by amoritzation; it makes also long time loans which run from ten to seventy years, repayable by amortization.

Strict Government Supervision.

The Credit Foncier issues bonds secured by mortgages held by it as is the case with the Landschaften. Although these bonds are not guaranteed by the French Government, so strict is its supervision, that there is practically no chance for loss. As a result, the bonds are deemed the safest kind of investment for trust funds, savings funds and even public funds. In 1913 the bonds sold in the open market as follows: 3½% bonds at 97.4; 3% bonds at 90.6.

The Credit Foncier is administered by a board of directors consisting of the Governor, the two Vice-Governors, three auditors and about twenty directors. This body is subject to the French Law and to the will of the general assembly of stockholders.

The operations of the Credit Foncier are carried on throughout the Republic by branches of the central institution. It will be observed that this great institution is organized from the top down in contrast with the German Landschaft System, in which the central control is created by a union of local units. It also does away with unlimited liability and is in the strictest sense a joint stock enterprise, operated in the interest of the stockholders.

Short Time Loans.

The Credit Agricole, the short-time personal-loan institution of France, is organized upon a plan from which our new Regional Bank system of Banks was probably derived. By laws of 1894 and 1899, the local agricultural banks of a certain area or district are grouped together under a regional bank. Through these regional banks the local banks do their business, and the French Government has placed at the disposal of the regional banks, in order that they may lend them to the local institutions, large sums of money, which the Bank of France is bound to lend them without interest. These funds are distributed among the regional banks by a special committee named by the minister of agriculture.

The local banks are composed in whole or in part of one or more agricultural syndicate or buying-and-selling societies. The local bank acts as the guarantor of the financial obligations of the individual farmers or groups of farmers, to the regional banks, which in turn do the real banking business, securing the money, etc. The most common method is for the regional bank to discount the bills of the local bank.

Low Interest Rate.

Capital of the local bank which is usually very small is invested in stock of the regional bank, and interest of 4% per annum is paid upon the same. The matter of receiving deposits is optional with the local banks, as is also the extent of liability of the individual members of the local banks, varying from liability merely for the capital stock to unlimited liability, as in the case of the Raiffeisen Banks. Only about one-fourth of the local banks in France have adopted the unlimited liability system.

Loans must be secured by collateral, or by a guarantor; and range from three months to one year. Rates of interest are very low, ranging from ½% to 1% above the amount paid by commercial or savings banks upon deposits. In 1906 the Credit Agricole was authorized to make loans secured by mortgage on land; but this branch of the business has not grown greatly as yet.

The Credit Agricole is of especial value to the French farmer in developing the co-operative projects for which France, as well as the other nations of Europe, are noted. Without these organizations for providing agricultural credit, efficient co-operation in rural life and industry would be, as it is in this country, practically impossible. A study of the Credit Foncier and the Credit Agricole indicates that it ought to be a comparatively easy matter to create some modification of the Landschaften and Raiffeisen Credit institutions suitable to American conditions.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

The Stockholders of the Mountain Lake Park Association met Tuesday morning at their office in the Park. G. S. Hamill, Esq., presided and L. A. Rudisill was secretary. The new board of directors are G. S. Hamill, A. D. Naylor and C. S. Davis, Oakland; W. D. Reed, of Grafton, W. Va., and Edward W. Westwood, of Wheeling, W. Va. G. S. Hamill was reelected president. Ed. W. Westwood and G. S. Hamill were elected memders of the Annual Committee of the Community of Mountain Lake Park. W. D. Reed was selected to represent the Association at the annual meeting of the community.

The school of Domestic Art has opened in charge of Caroline L. Shepard and Miss Sarah Carr. There are classes in dressmaking and embroidery. The little folks will be taught the art of making doll's dresses, etc.

The Kindergarten school opens Friday, in charge of Miss Daugherty, of Baltimore.

The demand for cars by the movement of troops to Mexico has caused the cancellation of the reunion of Odd Fellows to be held on the 22d.

A Bible school is in prapress in Miss Sarah Harris' home. Dr. Shaw, of Taylor University, is in charge. Everybody is invited to attend the school.

Mr. Ed. W. Westwood, of Wheeling, is a guest of the Mountain Lake Hotel. Mr. Westwood will be largely identified with the best interests of the Park.

Last Thursday thirty-six young people of the St. Matthew's Episcopal church choir, of Wheeling, spent the day here. They are camped near Terra Alta for a week or two.

The camp meeting closed Sunday night with one of the largest crowds in the history of the Mountain Lake Park camp meeting. All day Sunday a crowd of people gathered at the Park. At least one hundred automobiles were here. The preaching was of the very best order and made a deep impression. The camp meeting is regarded as most successful. Already plans are being made for the meeting of 1917. It is intended to secure a membership of 1000 to boost the camp meeting, which is an independent organization. Such noted evangelists as W. H. Huff, L. J. Miller, Nashville, Tenn., with the old camp meeting preachers will be in attendance.

The annual meeting of the Community was held Wednesday morning. The meeting was largely attended by the property owners. The reports of the officers were read and adopted. The election resulted as follows: President Alexander Zeck; secretary, L. A. Rudisill; Treasurer, M. M. Schrock; members of the annual committee, J. P. Allen and H. L. Streib; policeman, Thomas Callis. This makes the twenty-first time Mr. Rudisill has been elected Secretary of the Community.

The following paper was adopted,

WHEREAS, It hath pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst by death, the Rev. J. P. McKee, President of the Community of Mountain Lake Park; therefore be it

Resolved, That the sympathy of this community is hereby tendered the family of the deceased, in this their great loss and sad bereavement.

Resolved, That a copy of this paper be presented to the family of Rev. J. P. McKee, and a copy be spread upon the minutes of this meeting, and published in the county paper.

Eclipse of the Moon.

On the evening of July 19 people will have an opportunity to see another partial eclipse of the moon. The moon will enter the penumbral shadow about eighteen minutes after 9 o'clock on the evening of the fourteenth, but as this partial shadow still contains a great deal of light no darkening of the moon's limb will be really perceptible until the moon actually enters the completely dark shadow, which it will do about an hour later, at 10:19. The middle of the eclipse will occur at 11:46, and the moon will leave the shadow at thirteen minutes past midnight.

Farm for Sale

Containing two hundred and seventy-six acres. About 175 acres cleared and in good cultivation and the balance in timber.

Located twelve miles west of Lonaconing in Garrett county in the Fairview settlement. With seven or eight never failing springs on it. One dwelling house containing seven rooms and a good cellar; bank barn 40 x 60 feet and all other necessary outbuildings.

SHERIFF'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

Near Selbysport, Garrett County

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett county at the suit of W. T. Fike, vs. U. G. Savage, being No. 16 Judicials, June Term, 1916, on the docket of said Court, I, Albert Ashby, Sheriff, did levy upon and take into execution all of the title and interest of the following parcel of land, situated in Selbysport District, Garrett county, as follows:

1. All that piece of land as described in a deed from Lemuel Savage and wife to U. G. Savage, dated the 24th day of March, 1892, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 19, folio 376, containing 67 acres more or less.

2 All that other piece of land, conveyed by Jonas Frazee and wife to U. G. Savage, which is recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 19, folio 415, containing fifty acres. Said deed is dated the 6th day of April, 1892.

3. All those two pieces of land, conveyed by L. D. Hoff and wife to U. G. Savage, dated November 28th, 1901, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 40, folio 199, etc , containing 19 acres.

4. All that other piece of land conveyed by Franklin Humberson and wife to U. G. Savage dated the 4th day of June, 1902, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 42, folio 69, etc., containing three acres and 143 perches.

5. All that certain parcel of land conveyed by Mary Stewart et al., to U. G. Savage, by deed dated November 22nd, 1904, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 47, folio, 543, etc., containing 100 acres. The above being duly recorded among the Land Records of Garrett county, especial reference being made to said record and said deeds for a more particular description of said several parcels of land. Said several parcels constitute one body of land and one farm.

And I hereby give notice that on the 5th day of August, 1916,

in front of the Court house in the town of Oakland at the hour of two o'clock P. M. of said day, I will sell the aforsaid parcels of land at public auction to the highest bidder to satisfy the aforesaid execution and costs; but said lands will be sold subject to a mortgage given by U. G. Savage and wife, to Franklin T. Fike, dated the 7th day of May, 1910, for the sum of $1100.00, with some accured interest thereon, which is recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 60, folio 216, etc. of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county.

TERMS OF SALE.—Cash on the day of sale. For further particulars apply to Albert Ashby, Sheriff of Garrett County.

ALBERT ASHBY,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

OF A

House and Lot

in the Town of Friendsville, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from William Frederick, Jr., and wife, to the Trustees of Hiawatha Lodge No. 44, I. O. O. F., Addison, Pa., and assigned to the undersigned for the purpose of foreclosure, default having been made in the provisions of said mortgage, he will on the 29th day of July, 1916,

at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., of said day in front of the Court House in the town of Oakland, offer at public auction to the highest bidder, all of that house and premises, situated in the town of Friendsville, Garrett county, containing 4950 square feet, it being the same property as described in a deed from William Frederick and wife, to Frederick Haney by deed dated the 7th day of June, 1904, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 47, folio 285, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, especial reference being made to said deed for a more particular description, and being designated as Lot No. 1 of Steele's Plat of the town of Friendsville.

Said lot is improved by a very good dwelling house and outbuildings.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third of the purchase price required on the day of sale, and the balance in nine and eighteen months of equal proportions, the deferred payments to be secured by the notes of the purchaser, with security satisfactory to the undersigned and to bear interest from the day of sale; or all of the purchase price may be paid down upon the ratification of the sale by the Court, when a deed will be made to the purchaser, and possession will be given of the property upon the ratification of the sale by the court.

For particulars apply to,

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
Assignee of said Mortgage for the purpose of foreclosure.

Mortgagee's Sale

OF VALUABLE

Coal Lands

Together with Houses and Equipment of Operating Coal Company, the Property of Waitman Smokeless Coal Company at Steyer, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from the Waitman Smokeless Coal Company, a corporation, to the Coudersport Trust Company of Coudersport, Pa., dated the first day of May, 1916, and recorded among the mortgage records of Garrett County, Maryland, in liber No. 67, folio No. 252, etc., there being default in the covenants and conditions of said mortgage, the undersigned mortgagee will sell to the highest bidder at public auction in front of the Court House in Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, on

WEDNESDAY,

The 2nd Day of August, 1916

at two o'clock P. M., all the following described property:

All surface and surface rights of the following parcels of land situated in District No. 8 of Garrett County, Maryland.

(1) Four small parcels of land comprising together nine acres, together with all the buildings and improvements thereon, including eleven tenement houses, more or less, and a large store building.

(2) All the coal in place including all those four tracts of land adjoining the above mentioned parcels of land containing 480 acres, more or less.

(3) All those parcels or tracts of land described in lease from the Bayard Coal & Coke Company to the Waitman Smokeless Coal Company, containing 493 acres more or less.

All of said tracts of land containg in the aggregate about 982 acres of land, nearly all of which is underlayed with the six feet and four feet veins of coal of quality and condition usually found in the Upper Potomac Region.

Reference is hereby made to the mortgage above mentioned and the several deeds therein mentioned for a more particular description of this property by metes and bounds. Also for reservations of several small parcels of coal which are reserved to original owners in said deeds, but which do not materially effect the value of said property.

(4) Also the following personal property: 65 one-ton 26 inch gauge mine cars, more or less, 23 tons of steel rails, more or less, one set Fairbanks Scales, one set Blacksmith's tools, one lot of mining tools, two boilers, with pumps, one engine, and all appliances and appurtenances thereto, all tram ways, hoists, mine props, and all other tools, buildings, structures, appliances and equipment for operating the said coal mines and mining plant, together with all the rights of ways of every kind and nature, including said tracts and switches, and all the houses, residences and buildings, tipple dumps, etc., now erected upon the said above described premises.

The mining plant has recently been repaired and put into good condition for the mining and shipment of coal, and is now an actual working proposition. Inspection of the property by prospective purchasers is invited.

TERMS:—A deposit of $200.00 on the day of the sale, and the balance in cash upon ratification of the sale by the Court.

THE REPUBLICAN.

DR. FRANCE AND MR. ZIHLMAN IN OAKLAND YESTERDAY

They Also Visited Crellin and Other Points in the County En Route.

Dr. Joseph Irwin France, Republican candidate for United States Senator, and Hon. Fred. N. Zihlman, Republican candidate for House of Representatives, spent yesterday in Garrett county, coming to Oakland by way of Grantsville and Accident at which points they met quite a number of people who assured them of their support.

They also visited the lumbering town of Crellin where they were guests at dinner of Mr. S. A. Kendall, coming later in the day to Oakland where the gentlemen met quite a large number of the citizens and party workers. They, in company with Mr. James C. Peddicord, chairman of the Republican County Committee, were entertained at luncheon by Mr. Charles H. Linville at his home on Oak street.

Dr. France and Mr. Zihlman returned by automobile to Cumberland last night and will spend today at Frostburg where they will be in attendance at the great Knights of Pythias gathering.

Of the amount appropriated I have received from the community $65.29.

Very truly,
J. L. ECHARD,
Street Commissioner.

DEER PARK POSTOFFICE ROBBED.

At Deer Park last Thursday night the safe of the postoffice was blown with nitroglycerine by burglars and the entire contents were carried off with no clue as to the identity of the burglars.

Entrance to the postoffice building was through a window which had been "jimmied" so successfully that little damage resulted. Inside the building however, a mass of wreckage presented itself when Postmaster L. D. Thrasher arrived to begin his duties on Friday morning, as the safe had been literally blown to bits, nitroglycerin, it is thought, having been used. Some persons living nearby heard a crash about midnight but attributed it to a passing train. The contents of the safe consisted of about $100 worth of stamps, some money order books and the general supplies of the office, all of which were carried off. As soon as possible Postmaster Thrasher communicated with the officials in Oakland and a pair of bloodhounds from Chaffee were secured but the dogs failed to take up the scent.

The total loss amounts to about $200.

Forty Years Ago.

Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman was a visitor at Deer Park, where he and Gen. Grant met and fraternalized.

During the week there were one hundred arrivals at the Oakland Hotel, then a new hostelry for the accommodation of summer visitors.

Marian McKimmey had a fight with a mother bear and her two cubs at Fairfax Stone, Garrett county. The mother bear ran away when two shots struck her and Mr. McKimmey took the cubs to his home.

NEW ASSESSMENT WILL BEGIN ABOUT AUGUST 1ST

District and Municipal Assessors Have Been Appointed For Purpose.

In order to get the machinery in proper running order for a new general assessment of real estate in Garrett county and the different incorporated towns located therein, which was authorized in a bill introduced and passed by the recent General Assembly, the County Commissioners met in special session on Monday of this week and appointed the required number of men to carry out the provisions of the law, which is mandatory upon them. Many Garrett county people are of the opinion that a general assessment at this time is unnecessary and this opinion is shared by residents of other counties, but the Legislature, in its wisdom, has decreed otherwise and as a result the people of Marvland will be called upon to pay something over $250,000 for this whim on the part of the law making body of the State. Garrett county's share of this expense will probably amount $10,000 alone.

Under the provisions of the law Baltimore City is exempt from the reassessment. This alone reveals the "nigger in the woodpile." Baltimore will reap the benefit at the expense of the counties.

Election District No. 1, Josiah G. Friend; No. 2, A. M. Chisholm; No. 3, Mahlon Miller; No. 4, William A. Michael; No. 5, Resley C. Rush; No. 6, Marshal Frankhouser; No. 7, J. L. Echard; No. 8, Jonas Yutzy; No. 10, Isaac A. Paugh; No. 11, Otho S. Fike; No. 12, Silas Beachy; No. 13, Milo Wilson; No 14, A. L. Sines.

For incorporated towns the following appointments were made:

Insane Italian In Jail.

An Italian, giving his name as John Bronini, and claiming Kentucky as his home, was found wandering along the Baltimore and Ohio tracks at a point just west of Bloominghon Sunday night where he was picked up by a railroad officer and held until sheriff Ashby went down and brought the man back to Oakland. Bronini was barefoot and was clothed in rags. In a bundle which he carried was found a new dress shir bearing the mark of a Denver (Col.) merchant. He had no money aside from five cents when the Sheriff took him in charge. The man acts quite strange and appears to be insane. His mental condition will be inquired into by the proper officials today or tomorrow.

TO CONNECT LINCOLN HIGHWAY WITH NATIONAL PIKE

Commissioner Black Boosts Road From Somerset County to Grantsville.

The proposed road across Somerset county from the Lincoln highway near Jennertown, Pa., to a connection with the old National pike at Grantsville, was given a decided impetus at Somerset Friday evening by Frank B. Black, Pennsylvania state commissioner of highways in his address at a testimonial banquet tendered him.

Commissioner Black boosted the $50,000,000 bond issue, to be voted on again in 1918. During his talk, Mr. Black recommended highly the ash road to Stoyestown. This road is made of coal ashes and cinder, rolled solidly. Mr. Black said that Gov. Brumbaugh, in their first conference, urged a road across Somerset county from the Lincoln higway, the old National pike. Four miles of this highway, running north out of Somerset, are already completed and in use.

The commissioner said the new highways administration did not propose to follow the old cow-path roads across the Somerset mountains. He asked cooperation in securing rights-of-way for modern highways across the hills and said that many of the old roads are of a grade dangerous to autos and fit only for mule teams and cattle to follow.

On a rising vote every man pledged himself to support a two-mill increase in the Somerset county tax rates as a means of raising money for county highway work.

Trees.

I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.

A tree whose hungry mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;
A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;
A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair,
Upon whose bosom snow has lain;
Who intimately lives with rain.

Poems are made by fools like me
But only God can make a tree.

Slight Fire.

Last Thursday night shortly after midnight residents of Oakland were aroused from their slumbers by an alarm of fire, which originated in the Whetsell restaurant on Railroad street, but which, fortunately, was extinguished before it had done much damage.

Journalism In Kansas.

This newspaper business is a great game. Just in the midst of an obituary of a dear friend and when hot tears threaten to flow down and blot out the words you write, there breaks through the office door the radiant face of the daddy of a new boy! Tears and joy mingle in the same breath, and the giving and taking away of life are recorded on the same page.

Before you have finished the obituary the breezy advance man for a comedy show pops in and asks you to write a scream for his Forty Fat Frolicsome Fairis and how joyous they are. Before you have done with the kind words about your departed friend, the joy over the new baby and finished the showman's ad, a fellow sneaks in to ask you to suppress the story of the fight that he was mixed up in. Then, after putting all the lace and trimmings on the bride's wedding gown, dressing the groom in the conventional black and starting them off with congratulations and best wishes, you turn again to the tear side of life and write: "But the stately ship moves on. To the haven under the hill. And, oh! for the touch of a vanished hand. And the sound of a voice that is still."

Then comes a lull and the old typewriter is content to record the commonplace facts, knowing that just around the corner and each awaiting his turn stands Joy, Grief, Sorrow, Mirth, Sarcasm, Wit and Laughter.—Oakley (Kan.) Graphic.

BABY OF TWO AND A-HALF YEARS RUN DOWN BY TRAIN

Alpheas Wilt, Son of Railroad Foreman At Stricker's, the Victim.

One of the saddest and most deplorable accidents in the annals of railroading in Garrett county, occurred last Saturday morning about half after eight o'clock when little Alpheas Rhodes, aged two and a-half years, was struck by the west bound accommodation at or near Stricker's Siding, midway up the Seventeen Mile Grade, and from the effects of the injuries sustained by the child it died at the office of Dr. N. I. Broadwater in Oakland two hours afterwards.

From what could be learned from the parents while they were in Oakland on Saturday concerning the accident it appears that the mother of the child had left it in charge of its grandmother, the former intending to go to Swanton to do some shopping. After the departure of Mrs. Rhodes from her home and while she was on her way to the station at Stricker the little boy left the house and wandered on to the railroad track where it was struck by the accommodation train bound west. The child was not seen by either the engineer or fireman on the locomotive but the recumbent body was seen by a railroad official who was riding on the platform of the rear car after it had passed, who immediately stopped the train and the little one was placed aboard and brought to Oakland. The mother boarded the train at Stricker, unaware of the fact at the moment that it also bore her child. The father, who is foreman of trackmen at Stricker, was also picked up by the train and brought to Oakland.

The little one's injuries were of such nature that nothing could be done for it, the skull having been fractured.

After its death the body was prepared for burial by Undertaker Bolden and sent back to the home Saturday afternoon, from which the funeral occurred Monday.

WILSON FAMILY WERE PIONEERS OF GARRETT COUNTY

A Well Written History of the Progenitors of the Race.

Away back in the first half of the eighteenth century a young Irishman came to America. His name was Thomas Wilson. What was his reason for leaving his native sod we do not know, unless he was prompted by that spirit of adventure which characterized his descendants.

Tradition has it that the family from which this man sprang came to Ireland from Scotland, and was originally English. Beyond this we are lost in the mists of the past. It has been suggested that those who left England and took up their abode in Scotland were adherents of the Stuarts and were compelled to leave their native country for political reasons. Later when Scotland became dangerous for followers of the Pretender they might have sought refuge in Ireland. But this is mere conjecture. A web of romance might be constructed around these old time people, but it would be without the foundation of known facts. The young man who came to America probably became engrossed with the new conditions with which he was surrounded, and the memories of the old country and the people he left there became vague and seemed to him unimportant.

What was the social position of this old family we do not definitely know. From the fact that the first American Wilson had a certain amount of education we gather that they were at least well to do and probably belonged to what in England is known as the Middle Class.

There was at one time a report current that a great amount of wealth lay in England awaiting the call of the descendants of this Thomas Wilson. Some members of the family investigated the matter; but, on account of their inability to give the name of one woman in some way concerned, they failed to arrive at anything definite.

Unscrupulous lawyers in London sometimes enter into correspondence with families in America or the colonies, pretending that fortunes await these families and that all that is necessary is to fight the matter through the courts. After collecting lawyer's fees for their services, they regret to report that the case was lost, and that is the end of it. Whether or not the Wilson fortune was one of this kind, it is impossible to say, for no one ever went to England to investigate, and the word of unknown London lawyers may not be accepted.

But whatever may be the truth about the matter of the fortune, we know that there are many prominent and wealthy Wilsons in England, Scotland, and Ireland, and it may well be believed that we sprang from the same general stock as they.

But to return to matters about which we know definitely. Thomas Wilson married Elizabeth Riley, and settled at what was known as the "Old Wilson Homestead" near Taneytown, Maryland. The exact date is not known, but it was at least prior to 1740, for in that year Thomas, their eldest son, was born.

Tradition tells us little about his life and habits. As his home was near the outskirts of civilization and was constantly in danger of the savage forays of the Indians, we may picture him a hardy frontiersman, ready alike with axe and gun. No coward could have lived in that section of country at that time. We may state on general knowledge of the times that he was often compelled to protect his home and family by joining expeditions against raiding Indians. During the wars with the French and Indians in 1744-1748 and 1754-1763 there were many times when the outermost settlements in Maryland were threatened and the men of the exposed districts were called upon to defend their people. It is probable that our ancestor had many experiences which would make him stand out a strong character in this chronicle, but at this late date his deeds and adventures are forgotten. More is the pity, because it is from him that all the Wilsons hereinafter mentioned may trace their descent.

Unfortunately papers and documents relating to family history were destroyed in the time of the third Thomas Wilson, so we know but little of the second generation of Wilsons in America. It is believed that the first Thomas raised a fairly large family, though we have definite knowledge of but three sons—Thomas, Joseph and Michael.

Of these, Michael was probably the youngest, for in 1837 he was living and was able to move from the old Homestead on the Monocacy to Centerville, Indiana. At this time he must have been quite an old man. His family consisted of four children—three boys and a girl. The girl married a Halfmaner, and lived at Woodsboro, Maryland. His sons Michael and Thomas moved with him to Indiana and William, the youngest settled in Illinois. Later the second Michael bought a stock farm in Kansas and gave it to his sons to manage.

Joseph settled in Rockingham County, Virginia, but we know little of him. He is not mentioned in some old letters concerning the family.

Of Thomas II we know quite a little. He was born at the Old Homestead April 5, 1740. His youth, and, in fact, his whole life, was full of adventure and he was noted throughout the colony for strength of body and fearlessness of spirit. In 1776 he married Elizabeth Hays, the daughter of a highly respectable family living near his home in Frederick County, Maryland. Some time after his marriage, he moved to Cresaptown, a few miles west of Cumberland, where he lived the remainder of his life.

He was the father of nine children:—Thomas III, Joseph, James, Jonathan, Mary, Michael, Elizabeth, Esther and William.

Thomas II was perhaps the most remarkable man of whom we shall write. His life was a series of adventures from all of which, if we are to believe tradition, he came out triumphant. His force of character marked him a leader among his fellow men, and his physical prowess made him respected by the rough men of that rough time. Until very late in life he was a tireless fighter, and much has been said of his encounters with the bullies.

Concerning his fighting there seems to be a general misunderstanding. He has been spoken of as a man glorying in his strength and eager to display it whenever there was an opportunity for a fistic encounter; but nothing could be farther from the truth. He was, in fact, very modest concerning his abilities and fought only when forced to do so or in defense of someone unable to take care of himself. It is related that he learned of his abilities by mere accident.

In his youth he had never had occasion to engage in anything more serious than friendly tussles with boys of his own age, and he was nearly grown when his first real battle occured. Two young men of about his age had some grudge against his brother Joseph, and determined to work it off according to the custom of the times. But when they met Joseph, Thomas was with him. With few preliminaries, they sailed in, and tradition tells us the mill was fast and furious. When the smoke had cleared away it was discovered that Thomas had easily disposed of his man, and, exercising the authority of the older brother, had taken Joseph's man from him and given him a sound thrashing.

This encounter gave him confidence in himself and made for him a sort of reputation of which the bullies were eager to deprive him. He was called upon quite frequently to defend himself, and he did this with such unvaried success that he soon became known along the frontier as a fighter of great ability. As he was a man of no great size, weighing about 160 pounds, it was remarkable that he should be so invariably successful.

His most famous battle took place at Boonsboro, Maryland. He and Joe were there on business one day when he was accosted by a big husky looking man as follows:

"Are you Tom Wilson?"

"Yes."

"Well, I'm Madcap, the bully of Virginia, and I came here to lick you."

"I don't see what you want to do that for. Why, I never even heard of you before."

Madcap turned to his friend and said: "I told you Wilson wouldn't fight. He's afraid of me."

Now Thomas was not accustomed to having it said of him that he was afraid, and he would not be imposed on in any way, so he handed his coat to Joe and told Madcap that if that was the way he felt about it he could probably be accommodated. An old slave standing there was given the watch to hold and the fight began. It was a battle of agility and skill against brawn and muscle and the contestants were quite evenly matched. At one time it would seem that one had the advantage, and at another it seemed favorable to the other.

The fight lasted an hour and a quarter and at the end of it Madcap was compelled to admit himself beaten.

It seems to us almost unbelievable that two men could endure a battle of this kind. It was not fighting as we know it—boxing with gloves on or wrestling on a mat—but it was rough-and-tumble, almost any method of inflicting punishment being allowed. But that the account given is true there can be no doubt, for it is vouched for by those who were told by eye-witnesses.

In the wars with the Indians, Thomas II took a very active part. During his early manhood, the savages were almost constantly hostile, being stirred up first by the French against the English colonists and later by the English against the Americans. As he spent the whole of his life on the very outskirts of civilization he was never out of danger of raids by the red men, and, as may be surmised, he learned to look upon the Indian as his natural foe. Nevertheless, he had some friends among them, with whom he used to hunt and fish. It was on one of these hunting excursions that he located the sight for his future home.

During the Revolutionary War he was not enrolled as a soldier, but he belonged to that stern and determined band of men who guarded the frontier and repelled the inroads of the Indians. We hear of him later as a captain, but at what age he received this office we do not know.

In the wars following the Revolution he took active part. He had command of a company in General Wayne's army and, we are told, distinguished himself by coolness and bravery. Three companies were sent out to reconnoitre, of which his was one. When they were a considerable distance from the main force they encountered the enemy in force and a skirmish ensued. The other captains, being men of little or no experience in Indian warfare, disposed of their men improperly, and a rout and consequent massacre were about to ensue when Captain Wilson deployed his men so as to cover the retreat. By steadiness and promptness in action he had saved his comrades a disaster, and now by cool determination and the exercise of good judgment he held off the savages till the other companies were re-formed and an orderly retreat could be made.

It is related that before this skirmish one of his brother captains boasted of his bravery and was in a great hurry to get at the enemy. During the action he lost his head at the critical moment and was responsible for the precarious position of the whole force. When they reached camp there were some high words among the officers on account of this captains lack of ability, and he was censured for his unworthy conduct. It was intimated that he had lost his head as he did through cowardice, at which, of course, he was greatly offended. In a rage, he declared that he would shoot anyone who would call him a coward. Whereupon, Thomas stepped forth and said deliberately:

"I say, sir, that you are a damned coward."

The man said nothing more, for he was disarmed by his accuser's calm earnestness.

After this campaign, Thomas II settled down to his old life of hunting and farming. He developed his land near Cumberland and became prosperous as a farmer, but it was in woods life that he was at his best. Even when late in life he would take long excursions into the new country in company with one or two hardy souls who, like himself, loved the freedom of the great wilderness.

On one of these expeditions he and a friend had wandered far into the Indian country. As it was in time of peace, they did not hesitate to go into a little Indian village which they came across, and to call upon the head man of the village. Their intentions were friendly, but they had forgotten that by the provisions of the treaty then in force no whites were allowed to go armed in the Indian country. The chief, of course, knew this, and saw in this visit of the white men a chance to secure two rifles for himself. They had sat in the lodge and talked a while in a very friendly way, when the chief asked the other white man to let him see his gun. It was given up readily enough and examined with great interest, but it was not returned. Thomas suspected from this that the savages intended something hostile and he shifted his piece so that the chief was covered by it. When the demand was made to see his rifle, he told them to give his friend's back to him. As this request was refused, he cocked his piece and aimed it at the one who held the other gun.

"Now," he said, "you give up that gun, or you'll get what's in this one."

The red-skin had nothing to do but give up the rifle, for the white man evidently meant what he said. Then the two white men hastily left the village before any further hostile demonstrations could be made. By the exercise of that wonderful woodcraft for which Thomas was noted, they evaded pursuit and arrived home safely. Had Thomas acted less quickly and with less determination, it is probable that he and his friend would have been killed before they could have left the vicinity.

Of his hunting experiences we have heard much in a general way, but few incidents have been related. He was quiet well known as a successful hunter, but was probably not as famous as his son Thomas.

In everything Thomas II was a most remarkable man. No danger daunted him; no fear knew him. His determination and bull-dog grit were evident in all his undertakings—he was not a man to fail. His restless spirit of adventure took him into all manner of perilous situations from which his coolness and good judgment extricated him. He won position among his fellow men by his sheer worth. Such men were required to conquer the wilderness.

THOMAS III.

The third Thomas Wilson was born in Frederick county, Maryland, April 24, 1777. He received an elementary education in the common schools, and later, by home study and perhaps under the instruction of some practicing surveyor, he acquired a knowledge of practical surveying. This, however, he followed more as a fad than as a profession. From early youth to extreme old age he spent much of his time in the woods and in his prime he was noted as one of the best hunters in the country.

Being a close observer of the actions of wild animals under different circumstances, he soon mastered their habits, and to this may be attributed his great success as a hunter. During his hunting days, the woods abounded not only in deer and bears, but also in panthers, catamounts, and wolves. Men of the present day who consider themselves devoid of fear would probably rest uneasily if they were to sleep out by themselves under a great hemlock or in a pine thicket far from any human habitation, with the wolves making the night hideous and now and then a panther or wild-cat screaming dire warning to every living thing in hearing. Yet, time after time, Thomas III went through this very experience and thought no more of it than we think of camping out with a party of friends where we know full well there are no dangerous animals. But this communion with danger was a part of his daily life, and we are told that familiarity breeds contempt.

Fortune was kind to him when he went wooing, for it gave him to wed Susan Bowman, a maid of beauty and character. That these two were well suited to each other is proved by the fact that they lived together peaceably through more than half a century. Susie, as he fondly called her, lived to the great age of ninety-seven years and at her death left three sons and nine daughters. One son, Jonathan, died when a young man. All the others lived to a venerable age, as we shall see.

The names of the family in order were Elizabeth, Thomas IV, Mary, Martha, James, Sallie, William, Hester, Jonathan, Rachel, Eliza, Hannah and Emily.

The adventures and incidents in the life of Thomas III are so numerous that it would require a volume in itself to relate them. Being a man of independent means, and, as before stated, possessing a practical knowledge of surveying, he spent much of his time in travelling over the wooded territory along the upper North Potomac, locating tracts of land that he might sometime wish to acquire. And a trip through that country at that time could scarcely be devoid of incident.

At home he was a miller and a farmer; abroad he was a surveyor and a hunter. His experiences as a hunter will probably be the most interesting, so we shall dwell upon them to the exclusion of his deeds in other professions, and let the old men tell the stories of his life nearer home.

Once Thomas III broke faith with a living being. He was hunting in the Glades by himself when he saw a large buck standing in a stream, drinking. Aiming very deliberately, he fired, and down went the buck. But when he went into the water to claim his prize, the deer sprang up and charged. Now the soft muddy ground on the side of the stream made the man's footing insecure, so he failed in his attempt to get a hold on the beast's horns by which he might be free to wield the knife with effect. The buck's horns were very large, and in some manner during the course of the tussle, the man got fast in the horns in such a way that he could not continue hostilities and neither could the buck. After some minutes of vain striving to extricate himself, he invited the enemy to parley and at the end of the negotiations it was declared that peace should exist between the two. Then, by their united efforts, they released themselves from each other and Thomas gained the bank where his rifle rested against a bush. As he picked up the rifle, a sharp twinge of pain made itself evident in the side where a prong of the horns had been particularly uncomfortable. Momentarily forgetting the treaty of peace which had been agreed to, he loaded the gun quickly, and shot the buck before he could make good his escape. Then his conscience pained him for having forgotten his promise and broken his faith, but the buck was now dead, so what was he going to do about it? Manifestly, the only thing to be done was to perform the customary funeral rites and transfer the body to camp where, with the aid of fire and salt, it could be properly prepared for burial.

On one of his hunting excursions, he camped for the night under a large tree. Late in the night he was awakened by falling timber around him and finally the tree under which he had lain fell. A terrible wind storm had come up and timber was falling all about him, nearly every tree in the dense forest around him being blown down before morning. Even at the present day the passage of that storm across Backbone Mountain may easily be traced by the absence of large timber.

But the tree that had fallen just by him was so large that by scraping out the leaves and brush from under its side he was able to make for himself a safe shelter. He crawled into this snug retreat and lay close till daylight when the storm quieted. When he got up he saw that the ground was covered with trees, their trunks in some places crossed three or four on top of each other and the tops piled into heaps at places twenty or thirty feet high.

As he stood on the log looking on the destruction that had been wrought around him, he saw a deer looking across a log not far from him. At first he thought of going his way and leaving the deer alone, for he felt a sort of sympathy for an animal that had shared the great danger with him; but, reflecting that it could scarcely make its way through the mass of tops and trunks about him, and thinking it better to kill the poor frightened thing outright than to have it starve in its enclosure, he raised his gun and fired. When the smoke cleared away there was still a deer's head looking over the log. Wondering somewhat how he could have missed, he loaded and fired again, this time taking most deliberate aim. But still the deer looked over the log, looking a trifle more frightened than before, perhaps, but evidently unhurt. Resolving "to kill that deer or break his neck," he fired twice more, and the last time the deer disappeared. Making his way through the tangled brush he came to the place where the deer had stood, and saw—not one deer lying dead there, but four! Dazed by the terrors of the night, they had moved up to nearly the same spot, one at a time, to see what this new danger might be; and the hunter had been too much excited to note the difference in them.

The task of getting his venison out of the fallen timber was a heroic one, but in some way he managed it. He reached home none the worse for his experience, and with no lessened opinion of his marksmanship.

Concerning these storms, it is rather curious that we seldom hear of them now, while in olden times they were by no means uncommon. In passing through the virgin forest, we sometimes see strips of territory on which the timber was blown down perhaps fifty or sixty years ago. These strips are a few hundred yards wide and sometimes more than a mile long. The woodsmen call them "windbrakes."

Thomas III was a great wolf hunter. With his brother Jonathan he would hunt them down whenever they became numerous in the vicinity. Wolf hunting was especially agreeable to them for several reasons—there was a strong element of danger, and this gave a spice to the sport; there was a large bounty—at one time twenty-five dollars given by the State for a wolf's scalp; and the only way to protect their live stock was to exterminate its destroyers. They considered the wolf their natural enemy, and there were no better wolf hunters in the country than these two brothers.

They were so thoroughly acquainted with the habits of the wolf that they could find the den every time they started out in earnest to look for and, having found it, they could tell whether or not the wolf was in. They could catch wolves in traps, which was by no means a slight accomplishment. They could track wolves without the aid of snow by the punctures their toenails would make in leaves. And they were unafraid of the beasts, not because they were ignorant of their ferocity of the danger that was attached to braving them in their dens, but because they knew the animals so thoroughly they were able to provide against every mischance.

To illustrate the pertinacity with which the old gentlemen would pursue their arch enemy, we have the following incident. Once when hunting by himself Thomas saw wolf signs and, of course, followed it till he came to the den. Obviously the wolves were safe hid, so there was nothing to do but await their issuing from the rocks, unless he should, like Isreal Putnam, follow his prey into the den. But as there was no one with him and it was near dark, he decided to leave them alone till they should come forth. He retired some distance from the den and put up for the night, resolving to give battle in the morning. He had nothing to eat, but he comforted himself with the knowledge that there were whelps in the den, and even if he failed to get the old ones, the young would certainly fall prey to him. But in the night the wolves moved away, carrying the young ones with them. In the morning, when the hunter saw what had occured, he struck the trail and followed as far as he could. But, encumbered as they were by the whelps, they had traveled too fast for him to overtake them; so, after following them over ten miles, he reluctantly gave up the pursuit. Had he been fresh at the start, he would probably have followed much further, but he had nothing to eat since the morning of the day before and was then at least twenty miles from home. This was one of the very few instances when wolves that had been once located were allowed to escape.

The men of olden times had little regard for pain, either to themselves or to others, when there was necessity for inflicting it upon them. On one occasion Thoms III was fishing along the North Potomac in company with John Bray. They had come to the place they intended to camp and were preparing to get supper—Thomas dressing the fish and Bray getting wood—when a rattle-snake bit Bray on the leg. He called to Thomas that he had been bit and killed the snake before it could get away. Thomas came up as quickly as possible, and examined the bitten place. Then, before the poison could circulate through the blood to any considerable extent, he opened his knife and cut out the piece of flesh into which the poisonous fluid had been injected. Hastily cutting strips of flesh from the dead body of the snake, he bound them to the raw wound and told Bray to lie down and be easy. By this simple and homely treatment, the man's life was probably saved. The wound healed nicely and without any evidence of the swelling or inflammation which usually result from the bite of a snake.

About 1830 Thomas III, his sons Thomas IV and James, and his brother Jonathan spent nearly a month hunting deer. As it was very cold that winter, the venison was piled in an outhouse when brought in, and left thus till it could be got ready to be sent to market. In all somewhat over a hundred deer were killed, the most of which were transported by sled and wagon to Washington and Baltimore. The meat sold readily and at a price beyond the highest hopes of the hunters, so they realized quite a neat sum on the undertaking.

But hunting deer for the market was not looked upon with favor. It seemed unsportsmanlike thus to slaughter game by wholesale, though people of that day thought little of preserving it for the future. They could not know what changes a few years would bring about, and perhaps would have ridiculed the thought that a time would come when game of all kinds, and particularly deer, would be practically extinct in their old hunting grounds—the Glades and the North Potomac country. In their day deer were so plentiful that the hunting of them was little more exciting than rabbit-hunting now is. It was only when wolves and panthers were the objects of their hunts that the old fellows considered that they were having sport.

But deer hunting was interesting, even if it was a part of every day life. As has been said, Tomas III knew the habits of deer so thoroughly that he could kill one almost any time he set out to do so. Illustrative of this knowledge we have the following story.

When quite an old man, he started out one day with a younger man—Joe Friend, it is said—to go to a certain place and, incidentally, to hunt along the way. There was a light snow on the ground. On the way out in the morning, they saw where three deer had crossed the trail; but, as they had other business to attend to, they did not follow the tracks. In the evening they came back the same way, having seen no game during the day. When they came to the tracks they had seen in the morning, Thomas said to his companion:

"Joe, would you like to kill a couple of these deer?"

"Yes, but I don't want to follow them all over the country."

"Well, don't follow them at all. Just go to that pine thicket right across the ridge and strike that holler about half way down on the left hand side. The deer will be in the bottom and you can shoot nearly straight down on them so they can't tell which way the shot came from. You can kill two of them if you shoot straight."

Joe was a little afraid the old fellow was playing a trick on him, but he decided to run the risk and follow his instructions. He found the deer just as he had been told he would, and he killed two of them before they could decide which way to run.

This story may seem remarkable, but it is certainly true. The old hunter knew the country, knew what timber the deer would be likely to be in at that time in the day and under those weather conditions, and knew about what they would be doing. He had studied deer.

There are other incidents in his life known to the present generation, but enough have been given to acquaint the reader with his abilities as a hunter. It is a pity that he did not make a record of his hunting experiences, as did that other great hunter, Meshach Browning, for a book of the kind would certainly be interesting. But he never considered it worth while and we can do no more than regret the fact.

JOSEPH II.

Of Joseph Wilson (second son of Thomas II) we know very little. He was born February 15, 1779, and lived at home till he was married. He moved to Shinnstown, Harrison County, West Virginia, shortly after his marriage, but later he moved to Missouri. All accounts of him and his descendants have been lost to us.

JAMES I.

James Wilson (third son of Thomas II) was born March 6, 1781. He, like his brother Joseph, lived to maturity with his father and then went further west to seek his fortune. He married and settled near Somerset, Ohio, where his descendants now live.

Before he left the mountains, he became a hunter of no mean skill. On one occasion he saw a large bear feeding in a hazel-nut thicket, but could not get in a position to get a fair shot at the animal. After some maneuvring to get in a better position, he decided to trust to luck and to fire at the portion visible. The bullet struck the fore foot of the bear and inflicted a very painful wound. Enraged by the pain, the animal charged at the hunter, but he was not the man to run. Whipping out his hunting knife, he braced himself and awaited the onslaught. When Bruin reached him, he threw his unhurt paw at the man's breast, but found it solid. Thus supported, he made a lunge at the man's neck but, quick as a flash, James thrust his right arm into the animal's mouth and with his left drove the hunting knife to its heart. The bear fell dead immediately, but the hunter's hand and arm were severely bitten. A moment of indecision, and his assailant would have inflicted more severe if not fatal injuries.

Other incidents in his career are now forgotton, but we infer from the one just related that he was a man about whom much might be written. A man who could calmly thrust his hand into a bear's jaws could scarcely live to old age without experiences worthy of note.

JONATHAN I

We now come to Jonathan, the companion of Thomas III on many of his excursions and a hunter of almost equal fame. It is said that shortly before his birth, his father was fighting Indians and was in very grave peril when his brother-in-law, Jonathan Hays, came to the rescue, and probably saved his life. As evidence of his gratitude, Thomas II named his son after his comrade.

Jonathan was born April 5, 1784. He married Elizabeth Inskeep and settled at Altamont, Maryland. He was the father of two boys and five girls—Abraham, Sallie, Elizabeth, Jonathan, Hester, Susan and Rachel.

He was a farmer and stock raiser. He was not perhaps, as well known as his older brother Thomas, but he commanded the respect of all who knew him. He owned valuable property in the fertile Glades district and was quite successful as a dealer in cattle. During his early life there were no settlers near him and he was at liberty to use almost unbounded territory for his grazing land. When, later, the land around his was occupied, he devoted his time more to regular farm work.

His life was by no means uneventful. He spent much of his spare time hunting deer and wolves, though he hunted more to keep up the family larder and to protect his stock than for simply love of hunting. It is to be noted that we hear little of his hunting bears and panthers. This is probably because these animals were not common in the Glades but frequented the wooded and mountainous sections.

One incident in his life will probably seem remarkable in the present day. About 1835 there was a remarkably severe winter. Snow fell in December to the depth of four or five feet, and did not leave till March. During this time, Jonathan could not get to a store or mill for supplies of any kind and his family lived on venison, bacon and potatoes. We may well believe that the first loaf of bread baked, when flour was at last procured, was not allowed to become mouldy.

Jonathan caught in a trap one of the largest wolves ever seen in this part of the country. He saw that there were wolves in the vicinity and set out to find where they were feeding. After a day's search, he found a steer that had been killed and partially devoured. As it was by a stream, and in a place suitable for trapping, he went home and brought out his heavy wolf traps. By wading the stream a considerable distance, he reached the carcass without leaving a trail to scare the wolves; and, by carefully concealing the traps and putting them in the most desirable positions, he arranged it so that they could scarcely fail to catch anything that might attempt to feed on the remains of the steer. After a day or two, he went to examine the traps, and found one of them gone. But, strange to say, there was no trail where it had been dragged over the leaves. But there was abundant evidence that a wolf had been there not earlier than the night before; so he made a small circle around the steer's body and found the trail leaving it. With the assistance of his dogs, he followed this for some distance and found there that something had torn up the leaves along the trail. About a quarter of a mile from this place, he found the wolf, a huge, savage beast, with the trap fast to its leg and the grab of the trap fast in the top of a fallen tree. The wolf was nearly exhausted, but when the dogs came up it showed fight. Fearing that his dogs would be hurt, he called them off and shot the beast. In some way the wolf had managed to carry the trap free from the ground, so the trail would not be easily followed and to keep it from catching on obstructions and thus hindering his progress. It was a remarkable example of animal intelligence and skill.

When he was a boy, Jonathan once underwent a most terrifying experience. He was lying out in the Glades, where he had gone to feed cattle glade hay. He had built a small fire and was lying asleep in his blanket beside it when he was awakened by a disagreeable sense of the presence of some danger. He lay perfectly still, wondering what was the matter, when a panther came up to him and smelled his face. At first he was uncertain what to do, and did nothing; but human nature could not long remain inactive when so great a danger was hovering over it. So, clutching the edge of his blanket, he threw it up over the panther, at the same time giving a whoop calculated to scare the animal to death. It was a question which was scared the most. The panther gave vent to an unearthly shriek of terror and, freeing himself from the folds of the blanket, ran away as fast as he could run. The boy was quite badly frightened, but he built up the fire and tried to fall asleep again. But he imagined he could still feel the long hairs about the beast's mouth tickling his cheek, and this sensation was anything but comfortable. We may presume he looked upon the sun with no feelings of sorrow and regret when it arose the next morning to dispel the shadows of the night. It was, indeed, fortunate that the panther allowed itself to be thus easily scared away, for the boy would certainly have been its victim had it attacked him in good earnest.

He once had an experience with an enraged buck somewhat similar to the one already related of his brother Thomas. He shot the buck, disabling it somewhat, and the dogs caught it to hold it till he came up; but when he came near, the deer shook off the dogs and made a lunge at him. A prong of its horn ran through his thigh, inflicting a painful wound; but, after considerable exertion, he got the prong out of his leg. The buck made another lunge at him, but this time he was more wary. He caught the deer's horns and held its head to the ground while he cut its throat with his hunting knife. The wound he received was very painful for some time, but it developed into no permanent injury.

Old hunters used to tell as a joke on Jonathan and Jesse Ashby, his brother-in-law, a story something like the following: The two hunters started out with two great wolf dogs to hunt bear. They had not gone a great way when the dogs encountered Bruin and commenced hostilities. When the hunters came up the fight was so furious they could not shoot without danger to the dogs, so they stood off and witnessed the combat. But the dogs seemed to be making little headway against their antagonist. Jesse, in an effort to save the dogs, watched for a chance and shot at the bear's head. He missed. Jonathan then shot with no better success. Recognzing the inutility of wasting ammunition, they then drew their knives and started in to put an end to the disturbance. But Bruin was not to be so summarily disposed of. He fought viciously and was aided in his efforts by the numbers of his opponents. The men could not use their knives effectively, for they were interferred with by the dogs and by each other; and the dogs could not fight freely on account of the men. Finally, when one dog had been put out of commission, the other one hurt, and the men beaten off, Bruin made a hasty retreat. We may imagine the disgust of the hunters. They probably looked at each other with reproachful eyes and each probably declared it was all the fault of the other.

Fighting bears thus with only a hunting knife was by no means uncommon among the hardier spirits, but of course it was very dangerous and not indulged in except on wagers or when circumstances demanded it. But hunters would often be compelled to defend themselves from wounded animals when their guns were empty and the only resource was the knife.

Your representative hunter was averse to running from any wild beast; for, by preserving a bold front, he might intimidate the animal, while by running and showing fear he would only embolden it. Besides this, his pride prompted him to overcome any feeling of fear or timidity that might arise within him. Many stories are related of fierce encounters at close quarters between man and beast, some of which are mentioned herein.

Little more need be said concerning Jonathans skill as a hunter. It is said that one fall he and his brother Thomas arranged that each should hunt till he had killed forty deer, and the one who was the first to kill the prescribed number should be considered the better hunter. One evening they counted up their score and found that each had thirty-nine to his credit. Resolved to outdo his brother, Jonathan started out at day break the next morning and, fortunately, killed his fortieth deer before Thomas had left camp.

It would be useless to try to estimate the number of deer these brothers, Thomas and Jonathan, killed during their lives; for the killing of a deer was a matter of every day life and was considered no more worthy of remembrance than other incidents of minor importance. This one season they killed forty apiece in the contest, and who knows how many afterwards? They spent a part of their time every year for at least fifty years hunting game of various kinds. A guess at the total number of deer, bears panthers catamounts, wolves, etc., that fell victims to their prowess would be presumptuous in one of the present day, and it is doubtful if they, themselves, could have given figures by any means accurate.

Such incidents in their careers as are herein mentioned cannot give the reader a definite idea of the life of these men because they are so disjointed and, after all, not such as would interest us most. We would like to know the story of an ordinary hunt—how they started out, the character of the country, how the deer were killed, and where, the craft they employed in stalking the game,--in brief, the details which old men think unworthy of mention. All this could be supplied by a fertile imagination, facts being used as a foundation; but we fear the veneer of fiction could be too readily detected by those well acquainted with game and the chase. Besides, we purpose to admit nothing to these pages that is not vouched for by reputable authorities.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Miss Rhoda Calhoun has been appointed notary public for Mt. Lake Park for a term of two years.

Rev. Dr. Mantle, of England, will preach in the tabernacle next Sabbath morning at 11 o'clock. Dr. Mantle is a great preacher, as well as a noted Bible expositor. His sermon last Sunday was heard with much interest and profit. He held the closest attention of the congregation from the beginning of his sermon to its close. Those who heard him last Sunday will be on hand next Sabbath. Dr. Mantle belongs to the Baptists, but his preaching suits all denominations.

The Bible study he and Prof. Shaw are conducting is greatly enjoyed by those in attendance. The morning hour is in Miss Harri's home. The 4 and 7:30 p. m. hours are in the Hall of Philosophy. These hours of Bible study are open to the public. They are pronounced wonderfully helpful.

Several car loads of cinders are being placed on the streets of the Park. This wet season illustrates most convincingly the value of "good roads." In wet weather, off from the state roads, it is mud-a-plenty, and in dry times it is dust almost beyond endurance. One hundred and more automobiles daily grind up the clay roads into dust rapidly.

The moving pictures given by Mr. Walker have been quite satisfactory and greatly enjoyed. The pictures of Saturday night drew a good sized audience.

The cancellation of the Odd Fellows reunion was quite a disappointment. Many of our people think with Gen. Sherman, "That war is —." An effort will be made to have the reunion at a later date.

The plan for Garrett County day, Saturday, September 2d, is progressing finely, and promises a day of unusual interest and pleasure. Word has been received from Congressman Lewis, Senator France, Senator Zihlman and his opponent for Congressional honors, Mr. H. Dorsey Etchison, that they will be present and make short addresses. The addresses will be given in the large auditorium. There will be music. It will be a live day, a regular old fashioned Garrett County picnic—an old timers day—a sort of Garrett county reunion. Garrett countains are invited to be present for a roval good time.

A LETTER FROM MRS. THOMPSON.

To my dear Mountain Lake friends:

It seems hardly possible that almost four decades have passed since Mr. Thompson and I, with our little family, first saw the outline of these mountains which grew to be so unspeakably dear to us. We came first in the summer of 1882. This cottage was then only partly completed and we have always loved to recall those days of "roughing it,"—our nearest approach to pioneering,—when we, like the old Gideonites, were literally "hewers of wood and drawers of water," for there were fences to build, wood-sheds to fill, stumps to be uprooted, stones to be gathered and taken away, and every drop of water to be carried from the old auditorium grounds, where we had, that first summer, a common well. And there may be a few here today who will recall some humorous battles with overfriendly snakes and an unesthetic animal who wished to dwell with us on too hospitable terms. There was plenty of hard work but there were also days in the woods, with well-filled baskets and happy talk and song, and there was the still more blessed Sabbaths when we met for prayer.

It was in those days of battle with the wilderness that my dear husband and his associates here had a vision and cried out, like Caleb, "Give us this hill country,"—not simply for conquest or speculation, but as a place where we can have a permanent "tent of Meeting," where, as of old "the whole congregation of Israel" may assemble to learn of the deep things of God. That vision was translated into reality and this spot became for many of us a veritable "mount of transfiguration."

I would today, in imagination, reassemble the old group; Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Dr. and Mrs. Masden, Mrs. Hank, Dr. and Mrs. Baldwin, "Brother" Close, Dr. and Mrs. Gilmour, the Updegraphs, Dr. Clarke, the Bullards, the Conners, the Richardsons, the Hughes family, the Baileys, Mr. and Mrs. Stephens, Mr. Pepper, and the one whom you lovingly nicknamed "Bishop." Some are here today, still engaged in large activities; some, like myself, have reached the spot of the Psalmist, where "our feet stand in an even place," some are gone from us in body but I venture to hazard that they are with us in spirit. "Therefore, seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith."

For those of you who are still "at the front" may I offer the prayer of Paul which my husband so often repeated on this spot, "For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, that He would grant you, according to the riches of His glory, that you may be strengthened with power through His Spirit in the inner man; that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith; to the end that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, may be strong."

It is with great regret that I cannot be with you to deliver this greeting in person. I am well and happy and active, and, although well on in my eighties, I still feel, as Julia Ward Howe said on her eightieth birthday, that "there is considerable ginger yet left in the old blue jar." Accept my love and God-speed!

Sincerely,
MRS. JOHN THOMPSON.

WILL YOU HELP?

During the Summer School of Missions to be held at the Park the week of August 21-28 a pageant entitled "Peace and War" is being planed, which we hope will include 200 men and women and at least 50 children.

All Oakland is asked to cooperate in this enterprize as it is to be the big feature of the week.

The pageantends to show the beauty of prayer, the sorrows of war and the friendly relations with all nations when Christian ideals shall prevail.

There will be few rehersals, as it is all practically pantomime, so there need be no fear of a great waste of time.

Miss Elinor Davis at the Stone cottage, at the Park will be very glad to hear from any one desiring to help. Word can also be left with Mr. Rudisill.

TAKE NOTICE.

The Woman's Civic Club will hold a tennis tournament July 29 on the court at the bowling alley. Cups will be awarded to winners two to be awarded to juniors sixteen years and under. Rules will be posted in bowling alley. It is hoped many will enter this year. A tennis tea will be held the day cups are awarded.

Rev. C. W. Baldwin, D. D., of Baltimore, is spending a few days in the Park with his family. The Doctor has had much to do with the history of the Park. For a quarter of a century or more he was the President of the Mountain Lake Park Association. He is among the very few men living today who helped make Mountain Lake Park —to change the wilderness into a "city beautiful."

Word has just been received that Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Rambeau are rejoicing over the arrival of a new boy at their home, at Martin's Ferry, Ohio. Adolph's Park friends will be glad to hear a word about their friend of other days.

Mrs. A. H. Wainer, with her two children, of Elkins, W. Va., who have been the guests of Mrs. Wainer's mother, Mrs. L. J. Cornwall, left for their home Tuesday.

Born, unto Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Cornwall, in Havre, Montana, July 2, a son. Mr. Cornwall with his wife and little daughter spent last winter in the Park with his mother Mrs. Winona Jarboe returned to her home in Pittsburgh, Pa., Monday, after spending two weeks with her mother, Mrs. F. P. Arnold. Her son Jamie will spend the summer in the Park.

The Civic Club is planning to give a special feature film in the old auditorium on the night of the 29th. The day will be observed as Civic Club day.

Those who did not hear the Rev. Dr. Mantle, of England, preach last Sabbath morning and afternoon, missed a great treat. He is a very pleasing, interesting and impressive preacher. He has the happy faculty of holding the undivided attention of his hearers, who forget the time used by the speaker, as he beautifully presents facts and striking illustrations. Dr. Mantle will preach in the tabernacle next Sabbath morning at 11 o'clock.

The boarding houses are filling up with guests. A number of them are booked to their full capacity for August. Several cottages were opened the past week. The August program is chuck full of the good things—nothing better ever heard at the Park. There will be beautifully illustrated lectures. See the program.

NOTICE.

The annual sale of fancy and useful articles, home-made cakes and candy, will be held in the Hall of Philosophy, on Monday, July 24th, from 2 to 9 p. m. For the benefit of Foreign Missions of this Park. Admission free. Everybody cordially invited.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MARY FIKE MILLER.

Mary Miller, nee Fike, was born Aug. 13th, 1829, and fell asleep in Jesus July 4th, 1916, aged 86 years, 10 months and 21 days. She was born at New Germany, Md., moved to Fayette county, Pa. After marriage she resided in Pennsylvania, until 1867, when she with her husband and family moved to near Eglon, W. Va., where she resided to the time of her death. March 21st, 1847, she was joined in holy matrimony to Phineas Miller who proceeded her to the spirit world about nine years. To this union were born six sons and seven daughters as follows: John F., of Washington, deceased; Edwin W., of Fortner, deceased; Lucinda, of Akron, Ohio; Dr. Jacob P., of Washington, deceased; Mrs. J. A. King, of Eglon; Aaron C., of Eglon; Wm. H., of Beattie, Kan.; Mrs. I. O. Thompson, of Gormania, deceased; Phineas, Jr., deceased; Anna and Abba twins, deceased, and an infant daughter. Mrs. Miller had been a most consistent and faithful member of the Church of the Brethren for 66 years. While people knew her as Aunt Mary, those who knew her best knew her as a mother in Israel. She spent many days caring for the sick in her community. She was a great lover of and reader of the bible. She was buried in the Maple Spring cemetery. Funeral services by Rev. Jonas and Emra Fike.

A QUESTION OF HUMANITY.

Just as the cheering news comes that a War Department official says there is not one chance in a thousand there will be any more trouble with Mexico, that the Pershing expedition will be north of the Rio Grande in a month or so and the National Guardsmen will be home in three months, that Villa is dead and only his name remains a bogy to complete peace, we are confronted with a new vexation from Carranzaland. It seems that the only ministers to the comfort of our troops in Mexico have been Chinese. They, thrifty and cunning souls, were the only people in the looted land who had not been stripped of their possessions. So it was Chinese who came to the camps of our boys when they slipped from their horses at the end of a hot day's ride and refreshed the soldiers with "doughnuts, pies, candy, tobacco, matches and fruit"—all for a price. Having given aid and comfort to the "gringoes" they dared not return to their homes, so stuck to the American camps. As Pershing came north the Chinese came with him. There are 300 under his protecting wing, as it were, saved from indignity or worse at the hands of Mexicans only by the Stars and Stripes. They are not safe in Mexico. And they cannot come to the United States. They are all right as pie peddlers across the line, but what shall be done with them when the Rio Grande is reached by Pershing? Manifestly they cannot enter the United States. Neither can we leave a guard in Juarez to protect them from the vengeance of the Mexicans.

Does the stress of 300 Chinese make a case where the interests of humanity rise paramount to those of the United States? If so, shall all the peace with Carranza that has been achieved be cast aside to save the yellow boys? Or are the Chinese in the family of mankind? Are they honestly under our protection or did they play a trick on us? Bret Harte said "for ways that are dark, the heathen Chinese is peculiar." Maybe the 300 have devised a cunning scheme to override our exclusion law. What will the President of Humanity do about it?

PAP FOR THE FARMERS.

President Wilson yesterday accompanied his signing of the rural credits bill with a stump speech which said in effect: "Here's your bit, Mr. Farmer; vote for me in November." For the rural credits bill is a political measure, pure and simple. No wonder Mr. Wilson was emotional as he signed it; he feels it gives him a claim on the farmers vote, and he wants votes now more than anything else. It is doubtful, though, if the farmers will be fooled by his misstatements, though some of them may be grateful for the discrimination in their favor.

When the President said that this bill "puts them on an equality with all others who have genuine assets," he said what is untrue, what he knows to be the reverse of the fact, and what the promoters of the bill know is not so. The bill is distinctly class legislation, intended to give one part of the citizenship an advantage not enjoyed by any other. It does, as the President said, "make the great credit of the country available to them," and no other legislation makes the credit of the nation available to any other class. It is not, as Mr. Wilson said, an "act of justice;" it is a piece of pap. The farmers are not in need of government help of this sort. They are entitled to every business privilege and advantage equally with all others of enterprise and industry, and that is all the farmers ever have wanted and all they are entitled to. In the end it likely will be found the new law will not operate as the charity which Mr. Wilson would have it appear to be. If it is not administered on sound business principles it will be a failure, and also it will be more harmful than helpful to the farmers. Here was a case in which Mr. Wilson would have done well to omit the ceremony with which he invested the signing of the rural credits bill.

NO VACATION FOR CHURCHES.

Vacation tourists returning from New York, who happened to spend one or more Sundays in the metropolis, report that the sign "Closed for the summer" is seen less frequently on church doors than was the case a few years ago. There was a time when the difficulty in finding a place of worship open, especially along Fifth avenue. By common agreement it appeared that those churches which should be in the very vanguard of the fight against Satan, those the strongest in financial resources, with the largest rolls of membership, the most distinguished and eloquent pastors, possessing the most accomplished singers and musicians and all that attracts the stranger, has temporarily abandoned their mission, hauled down the flag and given the enemy an inning. Today a very different situation is presented. The pastor may be absent on a needed vacation, but an able substitute has been provided. An opportunity is furnished visitors in the metropolis to hear some of the most noted preachers of the day. Special features in the way of music are furnished. The churches are taking space in the newspapers to advertise what they are doing to combat the traditional summer lethargy of the churchgoer. Instead of letting down in their activities many churches actually are speeding up. Some send special cards of invitation to guests of hotels in their vicinity. On no hand is any disposition manifested to surrender to the forces of evil for the time being. The idea seems to be to make a special effort in the summer season to realize 100 per cent. efficiency.

THE Garrett County Fair for 1916, an announcement of which will be found elsewhere in this paper today, promises to eclipse any former effort on the part of the Fair Association. Much encouragement is being received by the management and as the fair is purely for the purpose of encouraging agriculturalists and stockmen it should be liberally supported by them. Give the fair your support by beginning now to arrange for an exhibit, be it live stock or products of the field. The cost of making such an exhibit is so little and the return promises to be so great that it will result in an investment that will yield large returns.

TOO GOOD TO SUCCEED.

That was a tragic little story from Martinsburg, W. Va., about George Moxley, the barber. He was too good to succeed. After conducting a shop for 12 years he has filed a petition in bankruptcy but not because business was bad. He had plenty of customers, too many in fact, because they all sat around and waited for George to shave them instead of getting into his other vacant chairs. His shop netted him just about what he himself could take in, which wasn't enough. George was such a fine barber he got all the work. If he had purposely used a dull razor occasionally, if he had nicked a face or two just to keep the public from imposing on him, he might have been successful. Or if he had charged double the money for his services he might have forced his patrons to see the light.

Success in business often hinges on this question of service. It can be too good and it can be too bad. If your neighborhood grocer sends his motor truck flying with each 10-cent telephone order just the minute it comes in he is risking bankruptcy. In handling perishable goods out of season because a few of his customers demand them, he must figure into the price the value of the left over and spoiled articles or he is selling at a loss. Don't think your dealer is arbitrary because his delivery wagons are run on routes and schedules; he is merely trying to remain in business. Before protesting about high prices decide first whether the article desired is out of season. These cases are similar to George's. He was giving too much service for the money; he was too easy with his trade to be a success.

Kendall Grandchild.

A daughter, Elizabeth Dorethea, was born to Rev. and Mrs. Harry Baremore Angus, of Washington, D. C., July 9th. Weight 7 lbs. 11 oz. This is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Kendall. The grandparents are delighted.

Sent To Jail.

Ben Spencer, of District No. 6, was committed to jail by Justice N. C. Browning, of Sang Run, who found him guilty of assault and sentenced him to pay a fine of $25 and costs. Constable Sam Thomas brought Spencer to Oakland and turned him over to Sheriff Ashby.

STATE-AID ROAD TO BE COMPLETED TO MT. LAKE

Contract For Its Construction Was Made Monday by Commissioners.

One of the most important road contracts made by the Board of County Commissioners in recent years was that of Monday when papers were signed authorizing the extension of the road from Weber's into Mountain Lake Park, the route to follow the old road from the Weber corner to the top of the hill at Sunset Cottage in the Park, a distance of about two-thirds of a mile.

The contractors for this small stretch of road are Messrs. Echard, Landon & Co., who also built the Weber road from Oakland to Gortner. Work on the road was begun yesterday and it is thought that the entire contract will be completed by early fall.

GARRETT COUNTY FAIR FOR 1916.

Will Be Held in Oakland, Sept. 12, 13, 14 and 15, Four Big Days.

At a reorganization meeting of the Agricultural Fair Association of this county held in Oakland on last Friday Messrs. Geo. D. Browning, of Friendsville, and Wade H. Hinebaugh, of Oakland, were elected directors, vice R. E. Sliger and Mrs. L. F. Tower, resigned.

The new board organized by the election of J. A. Kelly, as president; Jno. Stevenson, as vice president, Jas. D. Hamill, secretary-treasurer, and Milton Sincell, assistant secretary.

The fourth annual fair will be held in Oakland on Sept. 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th and the management is making every preparation to excell the fairs of previous years in every department. An extensixe advertising campaign has been planned and the management is receiving the encouragement of business men and farmers from many sections of the country, even more liberally than in former years.

The premium list and catalogue to be published and circulated during the month of August will announce many new features and many special premiums for every line of exhibits and a great number of cash prizes will be offered in the agricultural, horticultral and live stock lines.

The program for all four days of the fair is now being arranged and will be announced in the catalogue and will be the best ever offered by this association, which is saying a good deal. The management has secured one of the best free attractions with two performances daily and will add others for the amusement and entertainment of its patrons. These will be announced later as contracts are signed. Splendid band and other music will enliven the fair grounds and building every hour of the day and there will not be a dull moment from the opening to closing each day.

Cheap round-trip excursions will be run over the B. & O. R. R. for the fair dates and the new state roads reaching Oakland from the north and south will afford motorists a splendid opportunity of seeing the best exhibit in the state as well as enjoying the picturesque scenery along the route.

It is the aim of the new management to make the fair of 1916 a record breaker and no trouble or means will be spared to make every patron welcome and give him double value for every cent expended in attending the fair.

Every farmer and tradesman in Garrett county and its neighboring counties of West Virginia and Pennsylvania is urged to make exhibits and contest for the many premiums and prizes to be offered, especially in the live stock and agricultural departments. Garrett county far exceeded in these lines in former years the larger fairs of this and adjoining states and they hope to eclipse all former efforts at the 1916 fair.

Write the secretary for premium list and full information and prepare to be an exhibitor at the coming fair and help boost Garrett county and its next door neighbors. Let everybody get together and "push" and the results of the fourth annual fair will be the best advertisement that can be produced.

OWNERS MAKE THEIR OWN TAX ESTIMATES

Plans Formulated For Entire Reassessment of State Property.

Outlining yesterday the plans formulated by the State Tax Commission for the conduct of the reassessment of all the real property in the state, provided for in the act passed by the last Legislature, Secretary Allan C. Girdwood made the rather surprising statement that an investigation has disclosed the fact that heretofore it has been the custom for owners to schedule their own property and practically to make their own assessments.

"In very few instances," said Mr. Girdwood, "were the assessments of the owners changed. They fixed the values of their own properties and the authorities accepted their ratings. Nor was very much attention paid to improvements upon land. Neither was there any effort to equalize valuations, even in cases of adjoining properties, where one piece, per acre, was practically as valuable as another."

The tax commission does not propose to have the new assessment made after any such manner. It has worked out an elaborate system that will represent the first effort ever made in this state to assess property on a systematic and scientific basis. It doesn't expect its work to be perfect, it has no idea that immediate equalization will result from its efforts, but it does expect to supervise an assessment that will come nearer to being fair to all property owners and to all localities of the state than any that has ever been made before.

There are no assessment plats to guide the commission. Heretofore property has been assessed against the individual and not in accordance with location. Nor, because of the cost of having them made, will it be possible to have assessment plats for the reassessment; but the commission will try to help the situation by dividing the state into squares, lettered and numbered, and these spuares, without reference to the county or district lines, will in so far as possible, embrace land of a similar character.

The commission has already secured a record of every piece of property in the state outside of Baltimore city. These records are set forth on 350,000 cards and these cards classify real estate as "Farms", "Small Farms and Tracts," and "Lots." The cards also show, if there is a difference, any difference between assessments for local and county purposes. It is quite common for property, in some localities, to be assessed much higher for local purposes than for county purposes.

The commission also has a complete record of sales, showing the acreage of and consideration paid for every piece of property that has been sold since the commission was created. This record comprized 30,000 cards. In many cases the cards show sales of property at prices twice as great as the assessed values. Conversely, there are some cases where the property sold for less than its assessed value.

All such information as this will be used to help guide the assessors when they begin their work. The assessors will be provided with cards upon which they will give the name of the owner of each piece of property in his district, the location, number of acres, character thereof, that is whether tillable, standing pastures, wooded, orchard, barren, marsh land frontage on public highways and streams, and the names of all adjoining owners.

BITTINGER.

The man who gets a worthless pet,
And sits right down and pets it,
And frets for what he cannot get
But never tries to get it,
Is like to be a useless jet,
Where is no flint to set it.
He meets life's chance with sullen glance,
And never knows he met it.

Miss Flora Engle held a lawn party at her grandfather's home, on Saturday evening, which was largely attended by the young folks.

County Commissioner George Warnick, of Bloomington, spent a few hours in this distfic recently looking at some of the county roads.

Leanora Wiley visited her sister, Mrs. John Walburn, at Jennings last week.

Wm. A. Smith, of Hoyes, motored to this village a few days ago to examine into the injuries sustained by Mr. Upoles horse, which was caught in the wires of the Garrett County Telephone Co. lines as reported last week.

RAILROAD WAGES

Shall they be determined by Industrial Warfare or Federal Inquiry?

To the American Public:

Do you believe in arbitration or industrial warfare?

The train employes on all the railroads are voting whether they will give their leaders authority to tie up the commerce of the country to enforce their demands for a 100 million dollar wage increase.

The railroads are in the public service—your service. This army of employes is in the public service—your service.

You pay for rail transportation 3 billion dollars a year, and 44 cents out of every dollar from you goes to the employes.

On all the Eastern Railroads in 1915, seventy-five per cent of the train employes earned these wages (lowest, highest, and average of all) as shown by the payrolls—

	Passenger		Freight		Yard
	Range	Average	Range	Average	Range	Average
Engineers	$1641 3224	$1931	$1585 2992	$1783	$1303 2178	$1543
Conductors	1553 3004	1831	1552 2901	1642	1145 1991	1315
Firemen	951 1704	1128	933 1762	1109	752 1633	935
Brakemen	957 1707	1141	862 1521	973	834 1635	1085

The average yearly wage payments to all Eastern train employes (including those who worked only part of the year) as shown by the 1915 payrolls were—

	Passenger	Freight	Yard
Engineers	$1796	$1546	$1384
Conductors	1724	1404	1238
Firemen	1033	903	844
Brakemen	1018	858	990

A 100 million dollar wage increase for men in freight and yard service (less than one-fifth of all employes) is equal to a 5 per cent advance in all freight rates.

The managers of the railroads, as trustees for the public, have no right to place this burden on the cost of transportation to you without a clear mandate from a public tribunal speaking for you.

The railroads have proposed the settlement of this controversy either under the existing national arbitration law, or by reference to the Interstate Commerce Commission. This offer has been refused by the employes' representatives.

Shall a nation-wide strike or an investigation under the Government determine this issue?

GRANTSVILLE.

Miss Beulah Bender entertained at "500" on Thursday night at the National hotel the affair being in honor of her aunt, Miss Grace Yutzy of Lynn Haven, Florida. The guests included Misses Ethel and Viola Broadwater, Ruth Keller, Maud Bevans, Hazel Younkin, Esther Bender, Angela and Wilda Getty, Hazel Engle and Winifred Bonig; Messrs. Forest Beachy, U. O. Blocher, John Livengood, Wm. and Charles Keller, O. T. Broadwater, Carroll Nathan, Clay Stanton, Emons Younkin, Nevin Broadwater and Charles Bender. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

A picnic party was given to Miss Mildred Bonig, in honor of her seventh birthday, on Thursday afternoon. The little guests were Mable and Evelyn Younkin, Florence Fischer, Esther Zehner, Irma, Evelyn and Viola Swauger, Jane and Ella Bowen and Majorie Bonig, Masters Luther Miller, Clyde and Otto Bender, John Blocher, Harold and Ralph Younkin. Misses Esther and Edna Bender acted as chaperones to the crowd, it being Esther's fourteenth birthday, so a dual celebration was held. A picnic luncheon was in order, the afternoon being spent in the woods.

The Fourth was very quite here, as few family picnics were held, but the majority of the people attended the big Salisbury celebration, or the picnic in the Cove, where dinner was served at a nominal sum and crowds came from miles around to enjoy the day. A display of fireworks was held in the evening.

A family picnic was held on the farm of J. C. Swauger, the participanta in the festivities being the families of J. C. Swauger, Albert Swauger, W. H. Swauger, Edward Fischer, James Stevens, Christian Durst and Lewis Swauger. The families enjoyed the outing and the varied and toothsome picnic lunch provided.

Miss Bess Engle, who has been teaching physical culture at Battle Creek, Mich., is home for her vacation.

Miss Mary Callaghan from Chicago, Ill., is visiting her sister, Mrs. R. C. Bowen.

Mrs. Thomasine McDowell from Elk Lick spent a few days with Miss Margaret Brown.

Daniel Hershberger was a Cumberland visitor for a few days last week.

Mrs. Henrietta Smouse left here on Monday for Fredonia, Pa., where she will visit her sister, Mrs. A. F. Jordan, and also be present at the wedding of her daughter, Miss Edith, to Robert Redfoot, of Mercer County.

Misses Ruth Keller, Angela Getty and Blanche Miller returned from Oakland last week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Martin and family, who has been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Warnick and Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Gnagey, returned to Washington, D. C., last week.

Mrs. Roberts and little daughters from Cumberland are guests at the Casselman hotel.

Misses Mildred Payne and Hilda Lichty, Guy Baer and Ware Deeter of Meyersdale motored through Grantsville and up to Addison on Sunday evening, where they had dinner at the famous Rush hotel. On their return Miss Hilda remained in Grantsville to spend a week with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Warnick of Cumberland, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sigler of Piedmont spent Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Warnick.

Harry and Cecil Warnick who spent a week with their parents returned to Pittsburgh, Saturday.

Mrs. C. S. Zeller is spending her vacation with her parents at Grove City, Pa.

Mrs. W. E. Stanton is visiting her mother, Mrs. Vansickle of Somerfield, Pa.

Wm. G. Keller, who spent the past week with his parents, returned, Tuesday, to Wilmington, Del., where he holds an important position in the chemical department of the Dupont Powder Co.

Died, July 6th at the home of August Sneider several miles from Grantsville, Mrs. Louisa Thomas, aged 70 years. Interment on Saturday afternoon.

DRY RUN

At this writing we are having considerable rain.

While Mr. Stephen Wilt was on a visit to his son he was taken quite ill, but is now somewhat improved.

Rev. Paraish, of Cumberland, was here last week and preached some interesting sermons to large congregations.

The funeral of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wilt was largely attended, the interment being made in the Murphy cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Wilt and daughter, Dorcas, returned from Buckhannon, W. Va., last Thursday where they had been attending the funeral of their daughter, Mrs. Chester Reeder.

GORTNER

P. P. Gortner and family motored to Cumberland Tuesday. While there, they spent a short time with Mrs. Gortner's niece, who is in the hospital at that place.

Mrs. F. S. Irwin and grand daughter, Ruth, were entertained at an ice cream supper Tuesday evening, at Joel Slabaugh's.

Jacob Petersheim is on the sick list.

Rev. and Mrs. Hauser, who have been in Somerset, Pa., the past two weeks, are visiting Mrs. Hauser's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sanders. Rev. Hauser has left for Altoona, Pa., where he will have the parsonage furnished ready for his bride.

Miss Gladys Martin, of Oakland, spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Effie Wamsley.

Mrs. Tena Murphy and daughter, Marie, of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Mrs. Geo. Moore, of Baltimore, are visiting at P. P. Gortner's.

Samuel S. Slabaugh, of Accident, spent Friday night at Noah Slabaughs.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, of Niverton, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Beachy, of St. Paul, Pa., and Miss Lucy Beachy, of Norfolk, Va., were the guests of D. J. Swartzentruber Sunday.

An auto party consisting of Roy and Ross Lichty, Dan and Jake Swartzentruber and Miss Elizabeth Lichty, motored to Grantsville Saturday evening returning home Sunday evening.

Grover Gortner, of Loch Lynn, spent Sunday with his uncle, P. P. Gortner.

Are You Wasting The Price Of a Titan Engine?

TITAN engines run on kerosene.

Average cost of gasoline so far this year, 16.9 cents per gallon.

Average cost of kerosene 7.7 cents per gallon.

Gasoline costs over 100 per cent more than kerosene. Gasoline is going up steadily. Kerosene is not.

At present fuel prices Titan engines, using kerosene, save their owners about 1.1 cents per horse power per hour.

Are you running a gasoline engine? What horse power is it? Figure what you'd be saving if you had a Titan kerosene engine. Rather surprising, isn't it? How long would it take that saving to pay for a Titan engine of the same size?

COMPULSORY EXTERMINATION OF AN ENTIRE MERCANTILE ESTABLISHMENT In The CITY Of CUMBERLAND

Forced to make a clean, clear, absolute Sweep of the Entire Stock involved, must be turned into cash regardless of consequences. Complete annihilation of every article—every piece of Merchandise in the building. All to be put up before the public at any price it will bring without reserve.

Ten Days Sale of the Entire Store. OPENING DAY:

Wednesday, July 26, 8.30 a.m. Sharp

It's hard luck. Entire Stock doomed to be sold out as quickly as possible. We must clean up! We are going to sell the whole store. We are going to give the people of Maryland values of their lives. Everything will be put on sale for your unrestricted choice. This is positively and absolutely the greatest merchandise disaster that the people of this section of the land ever dreamed of. It is truly impossible to convey any idea of the ruthless sacrifice of the entire stock. One thing in short—we are compelled for business reasons to unload—wipo off the premises every semblance of the present stock. All must be converted into cash as quickly as possible. Come and bring your friends, neighbors and relatives. As long as you live you'll never have such a chance again to buy seasonabe Merchandise at such little prices.

FEDERAL AID FOR RURAL ROADS

How the $85,000,000 Recently Appropriated Shall Be Spent.

The sum of $85,000,000 of Federal funds is made available for the construction of rural roads, by the passage of the Federal Aid Road Bill which became a law on July 11, 1916. Of this sum, $75,000,000 is to be expended for the construction of rural post roads under cooperative arrangements with the highway departments of the various states, and $10,000,000 is to be expended for roads and trails within or partly within the national forests. The act limits the Federal government's share in road work in cooperation with the states to 50 per cent of the estimated cost of construction. Federal aid may be extended to the construction of a new post road, excluding all streets or roads in towns having a population of 2,500 or more except the portions of such streets or roads on which the houses are, on an average, more than 200 feet apart.

Five million dollars is made available for expenditure during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, and thereafter the appropriation is increased at the rate of five millions a year until 1921, when the sum provided is twenty-five millions, making a total of seventy-five millions. In addition, an appropriation of one million dollars a year for ten years, a total of ten million dollars, is made available for the development of roads and trails wholly or partly within the national forests.

The class roads to be built and the method of construction are to be mutually agreed upon by the Secretary of Agriculture and the state highway departments.

The act provides that after making necessary deductions for administering its provisions,—not to exceed 3 per cent of the appropriation for any one fiscal year,—the Secretary of Agriculture shall apportion the remainder of each year's appropriation in the following manner:

One-third in the ratio which the area of each state bears to the total area of all the states.

One-third in the ratio which the population of each state bears to the total population of all the states.

One-third in the ratio which the mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in each state bears to the total mileage of rural delivery routes and star routes in all the states.

Project statements setting the proposed construction of any rural post road or roads in a state are to be submitted by the state highway department to the Secretary of Agriculture, and upon approval by the Secretary all necessary surveys, plans, specifications and estimates must be furnished. The roads projected must be of a substantial character, and items covering engineering, inspection and unforeseen contingencies are not to exceed ten per cent of the total estimated cost of the work.

Upon completion of the work as approved by the secretary, the amount set aside for the project is to be paid to the proper state official. The Secretary of Agriculture is given authority in his discretion to make partial payments as the work progresses, but not in excess of the Federal government's pro rata share of the labor and material which have been actually put into construction work, not in excess of $10,000 per mile, exclusive of the cost of bridges of more than 20 feet clear span. All construction work is subject to the inspection and approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The various states securing aid under the provisions of the act are charged with the making of needed repairs and the preservation of a reasonably smooth surface, considering the tope of the road, but are not obligated to make extraordinary repairs or undertake reconstruction. If after due notice, a state fails to maintain a federally aided road properly, the secretary is required to refuse further aid until the road has been properly repaired at state expense.

The sum of $10,000,000 is made available in yearly appropriations of $1,000,000 for the cooperative construction and maintenance of roads and trails within or partly within the national forests by the United States, states, territories or counties in which the forests lie. Expenditures for this purpose are not to exceed ten per cent of the value of the timber and forage resources available for income upon the national forests where the roads or trails are constructed. Beginning with the next fiscal year after an agreement is made between the Secretary of Agriculture and a state territory, or county for the cooperative construction of such roads, ten per cent of all revenues from such forests are to be applied toward reimbursing the United States government for funds expended in road work until the whole amount advanced shall have been returned.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Half Heartedness.

Beginning where I left off last week let me say there was a lack of whole heartedness in the King's service. He lacks obedience as well as patience, but there was a glaring lack of perseverance.

For this reason he had no desire for divine interference. What a contrast with this is the perseverance of Elisha in work to the end. Though stricken with mortal disease he does not give himself up to inactivity nor cease to take an interest in the affairs of life.

He might have received the visit as a compliment, but he utilizes it to the utmost. He rouses the King from despair, inspires him with hope and courage, puts new energy in him and promises him success and helps forward the result aimed at.

From him learn to persevere in good as long as we live. Life is the work time, rest follows.

It is the stick-to-ative principle that wins That pegaway sir, spirit that characterized Mr. Lincoln. A friend said to him one day, "Mr. President, do you really expect to end the war during your administration." "Can't say, can't say sir." "But Mr. L— what do you expect to do?" "Peg away sir, peg away, keep pegging away!" and pegging away did it. The principle of perseverance is the secret of every successful life.

Cyrus Field in giving his account of the Atlantic Cable says, "It has been a long hard struggle. Nearly thirteen years of anxious watching and ceaseless toil. Often my heart was ready to sink. Many time when wandering in the forests of New Foundland in the pelting rain, or on the deck of ships on dark stormy nights, alone, and far from home, I have almost accused myself of madness and folly, to sacrifice the peace of my family and all the hopes of life, for what might prove but a dream.

I have seen my companions one after another fall by my side, and I feared I too, might not live to see the end, and yet one hope led me on, and I have prayed that I might not taste death till this work was accomplished. The prayer is answered, and now beyond all acknowledgments to men is the feeling of gratitude to God."

Are we tempted to be discouraged, learn from the many examples in nature how to persevere. Robert Bruce was driven one night to take refuge in a barn. When he awoke in the morning he saw a spider climbing a beam of the roof. It fell back twelve times in succession, but the thirteenth time it gained the top of the beam. He rose and said, this spider has taught me perseverence. I will follow its example. Twelve times have I been beaten, the thirteenth, I may succeed. He rallied his forces, met and defeated Edward, and was crowned King. Are we disheartened in our work and tempted to give up?

In Western Africa it was fourteen years before a convert was received into the church. In East Africa it was ten years. In New Zealand it was sixteen years before one communicant was received. In Burmah Dr. Judson worked seven years before he had one, yet it is a remarkable fact in most of those missions when the faith of the church was greatly tried at first, the success has been most abundant afterward.

The half hearted man accomplishes little or nothing. He is always going to do a lot, but it ends in mere proposing and amounts to nothing. His is a life which lingers on the edge of something, but never amounts to anything. It is rediculous.

You build your house brick by brick.

"Steady plodding will accomplish anything.

By many strokes the work is done, which cannot be performed at one."

We recall the old saying, rather quaint it is but suggestive. "Steady toil and earnest prayer often prove a cure for care."

I believe it was Mr. Spurgeon who said in his quaint sayings, "who rises late, must trot all day, and hardly overtake his business by night." Its true enough whoever said it. He whose bed holds him too long in the morning will be made to feel its truth. Still, there are a lot of persons who sleep and snore and console themselves with a sentiment like this:

"Up in the morning's not for me;
In the morning I am surly;
No fate can worse in winter be,
Than to rise in the morning early."

"Hard pounding, gentlemen," said the Duke; but by steadily bearing this hard pounding Waterloo was won. If you hold on long enough the day will be yours.

Yours truly,
JOANNES.

SHERIFF'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

Near Selbysport, Garrett County

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett county at the suit of W. T. Fike, vs. L. G. Savage, being No. 16 Judicials, June Term, 1916, on the docket of said Court, I, Albert Ashby, Sheriff, did levy upon and take into execution all of the title and interest of the following parcel of land, situated in Selbysport District, Garrett county, as follows:

1. All that piece of land as described in a deed from Lemuel Savage and wife to U. G. Savage, dated the 24th day of March, 1892, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 19. folio 376, containing 67 acres more or less.

2 All that other piece of land, conveyed by Jonas Frazee and wife to U. G. Savage, which is recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 19, folio 415, containing fifty acres. Said deed is dated the 6th day of April, 1892.

3. All those two pieces of land, conveyed by L. D. Hoff and wife to U. G. Savage, dated November 28th, 1901, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 40, folio 199, etc., containing 19 acres.

4. All that other piece of land conveyed by Franklin Humberson and wife to U. G. Savage dated the 4th day of June, 1902, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 42, folio 69, etc., containing three acres and 143 perches.

5. All that certain parcel of land conveyed by Mary Stewart et al., to U. G. Savage, by deed dated November 22nd, 1904, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 47, folio, 543, etc., containing 100 acres. The above being duly recorded among the Land Records of Garrett county, especial reference being made to said record and said deeds for a more particular description of said several parcels of land. Said several parcels constitute one body of land and one farm.

THE REPUBLICAN.

FOURTH REGIMENT M.N.G. EXTREMELY APPRECIATIVE

Of the Reception and Treatment Tendered Them As They Passed Through Oakland.

When the Maryland National Guard passed through Oakland early during the present month on the way from Camp Harrington at Laurel, Md., to Eagle Pass, Texas, the Oakland people turned out enmasse and gave the Maryland boys a cheering word and their best wishes for a safe journey to the border coupled with the expression that all may return to their homes in good health.

That the good wishes of the people of Oakland were appreciated by the soldiers is evidenced by the following letter received on Monday by Mayor Giessman, which we publish in full as follows:

To the Mayor and Citizens of Oakland, Md., from the men of Co. C, 4th Md. Infantry.

It has been the wish of this company as a whole to express their extreme thanks and gratitude to the Mayor and citizens of Oakland, Maryland, for the manner in which they received this company and extended their hospitality when passing through en route to the Mexican border at Eagle Pass, Texas.

The men of "C" Company are unanimous in their decision that their reception and stay in Oakland, while short, was without a doubt the happiest period of their extremely trying trip and a refreshing memory which shall never be forgotten. Only the many details of making a permanent camp and the many military formalities has caused the delay in this letter to this date.

It would perhaps be of interest to cite a few details relative to Camp Ord. There are about 15,000 troops stationed in Camp Ord at the present time—the First, Fourth and Fifth Regiments from Maryland; two regiments each from Vermont and Kansas, two regiments of Regulars, four troops of cavalry, one battery of field artillery, seven machine gun companies, and, of course, a field hospital attached to each regiment, battery or troop.

The camp is situated on the prairie, which slopes for a distance of about 400 yards down to the banks of the Rio Grande, the river forming the natural boundary line between this country and Mexico at this point. The river is spanned by an international bridge, permitting the passage of traffic between Eagle Pass and Piedras Negres, the Mexican city just across the river, the river itself being about two hundred yards wide at this point. Just outside the city of Piedras Negres is a large garrison of Mexican Federals, more for the protection of Mexican property in that vicinity against the many bands of bandits of Villas than any hostility against the United States Government of its troops.

The press as a whole throughout the United States has greatly exaggerated the many incidents of the guardsmen's "skirmishes," "sighting of Mexican patrols," etc., too numerous to mention, to the extent that it has caused a great deal of worry and uneasiness to the friends and families of the men, and it is the desire of this company to correct, as far as possible, the falsity of many of the reports. It may be mentioned here that General Funston is at this time taking steps to have all newspaper correspondents barred from the camp who persist in circulating false rumors and happenings through their respective sheets.

"C" Company has the honor to extend their best wishes for the prosperity of the Mayor and each and every citizen of the city of Oakland, Maryland.

WELL KNOWN OAKLAND MAN DEAD FROM CRASH

Charles Liller Fatally Injured In Head-On On National Road.

As a result of the automobile accident on the National Pike at 7 o'clock Thursday night, Charles Liller, of Oakland, is dead, and five others were injured. The accident occured at the sharp curve at the foot of Red Hill between Frostburg and Cumberland, when a large touring car coming down crashed into the car driven by Charles Liller, going towards Frostburg. The larger car was owned by J. J. Armstrong, a broker, and member of the firm of Scully, Painter and Beach, of Pittsburgh. The car was driven by L. A. Ferguson, chauffeur. In it were Mrs. Armstrong, who was severely cut about the body: Mrs. Elmer Sloan, of Pittsburgh, sister of Mrs. Armstrong, who suffered a broken nose, both eyes badly bruised and severe lacerations about the hands and face. She was taken to the Western Maryland Hospital by W. J. Morley. Chester Armstrong, son of the injured woman, also suffered a badly lacerated leg with minor cuts and bruises. All are patients at the Western Maryland Hospital. The chauffeur was unhurt.

In the Liller car with Mr. Liller was Bert C. Scott, of Hutton, former sheriff of Garrett county.

Mr. Liller was taken to the Miner's Hospital, at Frostburg, by John G. Shearer, where attention was given by Drs. J. Marshall Price and W. O. McLain. He lived about an hour after reaching the hospital. His wife and two small children survive.

Mr. Liller was a barber of Oakland, and was well known in this city. He also conducted an automobile agency. He served in the council of Oakland.

There seems to be a dispute as to who was to blame for the terrible accident. According to Mr. Ferguson, the chauffeur, the Liller car wrs on the inside of the curve. Seeing that the car was on the wrong side of the road he says he quickly applied the emergency and had almost brought the big car to a stop when the crash came.

The Armstrong party left Pittsburgh at 8 o'clock Thursday morning and were enroute to Atlantic City. On account of the Lincoln Highway being closed to traffic between Greensburg and Bedford, they made the trip by way of Brownsville and Uniontown. When the car carrying the Armstrong party was descending the steep grade at Red Hill they noticed the other car coming in sight around the sharp curve at the foot of the hill. But, according to one who was on the scene shortly after the accident, the Pittsburgh car was on the wrong side of the road and must have been coming at a rate of about 30 miles an hour, paying no heed at all to the most dangerous curve on the National Pike in this section. When assistance reached the wrecked parties Liller had been pulled from the position into which he had been thrown and was leaning against the side of the car. When asked how the accident happened, the dying man replied: "When I came to the curve I saw the car coming at a high rate of speed within three feet of the street car track. I saw there was no chance to escape it unless I crossed to the left. I did, and the Pittsburgh car also crossed diagonally."

The Pittsburgh car jammed into the the front end of the Liller car, throwing the passengers of both cars from their seats. Mr. Liller was rammed against the steering wheel with great force causing his death from internal injuries. The Pittsburgh car was the least damaged. It suffered a punctured radiator, bent front axle, twisted springs and bursted tire on the right front wheel. The Liller car was almost completely demolished. The radiator was lifted from its base and completely jammed together, the engine was torn from the frame, the front axle was twisted, the tires torn from the front wheels and the body lifted from the chassis. This was due to the fact that the car with the Pittsburgh party, was much heavier and larger than the car driven by Mr. Liller.

According to persots on the scene right after the accident, the Pittsburgh driver was traveling at a high rate of speed around a most dangerous sharp curve and moreover was on the wrong side of the road. This is shown from the diagonal position in which the car stood after the crash, showing that he had crossed from near the street car track.

At the hospital today it was stated that the injured parties are recovering from the shock and doing nicely.

The body of Mr. Liller was removed to a Frostburg undertaking establishment where it was prepared for burial. It was brought to Mr. Liller's late home in Oakland early Friday morning.

The curve on the pike where the accident occurred is the same one at which Mr. Milton Dicken and his sister-in-law, Mrs. F. R. Kifer, were killed last fall.

The funeral of the deceased occurred Sunday afternoon at four o'clock from St. Paul's M. E. church, the services being conducted by the Rev. J. H. Howard, assisted by Rev. J. C. Ely, of the Presbyterian church. The Knights of Pythias and the Red Men lodges turned out in a body, while the Keyser City band, of which the deceased was an honorary member, led the funeral cortege from the home to the cemetery where several selections were beautifully rendered.

Card of Thanks.

I take this method of thanking all for the words and expressions of kindness extended me during my late great bereavement.

MRS. IDA LILLER.

Wreck On State Road.

Saturday night two automobiles, one coming south from Pennsylvania and the other traveling north from Elkins, West Virginia, met on the State road near Thayerville in a head on collision, with the result that the West Virginia car was turned over, the occupants, three men two ladies and two children were slightly bruised and the car somewhat damaged. The Pennsylvania car was brought into Oakland Sunday and repairs were made at the Lawton garage.

ABRAHAM WILSON GARRETT COUNTY CENTENARIAN

Died At His Home Near Altamont Last Thursday Night.

Mr. Abraham Inskeep Wilson, who celebrated his one hundredth anniversary on July 11th, at which more than four hundred persons gathered to do him honor, died on Thursday night, July 20th, at eleven o'clock, thus passing the century mark by ten days.

Mr. Wilson was born at what is now Kitzmiller, and was the son of Jonathan and Elizabeth Inskeep Wilson. The former died Nov. 27, 1855, at the age of 71 years, while his mother passed away Oct. 30, 1880, aged 96 years, 2 months and 10 days. Both are buried on the Wilson farm near Altamont where the funeral and interment of the son occurred Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. Frank McCamic, pastor of the Deer Park M. E. church, and which was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased.

Mr. Wilson enjoyed robust health until within the past year, his condition being such as to permit him to make a visit to Oakland and other points where he transacted business with rare acumen. Last winter he suffered a slight stroke of paralysis, which affected his entire right ride and rendered him partially helpless. However, he retained a clear and discerning mind in directing his business affairs. After he was stricken, as above stated, he kept to his room for some weeks and early in the spring was able to be placed upon an invalid's chair and in this was wheeled about the home.

Thursday night he ate heartily of his supper and retired at his usual hour, stating that he felt exceptionally well and strong. At nine o'clock that evening he complained to his neice, Mrs. Feely, that he was suffering with a pain in the region of his heart, who at once used what remedies she had at hand to relieve him, but he failed to rally and passed peacefully away within the hour. Thus a long, useful and eventful life closed.

At the age of two years Mr. Wilson's parents removed from Kitzmiller to what is now Kingwood, West Va., where they resided for about six years, and then returned to Maryland, settling on the farm where he continued to reside until his death, a period of ninety-two years.

During his litetime Mr. Wilson was engaged in the stock business and farming, making quite a success of both these undertakings. He was never married, but is survived by a large number of nieces and nephews. For many years he was cared for by his niece, Mrs. Stella Feely, daughter of his brother Jonathan. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Rachel Davis, of Piedmont, West Va.

Why The Devil is a Methodist.

This is the title of a great lecture by a great preacher, Dr. King, to be given in the tabernacle next Wednesday, 8 p. m. It will be one of the most enjoyable lectures given at Mountain Lake Park. It will be an evening full of wit and humor. The lecture is highly spoken of by those who have heard it. Dr. King is one of the big preachers of West Virginia. He is a Methodist, therefore ought to know what he is talking about. Do not miss hearing this lecture.

Suffered a Sunstroke.

Mr. Theodore Beckman, of near Altamont, is lying very ill at his home as the result of a sunstroke which he received one day last week while engaged making hay on his farm. Mr. Beckman was operating a horse rake when he was overcome and pitching backwards from the vehicle he struck upon his head, and seriously injured himself, especially the muscles of his neck. Being conveyed to his home he was attended by a physician. On Saturday pneumonia developed and he is now extremely ill, his death being momentarily expected.

The above is a reproduction of the photograph made at the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Mr. Abraham I. Wilson, which was celebrated at his late home at Wilson, Garrett county, on July 11th, 1916. In the group are many of the relatives of the centenaria . The photograph was taken in the yard fronting his residence where he resided for so many years. It is said that he lived on this farm for about ninety-two years, the original house, a log structure, being still intact and standing in the rear of the dwelling shown in the plate. The above is also the last photograph of Mr. Wilson.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

A Few Words More On Half Heartedness.

Back of all this, which shows itself in lack of zeal, obedience, patience and perseverance, and as the prime cause of it is lack of Faith. The king's want of faith in the virtue of the symbolism, which with the arrogance of a proud and worldly minded man he may have regarded as childish. But none of the Lord's ways with his creatures are childish, though he may have to simplify them so that they can be comprehended by children.

We are only grown up children, though we usually forget the faith of childhood.

Lack of faith is the great hindrance in all Christian work. We censure Joash. Yet Christians show the want of true faite, though they have the unbreakable promises of God. We have the encouragement which Elisha gave so freely of the Lord's deliverance. The power which delivered Israel out of the hand of Pharach, which turned back the waves of the sea; which filled the dry valley with water and thus gave victory to His people; which smote the Syrians with blindness and delivered his own out of the hand of their enemies. That power is pledged to deliver us. What determination, what resolute energetic purpose this should awaken in our minds! The Lord is on the side of His people, therefore victory is sure. With this assurance we may redouble our efforts against the enemies of the Lord. But alas! like Joash, when we have an opportunity of showing our faith by our efforts, we show how little faith we have in the promises of God. If we believe God's word is true, that His promises are final, it is only reasonable that we should act on them. To every unsaved soul, the Lord says, believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved. He promises salvation, but it's ours to accept it whole heartedly. There is a condition coupled with this promise. It is faith on our part. Just taking Christ as our Saviour and serving Him as out king.

Joash like, we would like to get to heaven without treading the narrow path. The broad road is easier, there are more in it, but it doesn't lead to heaven. We would like to have salvation but we do not want it in God's way. But it's that way or nothing. Arise, smite your unbelief, smite your temper to the earth. Subdue your passions. Strive to enter in at the narrow door, then the warning voice you heard, the good impression you perceived will be to you the arrow of the Lord's deliverance. Would you have the blessing, fulfill the condition. Many who call themselves servants expect the reward of the faithful. Yet they are doing nothing for the Master. They are not working in his vineyard yet they want the wages of the best workman.

Our Master has taken his journey
To a country that's far away
And has left us the care of his vineyard
To work for Him day by day.

He says I am with you, but the promise depends on the work, and the work depends on the promise.

We can't expect the divine blessing if we are not doing His work if we do not meditate on His words.

We would naturally expect faith on the part of Gods' people, in view of the proofs of Divine power. In the life of Elisha, Joash had abundant proofs of that power, yet he evidenced lack of faith. In the history of the church we have proofs of that power, yet where is the faith at all proportioned to the strength of the evidence on which it rests.

No better testimony to the power of the gospel exists, than the history of Modern Missions. The Christian religion is recognized by Madagascar as the religion of state. Idols have been burned. It has lightened up the Dark Continent.

The beautiful results of want of faith are seen in life, patience and Christian work. Many who went part of the way with the Master turned back and walked no more with Him and why? Deficient in faith. What is it that leads to low expectations and feeble efforts? Lack of faith. Faith in the divine presence and power is the greatest stimulus to activity. It rouses us to put forth all our energies. It makes us patient under difficulties, causes us to persevere even when we see no results. Many a good work has been abandoned for lack of faith. "He that goeth forth and weepeth bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." Work done for the Lord never dies. Why should we stay our hand in the matter of our own Spiritual life. Persevere against besetting sins. Use the arrow of divine deliverance. If you can't do much God can, therefore pray.

If the Master lay his hand on the erring one he shall be healed. Be not weary in well doing, but persevere.

If you have strength and means leave no work unfinished. Possibly you haven't been shooting enough arrows. Making enough effort in your work. In spite of the fact that God has sent us messages of mercy by significant emblems; by express promises; by declaration and example of Saints who have gone over the river and by the wisdom of living Saints we are half hearted in his service. The reason we have profited so little by these things is found in the fact that our desires are faint, our expectations are limited and our exertions are languid. Do not trifle with impressions that are made on your mind.

An old saw puts it thus.

"Half doing is many a mans undoing". The fellow that never really finishes anything is regarded as only half baked himself, hence no man cares to live. "Half heart is no heart." "To be half inclined is to be disinclined; to be half persuaded is to be unpersuaded; to be halt hearted in a matter is to have no heart at all for it."

Yours ever,
JOANNES.

NORTH GLADE

Our aged friend and neighbor, Theodore Beckman, had a sun stroke about two weeks ago as he was raking hay and fell off the rake on his head nearly breaking his neck, pneumonia set in and he has been critically ill ever since. Hundreds of his friends far and near have visited him or anxiously inquired about him, showing that he, too, is greatly respected by all who know him.

We are also very sorry to note the severe illness of Buckner Mason. We hope to see him around again in the near future. He, too, has a large circle of friends.

Quite a number of our citizens attended the century anniversary of Abraham Wilson, and also his funeral on Sunday.

On Saturday we had quite a storm which did some damage to crops. The lightning killed a fine cow for Wm. Fitzwater.

Wm. Brenneman has some sickness in his family.

Reassessment will still add to the gloom of our citizens outside Baltimore.

Latin-American Arbitration

BY FREDERICK J. HASKIN

A crisis was recently averted in Mexico after the armies of two nations had already met in one struggle and war feeling was running high on both sides of the border.

Among fair observers of all opinions, it is generally agreed that the threatened crisis would have been a disaster to both countries; for it would not have forwarded any purpose or plan, but would simply have been bad feeling to bloodshed. It would have beed a permanent blot upon the record of Pan-American relations.

It is generally known that during the emergency, repeated offers of mediation came from various Latin-American governments; and that the best newspapers in South America expressed the hope that peace could be preserved for the sake of the Pan-American spirit. It is not so generally known that the corps of Latin-American diplomats in Washington were an active force in preserving peace. A close observer who has an intimate knowledge of what transpired in Washington following the Carrazal incident states that Ignacio Calderon, Minister from Bolivia, and Dean of the Latin-American diplomatic corps, ought to receive the Nobel Peace Prize as a recognition from Europe of the broad-minded spirit of concilation which had grown up in the New World, and which helped to avert bloodshed and disaster when both seem unavoidable. Men have been honored with this award for writing books on peace, and for concluding treaties between nations exhausted by war. It has never, so far, been awarded to anyone who prevented a war.

Although the fact is realized by few in the United States, Latin-America has a record for the settlement of disputes by arbitration which Europe ought to envy. There is no Hague Tribunal south of Panama, but bloody wars have repeatedly been averted by the appointment of referees, and it is not on record that the prestige and dignity of the Hague Tribunal have ever achieved as much.

The most famous, because the most picturesque incident in the history of Latin-American arbitration is the one which brought into being the "Christ of the Andes." Chili and the Argentine were on the verge of war over a border dispute. Certain broad-minded statesmen in the former country determined to avert the bloodshed which they believed was unnecessary. But feeling was running high and the romance and lust of war had blinded both peoples. The leaders knew the character of their people, and realized that something as spectacular and stirring as war itself would be necessary to avert it. Wherefore, it happened that the brass cannon of the Chilean army were melted, and cast into an heroic figure of the Saviour. This was erected upon the disputed boundary as a message of peace and good will to the enemies of Chili. The people of Argentine met the spirit of conciliation fairly, and the boundary dispute was settled by arbitration. Incidentally, a small cast in gold of the Christ of the Andes was sent to the Hague Tribunal as a message to Europe that in South America arbitration is a reality.

The most fertile cause of trouble between the different nations in Latin-America has always been their boundaries. These were nearly all first determined in the brave days when Spain was exploring and conquering America, and when the King granted to his admirals and Captains lands "as far to the West as the eye can see," and by other equally vague definitions, which might be interpreted in dozens of different ways. In addition to these boundary disputes, there have, of course, been the wars which brought freedom from Spain, and numerous revolutions. These, however, were all in some sense struggles for freedom and better government. They have given Latin-Americans a reputation for impulsiveness and bloodshed, when as a matter of fact many a heated quarrel has been settled in that land without firing a shot.

The Latin-American is willing to fight, and not afraid to die. His wars, when they do happen, are apt to be long and bloody. One of the worst of them was the struggle between Paraguay on the one side and Argentine, Brazil and Uruguay on the other. For seven years the forces of three nations made unceasing and murderous warfare on the forces of one. An Argentine general was then sent at the head of a large force to finish the job. He went into Paraguay but turned back without fighting. He reported that he would not make war upon women. For women and boys filled the ranks of the Paraguayan army. The men were dead. And to this day Paraguay has an overwhelmingly large population of women. She has never fully recovered, though half a century has passed since that struggle.

This and several other hard fought wars convinced the leading men of the South American republics that their young countries, with great wildernesses to people, could not afford such waste of human life. So a strong sentiment in favor of arbitration grew up, and has steadily strengthened.

Stones are even now being planted on the newly established boundary between Peru and Bolivia. A dispute between these two countries had gone to the verge of war when a movement in favor of arbitrarion was started, and Great Britain was asked to settle the difficulty. A commission of three men was appointed to do so, and both countries abided by its decision.

President Hayes, of the United States, settled a territorial boundary dispute between Paraguay and Argentine, which had gone close to war when he was asked to mediate. He did so by deciding in favor of Paraguay, although Argentine had a rather strong case. Nevertheless the latter country accepted the decision without protest, while Paraguay named a city Villa Hayes in honor of the President.

There was once a difference between Brazil and France as to the boundary of French Guiana. It was arbitrated, Switzerland acting as the referee, at the instance of Brazil. Spain acted as mediator between Venezuela and Columbia, settling a difficulty which had caused much bitterness of feeling. Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme Court settled a boundary dispute between Panama and Costa Rica.

The people of Latin-America have had much cause to fight. They have been building republics in a wilderness peopled with savage tribes; they have obtained freedom from European domination. We did both of these things, but not without bloodshed. For a time, too, this country was a cluster of little states, and there was much feeling and considerable fighting among them. All Latin-America is still in that condition. And out of it has evolved a genuine appreciation of the principle and value of arbitration, which has now, by the efforts of South American diplomats to aid in the solution of Mexican trouble been brought to the attention of the world for the first time.

EDUCATORS ARE AGAIN BACK TO SCHOOL BOOKS

Dr. M. Bates Stephens and County Superintendents Students at Summer School.

Dr. M. Bates Stephens, State Superintendent of Public Education, was in a class room in McCoy Hall, in Johns Hopkins University, intently studying his daily lesson when a fellow-student whispered to another student.

"No whispering," said the sedate professor, and immediately there was silence.

Dr. Stephens' fellow-students are superintendents of schools in the counties, who, like himself, have hiked back to their books. They are required to observe rigid rules and regulations at the teachers' summer school at the university, for such it is. Those rules require close attention to work, prompt attendance and, of course, no whispering.

Altogether about 600 teachers and others are taking different courses at the university, of whom 400 are teachers. In addition, there are 100 Maryland teachers at Columbia University 100 at University of Pennsylvania, 35 at University of Virginia, 40 at Nashville and 200 or 300 scattered at other schools. They are building up their standards. They are qualifying themselves for the higher positions that await them or equipping themselves that they may better perform their daily duties. These summer courses are assigned to them in lieu of attendance at county institutes. The cost of the course is $25. Board and other incidental expenses are additional.

Dr. Stephens is taking the following courses at the Hopkins University: Educational Psychology, under Dr. Bird Baldwin; high school administration, Dr. Small, of Washington, and rural school supervision, under Clarence G. Cooper, assistant superintendent of Baltimore county, who, by the way, looks up with awe to Dr. Stephens, except when they meet in the class room. Then Mr. Cooper is the "boss."

The several county superintendents taking courses similar to those selected by Dr. Stephens. They are:

W. J. Holloway, Wicomico.
Nicholas Oren, Talbot.
Hugh W. Caldwell, who on August 1st, will become superintendent of Cecil county schools.
C. Milton Wright, Harford.
Woodland C. Phillops, Howard.
G. Lloyd Palmer, Frederick.
F. E. Rathbun, Garrett.
E. C. Burroughs, Prince Georges.
John T. Hershner, assistant superintendent, Baltimore county.

In addition all truant officers in the counties in which appointments have been made are taking special courses. Primary supervisors are also represented on the classes.

Dr. Stephens, like all other students, is required to write essays. They were given yesterday the wide range of games as subjects. Dr. Bates used to play baseball. He wrote on baseball. The kind of games, whether athletic or with canes, was not specified. There is no record of an essay on poker.

Maryland teachers are not alone at the Hopkins Summer School. Several other states are also represented.

GRANTSVILLE.

A very enjoyable lecture was given in the Lutheran Church last Wednesday evening by C. S. Weller, secretary of the Laymen's Movement in the Allegheny Synod. Mr. Weller presented the business side of the church in a somewhat new and altogether delightful manner, explaining that getting money is not necessarily the business side, but cooperative, a spirit of brotherhood and willingness to lend a hand every day in the week tend toward consecration, thus making Sabbath duties a pleasure and the matter of contributing a privilege. Mr. Weller's address was interspersed with some very entertaining anecdotes. There was a fairly good audience.

A moonlight picnic was held on Friday evening at the pavillion with a basket luncheon provided by the ladies. Several dozen young people were present and the evening was spent in dancing and watching the moon's eclipse.

A picnic party was planned in honor of Margaret Getty's fourteenth birthday on July 11th. A number of boys and girls took a basket luncheon and invited her to the Casselman river for the picnic. There were about a dozen present. All enjoyed the outing immensely.

On the evening of July 30th Miss Coghan, secretary of the Board of Missions, will lecture in the Reformed Church.

On Saturday evening, July 29th, a home talent play by the St. Paul's Reformed congregation will be given in Grantsville.

On Sunday, July 30th, the communion services will be held in the Lutheran church, with preparatory services on the Friday night previous. On the afternoon of Friday, July 28th, Rev. Oney will meet the catechetical class here and on every Friday following during the summer.

The following guests are registered at the Casselman Hotel: Mrs. M. W. Roberts and family, Mrs. Dickey and family, Miss McDermitt and niece, and Miss Genevieve Reinhart, of Cumberland.

A motor party composed of the following went to Uniontown, Pa., Saturday: John Michaels, of Mt. Zion, and daughters, Mrs. John Robinson, Mrs. Frank Micnaels, Miss Angie Michaels and Will Michaels. The trip was made in Mr. Coleman's car. Mr. Michaels is 92 years old and this was his first trip to his old home near Uniontown for nearly forty-five years.

Miss Anna Brady and friends, of Frostburg, are guests at the Casselman.

Misses Margaret, Mary and Louise Niedbolla, of Cumberland, are guests of Misses Angela and Wilda Getty.

Rev. Lewis Zehner from Russel, Kansas, and children, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Zehner, last week.

Miss Ethel Schramm, from Elk Lick, has been visiting Mrs. Irene Hayes.

Little Paul Livengood has been suffering from a stone bruise on his foot which necessitated lancing in several places by the family physician, but is improving.

Miss Frances Bevans and brother, Charles, spent part of last week with their aunt, Mrs. Will Knecht, of West Salisbury.

Miss Marie Connor has returned from a visit to Oakland and Keyser, W. Va.

Dr. G. C. Keller is spending a few weeks in Accident and Friendsville.

Miss Esther Bill, from Lonaconing, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bill.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Beachy and family were Frostburg visitors, Saturday night.

Mrs. Lewis Gingerick was called to Frostburg, Md., last week to attend the funeral of her father, Michael Harden, who met with a tragic death on a railroad crossing there last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Livengood and Mrs. Bruce Lichty of Meyersdale were guests at the National Hotel for supper Saturday evening, having motored to Cumberland and thence to Grantsville in Mrs. Lichty's car, in the afternoon, with Ware Deeter as chauffeur.

Masters John and Henry Winterberg from Cumberland and Hess Winterberg from Lancaster are guests of their aunt, Miss Christina Winterberg.

Irvin Shumaker has been ill with typhoid the past two weeks, but is recovering nicely.

Miss Elizabeth Roberts, of Cumberland, spent Sunday with her mother at the Casselman Hotel.

GUARDSMAN IN ANGER ANXIOUS TO COME HOME

Men Believe They Are Made Pawns in Political Game.

A correspondent writing from Brownsville, Tex., to a syndicate of newspapers under date of the 24 inst., says:

Under its first severe test the National Guard is breaking down, and through no fault of its own.

Ninety per cent. of the men are dissatisfied and discontented and are anxious to get back home to their work and their families.

This statement may come as a surprise to a public that is being fed daily by assurances from Washington that everything is lovely along the Rio Grande and that the militia are bubbling with joy over their present situation and future prospects, but it is the indelible truth and any candid person with persistence enough to get under the surface of things can find it out for himself.

The officers of the regular army know it and have spoken their minds about it to the correspondent in army camps along the border for 100 minds from this city to Fort Ringgold. Some officers of the National Guards are perfectly aware of it, but are trying to gloss it over. They say that the dissatisfaction and discontent will wear off and that the men will settle down happily to six months or so of professional soldiering.

It required no confidences from the keenly concerned and distressed regular officers to satisfy this writer that the militia are eager to get release from the border and that they will be desperately anxious within a few weeks.

It was a simple matter of keeping eyes and ears open as one visited the camps at Brownsville, Mercedes, Donna, Pharr, McAllen, Mission and other troop headquarters up the Rio Grande Valley. The men talk and talk freely if their officers are not within hearing.

What is true of the militia from one State is true of the militia from another. The men from Indiana are just as unhappy and just as worried as are the men from New York or the men from Virginia or the men from Illinois. The complaints are heard wherever one goes. These troops fell that they have been buncoed by Mr. Wilson, and the more they think about it the madder they get. They can't shout their indignation, because that would mean punishment for them.

Properly enough, of course, under military discipline they can't take their troubles and their very real grievance to their own militia officers, because their officers are not sympathetic. This concentration at the border is a very agreeable business to the National Guard officers for many reasons which cannot possibly apply to the enlisted men.

But the enlisted men can tell the newspaper correspondents what is in their hearts. They flock around the correspondents at every opportunity and beg to know if there is a chance of their being sent back home in the near future. They talk with a kind of pathetic helplessness, like children, these grown men who find themselves trapped by their own patriotic zeal, and it is impossible not to understand them, not to sympathize with them, not to want to tell the whole truth about their plight.

Let it be thoroughly and completely understood that they are not trying to play the baby act, that they are not merely seeking to crawl out of the hard labor of training in a climate as tropical as Panama, and that they are not lying down on the country. In no sense are they quitters, but they have reasoned it out among themselves as American citizens have a habit of reasoning things out, and they have made up their minds that they were tricked and deceived and they are being kept here for the political purposes of the Administration.

That is not offered as the guess of the reporter who writes this story. It is an absolutely accurate digest of minds of 25,000 militiamen whose camps the reporter visited in the past week along the Rio Grande.

They stayed in the National Guard and responded enthusiastically to the order to go to the border, because they wanted to fight for their country. They wanted to play a part in helping their country defend itself and maybe pacify a troublesome and dangerous neighbor. They were assured and believed they were going into Mexico.

Most of them were fired by patriotic zeal purely, because most of them are fine types of Americans—mentally, physically and morally. Some wanted to be heroes and to do tall things they could tell their children about. Some craved excitement. But the basis of enthusiasm in every case was the desire to fight, and to get that chance they were willing to submit cheerfully to all of the unnecessary miseries that an impossible mobilization forced upon them.

They were willing to settle down along the Rio Grande for a month to wait for complete equipment, to build themselves up physically, to better their discipline—if they were fairly and sincerely dealt with. They believe now that they were very unfairly and very insincerely treated. They think they were purposely deluded, and they are beginning to get mad.

It will be found within a few weeks that Representatives in Congress will be deluged by letters from these men, letters demanding their recall. And the letters, as has been said, will not be the product of shirking and slacking but of resentment soundly based. They don't want to be professional soldiers. Whether they are right or wrong in this view has nothing to do with the matter of setting before the public the facts as to the state of the mind of the militia. These exist and are seriously affecting the morals of the army.

Not one but twenty regular army officers have told the correspondent that it will be an impossible job to weld into an effective army troops whose heart is not in their work. They do not want to be professional soldiers because their life work lies elsewhere in other fields. If there was a chance of going into Mexico and accomplishing what they consider a real patriotic service they would accept all of the hardships of training and cry for more. But they don't believe that the Government has the slightest notion of intervention, and in that opinion the whole border supports them.

At home their business is being neglected and many of them, privates in ranks, have large business interests or their jobs are waiting for them, none too securely in too many cases, or their families are in want, and in some regiments 40 per cent. of the men are miserable because their wives and children are wondering where food and rent money is coming from.

And they look around them and see every evidence that these camps are to be permanent. Officers, both regulars and National Guard, are building houses and are sending for their families. Uncle Sam is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars putting up buildings that would be an astounding extravagance if the camps are not to be maintained for a long period.

Railroad spurs are being laid down in long track stretches. Miles of piping for water are being installed. Military roads are in the making in a perfect network at Brownsville, and out along the Rio Grande Valley south of the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico branch running westward for seventy-eight miles from Harlingen to San Fordyce, and the same thing is true in the concentration districts of Laredo, Eagle Pass, Marfa, Del Rio, Columbus, El Pasco, Douglas and Nogales, all sufficient evidence of permanent occupation of the retention of the militia here for a long period.

The more these preparations are observed by the militiamen the more their intelligence suggests to them that they are to be kept on the border for training and for training solely, and their discontent fans into anger.

If any reader fancies that this writer exaggerates the situation, or that he has drawn incorrect inferences from his talks with officers and men, let him persue this telegram, which, referring only to one phase of the situation, was sent to Gov. Whitman by Col. Gordon Johnston of the Twelfth New York Infantry now in camp at McAllen:

"The condition of affairs in the New York division deserves most serious consideration. There are many soldiers here whose families are in the most desperate condition. I have seen many letters which disclose a most tragic state of affairs.

"I am informed from reliable sources that to discharge men with dependent families would take about 40 per cent of the command and leave the remainder discontented and with morale seriously impaired, which would affect the honor of the State as well as the Nation. I believe the only fair solution to be the drafting of young men to fill this division of New York troops to war strength and the gradual discharge of men whose families depend on their earnings as recruits become sufficiently trained to replace them. By this method the New York division will continuously maintain its field efficiency and at the same time restore to dependent families their sole means of support."

That if you please is the opinion of one of the ablest officers of the United States Army; there is no guesswork or hearsay about it. Col. Johnston refers specifically to the bad morale produced by dependent families.

He knows and every efficient officer knows (lots of them would willingly go before a Congressional committee to speak their minds if Congress can protect them from the petty methods employed by the Administration against every officer that dares speak his mind) that another cause for poor morale or lack of spirit is the widespread belief in these camps that the militia are being used to further Mr. Wilson's candidacy for re-election: that they are being kept here as professional soldiers and away from their proper work and their families to make it appear that the Administration is sincere in its advocacy of national preparedness, to make it seem to the country that the Wilson Administration has done and will do all that is possible to make the country ready for defense.

That point of view may be a mistaken one. Again that is not the point. The interesting and troublesome fact is that the opinion is fermenting in the National guard camps. If there is anything in the world which is apt to make a soldier, regular or volunteer, resentful, it is the notion that he is being used as a political pawn.

Newest Lazy Man.

Bellboys frequently have strange and unusual duties to perform for pampered guests, but the recent experience of a "hop" at one of New York's leading hotels seems unique. He was called to a room occupied by two men at night. Said one: "Buster, will you raise the shades, turn off the electric lights, lock the door from the outside and toss the key over the transom?" It was necessary to repeat the order several times before the boy could be convinced his hearing had not suddenly gone defective.

JENNINGS

George Hoover's son, Herschel, has given up his job at Indian Creek and has come home.

Miss Lizzie Sausman, who spent part of last summer here, died recently in the West at her sister's. She was laid to rest last Wednesday at Addison, Pa.

Mrs. Austin Shaw is in the Western Maryland hospital in Cumberland. She became very ill suddenly and took pasms. Mr. Shaw summoned Dr. Bowen who hurried her to the hospital. She is getting better now.

William Broadwater, of New Germany is very sick with typhoid fever.

Charles Bittinger's horse and cows and some vehicles were sold the 15th, inst. at Sheriff's sale.

Thomas Platter and wife and friends enough to make up an auto load motored to near Avilton, Saturday evening to a dance.

Dick Patton is well enough to be about again; he spent a day or two with friends in town last week.

Harry Shaw has resigned his position as sawyer on the lumber mill of Jennings Bros. He and his family are going south.

Paris Generous in Tribute.

Paris is generous in statues erected to her heroes. Voltaire, for instance, is honored with four memorials. There are two to Diderot, of "Dictionaire Encyclopedique" fame. The haughty but melancholy profile of the poet Alfred de Musset is to be seen in three places. Jeanne d'Arc has four statues. Lamartine, statesman, poet and revolutionist, has two effigies.

GORTNER

Miss Marie Murphy and Mr. Forrest Gortner spent Tuesday at Mt. View Home, the guests of their aunt, Mrs. J. M. Conneway.

Roy Lichty, H. E. Yoder, Harvey Swartzentruber and sister Katie, motored to Meyersdale Wednesday where they spent two days picking huckle berries and cherries.

A number of people from Gortner attended the funeral of Mr. Liller in Oakland Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Joe Henry, of Connellsville, Pa., who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. M. Friend, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Noah Slabaugh.

Mrs. W. R. Sporlein and little sons, Ernest and Earl, spent the week-end at Thayerville, the guest of her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowman and daughter Ruth are visiting Mrs. Bowmans parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sanders.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Slabach, and daughter Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Yoder and son Noah were the guests of H. E. Yoder Sunday.

A letter received from Akron, O., states that the stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Browning, leaving a girl. Mrs. Browning was formerly, Miss Maude Nicholson, of Silver Knob.

Mrs. Catherine Slabaugh and family were visiting at George Stahl's Sunday.

P. F. Gortner and friend of Shabbona, Ill., dined at P. P. Gortner's Friday evening.

Miss Bertha Sporelein, entertained a number of our young people Friday evening. Miss Bertha returned to her home in Accident Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Parks and children of West Virginia, motored to this place where they are spending some time with Mrs. Parks' parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Sanders.

Harvey Swartzentruber, Roy Lichty and Roy Lee attended singing at Silver Knob, Sunday night. "Hub" says they have some extra good singers.

DR. FRANCE FEELS SURE OF VICTORY AT POLLS

Before Leaving Cumberland Saturday He and Senator Zihlman Visited Men in Shops.

After a most successful campaigning trip of a week in the western counties of the state, where he personally met several thousand business men, miners and other voters, Dr. Joseph I. France, Republican nominee for the United States Senate, returned to Baltimore late Saturday night, having motored all the way from Cumberland. Dr. France expects to remain in Baltimore this week, conferring with the party leaders about his campaign and getting rid of a week's accumulation of mail matter.

According to Dr. France, who appeared highly elated over the success of his trip through Allegany and Garrett counties, there is no doubt of the waning strength of Congressman Lewis in this section, much of that feeling being apparent among the miners, thousands of whom reside in Allegany county alone. Dr. France met many of them who expressed the belief that much of the future prosperity of the mining interests of the state depends largely upon the election of a Republican Senator and, if possible, an entire change in the political aspect of the state. That there has been a business depression ever since the Democrats went into power was evidenced by the statement of several prominent business men of Oakland and Cumberland, who were positive that a return of the old-time prosperity could only be brought about by a Republican administration.

Before leaving Cumberland Saturday afternoon, Dr. France and State Senator Zihlman visited the mammoth shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, where more than 1,200 men are employed. They were met by Thomas R. Stewart, master-mechanic, who, together with A. J. Cromwell and J. C. Shuck, piloted them through the shops, where they were able to meet hundreds of the men. Dr. France and Senator Zihlman were entertained at dinner in the Railroad Young Men's Christian Association, where again they came in contact with men who promised to support both Dr. France and Mr. Zihlman in their respective senatorial and congressional fights this fall. William C. Montignani, secretary of the association, treated the candidates royally and while they ate dinner Professor Frank Brookman, leader of the association band, played several selections.

Dr. France and his party had a rare experience on their way from Cumberland to Baltimore Saturday afternoon. The distance is said to be 153 miles and over some of the most beautiful mountain trails in the United States. No less than five rainstorms were encountered on the trip, the last one, which was the most severe, trailed the automobile for nearly 40 miles, but by keeping up a gait of about 35 miles per hour, the machine was able to keep ahead of the storm.

AMERICA'S FEVER BILL

Losses Run Into Millions Every Year. Plants More Valuable Than Animals. Give Baby a Chance.

Washington, D. C., July 23.—"The estimated economic loss which our nation suffers each year from typhoid fever and malaria alone aggregates $928,234,880, leaving out of entire account the sorrow, the unhappiness, the misery, and the inefficiency which follow in their train," Senator Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana today addressed the Senate on the subject of "Rural Health—America's First Duty." "The greatest asset which our country can save" said Senator Ransdell, "is the healthy American citizen, and valuable as it may be to increase the health of live stock and vegetation, it is of far greater importance that we throw every possible safeguard about the health of the man who is responsible for that livestock and vegetation. Over 900 million dollars lost every year! A sum which is sufficient to put our country into a state of preparedness equal to that of any nation in the world, enough money to give us the largest navy afloat and the most efficient army which the world has ever seen, is annually offered up as a sacrifice to two diseases which are entirely preventable. Enough money to pay the annual expenses of every college student in the United States is absolutely thrown away every year." Senator Ransdell estimates the grand total loss from typhoid fever at $271,932,880 per annum, and the loss from malaria at $894,904,750 per year; the total per capita loss from these two diseases being $9.46. By comparative estimates it was shown that the United States Government appropriated $5,016,175 for the investigation and prevention of the disease of animal and plant life and only $1,917,566 for the investigation and prevention of the disease of man.

"Bad air, bad milk, over-crowding, poverty, dirt, ignorance, heat—these combine in summer to kill the city baby. It seems as though the brunt of the cities sanitary sins were focused on the baby. The baby didn't ask to come, to live in a hot, dark, air-tight tenement to be fed on dirty, half spoiled milk, to be pestered with flies and mosquitoes. He is not responsible for any of these conditions and it is his right that he have fresh air, clean surroundings and decent food. The United States Public Health Service issues free of charge to all applicants a bulletin on "The Summer Care of Infants." It should be in the hands of every mother.

Women as Plumbers.

From a note which appears in the columns of the Ironmonger it would appear that no fewer than 150 young women in New York are about to go to school to learn plumbing, carpentering and so forth. They seem to be thoroughly in earnest. The promoters of the school obtained $50,000 and the services of six teachers with scarcely any effort.

THE BRITISH BLACKLIST

American opinion is very intolerant of blacklists and boycotts. It believes that the use of such weapons is always mean-spirited and cowardly. Our laws and our courts have put a ban on the secondary boycott—a form of proscription which strikes over the head of an opponent at innocent bystanders having nothing to do with the cause of the quarrel. They have also forbidden the use of the written or published blacklist intended to intimidate third parties from dealing with one or other of two groups engaged in economic war.

The natural instincts of our people have therefore been outraged by the publication of the British government's list of American citizens or of alien citizens and corporations domiciled here with whom British subjects are forbidden to trade. This proclamation is a fresh challenge to our government to resent the unusual and extra-legal measures which Great Britian has taken to control and stifle neutral commerce. It is a most impolitic challenge. The British government has been enforcing a secret boycott against most of these individuals and firms. So long as it was secret our government could not take notice of it. London should have left well enough alone.

At best, the effect of a boycott on trade in which neutrals supposed to be favorably disposed to Germany are engaged can be little more than a pin prick. Yet for the trivial satisfaction of placarding these few individuals and firms Great Britain risks incurring the ill will of the American public and invites reprisals—injurious alike to us and to her—which would only move the Teutonic allies to loud guffaws. The game is never worth the candle in boycotting and blacklisting enterprises. Our domestic boycotters learned that lesson long ago. Great Britain will learn it to her sorrow if she persists in trying to put a few individuals and firms in this country out of business at the cost of commercial hostilities with the United States.

We do not deny the right of the British government to say that its subjects shall not deal with the persons on the official blacklist. That result was, in fact, already practically attained before the blacklist was published. The proscribed individuals and firms have now no trade worth speak-about with Great Britiain's enemies.

But if the direct boycott is to be converted into a secondory boycott, the United States will have to take some action in self defence. If American vessels were to be discriminated against because they carried to neutral countries goods offered by boycotted individuals or firms, our government would be forced to interfere. We could not tolerate such a limitation put upon our shipping under no other warrant than that of British municipal legislation—of a proclamation which according to the British government's own explanation, is intended to be purely domestic in its effect.

If a blacklisted American citizen, for instance, wants to send merchandise in an American vessel to South America, the British government has no right under any law to try to discipline, then or later, the shipmaster who accepts such legitimate cargo.

The United States cannot stand for the secondary boycott on the high seas any more than it can stand for the secondary boycott at home. The most sensible thing. Mr. Asquith's government could do under the circumstances would be to withdraw its foolish and futile blacklist.

HOW TO CONNECT W. VA. NEW ROAD WITH PIKE

Federal Expert Will Make Report At Mass Meeting At Thomas.

A meeting of Tucker county, W. Va., good roads boosters will be held at Thomas, W. Va., in the Thomas Opera House, Friday afternoon, commencing at 4:30 o'clock.

The object is to hear the report and recommendation of Mr. Wells, a Federal road expert, who is in the employ of West Virginia, investigating the routes suggested for connecting the proposed good roads system of West Virginia with the Maryland highway system in Garrett county.

This meeting is one of very great importance to both states, as it is being held for the purpose of determining the future route from northern West Virginia to the seaboard at Baltimore and the great eastern cities of Washington, Philadelphia and New York.

Mr. Wells, it is stated, has made a very careful study of the situation and he is very anxious that everyone interested in this great project attend the meeting at Thomas on Friday. A number of Maryland road men will attend the meeting, it is said.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Miss Louise Compton, of Meyersdale, Pa., is the guest of Mrs. Silas O. Wiley in Oakland.

Miss Marie Cosgrove, of Westernport, Md., spent several days in Oakland this week the guest of Miss Lena Wolfe.

The fact that a couple of persons offered $5000 for passage on the Deutchland seem to suggest that a fool, and his life also are soon parted.

Mrs. Edward J. Hamill, of Kitzmiller, spent last night in Oakland where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Hamill, leaving this morning for Clarksburg, West Va.

Mrs. Benjamin Orr and daughter Miss Tacy Orr, of Wallace, West Va., are visitors this week at the home of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hutson in Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lemmert, Miss Ula Lemmert, Mr. Howard Stevens and Mr. Jones all of Mt. Savage, Md., motored to Oakland Sunday and were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Little.

Mr. S. G. Ashby, for some years past manager of a large lumbering plant at Mount Lick, West Va., in which local people are interested, spent Sunday in Oakland where he was the guest of Sheriff Albert Ashby and other relatives.

Mr. L. H. Martin, brother of W. S. Martin, has purchased the interest of G. C. Martin in the jewelery business of Messrs. G. C. Martin & Co., Oakland, and will become an active member of the firm. Mr. G. C. Martin will remain in Oakland as manager of the Martin Grocery.

Samuel Petrie, one of the striking personalities of Frostburg, is dead, aged 84 years. He was a native of New York and had lived in Allegany since 1857. He served in the Civil War under his father, who commanded a company in the Potomac Home Brigade. In the prime of manhood Mr. Petrie was noted for his strength, and many tales are told of his prowess, says the Lonaconing Advocate. He frequently spoke of a vision in which he saw the numerals 106 on a wall, and thought this a portent that he would live to this age.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Fleming and little daughter, of Fayettsville, N. C., accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bosley and daughter, of Atlanta, Ga., arrived in Oakland Monday evening by automobile, and will be guests of relatives here for some days. Mr. Bosley left Oakland many years ago as an employe of the Southern Railroad with headquarters in Washington, from which point he was later sent south. His many old time friends here were more than pleased to see him again. He is now engaged in the wholesale drug business at Atlanta.

We print in this issue today the half tone engraving made at the time of Mr. Abraham Wilson's one hundredth birthday celebration on July 11th. This engraving should have been received in time for last week's issue of The Republican but the engravers failed to make the shipment so as to reach this office before the hour of going to press. The original photograph measured two feet and it was not possible to reproduce it for newspaper publication upon the same scale, hence the plate is very much smaller and as a consequence many of the details are missing.

Library Notes.

During the past two weeks the following contributions of books and money have been made to the Oakland Free Public library:

Miss Lizzie Howard, $25; Mrs. Robert S. Wood, of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., a large box of books and magazines; books and magazines from Col. and Mrs. A. G. Sturgiss, of Oakland.

THE DEATH RECORD.

STEPHEN WILT.

Stephen Wilt, aged 58 years, 11 months and 25 days, died at his home near Swanton Thursday last. He is survived by his widow and nine children—four sons and five daughters; also by four brothers and a host of friends. His funeral occurred Saturday from his late home.

OTTO FILSINGER.

Otto Filsinger, of near Deer Park, died on Sunday morning of tuberculosis with which he had been a sufferer for several months, and was buried Tuesday afternoon after services in the Deer Park Lutheran church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. O. A. Bremer. The deceased was born in Germany and came to this country with his parents when quite young. He is survived by his wife, three children, his parents and several brothers and sisters.

MARIE JOHNSON

Marie Johnson, a maid in the employ of the family of Mr. Russell L. Hubbard, of Philadelphia, who is occupying the Dr. J. K. Mitchell summer home at Deer Park, died at the Home Sanitorium in Oakland Monday night after an illness of a few hours of uraemia. Her remains, after being prepared for burial by Undertaker Bolden, were sent to a sister residing in Brooklyn, N. Y. The deceased was aged forty years and was ill but a short time.

SOLOMON SINES.

Solomon Sines, one of the pioneers of Garrett county, died at his home near Sang Run last Thursday and was buried Saturday. He was aged more than eighty years and was born within sight of the place where he died. As a hunter of big game in the early days of Garrett county and Western Maryland Mr. Sines took first place. He was of a sunny disposition, full of wit and more than kind to those with whom he associated. He is survived by his wife and several children.

RUSSELL L. LOWDERMILK.

Russell L., son of the late Thomas J. Lowdermilk, died near Hoyes, July 15, 1916, and was intered in the Hoyes cemetery July 16 at 3 o'clock p. m. He leaves a wife and two little girls, about three and five years old; also a mother, one brother and three sisters. His father, one brother and three sister having preceeded him some years ago. The deceased was about thirty-three years old, having died with that dread disease tuberculosis, of which he has suffered for about six months. The funeral was ably preached by Rev. Henderson of the Cranesville charge.

CHARLES JANOSKI.

Charles Janoski, aged about seventy years, a native of Posen, Prussia, died at a Davis (W. Va.) hospital on Saturday night to which institution he was taken on Thursday preceding for treatment. The deceased had been engaged at work on his farm the day prior to his illness. The cause of death was kidney disease and complications. He is survived by his wife and a number of children, all of whom are grown. Prior to coming to this country Mr. Janoski was a soldier in the German army and fought against the French in the war of 1869 and 1870 and was decorated with the Iron Cross upon the battle field by Prince Bismarck for bravery. Mr. Janoski exhibited his medal with pride and treasured it above everything else. He was buried from the Red House Lutheran church Tuesday morning, the services being conducted by the pastor, Rev. Sloop, with interment in the church yard.

LUCIEN FRAZEE.

Lucien Frazee, formerly of Garrett county but for some years living a retired life at Markleysburg, Pa., died in the Home Sanatorium in Oakland Tuesday evening, July 25, after an illness of about four weeks, the cause of his death resulting from a carbuncle which had formed upon his back. Mr. Frazee, was brought to the Oakland institution by his son Mr. William M. Frazee, of near town, on last Saturday, but the disease had so far progressed and made such inroads upon the vitality of the sufferer that it would not yield to treatment and his death came as a relief to his sufferings. Mr. Frazee was born in Garrett county June 14, 1851, and was aged a little more than 65 years. He is survived by his wife Mrs. Katherine Thomas Frazee, and by three sons, Wm M., of Oakland; Austin, of Pittsburgh, and Bert, of Selbysport, and by one daughter Miss Mary Frazee, of Markleysburg. Mr. Frazee was a member of the Baptist church for many years and his funeral will occur from the Big Crossings church of that denomination, located near Selbysport, this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in the cemetery nearby.

Gay Scenes on the Casselman.

The Casselman river bank, near Grantsville was thronged with visitors Sunday. They came from Lonaconing, Frostburg and Cumberland, and from various sections of Garrett county. State Senator Harvey J. Speicher and party of Accident were interested onlookers at the river while fifty or more young people were disporting in the water at one time. William and Robert Scott, of Indiana, formerly of Frostburg, who are occupying the Casselman Inn for a month, were hosts to a number of friends.

CITY DUMP CLOSEB BY STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Order Was Received by Mayor and Council Tuesday Morning.

A special meeting of the City Council was held Tuesday night of this week with Councilmen Lauer, West, Bolden, Little and Aronhalt present, the object of the meeting being to consider a number of matters that were of a pressing nature, the most important from a health standpoint being the order received Tuesday from the State Board of Health condemning the present city dump and ordering it closed. The notice was served on Mayor Giessman and was as follows:

"Investigation by the State Board of Health of Maryland shows the property at and in the vicinity of the South end of Fifth street is in a state of nuisance, dangerous to the public health by reason of a dumping ground for the town of Oakland. You are hereby directed to abate this nuisance by fencing off this dumping ground, putting up a notice that same has been abandoned as a dumping ground and firing all refuse now deposited there as inflammable, and to complete the work required within three days from the date of serving this order.

"John S. Fulton, Secretary."

"Served this 25th day of July at 9 A. M., on Mayor George Giessman."

In accordance with the above Council adopted a motion to comply with the order of the State Board and directed that the dump be abandoned and the notice and fence be erected as directed in the order.

A carnival company, which had received permission to erect its tents, etc., on Oak street near the Little Yough, was notified that such order was rescinded and that permission was granted it to occupy Third Street between Green and Pennington streets.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company, upon a report of its engineer concerning the safety of the Oak street bridge, made a proposition that the company would furnish a bridge sufficiently large to span its tracks and erect the same for $2800. Councilman West proposed that a committee consisting of Councilmen Lauer and Bolden be authorized to go to Baltimore and confer with the representatives of the railway company and make a counter proposition, the town to Pay $800 on the cost of the bridge and the railway company stand the additional expense. The committee will go to Baltimore on Friday night. This committee is also empowered to contract with the railway company to furnish it with water for passenger train service at the Depot in Oakland.

New K. of P. Officers.

At a stated meeting of Garrett Lodge No. 113, Knights of Pythias of Oakland, the following were elected as its officers for the ensuing six months: C. C., Albert Ashby; V. C., J. W. Whorton; Prelate, E. W. Leary; M. of A., W. L. Thomas; M. of W., W. Z. Hendrickson; M. of F., Thomas Little; K. of R. and S., Thomas J. C. Little; I. G. George Little; O. G., George D. White.

Camping at Cassleman Cottage.

Robert A. Scott, Mrs. David R. Scott, of Linten, Ind., and Miss Marie Hearst, of Terra Haute, Ind., and W. R. Scott, of Wheeling, W. Va., guests at the Gladstone Hotel for the past two weeks are now occupying the Cassleman Cottage near Grantsville where they expect to enjov camping life for a month.—Frostburg Journal.

Catholic Prohibition Organizer.

Miss Frances Virginia Frisbie, of Indianapolis, Ind., who is a member of the Anti-Saloon League of Indiana, and also secretary and National organizer of the Catholic Prohibition League of the United States, is in Garrett county representing the interests of the organizations which she is allied and while here is the guest of the Misses O'Donnell at Loch Lynn Heights.

Painfully Burned.

Mr. Henry Lauer, the baker, was painfully burned about his face and arms yesterday morning when gas, which had accumulated in the large oven of his bakery, exploded as he opened the door. Dr. Broadwater attended him. While the burns are not deep, according to the physician, they are quite painful and Mr. Lauer will be unfit for work for several days.

List of Assessors Complete.

The list of District Assessors, charged with making the new general assessment throughout the county, has been completed by the appointment of Charles C. Layman as assessor for District No. 9, which appointment was made by the Board of County Commissioners Monday of this week.

ATTENTION, FARMERS.

Thomas H. Morgan, of Frostburg, has resigned as a member of the Allegany County School Board, following his appointment as attendance or truant officer for the county. His place on the School Board will be filled by appointment of the Governor. Mr. Morgan was the only Republican member of the Board, having been appointed by Governor Goldyborough in 1912. The other members of the Board are John S. McCauley, of Cumberland, and Dr. J. Marshall Price, of Frostburg, both Democrats.

Cumberland is fast becoming the motorists' mecca, says the News, because of its central location on the line of good roads leading through three states. From Pennsylvania and West Virginia many tourists come to Cumberland in order to use the Maryland good roads both east and west. Eastern traffic is much greater than western traffic during the early summer months, while during the latter part of the summer months the tide turns and western traffic is greater. This is on account of the many tourists from various Western States who pass through Cumberland en route to the seashore to spend the summer months and return in the fall to their homes.

RAILROAD WAGES

Shall they be determined by Industrial Warfare or Federal Inquiry?

To the American Public:

Do you believe in arbitration or industrial warfare?

The train employes on all the railroads are voting whether they will give their leaders authority to tie up the commerce of the country to enforce their demands for a 100 million dollar wage increase.

The railroads are in the public service—your service. This army of employes is in the public service—your service.

You pay for rail transportation 3 billion dollars a year, and 44 cents out of every dollar from you goes to the employes.

On all the Eastern Railroads in 1915, seventy-five per cent of the train employes earned these wages (lowest, highest, and average of all) as shown by the payrolls—

	Passenger		Freight		Yard
	Range	Average	Range	Average	Range	Average
Engineers	$1641 3224	$1931	$1585 2992	$1783	$1303 2178	$1543
Conductors	1553 3004	1831	1552 2901	1642	1145 1991	1315
Firemen	951 1704	1128	933 1762	1109	752 1633	935
Brakemen	957 1707	1141	862 1521	973	834 1635	1085

The average yearly wage payments to all Eastern train employes (including those who worked only part of the year) as shown by the 1915 payrolls were—

	Passenger	Freight	Yard
Engineers	$1796	$1546	$1384
Conductors	1724	1404	1238
Firemen	1033	903	844
Brakemen	1018	858	990

A 100 million dollar wage increase for men in freight and yard service (less than one-fifth of all employes) is equal to a 5 per cent advance in all freight rates.

The managers of the railroads, as trustees for the public, have no right to place this burden on the cost of transportation to you without a clear mandate from a public tribunal speaking for you.

The railroads have proposed the settlement of this controversy either under the existing national arbitration law, or by reference to the Interstate Commerce Commission. This offer has been refused by the employes' representatives.

Shall a nation-wide strike or an investigation under the Government determine this issue?

A Birthday Party.

Saturday evening, July 22, a number of friends were entertained at "Glenwood Farm," the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Nine in honor of their daughter Daisy's 18th birthday. Games were played until a late hour, after which refreshments were served consisting of ice cream, cake, candy and fruit. Miss Daisy was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents.

hose present were Misses Margaret and Nellie Glotfelty, Oma and Dessie Lohr, Manona and Wondale Thayer, Myrtle and Helen White, Bertha and Ruth Nicholson, Mary Menear, Ethyl Beckman, Virgie Kitzmiller, Martha Glotfelty, Etta Nethken, Emma Fulk. Messrs. Adrain and Hiram Glotfelty, Stanley Stahl, Alvin Brenninger, Clarence Fulk, Oliver Nethken, Hervey Forman, Julius Kitzmiller, Russell Lohr, Harry Nicholson, Arthur Menear, Harland Browning, Floyd Wensell, Reverdy Beckman, Cecil Thayer, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barkman, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Thayer, Mrs. Will Ervin and Mrs. Maude White.

The guests reluctantly parted in the wee small hours of the night, with profuse thanks for the delightful time they had had.

ONE PRESENT.

A Surprise Party.

On Saturday of last week many of the friends and neighbors of Mrs. Henry Ridder, of District No. 8, planned and carried out a surprise for that esteemed lady when a large company assembled in honor of her 70th anniversary. Mrs. Ridder spent the afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Kelley, and during her absence the two aughters prepared a splendid supper in anticipation of the visit of the friends. Those who were present upon the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. David Mosser, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Ridder, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Baker, Mrs. Hurley Miller, Miss Minnie Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Warsaw, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kidder, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kelley, Mr nd Mrs. Elmer Martin, Miss Edna Beckman, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ridder, Mrs. Wm. Smith, Messrs. David, Scott, Charles and Lee Ridder, Miss Laura Ridder, Ione Kelley, Regis Kelley, John Pratt, Miles Paugh, and quite a large number of children. All departed for their homes at midnight, wishing Mrs. Ridder many more such pleasant surprises. Splendid music was furnished throughout the evening by Mrs. Hurley Miller, Miss Edith Kelley and Miss Beckman.

SEEDING WITHOUT A NURSE CROP URGED

Results From Seeding Timothy Alone Indicate Improved Quality And Larger Hay Yields.

NICKOLAS SCHMITZ
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Where the old way of seeding timothy does not give satisfactory results the only remedy is sowing the timothy, or timothy and clover, alone in early fall, not with a grain crop. The plan is to seed the wheat without the timothy in the fall and the clover in the spring; then, as soon as possible after harvest the stubble should be plowed down and a very firm, finely-pulverized seedbed prepared. This, to be sure, will involve an extra plowing and preparing of the seedbed, but the increased yield and quality of hay more than pays for the extra labor. A full crop will be ready for cutting the next June or July, which will be the same time as if it had been seeded with the wheat, the stubble of which was plowed down. Timothy may also follow such crops as early potatoes, early tomatoes, cowpeas cut for hay, etc.

Method Of Seeding Alone.

If fertilizer is sown with the grass, then seeding with the grain drill as when sowing with wheat in the fall, is by far the most economical way of seeding. But the chances for getting a perfect stand are greatly increased if the seed is dropped behind the hoes and a light harrow or weeder run over the field for covering. On soils not subject to much washing or baking after heavy rains, the seed may be dropped in front of the hoes and a roller run over the field to assist in covering. This firms the soil around the seed and brings the moisture to the surface, which adds greatly to the chances of getting a good stand.

Where fertilizer is not sown with the grass the seeding can be done more quickly with a wheel-barrow seeder, covering with a spike-tooth harrow or weeder, and, wherever conditions permit, following with the roller.

Rate Of Seeding.

Except under the most favorable soil conditions, it is advisable to mix in a little redtop. This is especially true on sandy, poor, or wet land, because redtop will grow where timothy will not; care, however, must be taken not to use too much redtop, lest it crowd out the timothy and decrease the market value of the hay.

When sowing timothy alone, 15 pounds or more per acre should be used; when sowing with redtop, 12 pounds of timothy and 2 or 3 pounds of redtop (recleaned seed) should be used. When seeded with red clover, 10 pounds of timothy and 6 to 8 pounds of red clover is sufficient. If red clover has not been succeeding well, 4 to 6 pounds of alsike clover should be substituted for the red clover.

On fairly fertile, well-limed soil, it is a good plan to cut down the red or alsike clover to about half the given rate and add 4 to 8 pounds of alfalfa. There is no better way than this of inoculating the land for alfalfa.

When the land is known to be inoculated, alfalfa may be substituted entirely for the clover, using 15 pounds per acre. In this case the first cutting in the spring will be timothy and alfalfa, and after this two medium-sized crops of alfalfa may be secured in a favorable season. A good all-around mixture for heavy seeding is:

Timothy	8 lbs.
Redtop	2 lbs.
Red Clover	6 lbs.
(or Alsike Clover, 4 lbs.)
Alfalfa	4 lbs.

Alfalfa Not An Expensive Crop To Start.

It is true, however, that even a short-lived field of alfalfa pays better when properly handled, than a field in any other hay crop. The average yield being 3 to 4 tons per acre and 5 to 6 tons are not infrequent. The feeding value is practically equal to that of bran.

The most common mistake made is the enormous expense incurred in getting land ready for alfalfa. If there was an assurance of getting a field lasting 10 or 15 years this would be justified, but the chances of getting such a long-lived field are not great enough to justify extraordinary high expenditures. Moreover, this is not necessary. Outside of a little extra cost of seed the expense of starting a field of alfalfa need not be much beyond that of seeding a field of ordinary clover and timothy in the fall by themselves—not with wheat.

On a well managed farm it would be a simple matter to leave out the timothy in seeding wheat and seed to alfalfa the next fall after the land has been well prepared, well limed, and inoculated. It is an equally simple matter to follow alfalfa after early potatoes. To charge the expense of liming against alfalfa is not altogether fair. Every farm needs an application of lime every few years. Then why not lime the field about the time it is ready to be seeded to alfalfa. The extra expense of inoculating can be eliminated by seeding with clover, 4 or 5 pounds of alfalfa per acre. This will bring forth enough alfalfa plants over the field to inoculate the land in a year or two.

Are You Wasting The Price Of a Titan Engine?

TITAN engines run on kerosene.

Average cost of gasoline so far this year, 16.9 cents per gallon.

Average cost of kerosene 7.7 cents per gallon.

Gasoline costs over 100 per cent more than kerosene. Gasoline is going up steadily. Kerosene is not.

At present fuel prices Titan engines, using kerosene, save their owners about 1.1 cents per horse power per hour.

Are you running a gasoline engine? What horse power is it? Figure what you'd be saving if you had a Titan kerosene engine. Rather surprising, isn't it? How long would it take that saving to pay for a Titan engine of the same size?

COMPULSORY EXTERMINATION OF AN ENTIRE MERCANTILE ESTABLISHMENT In The CITY Of CUMBERLAND

Forced to make a clean, clear, absolute Sweep of the Entire Stock involved, must be turned into cash regardless of consequences. Complete annihilation of every article—every piece of Merchandise in the building. All to be put up before the public at any price it will bring without reserve.

Ten Days Sale of the Entire Store. OPENING DAY:

Wednesday, July 26, 8.30 a.m. Sharp

It's hard luck. Entire Stock doomed to be sold out as quickly as possible. We must clean up! We are going to sell the whole store. We are going to give the people of Maryland values of their lives. Everything will be put on sale for your unrestricted choice. This is positively and absolutely the greatest merchandise disaster that the people of this section of the land ever dreamed of. It is truly impossible to convey any idea of the ruthless sacrifice of the entire stock. One thing in short—we are compelled for business reasons to unload—wipo off the premises every semblance of the present stock. All must be converted into cash as quickly as possible. Come and bring your friends, neighbors and relatives. As long as you live you'll never have such a chance again to buy seasonabe Merchandise at such little prices.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mountain Lake Park is to have a "Summer Camp for Girls." Mrs. John R. Abernathy and a friend, of Baltimore, were here Saturday seeking a site for a summer camp for the girls connected with two of the girls schools of Baltimore. She inspected several sites in the Park and finally selected a site above Crystal Spring. There will be 15 or 20 tents pitched, with floors, four girls will occupy a tent. Cooking and dining tents will be on the ground. Teachers will accompany the girls. They will camp out for eight weeks. At least 50 young ladies will compose the camp of 1917. The camp will be named after some Indian tribe who roamed through Garrett county. Any one knowing the name of an Indian tribe of Garrett county will please send name to Superintendent Rudisill, at the Park. The locating of this camp in the Park means a large demand for country produce which will be purchased from near by farmers. It also means that many parents will spend their week-end here.

There is talk about organizing a preachers camp providing for 14 days outing, with tent life and out door sports. The matter is under discussion. Such a camp is conducted in Canada, and one in the mountains beyond Elkins, Maryland, West Virginia and Ohio preachers are back of this movement.

Campers go to the woods and mountains of Maine, why not here? No better atmosphere, water, or scenery. All that is needed is that we get busy and go after this kind of business. It means money for the farmers, and an extensive advertisement of Garrett county. Surely, Garrett county abounds in delightful camping places.

There is a brainy Methodist preacher down at Clarksburg, W. Va., named Dr. King. He is full of wit and humor, a splendid speaker, the kind who interests his audience and makes them forget everything else but the theme under consideration. He has a lecture entitled, "Why the Devil is a Methodist?" Those who have heard Mr. King deliver this lecture pronounce it "great." "An hour of splendid wit and humor." "Brim full of interest from beginning to ending." Dr. King will deliver this lecture in the tabernacle on August 2d, next at 7:30 p. m. Admission 25 cents. Every Methodist as well as every member of any church and those not members of any church ought to hear this lecture. It will be a rich treat. A most enjoyable occasion. Remember the date next Wednesday evening at the tabernacle at Mountain Lake Park.

The hotels and boarding houses are filling up. Some of them are using outside rooms for sleeping guests. Nearly a dozen cottages have been opened the past week.

The Epworth League Institute opens on August 3d and will be in session for one week. It is a rally of the Methodist young people. A good time is anticipated. There will be hikes, base ball, lawn tennis, bowling, boating, bathing, as well as lectures, classes and singing. Everybody invited. Next Thursday at 7 p. m. Social stunts. 8 p. m. a platform meeting. Sunday, August 6, will be one of the Great Days of the season. One of the speakers will be Dr. Samuel J. McWatters, subject, "The Drama of St. Paul." A great subject by a great man. Don't miss this remarkable, thrilling lecture. It will be a treat of your life time. It is expected that Bishop Anderson will be one of the preachers.

Next Saturday is Civic Club Day. That means a day full of pleasure and enjoyment, hours and hours of delight, bowling contests, tennis and boating. At night most delightful movies, "Rags," by Mary Pickford. Something extraordinary fine. It will draw a full house.

The B. & O. has a large force of men at work, east of the Park station, putting up a telegraph tower, changing switches, erecting a coal shute, etc. The tower at Deer Park and this place will be closed up and the work done at the new tower, saving the expense of three telegraph operators, and removing the smoke of helper engines, as well as the noise, from the Deer Park Hotel grounds. The diners will be taken on at the new tower, as it will be the entrance point to the third track. The location is about half a mile east of the Park.

Professor Harry, of the University of Cincinnati, with his wife and daughter have rooms at the home of Mrs. L. A. Rudisill. They are here for the summer.

Harvey Cuppett, of Terra Alta, has been the guest of his sister, Mrs. J. H. Enlow, at The Roslyn.

Attorney Thraves, one of the leading attorneys of Oklahoma, is a guest of "The Braethorn."

An adjourned meeting of the Community of Mountain Lake Park will be held in the Assembly Hall at 10 a. m. Tuesday August 8. The question of better roads in the Park will be discussed.

Through the influence of President Hamill several car loads of cinders are being placed on the streets of the Park. Constable Callis is superintending the work.

Every Sunday next month will be a red letter day in the history of the Park. Able ministers will supply the pulpit. Good music. Tell your neighbors about it.

The Deaconness home has rented Mrs. Sincell's cottage, to accommodate additional guests. The Allegany House has 40 guests, the Braethorn 25, Mrs. Schrock 24, Allenhurst 30.

Judge Haymond and son are guests of the Elberon. Every room in this house is occupied.

Mr. Ed. W. Westwood, the new director of the Association board, is making a very favorable impression upon the visitors and property owners of the Park. He is planning for a prosperous Mountain Lake Park. There is something doing in this direction even now. The Park seems to have taken new life and everybody, except the chronic grumblers, are quite hopeful over the outlook. Mr. Westwood is trying to book Mr. Sunday for a few days this summer. May he succeed.

At the Old Auditorium Saturday night the Civic Club will present in moving pictures one of the finest shows ever witnessed at the Park, the leading role being taken by Mary Pickford, America's prima donna of the movie stage. She will appear in "Rags," which made a great hit in all the larger centres. Music will be furnished by a stringed orchestra and to this entertainment all are cordially invited, especially the people of Oakland. The work of the Civic Club of the Park is one of great scope and through its endeavors the Park has been greatly beautified and improved and these improvements are still going on and being planned for the future.

Miss Ruth Rudisill returned to the Womans' Hospital last Saturday, stopping off in Washington to visit friends.

Every room in the Assembly House will be occupied during the week of the Mission School by young ladies from Cleveland, Ohio.

Two or three games of base ball next week, between Baltimore and Washington Epworth League teams.

The Cumberland News of last Tuesday had a fake story about a girl being brought to Mountain Lake Park for evil purposes. The girl telling the story was insane and had been an inmate of the asylum at Sykesville.

The Bible Institute conducted the past two weeks by Prof. Shaw and Dr. Mantle, is to be made a permanent thing at the Park. The time will be extended and possibly three weeks or a month given to the work. They are great teachers and splendid preachers. They have done most excellent work the past fortnight.

UNDERWOOD

I have not seen any items from this place for some time, so will pen a few.

Getting married is the order of the day.

Miss Merle Browning, of Clarksburg, W. Va., is visiting her father, Mr. John S. Browning at this place.

Every one present voted the party at L. S. Nine's a success.

Mrs. Maude White was a Sunday visitor at Mrs. Lohr's.

Misses Merle and Mattie Browning were week-end visitors at Cranesville.

Misses Oma and Dessie Lohr were callers at L. S. Nine's Saturday night.

Mrs. C. F. Glotfelty was a Sunday visitor at I. G. Kitzmiller's.

Ava Buncutter was calling on the Misses Nicholson recently.

Mr. Ami Forman spent Sunday with his son at Crellin.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Barkman are rejoicing over the arrival of a girl.

Misses Myrtle and Helen White were calling on the Misses Thayer Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barkman were recent visitors at D. T. Thayer's.

There will be an all day meeting at this place Sunday August 6th. Everybody is welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Beckman and son were Sunday visitors at Sam Barkman's.

Mrs. Will Ewin, of Thomas, W. Va., is visiting her parents at this place.

Mrs. R. J. Nicholson is making an extended visit with her daughter Mrs. Rae Browning, in Akron, Ohio.

GREAT things, as has often been remarked, hangs upon trifles. If it had not been for the delay of a vessel, during which time the urgings of his mother changed his purpose, George Washington would have joined the British Navy. A dove and a spider saved Mohammed from capture when, on his flight from Mecca to Medina, he and his companions had to take refuge in a cave. The spider sealed the entrance with its web; the setting dove was other proof to the pursuers that the cave was unoccupied. A prosaic trifle like spark plugs did the business for Lieutenant Marchal in his flight over Berlin.

It was the failure of the spark plugs which stopped me and I descended to change two of the plugs and to start the motor again. Unfortunately it would have been necessary to change two more plugs, and at this moment I was taken prisoner. You may judge my chagrin.

So it goes. One never knows how the best-laid plans will be furthered or wrecked by inconsiderate trifles.

SNAKE IN KITCHEN BITES FRANK BYRD

Telegraph Operator at Pinto Saves Self By Novel Treatment.

The following will be read with interest by the many friends of Mr. Frank Byrd, formerly of Oakland, and son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Byrd. For a number of years past Mr. Byrd has been telegraph operator at Pinto, a station on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad a few miles west of Cumberland. His experience was a harrowing one and he is to be congratulated upon his narrow escape from a horrible death. The subjoined account of the incident was taken from Monday's issue of the Cumberland News:

By applying a bottle of turpentine to the wound on his foot made by the fangs of a copperhead snake, that had invaded his kitchen, and by holding the bottle in that position for three hours, until a physician arrived, Frank Byrd, a telegraph operator at Pinto, Md., on Friday last, saved himself from the poisonous action of the snake bite and incidently made a discovery.

Mr. Byrd had occasion, at two o'clock in the morning, to go out on the porch and into the little kitchen that had been erected at the end of the porch. Just as he stepped inside the door he felt something strike his bare foot. Lighting a match he saw a copperhead snake moving away and found that the snake had bitten him on the foot. He quickly summoned his wife, who tied a heavy cord around his ankle and bathed the wound in turpentine, tieing a rag saturated with turpentine around the wound. He then fastened the mouth of the bottle to the wound, and held it there until a physician from Cumberland arrived.

While moving around Mrs. Byrd had occasion to go near the stove in the kitchen, when she heard a hissing sound, and upon directing the light back of the stove found that the snake was coiled up striking at her. She called her father, who was asleep upstairs, and he dispatched the snake with a blow from a club. When the physician arrived he discovered that the turpentine had absorbed all the poison in the wound, that the swelling had been reduced, and he vouched for the statement that the turpentine had been turned a decided greenish color. Mr. Byrd has since suffered no ill effects from the wound.

Married.

DUKWORTH—HILLEARY—Charles E. Duckworth, of Elkins, and Mrs. Sophronia Eliza Hilleary, of Gorman, Md., were married at the home of the bride Thursday afternoon, July 27, at 3 o'clock by Rev. Frederick H. Barron, pastor of the Davis Memorial Presbyterian church of Elkins, assisted by Rev. Frank Brook, of Gormania. Among the guests wers: Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Houck, of Pittsburgh; Keith Duckworth, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hilleary, Mrs. Ernest Hilleary and Mr. and Mrs. Neville. Before the ceremony an elaborate dinner was served.

Returned From Hospital.

Mr. Albert Baker, of Swanton, spent yesterday in Oakland on business.

Mr. W. B. Miller, of Deer Park, has purchased the store and stock of goods at that place which was owned by the late J. S. Clary and will operate the store from this date. Mr. Miller is quite well known to almost everyone in Garrett county and we are sure that being a good business man of genialty he will make a success of the new venture. See his announcement elsewhere in this paper today.

OAKLAND MOURNS DEATH OF ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT

Mr. Daniel Edwin Offutt's Long and Active Life Closed Yesterday Morning.

With the death of Mr. Daniel Edwin Offutt, which occurred at his residence on Second street Wednesday morning, August 2nd, at eleven o'clock, Oakland has lost another of her old and sterling citizens, for with the demise of Mr. Offutt a vacancy has been made in the business life of Oakland that will be felt for a long time to come.

Mr. Offutt was born at Oldtown, Allegany county, Maryland, on September 1st, 1835, being the son of John Edwin and Susan-Lantz Offutt. His father died when he was quite young. His mother, however, lived to a ripe old age and died in Oakland ten years ago, having made her home here for many years prior thereto.

On October 22nd, 1868, he was married to Miss Arabella Seymour, of Rawlings, Allegany county, the couple establishing a home here immediately thereafter, Mr. Offutt having erected the dwelling wherein he died just prior to his marriage. Six children were born to them, three of whom, Bliss, the eldest, C. Ellwood and Nell, being deceased. Messrs. D. E., Jr., and William R. and Miss Elizabeth, along with Mrs. Offutt, survive. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Susan Miller, of Oakland.

Shortly after the death of Mr. Offutt's father his mother removed to Frostburg where she established a home and where Mr. Offutt in his boyhood years found employment. He later went to Westernport and then to Bloomington, where he entered the mercantile business as a partner with the late Judge Patrick Hamill. A few years afterward and while yet a mere boy he purchased Mr. Hamill's interest in the business. Believing he saw an opportunity in the west he disposed of the Bloomington business and went to Chicago with the intention of making that city his home, but not finding anything to his liking there he returned east and located in Oakland in the year 1857, opening a general store in the old Thomas Martin store building at the corner of Third and Oak streets. Here he laid the firm foundation, by fair dealing and straightforward business methods, for a fortune which he amassed during his active and busy life.

Outgrowing the quarters at the Martin building in a few years he removed to a building, the site of which is now occupied by the Ravenscroft block on Second street, where he remained until 1878 when the new store building was completed, but which burned about fifteen years ago and which was rebuilt later.

In addition to the general mercantile business Mr. Offutt devoted much of his time and energies in his earlier life to lumbering, owing and operating mills at various points along the Big Youghiogheny River. On these mills he produced much of the heavy timbers used by the Government and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for the construction of bridges and large buildings, the demand during the War o the Rebellion being exceedingly heavy for the class of timber produced on the Offutt mills.

Mr. Offutt was identified with many interests in and about Oakland, being one of the original stockholders and founders of the Mountain Lake Park Association; owner of the Oakland electric lighting system and was also the president until a few month ago of the Garrett National Bank, retiring from active business life only when he was unable to give his personal attention to details on account of the encroachment of disease and advancing years.

He was first stricken about a year ago with an attack of kidney disease, but regained to some extent his health he was able to attend to business of a minor nature until late during the past winter when he was again attacked and from which he never recovered. For six weeks prior to his death he had been in an extremely critical condition but his family had entertained hopes of his recovery and the announcement of his death yesterday morning came as a great shock to the townspeople generally.

Mr. Offutt was unpretentous in the extreme. When he did a kindly act, which was very often, no one but himself and the recipient knew of it. He lived a quiet life, loved and respected by many outside of his own immediate community. His death is sincerely mourned by not only his family but the the people of Oakland generally.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church of Oakland for which edifice his funeral will occur tomorrow afternoon at 3.30 o'clock.

Mr. Offutt was a Democrat of the old school; he never held office except that of Mayor of Oakland, although he was a candidate immediately after the formation of Garrett county, for the office of County Commissioner.

CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED

New United Brethren Edifice at McHenry Nearly Ready for Services.

The new United Brethren church which has been under course of construction for several months past with Judge David W. Fraker as the leading spirit, assisted by others of the community who have lent their time and devoted considerable sums of money to the cause, will be dedicated on Sunday, August 13th, by the Rev. E. H. Waters, pastor of the Grafton United Brethren church. Mr. Waters is one of the great speakers of the denomination he represents and the dedication of the new church will be a great event in the history of McHenry and those who have contributed toward its erection.

In connection with the dedicatory service an all day meeting will be held on the above date to which all are cordially invited and where all will find a hearty welcome. Rev. T. A. DeWitt, of Deer Park, is pastor of the McHenry church.

Mr. D. S. Custer and members of his family, accompanied by Mr. J. Alvin Friend, of Sang Run, motored to Oakland Sunday afternoon in the former's car.

A GATHERING OF LADIES

Luncheon and Reception by the Ladies Civic Club of Oakland.

On Thursday, July 27, the Oakland Civic Club gave a most delightful luncheon to about sixty guests, sixteen of whom were delegates from the Allegany County Federation of Women's Clubs, held at the home of Mrs. Lou Waters. The reception was held on the porch, which was decorated for the occasion with native wild flowers, black-eyed-susans, golden-rod, and dasies, the color scheme of the decoration being carried out throughout the luncheon, which was served by nine young ladies from the Junior Civic Club, wearing large yellow butterfiies as caps and daisy aprons.

Mrs. J. C. Ely, of Oakland, represented the Oakland Civic Club, and made the address of welcome, which was most excellent and received hearty applause.

Mrs. Robt. R. Heneerson in a charming manner replied to this on behalf of the Allegany Federation of Women's Clubs.

Miss Fundenberg, the first president of the Oakland Club, acted as toastmistress, and was a most able leader on this occasion.

Miss Anne Sloan, of Lonaconing, was next on the program being the principal speaker of the day, her subject being "Woman and Civics." Her talk showed study and understanding of this most interesting subject, and as Miss Sloan is President of the Allegany Federation, she was in a position to speak with authority. She dwelt particularly on the penal institutions of the state, and the part that women might play in bringing about an improvement in their condition, and an improvement in the after-life of their inmates, and how to make them better citizens for having been confined in these institutions.

Miss Sloan also spoke of the orphanage of our state which has over its entrance, "Home For The Friendless." This each child who enters must see and have printed upon its memory. Other states are now placing their orphans in cottages with twelve in a cottage and a matron and not making them all wear the same material and color in clothing, which is so tiring to the eye. Another important thing was the library and the good it does. Many other things she spoke of and said as we had gotten beyond the little things in civic work such as cleaning streets and alleys and were undertaking the "big things" of life—making life worth the living for others as well as ourselves.

We regret that we have been unable to get Miss Sloan's speach in full for these columns, as it was most interesting and instructive.

Greetings from Mountain Lake Park were next brought by Mrs. Davidson, President of the Mountain Lake Park Civic Club, who impressed upon Oakland that a closer union should be established between the sister towns.

The different clubs of Allegany and Garrett Counties were represented by the following ladies:

Frostburg, Mrs. O'Rourke; Cumberland, Miss Elizabeth Lowndes; Lonaconing, Miss Elizabeth Somerville; Barton, Miss Birmingham; Westernport and Luke, Miss Baker; Deer Park, Mrs. Annan. Each of these ladies, in well chosen remarks, brought greetings from their respective clubs.

The President of the Oakland Civic Club, Mrs. R. E. Sliger, closed the meeting with a short address, extending Oakland's well known hospitality to the out-of-town guests, and inviting all to stand and sing, Maryland, My Maryland.

This meeting probably did more than any other one thing to bring the Oakland Civic Club to the attention of the other clubs of the state, and to increase new interest of the ladies of Oakland.

Prospectors Strike It Rich.

A 500-barrel a day oil well was struck Saturday in the West Virginia field on a large tract in which Dr. John E. Legge, Dr. Arthur H. Hawkins, Chas. A. Steiner and other Cumberland men are interested. Two previous wells had produced nothing. Oil was found in this third well at a depth of 1,800 feet. The Cumberland people own about 500 acres in the vicinity of this strike and other wells will be immediately drilled on the property.

REPLY TO MEXICO AGREES TO PARLEY

American Note Accepts Plan of Joint Commission to Adjust Differences

CARRANZA ASSENT ASSURED

Report From Mexico City That Luis Cabrera, Minister of Finance, Will Head Mexican Members of the Commission.

Washington.—President Wilson accepted in modified form Carranza's suggestion that a commission be appointed to decide whether the American troops shall evacuate Mexico and to settle the difficulties now pending between the two countries.

The President's acceptance is conveyed in a note to the Mexican Foreign Office which acting Secretary of State Polk handed to Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican Ambassador Designate. Assurances had already been received here that Carranza will accept the modifications suggested by this Government.

These modifications are that the commission's scope of action be broadened so that other matters which the United States may regard as pertinent to an improvement in the friendly relations of the two countries may be established.

The commission will meet somewhere on the Jersey coast and will be composed of three commissioners from each country.

The commissioners whom Carranza has tentatively selected are said to be Luis Cabrera, Secretary of the Treasury; Albert J. Pani, president of the Mexican National Railway, and Ignacio Bonillas, Secretary of Communications.

It is understood at the State Department that there may be some delay and uncertainty about the naming of the American commissioners. Gen. Goethals, Louis D. Brandeis, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, and Judge Victor J. Dowling of New York are understood to be under consideration.

TO PURCHASE DANISH ISLANDS.

Washington.—Official announcement was made at the White House that negotiations have practically been completed for the purchase of the Danish West Indies by the United States from Denmark for $25,000,000.

While details of the treaty are not yet given out, it is understood that the United States would come into complete possession of the islands. Word has been received from Denmark that the treaty is practically certain of being ratified.

Apprehension was felt at the State Department that Germany might object to the transaction. In previous negotiations Denmark has enjoined secrecy for the reason that "the great publicity given to the subject would no doubt increase the difficulties here (Copenhagen) and make it more difficult to carry the matter through to success." For years Germany has desired a coaling station in the West Indies, and also she was understood to be desirous that Denmark should not part with them in the possibility that there may some time be a consolidation of the Danish Kingdom with Germany.

200 DEAD IN CANADA FIRES

Seven Northern Ontario Towns Swept —Victims Are Trapped.

Englehart, Ont.—Forest fires raging in northern Ontario are believed to have resulted in the loss of from 150 to 200 lives. Scores of other persons have been injured, and it is feared many of them may die.

Several small towns have been wiped out by the flames. Reports thus far received show that 57 perished at Nushka, a French Canadian settlement, and 34 at Matheson. Cochrane has 18 dead and 34 injured; Iroquois Falls, 15 dead and many injured, and Ramore, 15 dead. The number killed at Porcupine Junction is not known, but the entire town was destroyed except the railroad station.

POSTAL SAVINGS INCREASE

Increase Due to Country Wide Prosperity of Wage Earners.

New York.—All June records for postal savings deposits were eclipsed last month when a net gain of over $3,800,000 was made, quadrupling the net increase for June, 1915. The gains were general throughout the country, notably in the smaller industrial centers. Postmasters attribute their increase to the country-wide prosperity of wage-earners and $1,000 will be accepted from each depositor.

GREAT SCARCITY OF LABOR

Projected Improvements Are Abandoned by Steel Mills.

Pittsburgh.—Scarcity of labor in the Pittsburgh district—that is, of common labor—has finally forced a temporary abandonment of the extensive work in by-product coke oven building for the Carnegie Steel Company. Two very important plants were contemplated for this year, that at Clairton, Pa., near Homestead, where the first installation will be 604 ovens to be followed by another of 604.

ENORMOUS LOSSES FROM EXPLOSION

Sugar Worth $3,400,000, Cotton and Tobacco Valued at $15,000,000 Destroyed

13 WAREHOUSES BURNED

Five Carloads of Nitro on Black Tom Pier Opposite Bedloe's Island Explode While Engines and Tugs Are Fighting Big Blaze.

DETAILED LIST OF $50,000,000 DAMAGE CAUSED BY EXPLOSION

The total damage caused by the explosion is estimated at more than $50,000,000.

This was distributed as follows:

Seventeen warehouses of National Storage Company	$7,000,000
Stores therein	35,000,000
Ammunition and cars containing it	7,500,000
Property	50,000
City Hall	25,000
Fourteen churches	14,000

An estimate of damage elsewhere was:

Ellis Island	$50,000
Bedloe's Island	100,000
Manhattan and Brooklyn	250,000
Staten Island	40,000
Hoboken	50,000

New York.—An unknown number of dead and injured, more than fifty million dollars in property loss, five states shaken, and millions of persons within a radius of a hundred miles frightened to distraction, is the partial total of the damage wrought by an explosion of war materials in Jersey City.

While only one body has been recovered, the loss of life is believed to have been considerable. In the excitement of the explosion, little or no effort was made by anyone to take a census of those known to have been in the vicinity.

Black Tom Island, an area of reclaimed land which projects into New York Bay from the Jersey shore, immediately behind the Statue of Liberty, was the scene of the explosion.

Six Lehigh Valley Railroad piers and the National Storage Warehouse, comprising 24 three-story brick buildings, about 100 feet deep, were the principal sufferers.

Between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 worth of property belonging to these companies was hurled into the air by the series of explosions. Thirteen storage warehouses and their contents were burned, a dozen barges and their contents burned or blown up, and probably three tug boats sunk.

The New Jersey Central Railroad pier, half a mile from the source of the explosion, also was damaged.

Three tugboats, with an aggregate crew of about 24 men, are listed as missing. These boats are the Geneva, a Lehigh Valley boat, and the Bridgeton and Ithaca, Jersey Central boats.

When last seen the little vessels were bravely forcing their way into the blazing barges in an effort to remove them.

Then occurred the big explosion. It is feared they were blown to pieces and lost with their valiant crews.

About a million dollars' worth of damage was done on Bedloe's and Ellis Islands. Ellis Island suffered severely.

Countless homes and business places running into the hundreds of thousands were more or less damaged in Jersey City, Hoboken, Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens, Brooklyn, Staten Island and adjacent cities and towns.

WORLD'S NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

BERLIN, via Sayville.—The Lokal Anzeiger reports a great conflagration to have occurred in Petrograd, in which the Putiloff gun works and other establishments were destroyed.

NORFOLK.—An appeal probably will be taken by the German Government from the decision of Federal Judge Waddill awarding the captured British liner to the English owners in the libel proceedings for possession of the vessel.

McALLEN, Texas.—Confirmation of reports that a number of Japanese officers in Carranza's army in northern Mexico was had here from officers.

NEW YORK.—J. Pierpont Morgan, Sr., who died in Rome, Italy, March 31, 1913, left an estate appraised at $78,149,024.

MEXICO CITY.—A decree was issued by Lopez de Lara, the Governor of a Federal district, ordering that all vacant land within the Federal District be cultivated, planting to begin within a few days.

OTTAWA, Ont.—Profits on war contracts to the amount of $750,000 have been voluntarily returned to the British Treasury by F. W. Baillie, of Hamilton, president of the Canadian Cartridge Company.

SWEEP GERMANS FROM TRENCHES

British and French in Heavy Artillery Assault to Take Advanced Third Line

STRONG SOMME OFFENSIVE

London.—Advanced sections of the German third line were swept away by the British and French in a tremendous artillery assault on a front of eight miles. From east of Delville wood to the Somme the blow was struck and whole systems of trenches, the work of months, were carried. More than 500 prisoners were captured.

The most pronounced gains were made by the British. Colonial troops rushed forward beyond the Waterlot Farm, Trones Wood and the Haltzorn Farm, formerly mere outposts of the British front, breaking well beyond the frontiers of the German third line, and establishing themselves in strong positions.

This victory puts the Franco-British allies in a position to strike a powerful blow at Combles, the strong German point of support between Bapaume and Peronne. It also marks a further advance of the wedge which is being driven into the Kaiser's front between these two key positions of the 100-mile Noyon salient.

Berlin reports the repulse of tentative night attacks by the British in the Pozieres section, while General Haig, in a dispatch, says there was no fighting thereabout. The artillery fire of the British is steadyily gaining in strength until it has drawn amased comment by the German general staff.

A strong offensive has been developed by the German Crown Prince on the eastern bank of the Meuse. South of Fleury and west of the Thiamount work German attacks were launched. They have been uniformly repulsed, the French War Office announces. It is believed the object is to prevent the transfer of French troops to the Somme. A heavy bombardment is proceeding along the front northeast of Verdun.

The British statement says three hostile aeroplanes were destroyed and several others were forced to land in a damaged condition.

The French War Office reports that in series of assaults French troops carried an entire system of German trenches north of the Somme on a front of nearly one-half mile.

FALLS BEFORE RUSSIANS.

London.—The British won complete control of Pozieres, the last houses which the German had succeeded in retaining is the ruined village being carried in night fighting.

The capture of Pozieres is one of the most important successes yet won in the British offensive. The village stands on high ground, dominating a great sweep of the plateau over which the battle of the last three weeks has been fought. It gives General Haig artillery command of the new German positions to the eastward.

The village had been converted into a veritable fortress. Each house bristled with machine guns and each road was filled with barricades from which a terrific fire was directed on the English and Australian troops Every house and barn presented a separate obstacle and each was won after a battle at close quarters in which the grenade and bayonet played the principal part. The losses on both sides were very heavy.

Erzingan, the strongly fortified Turkish city in central Amenia, fell into the hands of the Russian Caucasus army under Grand Duke Nicholas, who thus has cleared the whole of Armenia of Turks.

Russia has 14,000,000 men under arms and they are fully equipped. It is believed that Russia will throw an overwhelming number of troops into the Armenian campaign, will take Sivas and begin a series of attacks upon Constantinople.

Germany has sealed the Belgian frontier. She is pouring great masses of troops into the west and the frontier has been closed as a precaution against any of their movements becoming known.

GERMAN PLIGHT ADMITTED

"Frankfurter Zeitung" Calls Nation "Besieged Fortress."

London.—Grave admission of Germany's plight is contained in a review of the war up to date in the Frankfurter Zeitung, which says in part: "Germany is a besieged fortress. Therefore everything depends upon the besiegers as to when an end will be made of the bloody work. That Germany will never haul down its flag we know very well; but our enemies do not know it."

GERARD SENDS PRISON REPORT

Barracks at Ruhleben for British in Deplorable Condition.

London.—A dark picture of the treatment of British prisoners at the Rehleben camp, in Germany, where civilians are interned, is given in a report by Dr. Alonzo E. Taylor, Attache of the American Embassy at Berlin. The report reached Viscount Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, from James W. Gerard, American Ambassador to Germany, through Walter Hines Page, Ambassador to Great Britain.

Higher Education In Home

One advantage that the college woman has over her self-taught sisters, when it comes, to efficient housekeeping, is her knowledge of the ideas back of certain household mechanism and her understanding not only of the results that follow various conditions but of why such results come about.

Every house wife knows, or should know, the elements upon which the ice-box is constructed. She should know that cold air is heavier than warm air, and that therefore the cold air drops. The ice is placed in the upper part of the refrigerator. The air in contact with it is cooled, and therefore contracts and becomes heavier, volume for volume, than the remainder of the air in the refrigerator. This cold, heavy air sinks down through an opening in the bottom of the ice-chamber and forces the lighter warm air up along the sides of the refrigerator to the ice, which causes the melting process.

The mistake which many housekeepers make with regard to their ice-boxes is due to a lack of understanding about the action of heat. They are chary of opening the upper chamber, where the ice is kept, thinking that this will melt the ice and so cool the ice-box; whereas it is the lower chamber, where the food is kept, that they should be careful about opening too often, or leaving open. Each time the lower door of the refrigerator is opened, the cold air comes out at the bottom and is replaced by warm air. This admits heat to the refrigerator. Many housewives are careless about letting these lower doors stand open while they are using the foods stored away there, thus losing most of the cold air they have been so careful to collect, while they watchfully guard the lid of the ice-box to keep the warm air away from the ice, not realizing that although some of the ice might be melted in this way it would not begin to warm the refrigerator as opening the lower doors would do.

Now, while cold drops, or travels down, heat rises or ascends, and is forced upward by the cold air currents. Thus it will be seen that the heat from a fire travels in the opposite direction from the cold sent out by the ice. Hence while the ice box is kept closed at the top, so that the cold air may not be wasted, a stove is kept open at the top so that the heated air may not be wasted.

The building of a fire was one of the first activities of civilization. From the earliest blaze of dried sticks, kindled by a spark from two stones struck together, down to the modern gas or electric range is a far cry; but the ideas of fire making have never been deviated from. Benjamin Franklin built the first stove in 1842, and ever since then the action of the ordinary cooking stove has been studied and developed and made applicable to all sorts of heating.

Strangely enough, however, the home woman, who has had more to do with the kitchen fire than has anyone else, has known little about the stove except to make a fire as she was taught, experiment with the dampers, and try to regulate oven heat. She has never understood just how to keep her house warm in winter and cool in summer, although if she had been taught the action of air currents she would have known. Her house, for example, would be much cooler in summer if she opened the windows at both top and bottom, instead of merely at the bottom or the top. Cold air we have learned, sinks, while warm air rises. Therefore, opening a window at both bottom and top lets the warm air escape, and the cool enter—the colder currents forcing the warmer ones up and out.

Another point based on the action of air currents is that if a door leading from a warm room into a cold room is opened, the cold air enters the room at the bottom and forces the warm air out at the top. Some housekeepers have an idea that they keep their houses warmer or cooler by keeping their rooms closed up. According to this rule, letting the heat of the warm room out into the cool would give a cooler ventilation, as the same amount of cold air would enter the warm room and two rooms hold more air than one. It would simply be a question of providing an outlet for the warm air at the top.

The modern woman will acquaint herself with these facts about the whys and wherefores of the results she wishes to get. She will look beyond the surface of her apparatus and try to understand how it works. She will know, for example, not only how her walls are papered but what lies beneath the paper. She will learn that house walls are made of layers of non-conducting material, with a layer of air between them. The inside surface of the inner layer absorbs heat from the air and radiates part of it back into the room. Part, however, is conducted through the layer by radiation. The inner surface of the outer layer absorbs this heat and radiates part of it back to the inner layer. Part of it, however, is conducted through and converted into the outer air.

Every woman who manages a home should understand the basic things as well as the surface things about it, if she would handle her house and her work intelligently. The higher education of the housewife is demanded in these days of better system, wiser management, and the best results with the minimum effort and expenditure of time.

GRANTSVILLE.

A picnic was held on Thursday afternoon by the members of the Lutheran Cradle Roll department, the party consisting of the mothers and their babies and superintendent, Mrs. Chas. B. Getty. The mothers who were present with their babies were Mrs. Henry Schaefer, Mrs. J. A. Carney, Mrs. Ira Wright, Mrs. Albert Swauger, Mrs. Howard Ringer, Mrs. Joel Miller, Mrs. George Younkin, Mrs. Arthur Shirer, Mrs. Edgar Roberts. Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Oney were also present, Mrs. Oney bringing some pretty jars of Reymer's candy for the babies. Refreshments, consisting of icecream, cake, and sandwiches were provided by the ladies. Pretty souvenirs, in the shape of a cradle, were given the mothers by the superintendent, and tiny "cradle roll" felt penants to the babies. The afternoon was spent in the Casselman orchard, near the pavillion, and all enjoyed it immensely. This department numbers about twenty-two babies, there having been several removals and a few have been promoted to the beginners department which occurs when the babies are four years old.

Mrs. J. W. Delany entertained about thirty guests at the Evans bungalow by giving a marshmallow roast. Most of the guests were from town. Dancing and games were indulged in, music being provided by the Victrola. Refreshments were served.

Several picnic parties were held at the river by the young people and children during the week. Boating and swimming are daily pastimes, the cool retreat of the riverside being ideally pleasant these hot days.

Miss Margaret Gailey, of Carden, Md., and Miss Mary Porter, of Oakland, are guests of Miss Ruth Keller.

Mrs. Will Folk, of Jennings, was a business visitor in Grantsville, Saturday.

Chas. Bonig, from Cumberland, spent a few days with his brother, H. C. Bonig, of this place.

Dr. J. C. Carney spent a few days at Belleville, Pa., last week, visiting his mother, who is quite ill. Rev. W. H. B. Carney, of Garrett, accompanied his brother home.

Mrs. Sophia Winterberg has been spending a fortnight with her daughter, Mrs. Lydia Wiley, of Bittinger.

Mrs. Ida Hershberger is having her residence painted, the work being done by Forest Beachy and Jonah Johnson.

Misses Minnie Miller and Amelia Frantz, are spending their vacation in Akron, Ohio.

Dr. A. F. Speicher, wife and daughter, of Los Angeles, Cal., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bill last week.

Ward Beachy and son, Lee, have been plastering and repairing the home of Michael Nathan.

Miss Anna Brady, Anna Gehaut and Nellie Johns, of Frostburg, returned home after two weeks at the Casselman.

Miss Minnie Rush has been ill with the measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Bowen, from the Eastern Shore of Maryland, returned home after a week's visit with their son, Dr. R. C. Bowen.

Miss Ora Crowe, of Frostburg, is a guest of Miss Thelma Glotfelty.

Mr. and Mrs. Goddard Doerr were Cumberland visitors last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley G. Ambell and neice, Gladys, of Pittsburgh, spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ambell, at the Kurtz farm.

Mrs. Harvey Parsons spent part of last week as the guest of Mrs. Fred Livengood.

Mrs. D. H. Woltersberger, of Rockwood, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Swauger, last Thursday.

Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Lichty and daughters, Misses Helen and Hilda, and Miss Miriam Glessner were guests of Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Keller on Sunday.

Misses Hattie and Madge Enlow and Icie Friend, and Albert and Clifford Enlow, of Friendsville, were guests of Mrs. Susan Durst, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wass, of Addison, Pa., were the guests of Mrs. Mary Miller one day last week.

KITZMILLER

Kitzmiller is to have another Chautauqua. The Radcliffe's attraction will be here on August 19, 21 and 22.

Tuesday evening last The Royal Neighbors of America gave a social to the Modern Woodmen of America in the K. of P. Hall. Mrs. Catherine Murphy was toastmistress.

On Friday evening last friends of John J. Thrasher tendered him a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Browning, in honor of his anniversary. Those present were: Dr. and Mrs. Judson Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Otis E. Abernathy, Mrs. Sue Laughlin and Hallie Hartley, Misses Caroline Walker, Kate Walker, Rene Pew, Gladys Hamill, Jane Long, Georgia Junkins, Alice Campbell, Mae Abernathy, Beryl Abernathy, Mary Sprague and Iva Bishop; Messrs. TRADE STRUGGLE TO COME AT WAR'S END

U. S. Must Maintain Big Efforts And Keep Gold To Hold Business Lead.

(By Henry M. Hyde.)

We've got to keep on selling patent medicine to Patagonia, typewriters to Timbuctoo, canned goods to Canada, groceries to Greece, mouse traps to Mesoptamia, and everything else we can raise or make to all the rest of the world.

Else when peace comes in Europe panic may come in the United States. Many factories will close down; a lot of us will be out of jobs; there will be the devil to pay generally.

That is what many of the great bankers and industrial leaders say. They say that prosperity depends on a country's having a lot of gold in its vaults. When you have the gold, you can issue notes against it, make loans, build new factories, keep things running. When the gold is gone everything else goes with it. Hard times come.

The way to get gold is to sell more to other countries than the other countries sell to you. Then they have to settle the balance in gold, which you tuck away in your vaults.

When you buy more abroad than you sell, the gold has to be taken out of the vaults and sent across the sea to the amount of the balance you owe.

That's why the United States must plan to keep its foreign trade up to a high point after the war if it wants to continue prosperous.

For the year ending the last of June, 1916, the United States sold to foreign countries goods worth two billion dollars more than the value of the goods it brought from foreign countries during the same time. That is a pretty tidy balance of trade in our favor. It means that the United States now has the greatest stock of gold on hand in the whole world.

"When the war is ended," he said, "we will find all Europe depleted of its gold. Its first object will be to rebuild its stock of gold. The point of attack will be our gold reserves. The methods they will adopt will be every means known to trade and commerce by which merchandise, securties, and credits can be exchanged for gold. We are establishing a price basis here which will make us a good market to sell in and a bad market to buy in. We've got a big job on our hands."

What plans is the United States making to continue and extend its foreign trade and thus preserve its gold reserve? Before an attempt is made to answer that question, it may be interesting to take a look at what the nations now at war are doing.

All the world knows how the government of Great Britain has been obliged to take over 3,000 great factories for the manufacture of war materials. At the same time 4,000,000 men have been enlisted and trained to arms. To partly take the place of the absent soldiers hundreds of thousands of women have gone to work in the factories.

Yet side by side with this tremendous military effort the making of goods for the export trade has apparently gone on unhampered, so great has been the increase in efficiency.

It is a startling fact that the total exports of Great Britain for May, 1916, were greater in value than for May, 1914, before the great war began.

Lloyd-George declares that the improvements in the organization of industry and in the efficiency of the workman—under the pressure of necessity—and the more effective control of the liquor industry, resulting from the war, will more than copmensate the nation for its economic losses.

American business men will face, after the war, competition infinitely keener, better organized, more efficient than they have ever met before. Devastated Europe will throw the energies of ten million hard and disciplined men into the fight for world trade, backed, if need be, by the newly trained labor of a million or more women.

As in Great Britain, so in France. A month after the war started the industrial life of the republic was at a standstill. Her great supplies of raw material, of coal and iron, her most important manufacturing districts, were and still are—in the possession of the enemy. Yet in two years France has built new factories, installed new machinery, trained new workmen, until today, as Andre Lebon, former minister of commerce, declares, "she has become a greater manufacturing and industrial country than ever before."

Scores of sleepy French cities and villages have been transformed into busy manufacturing towns. More than 125,000 French women are working in the munition factories. Tens of thousands of others are learning trades, with the object of entering civil industries from which they have hitherto been excluded.

"Many factories have transformed their plants," says Minister Lebon, "to make the work easier for feminine fingers. The hat factories, for instance, have substituted aluminum shapes for the much heavier zinc shapes used by men before the war."

Who that knows German efficiency and foresight before the war can doubt the almost superhuman efforts that nation is making to be ready for the new war of commerce when peace shall have been declared on the field of battle?

And it is not only newly organized and newly energized peoples—backed by all sorts of government aids and subsidies—that the commerce of the United States will be called on to face.

Already the entente allies have signed a trade treaty which binds them together in a great league for mutual commercial conservation and conquest. There is danger in this league, not only to the foreign trade of the United States but even, conceivably, to the peace of the country.

A similar band is said to have been signed among the central powers and their allies.

Once the war is over the world will be a far different place. In the coming struggle for foreign trade the most bitter competition of former days will appear mild and gentle.

A GREAT GATHERING

Snmmer Meeting Maryland State Horticultural Society.

The Summer Meeting of the Maryland State Horticultural Society will be held at Hancock, Md., Aug. 29-30.

This will afford a splendid opportunity for the members from all parts of the State to see the great progress and development of the fruit industry of that section of Washington county. Within a radius of a few miles around Hancock there are growing about 300,000 fruit trees, both peach and apple, the majority of which are bearing. The principal object of the Summer Meetngs is to permit the members to not only acquaint themselves with the great development of the horticultural industry in various parts of Maryland, but to also study methods practiced by the growers in the culture of trees and handling of the fruit.

The members of the Society, and all others interested in the industry, are invited to assemble in Hancock on the evening of August 29th. A meeting will be held in the town hall, which will be addressed by prominent speakers. On Wednesday, August 30th, 9 a. m., the visitors will be conducted through the orchards of the vicinity in automobiles, as guests of the citizens and fruit growers of Hancock.

Dinner will be served at 1 p. m., and this will be followed by a general meeting, extending from 2 to 4 p. m. It is hoped to have a demonstration of packing apples and explanation of the new Maryland Apple Grading and Packing Law that went into effect July 1st, 1916.

A most helpful and pleasant outing is promised all who attend. The Committee of citizens and growers of Hancock extend a cordial invitation to all. Hancock will celebrate its Home-Coming Week during that time, and great preparations are being made to accomodate the visitors.

Hancock is located upon the Old National Pike—is near Berkeley Springs; the Potomac River and Canal pass by the town. Four garages will be available for accommodation of machines.

It is hoped that all fruit growers and others interested will plan to attend this Summer Meeting of the Society. Complete program will be issued shortly.

For further information regarding the meeting write, Secretary T. B. Symons, College Park, Md.

Special arrangements are in progress for the annual meeting and exhibition of the Horticultural Society, which will be held in the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, "Maryland Week," November 14-18, 1916.

U. S. GOVERNMENT PREPARING FOR GOOD ROAD WORK

Preliminary Plans For Organization to Spend $15.000.000 Being Made By Federal Government.

As the first step in the federal governments part of spending $150,000,000 on good roads during the next five years in co-operation with the states, Secretary Houston soon will announce preliminary plans for organization and sometime before September 11 will notify the governors of states of the apportionment of federal funds for this year. A circular will also be sent to all the governors and state highway authorities outlining a tentative plan to procedure.

The $15,000,000 is to be paid half by the government and half by the several states, apportioned among the latter according to their respective area, population and rural mail route mileage.

The expenditnres are authorized by the Shackleford-Bankhead good roads law, the first granting federal aid to states in road building. It was signed July 11 by President Wilson and government officials are preparing to put its provisions into early operation. Actual construction of some of the roads may begin this fall and extensive construction next spring is planned.

Appropriations for the present year, ending July 1, 1917, authorized by Congress are $5,000,000. For the four succeeding years they are, respectively, $10,000,000; $15,000,000; $20,000,000 and $25,000,000. The law provides, however, that no government money shall be available unless the states spend an equal amount, matching the government contributors dollar for dollar.

Every cent of the federal and state funds, the act provides, shall be spent to build new roads. Maintenance costs thereafter must be borne by the states alone.

Rules and regulations to put the federal aid law as it is popularly known, into prompt operation are now being drafted by the Secretary of Agriculture, upon whom devolves practically the entire work of supervising the government expenditures. Immediate supervision will be by the Office of Public Roads and Rural Engineering, of which Logan Waller Page is director.

A conference of highway representatives of all states and, possibly of organizations interested in the good roads movement, engineering experts and others, to discuss measures for promulgating the new law is planned soon by Secretary Houston.

Apportionment among the several states of the $5,000,000 for the first year's work will soon be announced by Postmaster General Burleson, who is required to annually certify apportionments because of changes in rural post route mileages and population. The allotments will be made by the Secretary of Agriculture, one-third being based on the ratio which the population of each state bears to the total United States population, according to the latest census, one-third in the ratio which the mileage of rural post roads in each state bears to the total national mileage, and one-third in the ratio which the area of each state bears to the total area.

The approximate apportionments of this year's $5,000,000 appropriation, less three per cent for administrative expenses with those of other years in proportion, are as follows:

Alabama	$107,200
Arizona	71,750
Arkansas	84,850
California	155,750
Colorado	86,800
Connecticut	31,900
Delaware	8,300
Florida	56,050
Georgia	138,650
Idaho	62,750
Illinois	228,800
Indiana	140,600
Iowa	150,700
Kansas	148,750
Kentucky	100,600
Louisana	67,950
Maine	48,750
Maryland	44,150
Massachusetts	76,000
Michigan	150,650
Minnesota	146,050
Mississippi	91,400
Missouri	175,550
Montana	100,850
Nebraska	110,700
Nevada	69,950
New Hampshire	21,650
New Jersey	60,800
New Mexico	82,350
New York	258,500
North Carolina	116,400
North Dakota	78,400
Ohio	193,700
Oklahoma	118,250
Oregon	81,450
Pennsylvania	239,050
Rhode Island	12,050
South Carolina	74,100
South Dakota	83,750
Tennessee	118,250
Texas	301,050
Utah	59,950
Vermont	23,600
Virginia	102,000
Washington	73,250
West Virginia	55,050
Wisconsin	131,200
Wyoming	63,750

Routes and construction materials of the new roads are to be finally determined by the Secretary of Agriculture. No public road can be built until its location, cost and character are approved by him. Every road project with plans, specifications and cost estimates must be given his approval before any of the federal money shall be available. There is no specific requirement that such roads shall be permanent, but the act declares they shall be "substantial in character," the Secretary being given discretion to construe the question of question of substantiability in each separate case.

A limit $10,000 per mile, however, is the maximum fixed by the law to prevent use of the government funds in building costly boulevards which would not assist in rural development.

Whether the new roads built under the law shall be main-traveled trunk lines, connecting inter-state highways, or merely small sections scattered throughout the states is also left to the discretion of the Secretary of Agriculture. Construction of both is expected. At the proposed conference of state highway representatives here, it is believed that proposals for a comprehensive, correlative road building scheme will be reached. The American Highway Association, the American Automobile Association and other good roads organizations are interested in such coordination and correlation of the public roads throughout the entire nation. Development of the national road scheme and aim of government officials, with the aid of state authorities.

The machinery for co-operative action is substantially as follows: States desiring to secure their share of the federal funds will, through their highway commissions or departments, file formal applications, submitting the route and character of roads proposed to the Secretary of Agriculture. Should he approve the projects, the Secretary of Agriculture will notify the state commissions and the Secretary of the Treasury. The latter will then set aside the share of the United States, which shall not exceed fifty per cent. of the cost. The Secretary of Agriculture will order payment of the federal funds upon completion of the roads, and is also authorized to make partial payments as construction proceeds

The construction work and labor in each state is to be done in accordance with state laws and under immediate supervision of the state highway department, subject to inspection and approval by government engineers. This leaves the state in control of the construction, subject only to insure good designs.

Selection of road routes, as well as their type and structural composition, is also left primarily to the state officials, subject to approval or rejection by the Secretary of Agriculture.

To secure a share of the federal funds, state legislatures or counties must appropriate sums equal to the federal allotments. The act also requires formation of state highway commissions, or a similar state agency, to have charge of the state's part of the work. Four states, Indiana, South Carolina, Georgia and Texas, have no such organizations, but to secure federal funds they must be organized. Other states have no highway commissions, but have substantially similar departments or agencies.

When states, like Illinois, are prohibited by their constitutions or otherwise prevented from acting under the proposed contributory plan, the act provides that the federal appropriations may become available to separate counties when they shall match the government's contributions, such roads, of course, being built only within the contributing counties.

To give the state ample time to build roads and to guard against hasty or extravagant construction, the law also provides that unexpended federal appropriations each year shall be available during the succeeding year, while this year's allotments to states which have no highway departments shall be available for three years, to give state legislatures time to create such departments.

For enforcement of the provision requiring the states to maintain the new roads without federal aseistance, the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to disapprove of further roads projects from such states or their civil subdivisions and deny further government aid if roads are not put in proper condition after four month's notice.

Development of a federal corps of highway engineers is one of the results expected from the new law. Civil service examinations will be held August 8 for many more highway engineers needed by the government.

SKY FLARED WITH BRILLIANT RED GLOW

Weather Bureau of Philadelphia Explains Cause, But it Does Not Fit Here.

Many comments have been heard regarding the unusual and strange concition of the heavens over Oakland about eight o'clock Sunday night and again on Monday night when, for more than fifteen minutes the western sky flared with a brilliant red glow that caused many persons, for a time, to become alarmed. After about a quarter of an hour the glow gradually faded away and the heavens resumed their natural appearance.

The Philadelphia North American had the following to say Tuesday in reference to the Philadelphia weather bureau's explanation of the phenomenon:

"The weather bureau's explanation of the phenomenon is that a hazy atmosphere and unusually low clouds reflected the lights of the city and blast furnaces in towns along the Schuylkill river. Prof. Eric Doolittle, in charge of the Flower observatory of the University of Pennsylvania, gave a similar explanation."

The Philadelphia weather bureau will have to give a different explanation than that of the heaven's condition for there are no blast furnaces in this section to cause such an illumination, and it is hardly possible that the glare from such furnaces in and around Philadelphia would be powerful enough to carry their glare to the sky and spread out to the extreme western section of Maryland.

The development of an eight brings up problems entirely different from those involved in a four or a six. And the Briscoe organization had learned to solve those problems before they placed the car on the market—they did not have to learn from the experience of owners.

You will find the Briscoe Eight-38 a revelation in smoothness, in vitality, in a vibrationless delivery of power that seems to propel your car along as though it were drawn by invisible hands.

And—again because of Briscoe experience—you will find lubrication thorough, and gasoline consumption per horse power lower than that of many fours.

Whenever you say the word we'll be glad to let you test for yourself the sweetest motor you ever rode behind.

BRING THEM BACK.

There is a good deal of justice in the demand made by United States Senator Townshend the other day that the state militia troops now on the Mexican border be ordered back home to take up their usual pursuits.

Notwithstanding the refusal of Huerta to salute the flag, notwithstanding the battle of Vera Cruz, notwithstanding the shooting and looting at Columbus, notwithstanding the massacre at Carrizal, the President insists that there is nothing between Mexico and the United States justifying beligerency, and that the few differences that have occurred may be determined by peaceful arbitration, so what is the use of maintaining a force of at least one hundred thousand troops on the Mexican border at the enormous expense it must involve?

It certainly is not meant that this number of troops will be required to police the border and protect American property in that territory. If that is so we are in a bad way at the southern end of our United States, and the sooner we have a reckoning that will secure safety for border interests the better it will be for all concerned.

The crying need of the country today is for a better understanding of the President's Mexican policy.

ALMOST A SCHISM.

President Wilson has been playing politics a little bit during these halcyon days of preparedness and backpedaling, and it is likely to get him into the hottest kind of water before he is through with it.

The other day he walked over to the Capitol, where congress was in session, and taking out his pencil, in the presence of a few of the choicest leaders of his party, suggested that it was high time this session of congress were coming to a close, but he also suggested that there were several important matters of legislation not yet acted upon, that must be pushed through. One of these items proved to be the preparedness naval program which grabbed off three hundred million and provided for sixty-six craft; another was the enlargement of the power of the federal reserve banks; another the workmen's compensation act, and last, but not least, the child labor legislation, by which it is sought to provide a certain amount of government supervision over the employment of the country's youth.

The last item penciled was the straw that broke the backs of the senators and members from the South, and after the President's suggestion soaked in through public channels, and the members began to hear from back home a howl was raised on the majority sides of both branches of congress that gives no indications of subsiding and will result in the certain shelving of any serious consideration of this humane measure. And the President's friends are having an awful time convincing the hot-blooded southern proletariat that their chief was only playing a little politics, and that child labor regulation would keep until another congress.

THE VALUE OF A SMILE.

Statisticians accurately measure the wealth of the mines and of the farms and even of the sea and the air—billions upon billions.

But there are no figures vast enough to express the value to mankind of so small and simple a thing as a smile,

It is a material world. We value as riches only the tangible things we can grasp and hold in our hands. And yet, the real treasures of life, which give to all these outward things their meaning, are of the heart.

Tangible riches? Why, but for so "tangible" a thing as sunlight, the whole material universe would be black nothingness; but for "tangible" heat, not the smallest atom of earth could exist; but for "intangible" colors and fragrance, the sweetest flower would be a weed; and, but for the "intangible" light and warmth and fragrance of a smile, the most perfectly human face could be but a lifeless cast.

It would be very interesting and highly instructive if one could compute the value of the part which the smile has played in the history of humanity. But, like the ray of sunshine that comes from the boundless heart of universal love, it is free—it costs nothing—and so cannot be relatively valued. And like the sunshine again, it gilds with glory all it falls upon, and so is limitless in value.

Impossible as this computation, there are few of us who have not learned that it is a smile, not a frown, which makes things move in this world. If you don't know this, a college diploma, certifying that you are educated, is a joke, or a gray head, indicating practical experience, is a mockery.

STUDYING COAL SEAM IN CREEK REGION

Bulletin On W. Md. Coal Fields Soon to Be Issued By State.

William A. Baker of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, who has been doing post graduate work at the University, is at Frostburg for the summer securing data of local coal seams. He is working for the Maryland Geological Survey under direction of Dr. Charles K. Swartz, who is preparing to issue a new bulletin of the coal seams underlying the George's Creek and Upper Potomac coal basins. Dr. Swartz is associate professor of Geology at Johns Hopkins and is in charge of field work in Western Maryland. He has been working in collaboration with the U. S. Geological Survey for the past three years on the new bulletin of Western Maryland Coal seams which when completed will be the most comphrehensive work of its kind ever gotten out.

Mr. Baker has been obtaining a description of the methods and equipment being made use of at the present time for mining the smaller coal seams. He is also securing samples of the different coal seams being mined at the present time and the lower seams which have been reached by test holes or are exposed at points of outcrop.

In connection with this work Mr. Baker is making a property map of the George's Creek coal basin and Ex-Senator Brown, of Garrett county, is making a similiar map of the Upper Potomac basin for the use of the State and Federal Geological surveys.

The fire clays of the region are also being studied. At the present time the clays of the region are being examined by Dr. Watts, of the Ohio State University, Dr. Shurecht of the Federal Bureau of Mines and G. M. Hall, of Johns Hopkins University. They are taking samples of the clay for future testing.

An exchange for the benefit of the Lutheran church of Oakland will be conducted by the ladies of the church at the hardware store of Mr. C. N. McIntire on Saturday afternoon from 2:30 until 6 o'clock when they will offer pastry, bread, etc., for sale.

WILSON'S ADMINISTRATION TARGET FOR HUGHES

Ex-Jurist. Accepting Republican Nomination. Critises President's Acts.

New York, July 31.—Charles E. Hughes, who resigned as an associate justice of the United States Supreme Court to become the candidate of the Republican party for President, tonight was formally notified of his nomination.

The speech of notified of his nomination was delivered in Carnegie Hall by United States Senator Warren G. Harding, of Ohio. In his reply, in which he announced his acceptance of the nomination, Mr. Hugnes assailed President Wilson's administration generally and declared that new policies were needed.

Mr. Hughes criticized the Administration for the course it had pursued with reference to Mexico, maintenance of American rights during the European war, preparedness and other great questions of the day. He declared for a new policy of "firmness and consistency" towards Mexico, for "the unflinching maintenance of all American rights on land and sea," and for "adequate national defense; adequate protection on both our western and eastern coasts."

"We denounce all plots and conspiracies in the interest of any foreign nation," Mr. Hughes said. "Utterly intolerable is the use of our soil for alien intrigues. Every American must unreservedly condemn them and support every effort for their suppression."

The nominee assailed the Administration for its "direction of diplomatic intercourse" from the beginning, declaring that where there should have been conspicuous strength and expertness there had been weakness and inexpertness. He cited San Domingo as an instance where appointments had gone to "deserving Democrats" and to the failure to continue Ambassador Herrick at his post in Paris after the war had started as "a lamentable sacrifice for international repute."

In notifying Mr. Hughes of his nomination, Senator Harding said, in part:

"Notwithstanding your holding aloof from all conference and participation, that unfailing understanding which directs popular sentiment to highest victory called you to the service of the party and the nation. Your record of public service, your well-known and courageous views on public questions when in executive position, your abiding devotion to Republicanism, your possession of a confidence which has united all believers in Republican policies under our party banner, your unalterable and abiding Americanism, your high personal character and well-known capacity—all these have fixed you in the American mind as the best exponent of Republican principles and the wisest leader to restore American prestige and efficient government.

"We bring you now the commission to that leadership. We bring it in full confidence that the people will gladly acclaim the Republican restoration under your trusted leadership. We bring in the highest appreciation of that peace of right and justice which your unwavering Americanism will hold secure rather than endanger. We bring it in the strong belief that American material good fortune, under Republican industrial preparedness, will be the glad reex of our own peace and the world's peace and to be held permanent under Republican protection. We bring it in firm conviction that you, sir, will hold that platform promises constitute a sacred party covenant, and the expressed will of the people at the polls must find response in capable and efficient administration.

"Aye, sir, we bring it believing you will add to our self-respect, confidence and good fortune at home and to that respect and good opinion abroad which meets our higher American aspirations."

THE DEATH RECORD.

THEODORE BECKMAN.

Theodore Beckman, one of the oldest and best known residents of Garrett county, died at his home near Swanton on Thursday after an illness of two weeks following his being overcome by the heat whilst engaged in raking hay in one of his fields. Mr. Beckman was aged a little more than eighty years and was born in either Allegany or Garrett county shortly after his parents arrived in this country from Germany. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Louise O'Brien, and also by twelve of his thirteen children. His funeral occurred on Saturday with interment on the Fitzwater farm near North Glade, the services being conducted by the Rev. J. L. Marvin, pastor of the Bittinger Circuit Lutheran church, Mr. Beckman being a member of the Meadow Mountain congregation of that denomination. Mr. Beckman was a man of many charitable traits and was beloved by his many friends and neighbors.

Miss Clare Painter, of Greensburg, Pa., is here as the guest of Miss Grace Jones, having arrived Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Harland L. Jones returned home Saturday night from Philippi, West Va., where she had been to attend the funeral of her uncle.

Attorney Julius C. Renninger returned from Illinois Saturday where he had been on professional business for upwards of two weeks.

Mrs. Lawrence Fraley was taken ill with an attack of appendicitis Sunday and suffered severely for a day or two, but is now somewhat improved.

Mr. Charles H. Linville spent Saturday and Sunday with his family in Oakland. He returned to Baltimore Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Linville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Mason, of Covington, Ky., spent several days last week in Oakland seeing friends and relatives. They returned to Covington Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Falkenstein, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Grace Falkenstein and by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Falkenstein, of the Park, spent Sunday with relatives in Terra Alta.

Mr. John Speicher, formerly of Deer Park, but for several years past a prominent and leading merchant of Terra Alta, West Va., visited Oakland on business last Thursday when he called at this office.

Mr. George W. Walter, of near Altamont, was in the city Tuesday on business connected with the building of a proposed new road in District No. 10, notice of which is printed elsewhere in this paper today.

Mr. M. Wellington Crane, of Atlanta, Georgia, is spending a few days in Oakland with friends and relatives, having arrived here on Saturday last. He is now in charge of the Southern sales agency of the Standard Paint Company with headquarters at Atlanta.

Mr. George W. Grose, of Cumberland, was in the city last Saturday on business connected with his marble and granite works located at Hyndman, Pa. If Mr. Grose can secure a location in Oakland it is his intention to move his Hyndman yards to this point.

Mr. W. W. Doub, of Frederick, secretary of the People's Insurance Company of Maryland, which corporation has its main offices in Frederick, was in Oakland Saturday on business for his company, having motored here from his home. He was accompanied by his son, Donald.

Rev. and Mrs. O. A. Bremer, accompanied by Mr. Jesse Bremer, who is here on a visit to the minister and his wife, left Oakland Monday morning for a month's outing at Morris Park on Cheat River. Mr. Bremer will be in Oakland, however, on each Sabbath to conduct services in the local Lutheran church.

The three weekly newspapers of Elkins, West Virginia, the Intermountain, the Randolph Review and the Randolph Enterprise, have agreed to raise the yearly subscription price of each 50 cents. The publishers announce that they would have to get out of business if the old prices were maintained, owing to the advance in the cost of paper, ink and other supplies.

Mr. Charles H. Shaffer, of District No. 8, who has been in the employ of the Government at Washigton for a number of years, holding the position of clerk in the Patent Office, has recently been promoted to the position of Assistant Examiner, which carries a salary of upwards of $2500 per year. The many Garrett county friends of Mr. Shaffer will be glad to learn of his promotion.

Attorney Wm. M. Somerville, of Cumberland, was in the city yesterday on business connected with the mortgagee's sale of the coal lands belonging to the Waitman Smokeless Coal Company of Garrett county, which was to occur in front of the court house at two o'clock. The sale, however, has been postponed and will occur at the same place and hour on the 12th inst., as advertised in this paper today.

Dr. Lewis H. Howard, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Howard, of Oakland, who recently graduated from one of the medical institutions in Baltimure, has successfully passed the state examination permitting him to practice in West Virginia. At present Dr. Howard is chief accident surgeon in Mercy Hospital, Baltimore, where he will remain for several months and then locate permanently at some point in West Virginia.

Dr. A. F. Speicher, of Los Angeles, Cal., accompanied by Mrs. Speicher and their two daughters, Misses Maud and Elizabeth, visited Oakland and Mountain Lake Park last Thursday, having motored here from Accident, where they are visiting relatives, with Senator Speicher. From Accident Dr. Speicher will go to points in Pennsylvania and renew old friendships before returning to his western home.

Mrs. G. A. Bolden, of Charleston, West Va., accompanied by her daughter-in-law Mrs. George Bolden and little grandson, arrived in Oakland Sunday morning and will remain here for some time as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Naylor. Mrs. Bolden was a passenger on train No. 12 which was wrecked in the Burnt Tunnel, near Parkersburg, West Va., Saturday afternoon when the locomotive and six cars of the train were derailed. Fortunately none of the more than one hundred passengers aboard it were injured.

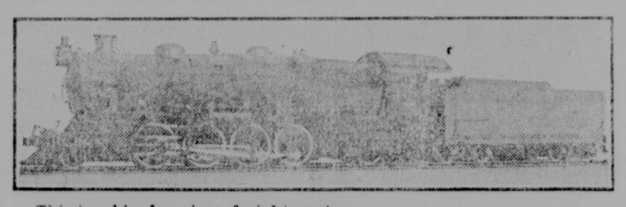
Cheap Transportation Has Built National Prosperity



This is a big American freight engine.

It is an achievement of AMERICAN INVENTIVE GENIUS.

It is built to HAUL LONG TRAINS loaded with the products of American industry from the mines, farms, mills and factories to the markets of the country, and to the seaboard for shipment across the seas.

In all the wonderful history of American industrial progress NO PIECE OF MACHINERY HAS PERFORMED SUCH SERVICE AS THE BIG FREIGHT LOCOMOTIVE.

Freight is carried on our railroads at the LOWEST RATES IN THE WORLD, while we pay our railroad workers the HIGHEST WAGES IN THE WORLD. A TON OF FREIGHT IN THE EAST IS CARRIED THREE MILES FOR THE COST OF A TWO-CENT POSTAGE STAMP.

The big freight engine with its enormous tractive power, the big steel freight car with its great carrying capacity, and the heavy rails and rock-ballasted roadbed to support the weight of the great engines and heavy trains—these are the achievements of American industrial genius which have given us low freight rates and broad markets, and have enabled us to put our products in the markets of the world in competition with foreign manufacturers.

But now come well-meaning but short-sighted leaders of American railroad workers who say to the railroad managers:

"SHORTEN YOUR FREIGHT TRAINS so that the enginemen and trainmen can haul the tonnage faster over the roads, and so make as many miles pay in eight hours as they now do in ten hours."

To the State Legislatures these same spokesmen for the railroad workers say:

"Pass laws LIMITING THE LENGTH OF FREIGHT TRAINS—we oppose big tonnage trains."

To the Farmers, Manufacturers, and Merchants they say:

"With shorter freight trains railroads can move your products faster to the markets."

To the American Public that pays every dollar of the railroad bill (and 44 cents of every dollar paid for transportation is for wages), they say:

"All that the railroads have to do to meet our demands for higher wages is to shorten their trains, move the freight more rapidly and escape the penalty of overtime wages."

What would be the result of taking these leaders of the 350,000 train employes at their word—shorten freight trains so that they can be run at higher speed?

Increasing the number of trains to handle the same tonnage would call for more employes to do the same work, more tracks, larger yards and terminals, more supervision, and it is plain that there would be more congestion of traffic and greater hazards in train operation. Hundreds of millions a year would have to be spent by the railroads to increase their facilities and to operate the bigger plant.

IT WOULD BE AKIN TO USING HAND SHOVELS INSTEAD OF FIVE-TON STEAM DREDGES TO DIG A PANAMA CANAL.

American railroads have spent enormous amounts in reducing grades, cutting down mountains and filling up valleys; in increasing the hauling power of locomotives and the carrying capacity of cars; in putting down rock ballast and heavy rails—all for one purpose, to lower the cost of operation.

It is the public that has reaped the benefit—in better and cheaper railroad service.

If the railroads moved their tonnage in shorter trains at higher speeds, the public, it is seen, would have to shoulder a great burden in the increased cost of transportation.

Would the public get value received for its money?

Of the tonnage on the roads east of Chicago 60 per cent. consists of coal, coke, ores, stone and other mine products. To the public it is of no consequence whether this freight is a few hours longer on the road, so long as there is a continuous and regular stream of it coming to the markets.

FOUR-FIFTHS OF ALL THE TONNAGE MOVING IN THE EAST IS MADE UP OF LOW GRADE, SLOW MOVING FREIGHT, CARRIED AT THE LOWEST RATES IN THE WORLD.

To abandon the big freight trains on American railroads in order to increase the speed at which the bulk of the traffic moves, and thereby enable the train employes to earn higher wages in shorter hours, would place a great burden on American industry without giving the public any tangible benefit.

RAILWAY MAIL PAY.

Congress Directs Interstate Commerce Commission to Investigate Subject.

Washington.—The annual Post Office appropriation bill recently passed by Congress contains a clause directing the Interstate Commerce Commission to take up for investigation, report and the fixing of rates the system of payment to the railroads for carrying mail. The Commission is authorized to test the relative merits of payment by weight and by space.

The railroads have long contended that they were underpaid for this service and that they were losing millions of dollars a year under the system of payment now in effect. It was felt that the Interstate Commerce Commission, on account of the information at its command regarding all phases of railroad operation, is in the best position to determine the merits of the case.

GOVERNMENT SHOULD REGULATE WAGES.

If a set of conditions have arisen which oblige the government to regulate rates, then it is equally obliged, on the basis of economic analysis, to regulate wages accordingly. Having taken one step, it must take the other. The logic of events is forcing this dilemma on the government. It is the public which sooner or later must pay for the increased expenses of transportation.—Professor J. Laurence Laughlin, University of Chicago.

LONG HOURS A RARITY.

Only Once In Five Years Does Average Trainman Exceed Legal Limit.

That long hours in train service have been reduced to a minimum is shown by a report issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Only one employe in five on the average last year was compelled to remain on duty more than sixteen hours during any one day in the whole year. Stated in another way, the chance of an engineman or trainman remaining on duty beyond this prescribed limit was reduced to once in five years.

The total number of cases of excess service from all causes reported to the commission was only 61,247 during the year ending June 30, 1915, as compared with 137,439 in 1914 and 270,827 in 1913, and with rare exceptions these represented cases recognized as due to unavoidable causes.

Statistics on this subject are collected by the Interstate Commerce Commission under the national hours-of-service law. Every time a train is so delayed by a blizzard, washout or other cause that any part of the train crew is on duty longer than sixteen hours the railroad company must report the occurrence to the commission, giving the names of the individual employes concerned and a full statement of the cause for the excess service.

For several years the railroads and the Interstate Commerce Commission have been co-operating in efforts to prevent the keeping of employes on duty for long periods. The reduction of nearly 80 per cent. in such cases which has been brought about in three years shows that the working of men for long stretches of continuous service has practically disappeared except in rare cases of unavoidable delay.

ALFALFA OUR MOST VALUEABLE HAY CROP

Requires Good Soil For Successful Growth And A Well Prepared Seed Bed.

NICKOLAS SCHMITZ
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

No soil, regardless of type or location in the state, will produce fair crops of alfalfa unless it is fertile; producing at least 40 to 50 bushels (or 10 barrels) of corn per acre in a normal season. No amount of fertilizer applied either before or after seeding will make up for poor land at the start. Moreover, starting alfalfa under such conditions is indeed very expensive. If the land is poor it is far better to wait a few years and grow fertilizing crops, such as cowpeas, crimson clover, soybeans and red clover in the rotation before each money crop. If manure is available the more used the better. In fact, the supply of organic matter is a very important factor in alfalfa production. It is seldom that land very low in humus grows alfalfa successfully. Thus, the problem is one of supplying the proper amount of humus as well as supplying sufficient plant food.

Alfalfa Requires Drainage.

Drainage must be good. Alfalfa requires much more complete drainage than do other farm crops. Land inclined to be wet and springy in winter and early spring, although dry enough during the growing season to produce good crops of corn, wheats, oats and grass, is not drained well enough for alfalfa. On such land alfalfa is sure to be killed out sooner or later by heaving due to the frequent freezing and thawing so common some seasons.

Abundance Of Lime Needed.

Liming for alfalfa is absolutely necessary on practically all Maryland soils—even in the natural lime stone sections. It makes little or no difference what kind of lime is used if the proper amount of each is applied—it is a question of cost and ease of handling rather than the effect upon the alfalfa.

The amount of lime to use under average conditions is one ton per acre of Caustic lime, that is burnt stone or lump lime, ground lime or burnt oyster shells. Hydrated lime should be used at the rate of 2,600 to 2,700 pounds, and ground lime stone or ground oyster shells should be applied at the rate of 3,600 pounds to 2 tons per acre.

The best time to apply lime is the season before sowing the alfalfa. If, however, this is not convenient or impracticable, it may be applied just before, or even after seeding, with the assurance of good results and no injury.

Well Prepared Seed Bed.

Alfalfa requires more than any other farm crop, a thoroughly prepared seed bed for successful germination and early growth. Sowing alfalfa upon loose, freshly plowed land will, even under the most ideal weather conditions, result in little beyond dismal failure.

An ideal seed bed is one obtained by plowing the land in the fall, then in early spring harrowing it until the surface is smooth and thoroughly pulverized to a depth of about 2 inches. Hence, where alfalfa follows small grain, a clover, or timothy sod, the land should be plowed as soon as possible after the crop has been removed, thus allowing plenty of time for at least one or two good soaking rains to settle the soil well before seeding time. It must be remembered that frequent surface workings between the time of plowing and seeding are absolutely necessary to conserve moisture, kill weeds, and properly pulverize the surface.

GET READY FOR MARYLAND WEEK.

At the recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Maryland Agricultural Society and affiliated organizations, it was decided to hold the Maryland Week Exhibition this year from November 14 to 18. It is urged by the committee that local granges and farmers' clubs begin to plan at once for exhibits to the state show. It points out that members of such organizations have been in the past among the most active supporters of the show. With the passing years this competition has grown steadily keener and those organizations or individuals that win laurels at this year's show should be hard at work planning for their part in the big affair. There is no better way for the local grange or club to place itself and its neighborhood on the map than by winning a high place in the club exhibit class. The members who immediately after harvest turn their earnest attention to planning such an exhibit are laying the foundation for a fruitful career as the most useful organization of their community. Neither should they attempt such an exhibit without first holding a local show for the benefit of their own neighborhood. In this work the help of the County Demonstration Agent will be found of the greatest help. There is no work in which he is more anxious to succeed than in developing local spirit and pride in agricultural production.

FARM ANIMALS.

Guard carefully the health of the hogs and poultry. If hog cholera breaks out in the community, get in touch with your County Agent, and prepare to inoculate against the disease. Prompt action is necessary in such cases.

Are You Wasting The Price Of a Titan Engine?

TITAN engines run on kerosene.

Average cost of gasoline so far this year, 16.9 cents per gallon.

Average cost of kerosene 7.7 cents per gallon.

Gasoline costs over 100 per cent more than kerosene. Gasoline is going up steadily. Kerosene is not.

At present fuel prices Titan engines, using kerosene, save their owners about 1.1 cents per horse power per hour.

Are you running a gasoline engine? What horse power is it? Figure what you'd be saving if you had a Titan kerosene engine. Rather surprising, isn't it? How long would it take that saving to pay for a Titan engine of the same size?

RUSSIANS PUSH ON TO LEMBERG

Austro-German Lines West of Lutsk Pierced by the Czar's Troops

BRITISH OCCUPY LONGUEVAL

London.—Driving forward at two points less than sixty miles apart, Russian forces have captured Brody, in Galicia, and have broken the Austro-German first lines west of Lutsk, in Volhynia, according to the latest Russian official communication. In addition, the Russians have taken 9,000 prisoners and 46 guns. Vienna admits the penetration of the Austrian line on the Brody-Lesznuow road and says the Austrians are continuing the battle on the southern border of Brody.

The capture of Brody, an important railway junction, some fifty miles northeast of Lemberg, opens a direct road to the Galician capital. The occupation of the town also may have the effect of causing the entire Austrian line southward toward Tarpopol and Buczacz, which has been held tenaciously in face of Russian attacks, to fall back.

The success in Volhynia, while also a menace to Lemberg should General von Linsingen be unable to withstand the Russian attacks, which Petrograd reports are continuing, threatens the stronghold of Vladimir-Volynski and makes more insecure the Austro-German hold on Kovel.

British troops north of the Somme in France have succeeded in occupying the whole of Longueval against a stubborn defense by the Germans. Their march towards Bapaume also has been aided by the reoccupation of the Delville Wood, which was captured July 15 and surrendered a few days later in the face of German attacks. Fighting continues in the vicinity of Pozieres.

KAISER'S COUNTER DRIVE.

London.—The battle on the Somme front which began a week ago and has continued since with brief lulls is still being fought by British and Germans with utmost subbornness.

An indication of the importance the Germans attach to defending their third line is found in the report of Gen. Haig, the British commander, and in the German admission that troops have been brought from before Verdun in order to lend all possible strength to Gen. von Einem.

The British, although they are making only slow progress, have been able to repulse all the fierce German counter attacks and fully maintain their ground, although the fighting consists largely of hand to hand conflicts.

The British are tenaciously holding to the portions of the village from which they drove the Germans, and with their artillery fire have repulsed an attempt by the German infantry to regain possession of the northeastern portion.

While the German lines along the Dvina were crumpling up before one of the greatest and most furious attacks of the war, the Kaiser and his chief of staff were rushing with all speed toward the scene of the latest German disaster, oblivious for the time being to all developments on the western front.

GERMANS SHOOT CAPTAIN.

Berlin.—Captain Charles Fryatt, of the Great Eastern Railway steamship Brussels, which vessel was captured by German destroyers last month and taken into Zeebrugge, has been executed by shooting after trial before a German naval court-martial.

The death sentence was passed upon Captain Fryatt because of his alleged action in attempting previously to ram a German submarine.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

Rome reports a gain of ground for the Italians against the Austrians on the Tonezza Plateau, north of Monte Cimone, and in the Tofano region.

Outflanked north and south, it is considered impossible that Count von Bothmer can longer delay extricating himself from his precarious position, even if he can now do so without losses.

British casualties for three weeks have been 5,929 dead, of whom 1,640 were officers, and 41,831 wounded.

Turkish army estimated at 70,000 strong is now concentrated on the Hungarian plains for the defense of Hungary.

The English troops are continuing to gain important ground against the most desperate resistance yet faced in any theatre. With their full weight of guns and with thousands of trained reinforcements the Germans are contending every inch of the blood-soaked territory.

It is difficult to overestimate the value of the capture of Brody. It is the most important station between Lemberg and Dubno.

GOOD ROADS MOVE INTERESTS GARRETT COUNTY

Linked Highway Will Bring Thousands of Tourists Through Here.

The activity of good roads boosters reported in Tucker county, W. Va., which centered around a mass meeting in Thomas Friday evening, created some interest here. The building of good roads in Tucker and Preston county, W. Va., will supply one of the missing links in the Appalachian highway which is to extend from Maine to Louisiana along the crest of the Appalachian mountains.

Since the new road system in West Virginia will be connected to the Maryland highways near Oakland it is an assured fact that the Appalachan highway will traverse the National pike between points close enough to this place and Cumberland to make the project a matter of very great interest to Garrett county people.

The Southern Appalachian Good Roads Association, of which W. E. G. Hitchins, of Frostburg, is one of the vice presidents, is backing "The Appalachian Highway," one of the newest of the great through routes to attract public attention.

The project was launched at the Southern Appalachian good roads convention held in Bluefield, W. Va., October, 1915.

The route selected begins at Calais, Maine, and runs via Bangor, Maine; Montpelier, Vermont; Lake George and Albany, N. Y., Williamsport, Pa.; Oakland, Md.; Elkins and Bluefield, W. Va.; Bristol, Tenn.; Ashville, N. C.; Birmingham, Ala., to New Orleans. The route follows the chain of the Appalachian mountains and it is claimed that the highwaw will be the most beautiful from a scenic standpoint to be found anywhere in America.

BIBLE CONFERENCE

Will Be Held at Mountain Lake Park August 13-20.

The Bible Conference to be held at Mountain Lake Park, Md., will open Sunday, August 13, closing August 20. Because of the success attending this conference last year the Park Association has been led to ask the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago to again take full charge of the conference.

The Rev. Dr. James M. Gray, dean of the Institute, will preside, and, as last year will take the conference through the study of one or two books of the Bible with the aid of the blackboard. The music will be in charge of Prof E. O. Sellers, who will also give instruction in Sunday school management and work among the young, in both of which he is a specialist.

Charles G. Trumbull, of the Sunday School Times, and Fred L. Rosemond attorney, attorney, of Cambridge, Ohio, will repeat their morning talks on "The Victorious Life" and "Devotional Bible Study."

The Rev. George E. Guille, formerly a Presbyterian pastor at Augusta, Ga., and now conducting Bible conferences under the auspices of the Extension Department of the Moody Bible Institute will contribute a number of stereopticon lectures of interest and value.

Among the new speakers and teachers who will take part in the conference are the Rev. Luther K. Peacock, the noted evangelist, who spent three years as assistant to the Rev. Billy Sunday, but who is now with a party of experts, holding evangelistic campaigns in all parts of the country and meeting with marvelous success. Rev. Peacock is a great preacher and will appear on the program several times.

Another prominent speaker is pastor Joseph W. Kemp, formerly of Edinburg, who has been called "The Spurgeon of Scotland" and has now succeeded Dr. Robert S. MacArthur in Calvary Baptist Church, New York.

The Rev. Dr. Robert McWatty Russell, ex-moderator of the United Presbyterian Assembly and former president of Westminister College, New Wilmington, Pa., who now occupies the chairs of Bible Doctrine and Homiletics in the Moody Bible Institute, will be present during the entire conference.

Other speakers are the Rev. M. E. Dodds, D. D. of the First Baptist church, Shreveport, La., well known as a Bible teacher in conferences of the Southwest, Miss Elinor Stafford Miller, "The Australian Evangelist" an inspirational preacher of unusual power and Mrs. Margaret T. Russell, well known as a Bible teacher in the Southland. The names of other speakers and teachers who have been invited are Evangelist Henry W. Stough, Dr. Don S. Colt, Rev. Dr. W. R. Wedderspoon, Evangelist Bob Jones, Howard A. Banks, the secretary to the Secretary of the Navy. There will be a choir of 100 voices this year.

One of the features of the Mountain Lake Bible Conference is that there will be no charge for admission to the grounds and all of the meetings are free. The conference is supported by voluntary offerings.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mrs. Jennie Fee and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Fee, of Indianapolis, Indiana, have opened the Armstrong cottage. Mrs. Fee was in the B. & O. train No. 12 wreck last Saturday.

The Civic Club day, last Saturday, was a most enjoyable occasion. The moving pictures at night drew a great crowd.

The Epworth League Institute opens today (Thursday) and will continue for one week. Something interesting every day and night. Everybody invited to attend the exercises. Next Sabuath at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. the pulpit will be occupied by two great preachers. The night service will be one of the best held in the Park this season.

Many of the boarding houses are crowded to their full capacity. Nearly all the cottages are rented and enquiries are coming in daily for cottages and board. This month the Park will be crowded with people. There is a feeling among the summer visitors that the Park is on the upward grade. The enquiry for building lots is very encouraging. Mr. Ed. W. Westwood has taken charge of the lot sales department and is showing prospective purchasers lots.

The Park presents a very pleasing condition and the work of making it attractive is progressing nicely. Many improvements are taking place, houses are being painted, porches are being built, lawns are being beautified and other work done to make the Park attractive.

Superintendent Rudisill called on the Daily Press of Keyser and the Daily News of Cumberland last Friday and talked over the report they published about a girl being lured to the Park. The whole story originated in the brain of a crazy girl, who is now in the asylum at Sykesville, Md.

Dean J. E. Harry, of the University of Cincinnati, will deliver a beautifully illustrated lecture in the tabernacle on the 11th of this month. The subject is "The City Beautiful." Pictures of the beautiful cities of Athens, Rome, Florence, etc., will be thrown on the screen. The Cincinnatti Enquirer says, "Dean Harry is one of the most wonderfully equipped lecturers and teachers in America."

Do not miss the services in the auditorium next Sabbath. They will be worth going miles to hear.

The base ball grounds have been put in good shape and a team organized. Several games are in prospect. The lawn tennis courts are occupied all day long.

Dr. Riley, assistant secretary of the State Board of Health, is a guest of the Schrock Cottage. He is accompanied by Mrs. Riley and little son.

Those who attended the lecture last night were delighted. It was an hour of real enjoyable wit and humor. Dr. King knows how to make you laugh and make you feel good all over.

FAIR NOTES

Several Extraordinary Attractions Secured for This Year's Event.

The management announces several splendid attractions for the coming Fair, which were contracted for last week.

One is the Nigro's Greater Shows, one of the best and largest carnival companies now on the road and which showed in Cumberland during the past week or two. The company carries ten small tent shows, comprising an Old Plantation show, a $5000 Ostrich show, Motordrome, Ferris Wheel, Merry-go-Round and a fine brass band. A number of free attractions will go with this show.

The Boys Band of Cumberland, composed of trained musicians ranging in years from 15 to 19, has been engaged for the entire Fair and will give concerts both fore and afternoon.

A complete marble yard is one of the good things already secured where will be shown the method of cutting rude stone to beautiful statuary. This will be free to everyone and will be one of the best educational features of the Fair.

Sensational Smithson, one of the most daring artists, will span the air between two inclines on his bicycle and give the most thrilling exhibit ever seen at our Fairs.

The premium list, now in the hands of the printer and soon to be issued, will show many special premiums to be offered and the premiums offered by the Fair management will cover every product of our county.

Many new and attractive features will be added as the time for holding the Fair approaches and every citizen of the county should help to boost the event and make it the best ever held in the county. Great things are planned for the entertainment of the good people of this and the adjoining counties in Pennsylvania and West Virginia and with favorable weather Oakland will see one of the greatest crowds that ever visited here in her history.

County Superintendent F. E. Rathbun, and Attendance Officer B. H. Wiley were at their respective homes in Garrett county over Sunday, returning to Baltimore and their studies in that city Sunday night.

Mrs. George W. Haulenbeek, at her cottage, "Uplands," at Deer Park is entertaining her nephew, Mr. George Tompkins Connett, and his friend, Mr. Albert Forrest Perry, both of Newark, N. J. They will spend the month of August in the Alleghanies. Mrs. Elmer Haulenbeek and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Paul A. Trageser, and little daughter, Susan Anne, of Baltimore, are also at Uplands cottage.

Mr. John Stewart, of Morgantown, West Va., who was visiting his sister, Mrs. S. P. Newman, in Oakland, left here on Saturday afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. Newman, their objective point being Albright, West Va., where they were called by the death of their nephew, John Dunn, who was killed by falling from a load of hay which he was hauling from a field to his barn.

Notice to the Public

The undersigned has bought out the general store of Mr. J. S. Clary at Deer Park, Md., and will continue the business in the same building and in the same manner in which it has been conducted, and extends to the public generally a cordial invitation to call, get prices and see if we cannot do business.

Remember that satisfaction is guaranteed in every transaction.

Thanking you in advance.

I am very truly,
W. B. MILLER.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND CREATING A BUDGET SYSTEM.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1916, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 159 of said Acts, being an Act to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, "Legislative Department," of the Constitution of this State; and which said Act is in words and figures following:

"CHAPTER 159.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, regulating the making of appropriations by the General Assembly of Maryland in regular session, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two houses concurring.) That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 52 of Article III of the Constitution of Maryland.

Sec. 52. The General Assembly shall not appropriate any money out of the Treasry except in accordance with the followin provisions.

Sub Section A:

Every appropriation bill shall be either a Budget Bill, or a Supplementary Appropriation Bill, as hereinafter mentioned.

Sub-Section B:

First. Within twenty days after the convening of the General Assembly (except in the case of a newly elected Governor, and then within thirty days after his inauguration,) unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly for the session at which the Budget is to be submitted, the Governor shall submit to the General Assembly two budgets, one for each of the ensuing fiscal years. Each budget shall contain a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the particular fiscal year to which it relates; and shall show the estimated surplus or deficit of revenues at the end of such year. Accompanying each budget shall be a statement showing: (1) the revenues and expenditures for each of the two fiscal years next preceding; (2) the current assets, liabilities, reserves and surplus or deficit of the State; (3) the debts and funds of the State; (4) an estimate of the State's financial condition as of the beginning and end of each of the fiscal years covered by the two budgets above provided; (5) any explanation the Governor may desire to make as to the important features of any budget and any suggestion as to methods for the reduction or increase of the State's revenue.

Second. Each budget shall be divided into two parts, and the first part shall be designated "Governmental Appropriations" and shall embrace an itemized estimate of the appropriations: (1) for the General Assembly as certified to the Governor in the manner hereinafter provided; (2) for the Executive Department; (3) for the Judiciary Department, as provided by law, certified to the Governor by the Comptroller; (4) to pay and discharge the principal and interest of the debt of the State of Maryland in conformity with Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, and all laws enacted in pursuance thereof; (5) for the salaries payable by the State under Constitution and laws of the State; (6) for the establishment and maintenance throughout the State of a thorough and efficient system of public schools in conformity with Article VIII of the Constitution and with the laws of the State; (7) for such other purposes as are set forth in the Constitution of the State.

Third. The second part shall be designated "General Appropriations," and shall include all other estimates of appropriations.

The Governor shall deliver to the presiding officer of each house the budgets and a bill for all the proposed appropriations of the budgets clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each house shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein, and such bill shall be known as the "Budget Bill." The Governor may, before final action thereon by the General Assembly, amend or supplement either of said budgets to correct an oversight or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the General Assembly by delivering such an amendment or supplement to the presiding officers of both houses; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as a modification of or a substitute for any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may affect.

The General Assembly shall not amend the budget bill so as to affect either the obligations of the State under Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, or the provisions made by the laws of the State for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools, or the payment of any salaries required to be paid by the State of Maryland by the Constitution thereof; and the General Assembly may amend the bill by increasing or diminishing the items therein relating to the General Assembly; and by increasing the items therein relating to the judiciary, but except as hereinbefore specified, may not alter the said bill except to strike out or reduce items therein, provided, however, that the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be decreased during his term of office; and such bill when and as passed by both houses shall be a law immediately without further action by the Governor.

Fourth. The Governor and such representatives of the executive departments, boards, officers and commissions of the State expending or supplying for State's money, as have been designated by the Governor for this purpose, shall have the right, and when required by either house of the Legislature, it shall be their duty to appear and be heard with respect to any budget bill during the consideration thereof, and to answer inquiries relative thereto.

Sub-Section C: Supplementary Appropriation Bills:

Neither house shall consider other appropriations until the Budget Bill has been finally acted upon by both houses, and no such other appropriation shall be valid except in accordance with the provisions following: (1) Every such appropriation shall be embodied in a separate bill limited to some single work, object or purdose therein stated and called herein a Supplementary Appropriation Bill; (2) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall provide the revenue necessary to pay the appropriation thereby made by a tax, direct or indirect, to be laid and collected as shall be directed in said Bill. (3) No Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall become a law unless it be passed in each house by a vote of a majority of the whole number of the members elected; and in the yeas and nays recorded on its final passage; (4) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall be presented to the Governor of the State as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution and thereafter all the provisions of said Section shall apply.

Nothing in this amendment shall be construed as preventing the Legislature from passing at any time in accordance with the provisions of Section 29 of Article III of the Constitution and subject to the Governor's power of approval as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution an appropriation bill to provide for the payment of any obligation of the State of Maryland within the protection of Section 10 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

Sub-Section D: General Provisions:

First. If the Budget Bill shall not have been finally acted upon by the Legislature three days before the expiration of its regular session, the Governor may, and it shall be his duty to issue a proclamation extending the session for such further period as may be his judgment be necessary for the passage of such Bill; but no other matter than such Bill shall be considered during such extended session except a provision for the cost thereof.

Second. The Governor for the purpose of making up his budgets shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to require from the proper state officials, including herein all executive departments, all executive and administrative offices, bureaus boards, commissions and agencies expending or supervising the expenditure of, and all institutions applying for State moneys and appropriations, such itemized estimates and other information, in such form and at such times as he shall direct. The estimates for the Legislative Department, certified by the presiding officer of each house, of the Judiciary, as provided by law, certified by the Comptroller, and for the public schools, as provided by law shall be transmitted to the Governor, in such form and at such times as he shall direct, and shall be included in the budget without revision.

The Governor may provide for public hearings on all estimates and may require the attendance at such hearings of representatives of all agencies, and of all institutions applying for State moneys. After such public hearings he may, in his discretion, revise all estimates except those for the legislative and judiciary departments, and for the public schools as provided by law.

Third. The Legislature may, from time to time, enact such laws, not inconsistent with this Section, as may be necessary and proper to carry out it provisions.

Fourth. In the event of any inconsistency between any of the provisions of this Section and any of the other provisions of the Constitution, the provisions of this Section shall prevail. But nothing herein shall in any manner affect the provisions of Section 34 of Article III of the Constution or of any laws heretofore or hereafter passed in pursuance thereof, or be construed as preventing the Governor from calling extraordinary sessions of the Legislature, as provided by Section 16 of Article II, or as preventing the Legislature at such extraordinary sessions from considering any emergency appropriations.

If any item of any approporiation bill passed under the provisions of this Section shall be held invalid upon any ground, such invalidity shall not affect the legality of the Bill or of any other item of such Bill or Bills.

Section 2. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said foregoing Section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution shall at the next ensuing general election, being the Presidential and Congressional election, being the Presidential and Congressional election, to be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, nineteen hundred and sixteen, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption of rejection in conformity with the directions contained in Article XVI of this State, and at said election the vote on said proposed amendment to the constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be placed the following synopsis of said amendment under the caption of

'CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROVIDING FOR A BUDGET.'

"This amendment provides that the Governor shall present to the Legislature soon after it is convened a Budget giving a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the two succeeding fiscal years showing clearly any surplus or deficit in State funds. In these estimates he shall make provision for the interest and sinking funds of all State debts, for all salaries as fixed by law, and for the public schools as fixed by law. With regard to most other matters he may revise the estimates presented to him either by State officers or State-aided institutions. The Legislature may not increase the estimates presented by the Governor or pass any additional appropriation act except by a majority vote and must make provision by tax for such increase or additional appropriation. The Legislature may not alter in any appropriation act the provision made by law for the State debt, or for the judiciary, but may reduce all other items in the Governor's estimates; and the words 'for the Constitutional Amendment' and 'against the Constitutional Amendment' as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote in accordance with Article XVI of the Constitution.

Approved March 28, 1916."

Now, therefore, I, Emerson C. Harrington, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct a copy of this Proclamation, containing a full, true and correct copy of the text of said Chapter 159 of the Acts of Maryland of 1916, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which said newspapers in the City of Baltimore to be printed in the German language, once a week for three months next preceding the General Election to be held in this State on November 7th, 1916, and at which election the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be submitted, in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND THE GREAT SEAL OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND.

SHERIFF'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

Near Selbysport, Garrett County

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett county at the suit of W. T. Fike, vs. U. G. Savage, being No. 16 Judicials, June Term, 1916, on the docket of said Court, I, Albert Ashby, Sheriff, did levy upon and take into execution all of the title and interest of the following parcel of land, situated in Selbysport District, Garrett county, as follows:

1. All that piece of land as described in a deed from Lemuel Savage and wife to U. G. Savage, dated the 24th day of March, 1892, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 19, folio 376, containing 67 acres more or less.

2 All that other piece of land, conveyed by Jonas Frazee and wife to U. G. Savage, which is recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 19, folio 415, containing fifty acres. Said deed is dated the 6th day of April, 1892.

3. All those two pieces of land, conveyed by L. D. Hoff and wife to U. G. Savage, dated November 28th, 1901, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 40, folio 199, etc., containing 19 acres.

4. All that other piece of land conveyed by Franklin Humberson and wife to U. G. Savage dated the 4th day of June, 1902, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 42, folio 69, etc., containing three acres and 143 perches.

5. All that certain parcel of land conveyed by Mary Stewart et al., to U. G. Savage, by deed dated November 22nd, 1904, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 47, folio, 543, etc., containing 100 acres. The above being duly recorded among the Land Records of Garrett county, especial reference being made to said record and said deeds for a more particular description of said several parcels of land. Said several parcels constitute one body of land and one farm.

And I hereby give notice that on

the 5th day of August, 1916,

in front of the Court house in the town of Oakland at the hour of two o'clock P. M. of said day, I will sell the aforsaid parcels of land at public auction to the highest bidder to satisfy the aforesaid execution and costs; but said lands will be sold subject to a mortgage given by U. G. Savage and wife, to Franklin T. Fike, dated the 7th day of May, 1910, for the sum of $1100.00, with some accured interest thereon, which is recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 60, folio 216, etc. of the Mortgage Records of Garrett county.

TERMS OF SALE.—Cash on the day of sale. For further particulars apply to Albert Ashby, Sheriff of Garrett County.

ALBERT ASHBY,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

VOLUME 41. OAKLAND, MARYLAND THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1916. NUMBER 24

SEN. SPEICHER MARYLAND CHAMPION WHEAT GROWER

An Average of More than Forty-Five Bushels Per Acre Produced.

Garrett county farmers are congratulating themselves upon the tremendous crops during the present year which are now being harvested, and they are also proud of the fact that they believe a Garrett county farmer in the person of State Senator Harvey J. Speicher, is the premium wheat producer of the state.

Last fall Senator Speicher seeded a field of twelve acres, using three bushels of seed to the acre. The land was prepared in the usual manner, the seed was drilled in and afterwards rolled. During the spring and early summer the magnificent stand of grain in the field, which borders the State road adjoining the town of Accident, was a revelation to tourists from all parts of Maryland and other states passing by. On last Tuesday the grain was cut and on Wednesday threshed, showing an average yield of 45.2 bushels per acre, or a total yield of 545 bushels for the entire field of twelve acres.

Attractions at The Park.

On August 12th, at 8 p. m., there will be at the Mountain Lake Park Amphitheatre a four-act vaudeville performance under the auspices of the Woman's Civic Club. This entertainment will include folk singing and dancing by twenty-four children under the direction of Miss Elinor Davis; living "movies" with Miss June Dunnington as heroine; the Davidson Mandolin Trio, and a "revue" of the season's popular hits. There will be amusement for old and young alike in this novel performance. The Woman's Club of Mountain Lake Park asks the co-operation of the Oakland Woman's Club in making this entertainment a success.

AUTO ACCIDENT SUNDAY

In Which A Tunnelton Lady Sustains Broken Arm—Others Injured.

Sunday afternoon about two o'clock a Ford car containing the families of A. J. Watkins and J. W. Wiles, of Tunnelton, West Va., was wrecked on Commissary Hill, a mile north of McHenry, by the car leaving the road and throwing the occupants out, Mrs. Watkins being the most seriously injured as she sustained a compound fracture of her arm between the shoulder and elbow. Others in the party were Mr. Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. Wiles and two children, none of whom, aside from a few bruises and cuts about the face, were injured.

Shortly after the accident a physician residing at Addison, Pa., was passing in his car, who stopped and rendered first aid, and the entire party was then brought to Oakland by "Sport" Adams, of the Crellin mill, who was on his way to Cumberland, but who very considerately turned back and brought the party on to town.

Dr. Broadwater rendered surgical aid to the injured and they all returned to their homes at Tunnelton on train No. 55 Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Watkins came to Oakland Tuesday after his car and stated that Mrs. Watkins was resting quite easy and the rest of the party are suffering no ill effects as a result of the mishap.

THE DEATH RECORD.

HERMAN RUNTEN.

On August 4, at his residence, 1431 E. Eager street, Baltimore, aged 55 years. The deceased was married about two months ago. He will be remembered by many Oakland residents, having made his home here and in other portions of Garrrett county for many years prior to removing to Baltimore less than a year ago. Mr. Runten was a finished violinist. He was born in Germany and came to this country when but 17 years of age. The announcement of his wedding as well as that of his sudden death came as a great surprise to his friends here.

FRIENDSVILLE WILL GET A STATE-AID HIGHWAY

Large Delegation of Residents Before County Commissioners Monday.

On Monday of this week one of the largest delegations of substantial citizens and tax payers of Districts Nos. 2, 6 and 5 that ever visited Oakland was present with but one object in view, namely, to interest the Board of County Commissioners in the laudable undertaking of building a State Aid road from the town of Friendsville to connect with the present State Highway at the foot of Hoyes hill at or near the residence of Mr. William Callis, one-half mile east of Hoyes Postoffice.

The delegation of citizens came to Oakland in automobiles and about nine o'clock, accompanied by State Roads Commissioner Uhl, of Allegany county, and State Roads Engineer L. T. Downey of Cumberland, appeared before the County Commissioners and laid tentative plans before that body for this much-needed improvement, the proposed road to begin in the town of Friendsville and running thence over Elder Hill by Hoyes and to connect with the present improved road at the point above designated. The Commissioners considered the matter for some time and then agreed to have the work begin in the spring by levying a sufficient sum to construct two miles next summer. The Friendsville people on their part filed a bond to cover the 10 per cent. fixed by law that is to be contributed by abutting property owners for the construction of the proposed road, while the county will pay 40 per cent. and the State 50 per cent. of the total cost. The road after completion will be maintained exclusively by the State as all State aided roads now are, thus relieving the county of a fixed charge for this purpose.

The Friendsville people are to be congratulated for the unanimity of opinion as to the route to be taken by the road as no dissenting voice was raised against the plans mapped out by the gentlemen present.

Among others who appeared before the Commissioners and urged them to take favorable action upon the matter were James W. Friend, Wm. H. H. Friend, Fred. G. Fox, W. W. Savage, H. L. Wolfe, H. J. Black, L. E. Friend, E. S. Schroyer, N. R. Selby, Chas. Glover, Milton Forsythe, Kimmell Frazee, Hiram M. Frazee, Frank Frazee, former County Commissioner Walter M. Lowdermilk, W. W. Schlossnagle, James Fike, Wm. L. Dunham, John M. Myers, State Senator Harvey J. Speicher, Henry M. Speicher, Wm. A. Smith, A. P. Enlow, D. O. DeWitt, Freeman DeWitt.

Bull Tosses Boy Into Tree.

George Simpkins, aged 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Simpkins, above Finzel, Garrett county, was attacked Monday by an angry bull in a pasture. The lad was tossed into the branches of a hawthorn tree, from which he fell to the ground. He was gored in the leg by the animal and badly scratched by the thorns in the tree.

SPEICHER FAMILY REUNION

Was Held at Accident When More Than a Hundred Attended.

Dear Friend and Editor Republican.

We left Accident Monday, July 31st, and went to Confluence and then here, I was to send you a little report of the the picnic held at Accident on July 29, but did not take the time to do it. I will send you a little synopsis of it.

It was designated as the Speicher reunion or picnic and held in the picnic grove on H. J. Speicher's farm near Accident. Myself, wife and daughters, Maude and Elizabeth, from Los Angeles, Cal., were the honored guests.

The pic-nicers composed all the Speicher relations of this family living in the east with two or three exceptions. There were ninety-seven of the relatives present. In addition to this there were a few invited guests. In all one hundred and seven participated in the pleasures and enjoyments of the occasion. It was a beautiful day and everyone had a good time and enjoyed the privilege of seeing one another all at the same time and binding the ties of human relationship closer than ever before. We will never meet again as we did on that occasion in this life, and I hope we may all live the life we ought to live and all meet in that higher and better life as we did here, without the loss of any.

The reunion consisted or was composed of A. F. Speicher and family, C. C. Speicher and family, Jacob Beeghley and family, Asa Beeghley and family, Cephas Glotfelty and family, Milton Fisher and family, Lewis Kamp and family, Henry Hochstetler and family, Wm. Frazee and family, Earl Coddington and family, Philip Bowman and family, J. E. Margroff and family, Beson Glotfelty and family, Norman Fisher and family, Alex Speicher and family, Samuel Otto and family, Simon, Lee and Lizzie Lee, Austin Kamp, Mrs. Mary Newcom and daughter, Eugene Watkins, Hon. C. J. Otto and wife, Richard Liston and wife, Mrs. W. D. Wolfersberge, Rev. Young and family, Marie Brant, H. M. Speicher, Hon. H. J. Speicher, Mrs. Wm. Englehart, Herman Englehart. Two of the boys Ross and Frank Speicher and their families were not present. They live in Colorado. Had they been present it would have swelled the number of relatives to 125.

We had a group picture taken.

I hope that I will not burden you too much with all this scribbling.

With best wishes,

Yours truly,

A. F. SPEICHER.

KICKED AND SKULL FRACTURED

Monday Morning Mishap to Charles Sanders at the Smouse Farm.

Charles Sanders, son of Thomas Sanders, employed by Mr. Henry Smouse, was seriously injured Monday morning when he was kicked in the forehead by a horse, and suffered a fracture of the skull.

The injured man was brought to the Home Sanatorium in Oakland where the shattered bones of the skull were removed by Drs. Hinebaugh and Broadwater and at last reports he was doing exceedingly well.

LARGE BARN AND ITS CONTENTS DESTROYED

Structure on Henry Glotfelty's Farm Struck By Lightning and Burned.

Saturday evening between the hours of six and seven o'clock the large barn on the Jacob Pysell farm, now owned by Mr. Henry Glotfelty, located between McHenry and Accident and a short distance from the State Road, was burned with all its contents, the origin of the fire being caused by lightning during a tremendous electrical storm which prevailed in that section of the country for an hour or more Saturday evening.

Mr. Glotfelty is a brother of Mr. F. O. Glotfelty of Oakland. He had harvested large crops of wheat and rye and placed them in his barn and was just completing his hay harvest on Saturday, which had also been stored in the building. The last load from the field had been drawn into the barn, the horses unhitched and placed in the stable beneath and the owner along with his help had gone to the dwelling for their evening meal when the storm in all its fury broke.

In addition to the destruction of the building and the grain and hay, two horses, valued at $400 were consumed, along with wagons, buggies, harness, grain and an automobile, entailing a total loss of about $5000, all of which falls heavily upon Mr. Glotfelty, who carried no insurance.

Festival at Underwood.

At Underwood Chapel on Saturday night, August 12th, a festival will be held the proceeds to be devoted to the United Brethren church. Everybody cordially invited to be present.

Library Notes.

The following persons have contributed books and other reading matter to the library since our last report: Mrs. B. F. Selby, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. H. W. McComas and A. T. Matthews.

I. O. O. F. REUNION

Will Take Place at Mountain Lake Park on August 26th.

The reunion of Odd Fellows of Maryland and West Virginia which had been arranged for early last month but which was called off on account of the shortage of cars on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad caused by the movement of large bodies of troops to the Mexican border, will occur on the 26th inst., when representatives from nearly every lodge in the two domains are expected to be present and participate in a day's pleasurable outing at this famous resort.

Mr. A. T. White of the Park, who is secretary of the reunion committee, is bending every effort to make the gathering a huge success which may become a permanent feature of future summers at the Park.

Camping on the Yough.

Two parties of campers from Oakland left town last Saturday for a two week's outing along the banks of the Youghiogheny River, one party having their tents near Sines while the other has established its headquarters at Swallow Falls.

The camp at Sines is presided over by Mrs. Joseph E. Harned, the other members of the party being Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Davis and their son William; Mary Drake Naylor, Evelyn Cheuvront, Reva Davis, Louise Harned, Mildred Dixon, Miss Jennie Lee, of Mt. Lake Park, and Miss Engle, of Grantsville.

The second camp is composed of young men exclusively and is located at Swallow Falls, those in the party being Messrs. Harold Harned, Walter Kahl, Townshend and Playtord Naylor, Uriel Cheuvront, Ralph Davis, Glen Martin, Everett Casteel, Robert Porter and Jarold Kemp, the latter of Bloomington.

Reports from the two camps that reach Oakland are to the effect that notwithstanding the weather all are enjoying themselves immensely.

Hughes Points the Way

The speech of the Republican candidate for president was a keynote speech indeed. Not one person in the great audience at the Carnegie hall meeting was in doubt for one moment as to just what he meant by everything he said.

His address was comprehensive, logical, clear and all sufficient for the occasion. There can be no dispute as to this. Plainly Mr. Hughes is a man who "knows what he wants when he wants it," and it is the opinion of political authorities who heard him and who have since read his remarks that he knows also how to get it.

It was incumbent upon the Republican candidate to confine the scope of his remarks to the limitations of the occasion, but his crushing analysis of the shortcomings of the present administration of the government is merely an earnest of what the tone and the contents of his speeches will be when he gets on the stump.

At Carnegie hall Mr. Hughes advertted to every general question that is apt to be a serious issue in the campaign and in language that will be absolutely clear to every man or woman able to read he stated his opinions, his convictions and his purposes. On the stump he will argue those points in detail. As an orator he is eloquent, his personality attractive, and his marshaling of facts so cohesive that he holds his audience to the end. He makes it easy for them to follow him, and his points are not lost.

There was nothing equivocal, nothing apologetic in the Republican candidate's speech of acceptance. He called a spade a spade, and the unanimous opinion of those who heard him was that he shot to the center and rang the bell. The Republican campaign is now open, and those who will speak and write and work for the success of the Republican ticket can wish for no more adequate campaign document, no more satisfactory statement of issues than are found in the candidate's salutatory.

WHAT ONE BIG MAN THINKS OF ANOTHER.

President W. H. P. Faunce of Brown university is a pretty live wire who keeps abreast of the times, has keen powers of observation and knows a good man when he sees him. Here is what he has to say about the Republican candidate for the presidency:

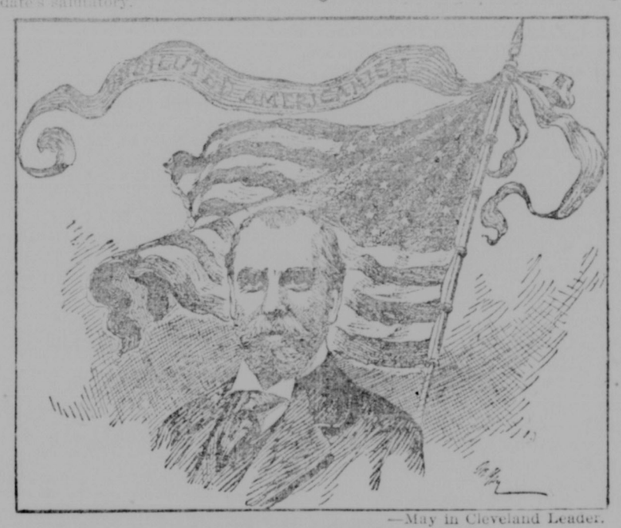
"I have known Justice Hughes intimately since we were students together at Brown and have seen him a thousand times at work and at play. No man of our generation has a finer combination of character and intellect. Absolutely fearless, unselfish, loyal to American ideals, he is worthy of a nation's trust.

"All his friends know that behind the dignity of bearing is a rich fund of humor and good fellowship. Whether he is climbing a mountain, reading novels, playing with his children, resisting a political lobby or delivering the opinion of the supreme court, he is ever the same rugged, democratic, fair minded American. His varied experience has given him wide horizon and sympathy with every aspect of American life.

"He possesses two qualities rarely found together—the judicial temper and the capacity for swift and resolute action. Under his administration the fog which now besets many public questions would be cleared away.

"His penetrating mind goes to the heart of any subject he selects and strips off the irrelevant at once. Such a mind is peculiarly needed amid the intricate problems that now confront America.

"We need more than good intentions. We need clear vision, sound judgment, strong will, unhesitating decision. In short, we need Charles E. Hughes."



—May in Cleveland Leader.

THE FLAG AND THE MAN.

PROMISE TO REDUCE THE COST OF LIVING NOT KEPT.

Our opponents promised to reduce the cost of living. This they have failed to do. But they did reduce the opportunities of making a living. Let us not forget the conditions that existed in this country under the new tariff prior to the outbreak of the war. Production had decreased, business was languishing, new enterprises were not undertaken, instead of expansion there was curtailment and our streets were filled with the unemployed. What ground is there for expecting better conditions when the unhealthy stimulus of the war has spent its force and our industries and workingmen are exposed to the competition of an energized Europe?

It is plain that we must have protective upbuilding policies.—Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

DUTY OF THE ADMINISTRATION TO STOP PLOTS AND CONSPIRACIES.

We denounce all plots and conspiracies in the interest of any foreign nation. Utterly intolerable is the use of our soil for alien intrigues. Every American must unreservedly condemn them and support every effort for their suppression. But here also prompt, vigorous and adequate measures on the part of the administration were needed. There should have been no hesitation, no notion that it was wise and politic to delay. Such an abuse of our territory demanded immediate and thoroughgoing action. As soon as the administration had notice of plots and conspiracies it was its duty to stop them. It was not lacking in resources. Its responsibility for their continuance cannot be escaped by the condemnation of others.—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

America First and America Efficient.

We are too great a country to require of our citizens who are engaged in peaceful vocations the sort of military service to which they are now called.

We cherish no illusions. We know that the recurrence of war is not to be prevented by pious wishes.

We denounce all plots and conspiracies in the interest of any foreign nation.

Adequate preparedness is not militarism.

During this critical period the only danger of war has lain in the weak course of the administration.

The nation has no policy of aggression toward Mexico. We have no desire for any part of her territory.

We propose that in the competitive struggle that is about to come the American workingman shall not suffer.

This representative gathering is a happy augury. It means the strength of reunion. It means that the party of Lincoln is restored, alert, effective.

The dealings of the administration with Mexico constitute a confused chapter of blunders. It is a record which cannot be examined without a profound sense of humiliation.

We must take Vera Cruz to get Huerta out of office and trust to other nations to get our own citizens out of peril. What a travesty of international policy!

I stand for adequate federal workmen's compensation laws.

The administration was to seize and punish Villa for his outrage on our soil. It has not punished any one; we went in only to retire.

I favor the vote for women.

HIGH WAGES ON AMERICAN ROADS

Railroad Payroll Records Made Public by the Carriers.

NATIONAL INQUIRY URGED

Managers Offer to Leave Question of $100,000,000 Wage Demands to an Impartial Federal Tribunal to Prevent Disaster of a Nation-wide Strike.

New York.—What is probably the most elaborate study of wages ever made in any industry has just been completed by the National Conference Committee of the railways.

For six months railway accountants throughout the country have been engaged in collecting the payroll records to show the actual wage payments to every individual employe among the 300,000 engineers, conductors, firemen and brakemen now voting on a national strike for a new wage scale.

That these employes are one of the highest paid groups of workers in any industry is disclosed by the summary made public today by the railroad managers.

The average yearly wage payments to all Eastern train employes (including those who worked only part of the year), as shown by the 1915 payrolls, were:

	Passenger.	Freight.	Yard.
Engineers	$1,795	$1,546	$1,384
Conductors	1,724	1,404	1,253
Firemen	1,023	993	844
Brakemen	1,018	858	995

Wages as High as $3,224.

Three-quarters of these men (including all those who put in a full year's service), earned these wages:

Engineers (road), $1,585 to $3,224; (yard), $1,303 to $2,178.

Conductors (road), $1,552 to $3,004; (yard), $1,145 to $1,991.

Firemen (road), $833 to $1,762; (yard), $752 to $1,623.

Brakemen (road), $862 to $1,707; (yard), $834 to $1,635.

For the whole country the average wages of three-quarters of the employes were:

	Passenger.	Freight.	Yard.
Engineers	$2,067	$1,892	$1,526
Conductors	1,856	1,718	1,310
Firemen	1,206	1,117	924
Brakemen	1,096	1,013	1,076

The railroads have considered every man whose name appears on the January and December payrolls as an employe for a year, no matter how little service he performed in the other ten months. It is pointed out by the managers that these averages are, in consequence, an understatement of the earning power of these employes.

An Appeal to the Public.

The National Conference Committee, in making these wage figures public, says:

"Do you believe in arbitration or industrial warfare?

"The train employes on all the railroads are voting whether they will give their leaders authority to tie up the commerce of the country to enforce their demands for a $100,000,000 wage increase.

"The railroads are in the public service—your service. This army of employees is in the public service—your service.

"You pay for rail transportation $3,000,000,000 a year, and 44 cents out of every dollar from you goes to the employes.

"A $100,000,000 wage increase for men in freight and yard service (less than one-fifth of all employes) is equal to a 5 per cent advance in all freight rates.

"The managers of the railroads, as trustees for the public, have no right to place this burden on the cost of transportation to you without a clear mandate from a public tribunal speaking for you.

"The railroads have proposed the settlement of this controversy either under the existing national arbitration law, or by reference to the Interstate Commerce Commission This offer has been refused by the employes' representatives.

"Shall a nation wide strike or an investigation under the government determine this issue?"

TRAINMEN'S HIGH WAGES.

When I note from the reports made to the Interstate Commerce Commission that these men receive average yearly wages 50 per cent higher than those of all other railway employes, and practically double those of the average American wage-worker, it occurs to me that they at least have less cause for complaint than most others. When I consider that the average locomotive engineer has an income of over $2,000 a year, and that most of the engineers who have been long in service make from $2,000 to $3,000 a year, and when I compare their hours, labor and responsibilities with those of the average small merchant, farmer or doctor, whose income is far less, it seems that in all fairness they are well paid.—John V. Farwell, Chicago Merchant.

Are You Wasting The Price Of a Titan Engine?

TITAN engines run on kerosene.
Average cost of gasoline so far this year, 16.9 cents per gallon.
Average cost of kerosene 7.7 cents per gallon.
Gasoline costs over 100 per cent more than kerosene. Gasoline is going up steadily. Kerosene is not.
At present fuel prices Titan engines, using kerosene, save their owners about 1.1 cents per horse power per hour.
Are you running a gasoline engine? What horse power is it? Figure what you'd be saving if you had a Titan kerosene engine. Rather surprising, isn't it? How long would it take that saving to pay for a Titan engine of the same size?

RUSSIANS CUT SERETH LINES

Steady Advance In Galicia Is Marked by Another Great Victory

BRITISH ADVANCE AT SOMME

Paris.—In northern Galicia the Russians have struck another hard blow at the Teutonic allies and captured along the Sereth and Graberki rivers, south of Brody, six villages held by the Teutons and the entire ridge on which they are located.

Furious fighting marked the engagement, the Russians being forced in the villages to drive their adversaries from house to house. The Austro-Germans, at last reports, were violently bombarding their lost positions.

In the fighting the Russians captured a regimental commander and 140 other officers and over 5,000 men, and also took numerous machine guns and bomb throwers.

Berlin admits that the Russians have gained the left bank of the Sereth River, but asserts that the Germans have made progress against the French in the Chapitre Woods near Verdun and in mining operations against them in the Argonne; that the Russians have been driven from positions along the Stokhod River south of Zarecze, and that in the Carpathians the Germans are still operating successfully.

Slight advances for the British at High Wood and east of Pozieres, on the Somme front, and by the French southwest of Estrees, south of the Somme, and to the northwest of the Thiaumont work, near Verdun, are recorded in the British and French communications. In the sector northwest of Pozieres the Germans, in an attack in which liquid fire was used, forced the British back along one of their trenches, but later the British regained the ground lost.

In Asiatic Turkey the Russians report the capture at various places of new Turkish positions.

The 14,000 Turkish troops operating on a seven-mile front from the east against the Suez Canal also have met with defeat at he hands of the British and been forced to flee, leaving more than 2,500 prisoners behind them, including some Germans, says London. In addition, the Ottomans suffered heavy casualties. Australian and New Zealand cavalry took an important part in the fighting.

In the Austro-Italian theatre the Austrians are heavily bombarding the Italian lines between the Adige and Upper Isonzo rivers and the Pasubio area, while in the Sugana Valley and the Upper Cordevole Valley they launched an infantry attack against the Italians. These attacks, according to Rome, were repulsed.

TEUTONS CHECK RUSSIANS

London.—The armies in the three great centres of recent activity—the Somme region of France, Russia and Galicia—evidently have let up considerably in the violent fighting in which they have been engaged and are indulging in a breathing spell preparatory to further attacks and counter attacks. The official communications dealing with the operations in these theatres tell of no single important engagement or of any notable change in the positions of the belligerents.

Attacking at Echelon on a three-mile line, from the Meuse River to Fleury, north of Verdun, the French have captured several German trenches and organized points of support. In the engagement 600 Germans were made prisoner and ten machine guns were captured.

On the Russian front Petrograd reports merely artillery duels and infantry attacks by small detachments, while Berlin tells of Russian attacks on the Stokhod and Turia River fronts and of local Russian offensives on the Stripa River in Galicia, all of which were repulsed.

GERMANS HEAR PEACE TALK

Government Lets Down Bars Against Public Discussion.

Berlin.—There are indications that more freedom in the discussion of the war aims will be granted in the immediate future. The "German National Committee" has begun a great speaking campaign with a list of speakers including some of the most prominent men in Germany.

At the same time "The Independent Committee for Obtaining an Honorable Peace" will open its activities.

WHALES DRIVE OFF SHARKS

Fierce Battle Between Schools Seen Near Seabright, N. J.

New York.—A fierce battle between a school of hammerhead sharks and another school of small whale, in which the sharks were driven off with heavy casualties, was seen by 200 persons aboard the fishing boat Cape Cod off Seabright, N. J.

Capt. Ely, who has been a seafaring man 22 years, predicts that the defeat of the sharks will end the scare along the Atlantic bathing beaches.

U. S. AT WAR IN YEAR! SAYS BAREFOOT PROPHET

Negroes to Annihilate Whites, Says Bewhiskered, White-Robed "Jonas."

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 3.—"I am the prophet Jonas and this little fellow here is my son Jacob, the youngest prophet that ever spent a night in jail."

Thus John B. Nash, former ginseng king of West Virginia, came from Cumberland and announced himself to his first Pittsburg audience last night. Attired in white trousers, jacket and cape, he peered out from behind a crop of whiskers of almost unbelievable luxuriance and regarded his hearers benevolently. By his side was a small boy similary dressed. Both were barefooted and neither had had a haircut since 1914, as the prophet Jonas explained a little later.

There may have been prophets who have turned out more accurate work than Jonas, but there certainly was never a more industrious one. He had just arrived in the city from West Virginia and The Post bulletin board was his first stop, but he wasted no time in starting to build up a Pittsburgh practice.

Right then and there he opened up. No small time work about a mysterious blond, a trip across the ocean or a dark gentleman. Regular major league stuff is Jonas' line. Try some of this the next time you feel the need of any prophecy:

"The United States will be at war with England, Japan and Mexico within a year.

"The Negroes of the South will at the same time attack and annihilate the white population.

"Right here in Pittsburgh there will be war between the native sons and the foreign-born."

Jonas, who used to conduct the largest ginseng farm in the United States, took up prophesy early in 1914, when mice ruined his ginseng plant at Elk Garden, W. Va. At present he is engaged in calling the second gathering of Israel. He and his son carry tin horns slung about their necks. Whenever they see a person who looks eligible to the New Jerusalem they let out a blast, the idea being that a person so designated should take warning and begin at once to gather.

"Yes sir, I was jailed four times and in aninsane asylum five times in 1914. In 1915 I was jailed twice and judged insane three times," he said proudly.

"Been pinched yet this year?" asked an irreverent listener.

"Nope," the prophet replied, sadly. "The police don't seem to have a punch any more."

BITTINGER.

The regular annual Sunday School picnic of the Lutheran Sunday School will be held in Ellithorp's grove, in this village, on Saturday, August 19th. A special program is being prepared, which will consist of vocal and instrumental music, appropriate speaking by able speakers, and some specially interesting and entertaining features by the young folks of the village will add much to the interest of the occasion. All sorts of refreshments and meals will be on sale on the grounds, and a special evening festival in the twilight. It will be a great occasion for both old and young to pass a profitable and enjoyable day and all are cordially invited.

Mrs. Hattie D. Engle and daughter Miss Olive, of Baltimore, are spending this month with relatives here.

Henry Enoch, of Springfield, Ohio, is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Marvin, at the parsonage for the summer.

Miss Mintie Orendorf has secured a position at Lake, Md., and entered upon her new duties a few days ago.

Mrs. T. B. Wiley is spending this week in attendance at the Chautauqua at Salisbury, Pa.

Daniel D. Brenneman and Mrs. Martha Wiley, two of the oldest residents of this section, were numbered among the sick last week, but both are improving at this writing.

BOTH SIDES GUILTY.

The world will hardly become excited over British exception of the "murder" of Capt. Fryatt by the German military authorities in view of the execution of Roger Casement. If one was entitled to be treated as a prisoner or war, so was the other. One was called by his executioners a pirate and the other was called a traitor. It suited the executioners in each case to snuff out a human life that could not possibly have injured them if it had been spared.

Americans are sick of having one side or the other in the European war trying to work up prejudice and hatred while committiug acts just as offensive as those charged against the enemy. "A plague on both your houses!" cries the disgusted neutral; "clean the blood off your own hands before you raise them in holy horror at the acts perpetrated by your enemy. Do not try to justify your murders by calling your enemy a murderer. Do not pose to us as an injured party when you are making reprisals that shock mankind."

A deplorable effect of the European hypocrisy is to harden neutral hearts against real suffering. So many lies are told that neutrals become skeptical and are inclined to close their ears to true reports.

"WHAT WOULD YOU DO?"

The long recital of old Mexican history leads to nothing. The woes of the martyred Huerta, the mistakes and alleged mistakes of Mr. Wilson; what does all this ancient tale amount to? What will you do, Mr. Hughes, if you are elected? What do you propuse?—From the New York Times.

The naive way in which these questions are asked would lead one to suppose that in the next four years there will be nothing for the President to do except to concern himself with Mr. Wilson's mistakes.

Suppose it is conceded that Mr. Huges as President could find no way out of the Mexican entanglement that President Wilson has led the country into. Is that an argument for giving Mr. Wilson further lease of power, putting in his hands other problems, perhaps more serious, to mismanage?

An architect who had botched his client's house beyond possibility of mending could easily stump him by asking what he purposed to do about it. His client might say there was nothing to do but make the best of a bad bargain; but if the mere fact that he was left in this unenviable plight were presented as a reason for employment of the same man on another house the logic of the proposition might appeal to his vein of humor but hardly to his business sense and judgment.

CATECHISM FOR WILSON

Questions are cheap, so we may as well ask a few in order to keep in the fashion. Ours are addressed to Candidate Woodrow Wilson. We should like to know:

Why he favors appropriation of $50-000,000 to make the revival of American shipping impossible—the real reason inside?

Why he first insisted on free sugar and then compelled Congress to restore the duties?

Whether he is still in favor of tariff for revenue only or has become of late a half-hearted protectionist?

Why he signed the rivers and harbors bill squandering $20,000,000 in pork?

Why he signed the nitrate plant steal, misappropriating $20,000,000?

Why he signed the bill frittering away $75,000,000 out of $85,000,000 in driblet appropriations for road improvement?

Why he signed the rural credits bill involving the embarkation of $50,000,-000 of government money in a wildcat scheme of inflation falsely demoninated rural credits?

Why he backed away from his blatantly proclaimed policy of scuttle in the Philippines?

Why he opposed during half his term all military and naval preparedness?

Why he first indorsed Secretary Garrison's army reorganization plan and then slopped over to Hay's ineffectual and wasteful militia scheme?

Why he keeps Daniels in the Cabinet?

Why he made Bryan Secretary of State?

And why he kicked him out?

Why he spoke of "strict accountability" when he had no intention of enforcing it and no idea of creating a force that would animate the words with real meaning?

What is he doing now about the Lusitania?

Whether Austria has ever given a satisfactory explanation regarding the Petrolite?

And whether he is putting any pressure on the Berlin and Vienna Governments to secure amends for the outrages committed upon Americans on the high seas by their orders?

If not, why not?

Why he intervened in Mexican affairs to oust Hureta?

Why he thought Pancho Villa was a good man to support for a while?

Why he intervened to establish the "Government" of Carranza?

Whether he regards the regime of Carranza a success?

Why he went in at Vera Cruz?

Why he came out?

Why he sent General Pershing's expedition across the border?

Why he is now laying plans to withdraw it surreptitiously?

Why he sent the national guardsmen to Texas?

Was it really to give them three months' training with the colors?

What does he usually desire his record to rest on—his thought or his afterthought?

Why has not the cost of living dropped during his term as President as he and his party vociferously insisted it would?

Does he know how the dictionary defines the word, "ineptitude?"

And "vacillation"?

And "charlatan"?

BLOOMINGTON

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Riley died at the home of its parents at Beryl on last Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The last few days has increased the population of this community considerable—a girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Bean; a boy at Mr. and Mrs. William Shook's; a girl at Mr. and Mrs. Victor Johnson's; a bright eyed youngster, a boy, at Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fazenbaker; another son to grace the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swann and the proud and happy parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Howell over the birth of a little daughter, is a pretty good record for this extremely hot weather, and quite a nice little bunch of rosy cheeks and dimples from baby land. The baby boy of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shook, of Hampshire, still holds the heavy weight championship belt, tipping the scales at birth, at fifteen and a half pounds.

The remains of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Beevers who died from whooping cough last Friday evening, were buried in the Bloomington grave yard on last Sunday afternoon. Funeral services were held in the M. E. chuchr with the pastor, Rev. Snedegar in charge.

Mr. Walter Fortney motored from Detroit, Mich., to Bloomington, in a Chandler run-a-bout arriving last Friday afternoon and is a guest of his brother, Mr. Olin Fortney of this place.

Rev. Snedegar of this place, left for Baltimore city on last Tuesday morning where he will spend a few days on business, prior to attendance and participation in the ceremonies attending the Odd Fellow's reunion at Pen Mar on the following Thursday.

Mr. Howard Liller, of this place, has equipped himself and family with a Ford.

Mr. Harry Coffman is away from town on a business trip to Pittsburgh.

Large, fine, ripe peaches at 25 cents a basket are being served to our people by huxsters from the orchards in the neighborhood of Keyser. Huckleberry excursions by wagon, auto and foot to the great huckleberry fields of the Pinnacle are of daily occurrence and are quite popular. Those who have participated and enjoyed a real day of pleasure, report the crop unusually large and of fine flavor. Blackberries are coming into market in large quantities at 20 cents a gallon and the housewife is busy with tin cans, glass jars, ceiling wax, burned fingers, etc.

Rev. Charles Guthrie, or Buffalo, N. Y., is the guest of his cousin, Dr. H. M. Kemp, of this place. He is accompanied by his mother.

Miss Jean Ralston, a trained nurse from Columbus, Ohio, who was called to Frostburg on account of the serious illness of her mother, is spending a few days in town, visiting her sister, Mrs. Thos. Swann.

Miss Martha Tibbets, stenographer for the West Penn. Electric R. R. Co., of Connelsville, Pa., is spending her vacation at home with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Tibbets of Bloomington.

The improvement to the B. & O. bridge to accommodate a third track is going right along. On account of the extreme hot weather the concrete work was suspended on last Monday and Tuesday. The large arch at the west end will be completed this week, when the large steel form will be removed and transferred to the east end. The new county road connecting Bloomington with Luke is progressing nicely and it looks now that in a month or six weeks we will be spinning over a road that promises to be a credit to the state.

Mrs. Bessie Burleigh, of Washington, D. C., and children are spending a few weeks of the heated term with relatives in this place.

Mrs. Nellie McRobie and two little children are in Akron, Ohio, visiting her husband, Mr. Martin McRobie, who is employed in that city.

Messrs. Geo. C. Macfarlane and Harry Kight of Barnum, returned home last Sunday from a visit to the oil fields of West Virginia in the neighborhood of Matamoras, Ohio.

Mr. Carroll Pattison, of Bloomington, has purchased a Hudson Super-Six.

The Davis Coal & Coke, at Beryl, has granted an increase of wages to their employees about their several mines at Beryl. We understand the rate is the same as that paid at Thomas and is quite a substantial increase to the drivers, trackmen, dumpmen, motormen and all outside mine labor. The new rate goes into effect the first of September. The officials of the company will tend a banquet to their employees at Beryl on next Friday evening and covers will be laid for 150 to 200 persons. The supper will be served in the large school rooms at that place and will be prepared and under the direction of the wives of the employees, the company furnishing all the good things to eat. Speeches, music and all the necessary accompainaments of a first class and up-to-date banquet will be in evidence and no expense will be spared by the company that will add in any way to the comfort and pleasure of its employees and their families.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Tomorrow (Friday) at 8 p. m., Dr. Harry, of the University of Cincinnati, will deliver his great and popular lecture, "The City Beautiful" in the old auditorium. About one hundred beautiful slides will be thrown on the screen. The Doctor is a beautiful speaker and speaks from personal observation. He has visited the most beautiful cities of the old world. This will be one of the greatest treats of the summer.

The Bible Conference will open next Sunday at 11 a. m., with a sermon by Dr. Gray of Chicago. The programs have not been received, but will be ready for distribution at the Sunday services. This will be one of the greatest gatherings ever held in the Park as it is almost filled to the fullest capacity of its hotels and boarding houses. The people of Garrett county should take advantage of every Sunday in this month and attend the services in the amphitheatre. The ablest ministers of this nation will be the preachers. Some wonderful singers will also take part in the services.

Homer Rodeheaver, the leader of the singing at Billy Sunday's meetings, delighted the people at this place last Saturday. He conducted two song services in the old auditorium. He is a wonderful singer. An effort is being made to secure Billy Sunday for a date early in September.

The Odd Fellows rally will be on the 26th of this month. Albert White is the local committeeman and is busy arranging for the day. Several excursion trains will be brought to the Park from different points in Maryland and West Virginia. The round trip rate from Parkersburg and Wheeling is only $2.

The Railroad Y. M. C. A. reunion has been postponed from the 22nd to the 29th inst.

The Epworth League people have decided to return next year, but to include Pennsylvania and West Virginia in their organization. About 175 delegates were present.

The annual meeting of the secretaries of the Young Men's Christian Association of Maryland, District of Columbia and West Virginia will be held September 8, 9 and 10.

St. Peter's Catholic Sunday school, of Westernport, picniced at the Park Tuesday.

Hoyes Picnic.

Don't forget the date of the picnic at Hoyes: Saturday, August 12th. Every effort is being put forth to make this the greatest of all the Hoyes picnics.

The committee is fortunate in securing a number of enthusiastic and interesting speakers for this occasion and there will be amusements of all kinds.

A base ball game. Accident vs. Jennings, at 2.30 p. m. Vocal and instrumental music, with refreshments of all kinds. Remember that sumptuous dinner out in the grove last year? The same ladies are busy again this year preparing a feast for you. Don't miss it, whatever you do. Everybody invited.

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Two Automobilists Caught Beneath Overturned Car and Held There.

Last Thursday night Mr. John Fitzwater, of Oakland, and Miss Mabel Falkenstein, also of town, narrowly escaped with their lives or very serious injuries when the automobile of the former in descending the south slope of Hooppole Ridge, five miles north of Oakland, collided with a large stone which had evidently been placed in the roadway with intent to do someone injury, and turned over, catching the occupants beneath it and holding them in that position until they were released from their perilous position by Messrs. H. L. Jones, Oliver Lewis and L. W. Hopkins, who arrived at the spot almost simultaneously in their respective automobiles.

In turning over the Fitzwater car lodged against a telephone pole which kept the entire weight of the machine from resting upon them and in consequence Miss Falkenstein escaped with a dislocated right arm, a sprained ankle and minor bruises, while Mr. Fitzwater suffered a slight bruise on his right arm.

The injured people were brought to town by Mr. Jones and taken to the Home Sanitorium where their injuries were dressed, Miss Falkenstein being taken to her home later in the evening, while Mr. Fitzwater went back to the scene of the wreck and brought his car on into town.

Another Success of The Mountain Lake Park Civic Club.

The annual tennis tournament given by the Mt. Lake Park Civic Club played the concluding finals Saturday before a large and enthusiastic crowd from various nearby towns.

The games were fast and furious on Monday afternoon when the "finals" were played to a finish.

The cups offered to the Juniors under 16 years of age were won by Virginia Clinedist, 14; and her brother Barney, aged 11.

Dr. Muncaster's daughter was one of the contestants. All three are from Washington.

The entries from Oakland were quite numerous: Edward Pollock, Elizabeth Mitchell, Robert Sliger, Dr. Darby, Miss Howell, Miss Townshend, Messrs. Martin, Bremer, Sincell, White, Morgan and Mason.

The winners of the "mixed doubles" were Mary Ruhl and Hurst Koblegard, both of Clarksburg.

In the "men's singles" Hurst Koblegard won his second cup, playing Henry Russell, of Wheeling.

Virginia Davis, of Clarksburg, played a beautiful game and will be a "winner." Tho' she did not carry off any cup, in this tournament, she won the hearts of many who saw her serving.

The club ladies gave a pleasant finish to the festivities Wednesday from 4 to 6, with a crowded reception at the library and billiard hall.

The officers of the Civic Club are Mrs. W. L. Davidson, president; Mrs. L. J. Campbell vice president; Mrs. Logan Carr, secretary; and Mrs. Wingate, treasurer.

The present club was organized ten or twelve years ago by Mrs. Talson and Miss Kate McClain, both of Wheeling, and from that day to this they and their co-workers have labored unceasingly to better social, scenic and sanitary conditions in Mt. Lake Park.

The cups are on display in the bowling alley.

H. Russell of Wheeling was the individual star in singles but was put out in the finals by Hurst Koblegard, of Clarksburg, West Virginia, in a phenominal match which thrilled the spectators.

In the mixed doubles Miss Ruhle and Mrs. Hurst Koblegard, both of Clarksburg, West Va., succeeded in taking over Miss Virginia Davis, of Clarksburg, and Mr. Davidson, of Cleveland, Ohio.

The tournament was the largest yet staged at Mt. Lake Park, under the auspices of the Woman's Civic Club and the gallery was crowded morning and afternoon to watch the matches.

The forty-six entrants were mainly of the summer colony at Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn. There were a good number from Oakland, Md.; two contestants from Norfolk, Va.; and the remainder from Washington, D. C.; Clarksburg, Wheeling and Cleveland, Ohio.

Free Lectures.

During recent weeks Dr. Melody, the resident veterinary surgeon, has been giving a course of free lectures on black leg and hog cholera and also upon the subject of scientific breeding and feeding. He has appeared before audiences at several points in the southern section of the county. His last effort was on Tuesday night at Lynndale school house where he was met by a large number of farmers and stock breeders. He will give another lecture on Tuesday night of next week at the Gauer school house near Red House.

Rev. McCamic to Lecture.

Rev. McCamic, pastor of the Deer Park M. E. Church, will lecture in that edifice on Friday night of this week, his subject to be "One Hundred Years of Progress in America." All are cordially invited to attend this lecture.

Always bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Dr. and Mrs. Cather, Mr. Milton Scherr and Miss Alma Scherr, all of Morgantown, West Va., motored to Oakland Saturday afternoon and were guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Julius C. Renninger at their home on Second Street.

Mrs. Minnie VanHorn and granddaughter, of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. John Sommerville and Mrs. Elizabeth Hotchkiss, of Lonaconing, are in Oakland as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Creutzburg.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will serve ice cream, cake, candy and water melon on the lawn of Mrs. Idie Hayes, commencing at four in the afternoon on Tuesday, August 15.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Stoddard and daughter, of Cumberland, are spending the present month very delightfully at at their cottage in Mountain Lake Park. Mr. Stoddard is general agent of the Wells Fargo Express Company in this district and is well liked by the station agents with whom he comes in contact.

Messrs. D. E. Bolden, Henry Lauer, E. G. Naylor, R. C. Townshend, Thos. Little, George D. White, A. T. Matthews and J. C. Renninger went to Grantsville yesterday afternoon for the purpose of creating among the residents of that thrifty town an interest looking toward the establishment of a lodge of Knights of Pythias there.

The Third Annual Travel Tour.

Under the auspices of the ladies aid society of the M. E. Church will be held on August 24 (Thursday) from 5 to 10 p. m. Owing to the war in Europe the tour will be "See America First," starting from the Union Station at the M. E. church and traveling to New York, St. Augustine, New Orleans, San Francisco, and back over the Lincoln highway to the nation's capital at Washington. This is an annual event with the ladies of the M. E. Church and is conducted by automobiles carrying the passengers to various homes which are decorated to represent the various cities and refreshments will be served characteristic of each city, free to each passenger. The entire trip covers a distance of about eight miles and promises to be a most enjoyable event. All who were fortunate enough to take this trip in the two previous years are loud in their praises and are going again this year. You must secure your tickets early to be sure to get passage as the the number of tickets is limited. Tickets on sale at the store of Jos. E. Harned on and after August 17 at 50 cents.

MEMORIAL TO DANIEL E. OFFUTT

BY AN OLD FRIEND

Learning today that Dan Offutt is dead, I wish to pay this tribute in memory of a noble man, of sterling intergrity, efficient business ability and endearing fellowship, as I intimately knew him fifty years ago in our young manhood.

As a young man his personality was attractive; his business methods strictly upright; his judgment, reliable; his fidelity, unwavering; his energy, ceaseless; his patience, enduring; his benevolence, unassuming, and his friendship an honor to be desired.

All this I learned of his character in the sixth decade of the nineteenth century when I lived in Oakland and was associated with Mr. Offutt six years as a clerk and a partner in business and a member of his family, and I have always since esteemed and loved him as a brother.

Before his death he had nobly finished his mission in the affairs of the community in which he so long lived and served.

I sincerely join with all his other friends in sympathy for his bereaved wife and children.

JAMES HOUSTON.

Caseville, Mich., Aug. 7, 1916.

Supper, Lawn Fete and Bazaar.

Will be held by the Guild of St. Matthew's Episcopal church of Oakland Thursday, August 17th, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on the lawn at the residence of Mr. J. L. Pollock, Second street. Fancy articles, ice cream and cake for sale. The supper will be 35 cents. Attractions for the children.

Adam wouldn't have liked the Garden of Eden very long anyhow. The British troops fighting in that region report a temperature of 120. — Washington Herald.

It is announced in a Berlin cablegram that the Crown Prince will take Verdun August 1. The names are correct, but the date probably is an error.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

JOHN ALBERT DROEGE

A Deer Park Boy,—How He Has Risen in Railroad Service.

The General Superintendent of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, Mr. John Albert Droege, is a Deer Park boy and he is proud of the land of his birth.

He is the son of Mrs. E. Droege, a resident of Garrett county, and has risen to the important position he holds by close application in every place he has filled. Shorthand and telegraphy were the stepping stones to his advancement. Mr. Droege has no railroad hours in his daily avocation. He works early and late, and with the many duties devolve upon him, finds time to use his pen in works affecting railroads.

He is the author of a railroad text book "Freight Yards and Terminals," and he is now finishing a book on "Passenger Terminals and Trains." Mr. Droege brought his family to Deer Park to spend the month of August on last Sunday, but was obliged to retnrn to New Haven on Monday on account of a press of work in his New Haven office.

In the eastern theatre of the great war it's a wise town that knows what nation possesses it every morning.—Detroit News.

CASEMENT, IRISH PATRIOT, HANGED

"I Die for My Country!" His Last Utterance After a Prayer

BODY REFUSED TO FAMILY

Leader of Irish Rebels, Executed for High Treason, Walks Calmly to Death—Large Crowd Outside Mixes Cheers With Groans.

London.—Roger Casemnt, former British Knight and Consul, was hanged in Pentonville jail for high treason. He was convicted of conspiring to cause an armed revolt in Ireland, and with having sought German aid to that end.

The Irish leader's last words spoken while he waited for the drop to be sprung, were:

"I die for my country."

Solicitor Gavan Duffy, who was Casement's counsel, was indignant at the refusal of the prison authorities to turn over the body of the Irish rebel after the law had been satisfied.

"Representing the deceased's relatives at the inquest," he said, "I applied to the Home Office for possession of the body. Their refusal to turn it over to me was a monstrous act of indecency."

Two hours before the execution a crowd of men, women, and children gathered before the prison gates. Twenty minutes before Casement mounted the scaffold the great prison bell began to toll. The sound was greeted with cheers from the crowd, mingled with some groans. At nine o'clock the crowd had swollen to such proportions that it extended for two blocks from the prison front. At one minute after nine a single stroke on the big bell announced that the trap had been sprung. It was the signal for a mocking, jeering yell from the crowd, which suddenly died away into dead silence, made wierd by groans.

Casement met his death with calm courage, according to eye-witnesses He rose at about half-past five ocl'ock From then until seven o'clock, when Father McCarrell arrived, he spent the time reading the instructions of the church for assisting at Mass, and the taking of the first Communion. After Mass he ate a little bread and butter and drank a glass of water. He had very little to say to the priest, only making a few remarks about the immortality of the soul. "He appeared," said Father McCarrell, "like a man who had slept soundly—his nerves were completely calm."

After Father McCarrell and another priest had administered the rites of the Roman Catholic Church, the clergymen, with Casement following, a warder on either side, proceeded toward the execution shed, only five yards away. The priests recited the litany of the dying, Casement responding in low tones: "Lord have mercy on my soul."

As the party reached the shed where the gallows was erected, the special executioner, a hair-dresser named Ellis, approached Casement and pinioned him. The two chaplains, the under sheriff of London, and the under sheriff of Middlesex, then took their positions in front of the scaffold

170 U-BOAT VICTIMS.

U. S. Inquiry to Learn if Americans Were on the Letimbro.

Rome.—In the torpedoing by a German U-boat in the Meterranean of the Italian liner Letimbro, 170 passengers and crew were lost. Further details thus far are lacking.

Washington.—The State Department decided to investigate the attack on the Italian mail steamer Letimbro. The object of the inquiry is primarily to ascertain whether Americans were on board and if any are missing. Ambassador Page at Rome and the United States Consul at Malta, where 27 of the survivors were landed will conduct the investigation.

Consul General Skinner's report on the sinking declared the Letimbro was sunk while attempting to escape after a warning shot was fired.

ADMIRAL WINSLOW RETIRED

Ex-Commander of Pacific Fleet Had Noteworthy Career.

Washington.—Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow, generally recognized as one of the best all around officers of the service, was retired from active duty, having reached the statutory age of 62. No promotion will follow his retirement as he was an additional officer in his grade. His most recent service has been as commander in chief of the Pacific fleet. Admiral Winslow attained rapid advancement.

JOBS AWAIT U. S. ARMY MEN

Federal Labor Clearing House Planned by Government.

Washington.—Plans for establishing Federal labor clearing houses in every State were announced by Commissioner Caminetti of the Immigration Bureau, who directs the Department of Labor's employment service.

It is hoped that all men in the army or navy on retiring may find ready for them the kind of work they want in the place where they want it.

SIGN TREATY FOR DANISH INDIES

Secretary Lansing and Minister Brun Act in the $25,000,000 Deal

NO OBSTACLE IS EXPECTED

Pact to Be Submitted to Senate at Washington and Rigsdag in Copenhagen Immediately—Approval Expected Without Opposition.

Washingon. — Announcement was made by acting Secretary of State Polk that the treaty by which the United States is to purchase the Danish West Indies had been signed in New York by Secretary Lansing and Minister Constantin Brun of Denmark. It was stated authoritatively for the first time that the price stipulated was $25,000,000.

The treaty provides for the transfer to the United States of three islands, S. Thomas, St. Croix and St. John, which have been the subject of negotiations between the United States and Denmark for many years.

The Administration will ask the Senate to ratify the treaty.

TREATY SIGNED IN 3 MINUTES.

New York.—It took less than three minutes for Secretary of State Lansing and Minister Brun of Denmark to sing the tentative treaty relative to the purchase by the United States of islands in the West Indies. Mr. Lansing came to town from Watertown, N. Y., and Mr. Brun came from Bar Harbor, Me. They met at the Hotel Biltmore and received from L. H. Woolsey of the State Department two copies of the treaty, to which they immediately affixed their signatures. Mr. Woolsey was the only witness.

APPROVAL IN DENMARK.

Copenhagen.—The Danish Parliament took up the question of the sale by Denmark of the Danish West Indies to the United States.

After the Minister of Foreign Affairs had given information concerning the proposed sale to the Rigsdag, the various parties held committee meetings. The Rigsdag met soon afterward, and there was a debate for half an hour. No real objection to the sale was made and there was only slight criticism from a few Conservative members. It is understood that a majority of both houses of Parliament are in favor of the sale.

The Government wants the matter settled as soon as possible.

DEUTSCHLAND STARTS FOR HOME

Baltimore Harbor Whistles All Shriek Farewell to Submarine Freighter.

Baltimore.—The giant subsea trader Deutschland, with Captain Paul Koenig and her original crew of 27 men, sailed from Baltimore under her own power on her projected dash down Chesapeake Bay, across the Atlantic and back to Germany, a trip of 3,800 miles fraught with the continuous danger of capture and possible death to all aboard her. She has been in United States territorial waters a little longer than twenty-three days, and is taking back a cargo of rubber and nickel and, it is said, a quantity of gold as well.

As she pulled out of the broken baricade of barges and lighters, a hundred whistles shrieked. From the fore deck of the North German Lloyd liner Neckar there arose a fire signal and bunting flags which in the international code expressed the words "Homeward bound." On the deck of the Neckar every sailor of the crew was standing at attention.

A military column was formed and as the submarine passed under the lee every man saluted the master of the Deutschland.

WORLD'S NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

NEW YORK.—There are in the hospitals of New York City more than 2,500 children victims of infantile paralysis, a disease which is killing 22 per cent of those it attacks and making life cripples of over 50 per cent of the remainder.

COPENHAGEN.—Agitation against the sale of the Danish West Indies appears to be growing throughout the country. Influential provincial papers strongly denounce the proposal.

LONDON.—Lord Winborne, former Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, has been reappointed.

LONDON.—Every town and village in the British Isles, as well as places throughout the empire, observed the second anniversary of Great Britain's declaration of war. Meetings were held and resolutions passed declaring a "determination to continue to a victorious end the struggle."

NEW YORK.—A car strike intended to paralyze all the street surface lines in the Borough of Manhattan was ordered. It went into operation immediately. Every surface line, except the Second Avenue system, was tied up. About 4,000 strikebreakers and 10,000 police are on the scene.

FRENCH RETAKE THIAUMONT WORK

Nivelle's Troops Capture Redoubt Northeast of Verdun Twice in 12 Hours

GUNS BUSY ON THE SOMME

London.—Verdun, almost quiescent during the Anglo-French offensive in the Somme region, again has become the storm center on the western battlefront. The French forces have taken the offensive on the right bank of the Muse and hold the Thiaumont work and the greater part of the village of Fleury, according to Paris.

The Thiaumont work already the scene of many desperate combats, was twice in French hands during twelve hours. The forces of the German Crown Prince fought tenaciously, driving the French from the work once, but losing it again. German counter-attacks were of no avail, says Paris, and the work remained in the possession of the French.

Fleury, which changed hands after the French and succeeded in taking it, again is almost entirely occupied by the French. Fierce fighting still continues in and around the village. German unwounded prisoners taken in the Verdun fighting number 400.

On the Somme front, in northern France, there has been little infantry activity, both the British and French official communications failing to report any moves on the part of their armies. London says the Germans bombarded the section southwest of Pozieres and also the southern portion of the Mametz Wood.

Desperate counter attacks by the Germans, in the region of the Stokhod River, east of Kovel, have resulted in the retirement of the Russian forces which had seized the village of Rudka-Miryanskala. The fact that the village is only nineteen miles from Kovel, the Russian objective on this part of the Volhynian front, probably accounts for the intensity of the fighting there.

The Russian General Sakharoff's troops continue to advance south of Brody and toward Lemberg. Petrograd reports the capture of 1,300 Austro-Germans in a "hot attack" on the line of the Sereth and Graberki rivers.

A squadron of British naval aeroplanes has attacked with bombs German military establishments in the vicinity of Ghent, Belgium. London says considerable damage was done by the dropping of two tons of bombs. Unofficial reports received in Amsterdam aparently confirm this claim.

Repulses for the Russians in Armenia and for British forces in the Sinai Peninsula are chronicled in the official statement given out by the Turkish War Office. The announcement says that in a five days battle in the Agnott sector, Armenia, the Russians lost more than 3,000 men killed.

ALLIES CHECKED, CLAIMS BERLIN

London.—Severe fighting has continued on the French front north of the Somme, with the Germans launching strong counter attacks against the positions won by General Foch's corps. The War Office at Paris reports that the Germans have been uniformly repulsed, suffering heavy losses.

The Germans centred their attacks on the small wood north of Hem and the Conacu Farm, which the French captured. They also poured a heavy artillery fire on the British lines, but sent no infantry forward. The British, busily engaged in concentrating their positions and consolidating new ground, made no effort to advance.

The German report claims that the Allies did not win a foot of ground and asserts that they suffered heavy losses. Fully 60,000 men were employed in the French and British attacks, it is said.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

Considerable progress is claimed by the Czar's War Office for the Caucasus army under the Grand Duke Nicholas, west and south of Erzingan. On the Mosul-Bitlis front, however, the Turks have gone over to the offensive, Petrograd asserts, adding "the enemy is held back."

The capture of the town Zalezce, in northeastern Galicia, marks a Russian progress of 25 miles since the capture of Brody 10 days ago.

On the Stokhod, near Noreszo, the Teutons captured 4 officers and 300 Russians, as well as 5 machine guns, the Austrian statement says.

The appointment of Field Marshal von Hindenburg to the supreme command on the eastern front is hailed by the German papers as a masterful stroke.

Joffre's men are masters of a blood-stained strip of ground three miles long and about a mile deep, just north of Verdun, which they have won from the Germans. In their three-day offensive they conquered ground which it took the Crown Prince's army four weeks to wrest from them.

The Rumanian crisis is over. She will remain neutral.

Realism In The Movies

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A young girl stood gazing in horrified silence across a wide expanse of lake, where a rowboat lay pitching around on the surface, its sole occupant, a sleeping infant. The next instant she plunged into the water and struck out for the boat, which was drifting farther away every second. Suddenly, her strength gave out and she sank, to rise, struggle and sink again. The third time she went down a man on the opposite bank, who had been steadily turning the handle of a moving picture camera, tore off his coat and dived in, bringing the girl to the surface just in time.

Unfortunately this was not premeditated action, and it went unphotographed. The scenario had called merely for the rescue of the infant by the girl, and all would have gone well had not the leading woman overestimated her swimming strength. As it was, she had to be rolled in a blanket and otherwise resuscitated before she regained consciousness, while some one else rescued the infant and restored it to its terrified mother. The lake which was part of a large estate on Long Island, had a bottom of black mud that nearly suffocated the camera man in his dive and made the rescue extremely difficult. And to make it more interesting, some of the villagers stood around and recounted the gruesome details of how the lake had a secret outlet, the body of one man drowning in its depths having been recovered floating far out at sea. In spite of this accident, however, the leading woman returned the next day and played the scenes required to complete the picture.

The life of a movie star these days is a perpetual risk. In order to achieve any great popularity a picture must have at least two good-sized thrills, and it is up to the actor to lend himself amiably to walking off precipices or sliding over falls, if he would win prestige with the fans. A man who asks for a substitute every time there is a risk, moreover, does not acquire merit with his directors. Substitutes are usually expensive, and the director must keep the cost of his picture down. Then, too, the moving picture audience is getting to be expert in the detection of deception or fake, which makes the use of substitutes and dummies precarious.

It must be said to the credit of the moving picture companies that the risks are always made as safe as possible. Mattresses are provided for people to fall on when jumping out of a window in the fourth story; boats are sent out to pick up the players who cast themselves into the water in a wreck scene, and a squad of police accompanies the company when it enters the Chinese section to take scenes. The Chinese have many weird superstitions regarding the camera, which is supposed to set loose a whole gang of evil spirits, so that as a rule John Chinaman would as soon commit suicide as have his picture taken. One director and his company barely escaped with their lives from the Chinese section of New York, when they attempted to take some scenes of a certain restaurant there. The Chinese proprietor had promised the day before to let the place be photographed for a good price, but on talking it over with some of his companions he thought it expedient to change his mind. The director, however, having made all his arrangements and brought the entire company down with him, was determined to get the scenes he wanted. He ordered the camera man to proceed. Instantly a mob of Chinamen surrounded the players, and it took a large squad of policemen to escort them safely out of the danger zone.

In the majority of cases, the really bad accidents that occur are due to the recklessness or carelessness of the players themselves. If an actor is seriously hurt so that he can not work, the entire company is held up on the picture, which is a great annoyance; consequently, every precaution is taken to see that he does not get hurt. A young actress playing the lead in a thrilling serial recently was required by the script to jump out of a third-story window and lower herself by a rope to a lower window in the next house. Seen in the picture it appears to be a remarkable and dangerous feat, but as a matter of fact it was simple and safe. A heavy metal belt was placed around her waist beneath her skirt, and to this the rope was attached, which made it impossible for her to fall. When the time came to take this scene, the director thought that the belt was not quite strong enough and the work was delayed until the property man could have it strengthened.

The necessary element in moving pictures today is realism. Many large companies still maintain "props" in their back yards with which they can construct anything from a barnyard to a desert island, but in most instances natural scenery is the background. The real thing must be filmed. One leading man last year got a little too much of the real thing in a picture staged at Niagara. The scenario called for one scene in which the villain picks up the hero and throws him bodily over a wall, presumably into the rapids, but actually on a narrow incline between the rapids and the wall. The villian, as it happened, was chosen from the extra men on account of his gigantic size, and he was so anxious to demonstrate the wisdom of the choice that he forgot and flung the hero far over the wall and incline into the swirling rapids. Happily, the hero was able to catch hold of a rock and cling to it until aid reached him, during which time the camera man recorded some very interesting realism.

Another actor also suffered from too much of the real thing not long ago when he assumed the character of a sneak thief. Boldly dashing up to a real jewelry store, he broke the window and departed hurriedly with a handful rings. The street had been chosen because of its apparent isolation, and the director held in check a group of extra people as spectators. As it happened, however, the extra people were not needed. As soon as the cry of "stop thief" was circulated among them for the benefit of the camera an excited American populace sprang up in all directions and pursued the sneak-thief down the street. When he could run no further, the actor stopped and confronted an angry crowd of over a hundred persons. As he remarked later, it was an extremely unpleasant situation until the director arrived breathless and managed to appease them with a number of credentials and a satisfactory explanation.

Much has been written concerning the bitter experiences of pedestrains which have taught them to suspect the presence of the moving picture camera in all street crimes, but according to the irate accounts of the moving picture directors they still have lots to learn. One man relates for example, that two young actressess in the employ of a California company were taken for suffragettes while playing a street scene in men's clothes and were pursued by a number of people, who believed they intended to break windows.

While the substitute is growing more and more out-of-date there are still many cases where a trained professional must take the place of the actor in several scenes. When the hero makes a hairbreadth escape in an aeroplane, for instance, he is usually changed at the last moment for a professional aeronaut, inasmuch as the difference can not be detected when flying far above the camera. Acrobats are substituted when the script calls for an extremely dangerous leap, and professional jockeys generally take the place of the principals at the last moment when there are spectacular riding stunts to be done.

One professional jockey was employed by a moving picture company some months ago to substitute for the leading woman in leaping over a precipice on a horse. The horse was a very remarkable animal of vaudeville fame, being able to do many marvelous things such as counting up to ten, opening and shutting a door, removing his master's coat and polishing his shoes, as well as diving from dizzying heights, which he had learned at Coney Island. His career in moving pictures had been as brilliant as it was in vaudeville, and many scenarios were written around him.

In this particular play the heroine was captured by a band of brigands, who tied her cruelly to a tree while they consumed a hearty dinner. Her pet horse, however, who had been left grazing near her, seized the opportunity to chew her bonds apart and release her, first being careful to pick up a revolver in its holster, lying on the ground. Once untied, the young woman leaped upon his back, covered the brigands with the revolver, made them return the stolen papers and executed a brilliant exit followed by the villians. Her pursuers gaining on her, the heroine determined to jump the precipice along which she rode, but here the jockey in girl's clothes was substituted. In order to make the precipice steeper than it really was, it had been built out with a temporary structure of scaffolding painted to correspond with the rest of the scenery. Just as the horse gathered for his dive, the scaffolding collapsed and both horse and rider went plunging into the river below. The jockey was picked up unconscious but alive, and with the exception of a few bruises the horse came out alright.

Thus the moving picture player, except for an occasional trained substitute, plays his part alone and constantly runs the risk of personal injury. He is a firm believer in the art of the movie himself and is usually willing to take almost any chance in order to make the picture appear more realistic. The movie fans who witness the daring escapades and harrowing escapes of the players often do not realize the actual dangers encountered in making the picture, but their applause and admiration are sufficient to spur the player on to even greater adventure.

GRANTSVILLE.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered in the Lutheran Church on Sunday morning with an unusually large attendance despite the heat. Services were also held on Friday night, preceded by a meeting of the catechetical class in the afternoon.

At the Reformed church on Sunday night Miss Gertrude M. Cogan of Philadelphia addressed the audience in the interest of Home and Foreign Missions being herself a missionary. She has a most pleasing personality and brought the message in a forceful manner. After the conclusion of her address a H. & F. M. Society was formed with Mrs. Fred Livengood, president; Mrs. John Folk, vice presieent; Miss Ruth Keller, secretary; Miss Ethel Stanton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Urban Stanton, treasurer. The ladies are all anxious to begin the noble work and a meeting will be held Aug. 13th in the afternoon, at which time Rev. and Mrs. L. N. Wilson, both of whom have had considerable experience along that line, will be present.

A home talent play given under the auspices of the St. Paul Reformed congregation was held here in the hall on Saturday. The play was quite musical and quite successful the audience being delightfully entertained. The costumes were works of art, and with little prompting the actors and actresses filled their parts admirably. The proceeds were for the benefit of the St. Paul church.

A most delightful social event was held at Davis, Md., on Thursday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis entertained about thirty people in their pretty bungalow home. The guests included their house guest, Miss Ruth Tissue from Confluence, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Zimmerman and Clyde Poling, of Davis, and the following from Grantsville: Dr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Blocher, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Bowen, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Carney, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bill, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bonig, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Getty, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bender, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Getty, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Zeller, Mrs. G. C. Keller, Misses Mary Callaghan and Sabina Blocher, Messrs. U. O. Blocher and D. W. Dorsey. The evening's diversion was "500" tables being placed on the wide porch which was prettily lighted with electric lights and Japanese lanterns and decorated with flowers and ferns. A delicious collation was served at the close of the evening.

A picnic party, composed of Mrs. Marion Broadwater and family, Miss Margaret Brown and guests, Mrs. G. C. Keller, family and guests, Misses Angela and Wilda Getty and Fanny Roberts, spent Saturday afternoon picnicing in the meadows along the National Pike. The party had luncheon under the trees returning in the evening.

A party of girls had a picnic supper at the Classelman dam Saturday afternoon spending the evening in the water before returning home.

Mrs. J. W. Delaney entertained, Tuesday night, with a dance, at the Evans Bungalow, her summer home. Music was furnished by the Victrola. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Getty entertained a few friends and relatives informally on Saturday night, the guests including Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Getty, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Bowen, Mrs. G. C. Keller, Misses Mary Callaghan, Lucretia and Almira Blocher. Games and music made the evening pass pleasantly. Refreshments were served.

Miss Grace Hershberger was a guest of her aunt, Mrs. Beverely Briscoe, Markleysburg, Pa., last week, and was given a party in honor of her 14th birthday while there. A number of other pretty girls were present, and refreshments were served. She returned home Saturday.

The Grantsville Boy Scouts spent last week camping at Camp Casselmen about two miles southeast of town. The boys are: Homer Smouse, Frank and Lee Beachy, Dan Hershberger, Henry Bonig, Clarence Gingerich, Roy Zehner, Clarence Durst, Harry Ambell and Emerson Hayes. They were accompanied by their scout masters, A. T. Shirer and Clay Stanton. The boys each do their own cooking and dish-washing. A number of their parents and friends visited them during the week.

The Meyersdale Boy Scouts are having a most enjoyable outing along the Casselman river near the dam.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Swauger and niece, Florence Fisher, spent Sunday in Albright, W. Va.

Miss Lillie Welch and Oliver Cale, from Kingwood, W. Va., were guests of Mrs. Ed. Fischer, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Getty, Mrs. Susan Durst and H. H. Baker spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Turner.

Miss Mary Callaghan returned to Chicago after a month's visit with her sister, Mrs. R. C. Bowen.

Miss J. Tibetts Shaw, of Sumter, N. C., has been at Hilldale farm, her home, the past month.

Miss Beulah Bender spent two days of last week in Cumberland and Frostburg.

Mrs. Gus Zeller, from Frostburg, is visiting her son, C. S. Zeller, here.

Mrs. Rush Montgomery, of Cumberland, is a guest of her sister, Miss Christine Winterberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis and guest, Miss Ruth Tissue, spent Sunday in Confluence.

Mrs. Robert Gibson and little son from Somerset, Pa., spent a few days with the former's father, Josiah Durst.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Laughery and daughter, Miss Vivian, of Greensburg, Pa., were guests of Mrs. John Zehner, last week, being also entertained by Mrs. C. H. Bill and Miss Christine Winterberg during their stay.

CANDIDATE HUGHES ON THE ALIEN ISSUE

Emphasizes Importance Of Americanizing Foreigners Who Come To This Country.

Detroit, Aug. 7.—Charles E. Hughes, Republican Presidential candidate, virtually began his Western campaign tour here today, making several speeches in the afternoon and delivering an address tonight at Arcadia Hall. This city was the first stopping place down for a discussion of the issues by the candidate, and he attracted large audiences.

In the course of his speech at Arcadia Hall he said, among other things:

"You have here the problem of the sudden introduction of a large alien population. You did not remain indifferent. You set an example in Americanization to all America; and we point to Detroit as the one place in this land where there has been shown a quickening of interest in the development of training and Americanizing of alien men and women who have come to this land.

"It is perfectly idle to expect a sound sentiment of American unity if those who come among us as strangers come merely to be exploited. When we admit to this country men and women we assume obligations with respect to their training, as well as grant to them the privileges; and we have got in this country to be awake to those obligations and to realize that in every community there must be a well-organized effort to make America supreme in the thought of everyone who comes into the community; to have the language understood and spoken; to have American sentiment replace foreign sentiment; to have American ideals replace foreign ideals; to have a realization that this is a country not simply giving an opportunity to work for dollars, but a country that is devoted to the betterment of human life, to the enlightenment of the standards of human thought, to the liberalization of all those things connected with human understanding and purpose. We want America first in the mind and heart of every one in this land.

"But America is not simply a land for the man of special talent or of distinguished aptitude. This is the home of the average man, the ordinary man, the man who is doing his best, whatever his talent or aptitude; and in our large industrial occupations, where thousands are gathered together in one service, we want a recognition of human brotherhood in providing for the welfare of those who make the wealth of this great country.

"We want workingmen to be safeguarded from every injury that can be prevented. We want the health of the workingmen looked after; every means provided which conduces to the proper standpoint of living; every means provided for proper recreation; appropriate means for education, for vocational training. In short, the working man who is on his job and expects to continue in that job ought to feel that he is doing something worth while for a community that appreciates it and gives him a fair chance to lead a happy and a decent life."

"We have got along in this country altogether too easily with our wealth of natural resources. Men have been content, living part in their separate lives, to tarry to make something for their individual selves; but now we have reached a point where it is necessary, as it has been necessary abroad, to try to reduce all waste, to try to prevent all unnecessary outlay and to try to make business successful according to the merits of a well organized economically conducted business

"I want efficiency in the government of the United States. My friends, the world that we are about to live in in the next 25 years is going to be a very different world from what it has been.

"Now, if you have a great administrator appointed to a position of extraordinary power, how will you judge his efficiency in the conduct of the enormous business interests with which he is intrusted? Judge him by his words? I judge him by his appointments.

"We have said frequently that we desired to cultivate the most friendly relations with Latin-America. What have we done? In country after country we have taken out men who have given long periods successfully to the study of diplomacy and have represented the country with credit, and had acquired an admirable and important experience. We have taken them out and put in men utterly inexperienced. This country will never be worthily represented or take its place properly among the nations if men are appointed merely to satisfy partisan obligations and there is no ideal of continuity of service in our diplomatic intercourse.

"We have had a very serious disregard of the spirit and requirements of our Civil Service law. The Republican platform says that under the Democratic administration there have been created since March 4, 1913, over 30,000 places which have been taken outside in the original appointment of operation of the civil service laws.

"It has been a raid upon the civil service of the United States and the American people ought to understand it. And we have had positions, expert positions requiring expert knowledge, which have been subordinated to the demands of what I regard as an ignoble partisan expediency.

"Take for example the Bureau of the Census. There was Mr. Durand, an expert statistican, a very competent man, well understood to be such. We have him retired and in his place we have a Democratic politician from a Southern State. And he is hardly warm in his place before he is transfered to the Trade Commission. The Trade Commission itself was fairly emasculated with the law by the men, for the most part, who were appointed to places upon it.

"We had in the Coast and Geodetic Survey an eminent scientist, a man who had won distinction in connection with his scientific work, a man of very eminent rank. He was displaced to make room for an excellent stock breeder and veterinary surgeon.

Mr. Hughes' first address today was delivered to 40 manufacturers of Detroit and vicinity, whom he congratulated upon what they had done for the welfare of their employes. He said, in part.

"It is an awful mistake to think of the men through whose activity production is possible as mere economic units. They are human beings. We are all workingmen in this country.

"In your welfare work you are buttressing democracy. The human factor is, after all, the important factor. You may develop your physical plants, your physical instrumentalities, distribution and everything that goes to make up the material side of prosperity, but you are absolutely hopeless without the human factor, and in America, the land of freemen, the man who is at work for a living must feel that the country is doing the right thing by him.

"He is entitled to be safe in his work to have every precaution taken against every sort of accident that can be prevented."

Speaking soon afterward to a group of suffragists Mr. Hughes reiterated his declaration in New York that the suffrage question should be settled speedily by giving the vote to the women all over the country. He added that he had formed this opinion long ago, before he thought that the time would ever come when he would have to announce his position publicly.

The candidate late today motored to two large automobile factories and delivered brief talks. He repeated his declaration of the need for industrial preparation for the period following the war, when, he said, the United States would face commercial competition fiercer than ever.

"The workingmen of America," he said in his address at the first factory visited, "are not asking for anything they should not have. All that they want is a square deal. You workingmen want to be protected from any unnecessary injury at your work. You want to have wholesome conditions, reasonable hours, a fair opportunity to share in what you make and the reasonable profits that accrue in every industry."

"It is the business of the Government to have policies so that we shall have permanent prosperity. Look at these trenches in Europe, filled with millions of men; then think of what they will do when the war ends. The factories are not destroyed; the factories are still there. Why, they are going to go forward full tilt to win back their position and compete in trade, and there is going to be the liveliest time for the United States that ever was known in its history.

"I tell you, my friends, you laboring men, and don't you forget it, that the Republican party is the party that stands not for a prosperity produced by the war, but for a prosperity produced by sound American policies, and those are what we propose to have."

MINISTERS AT COLLEGE PARK

Show Themselves Capable on Conference Floor, in Dining Hall And on The Ball Diamond.

The third Country Life Conference at College Park, came to a close last Friday after the most successful session it has ever held. The good fellowship was enhanced this year by a series of games and athletic events led by F. B. Freeman of Y. M. C. A. The preachers took of their coats, collars and ties, and played with abandon. There was a ball game each night in which the ministers proved themselves to be no mean players. The athletic feature was largely a new one and its repetition at next years conference was requested as most of the participants learned games which they can teach their boys of the church and the Sunday School.

The attendance reached over the hundred mark making it the largest conference of its kind in the United States. The speakers pronounced it the best in program and in spirit that they have ever attended.

Dr. H. J. Patterson was reelected President and a premanent organization effected.

The County Life Movement has as its object the developing of a fuller and happier life for all people in the country and especially a square deal for the boys and girls. The addresses of Claxton, Persons, Felton and the others all had in view that very purpose and it is safe to say the College Park effort has helped the country ministers in their difficult work.

PAPER PRICES ARE CLIMBING

Publishers Face Prospect of Having to Pay From 25 to 300 Per Cent More.

American newspapers are now confronted with an alarming increase in the price of white paper, ranging from 25 to 35 per cent. on contract orders and from 100 to 300 per cent. on non-contract purchases from jobbers. Manufacturers, in explaining the increase, declare the nation faces a newspaper famine, due to abnormal demand created by European war conditions and have appealed to big news print paper consumers to curtail paper consumption in order to stave off an actual shortage. The big metropolitan dailies of New York, in respons to this appeal, have decided to reduce the size of their papers. Other newspapers have raised advertising rates to meet the additional white paper cost.

These are some of the facts brought out in the searching investigation which the Federal Trade Commission, at the request of the Senate, is making into the rising cost of white paper. The commission has its agents going over the big newsprint paper manufacturers to ascertain whether there has been an increase in the cost of production. Newspaper publishers have been asked to throw what light they can on the situation.

The rise in the price of newsprint paper began last January and has continued steadily ever since. The International Paper Company, which turns out one-third of the supply in this country, asserts that owing to an abnormal demand from newspapers and other consumers its reserve stock of print paper has dwindled from 40,000 to 17,000 tons. During the summer months, this company says, it devotes its energies toward building up a big reserve for the big increase in business in the fall, but the demand is so great that, though all its mills are working at maximum capacity, its reserve is steadily decreasing.

How the increase in price of white paper affects the big publisher, the country publisher and the manufacturer was vividly portrayed before the Federal Trade Commission last week, when newspaper publishers were asked to lay before the commission what information they had. Frank P. Glass, vice president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, gave the side of the big newspaper; J. H. Zerbey, of Pottsville, Pa., that of the smaller newspapers, and President Dodge of the International Paper Company the troubles of the manufacturer.

Mr. Glass, who represented 350 large dailies consuming about one-third of news print paper, said publishers now experience great difficulty in getting extra tonnage at reasonable prices.

"There has been a tendency to increase prices for many months," said Mr. Glass. "Increases in contract prices run from 25 to 35 per cent. There is a great apprehension among the publishers because of suggestions and positive assertions of a scarcity, which are backed with constantly advancing prices. I was in New York a few days ago and was told about a publisher who had been asked to pay 4 cents a pound. The quotation was accompanied by a notice that it would hold good for only 48 hours. I have begged the president of the organization of paper mill operatives to increase production so as to accumulate a surplus. The publishers are limiting consumption and are preventing waste. We don't know what is ahead of us. Personally I have no complaint to make either on account of supply or of prices.

THE HUGHES SPEECH

An Impartial View Of How It Was Regarded By Democrats And Republicans In Washington.

(Washington Dispatch in the New York Evening Post.)

What does President Wilson and the Administration think about Mr. Hughes' speech of acceptance? Well if the manner of its reception at the portals of the White House today were to be described with cynicism, it might truthfully be said that the Democrats were joyful, pleased, happy, contented. Theirs, however, was the kind of ex-post facto joy sometimes admirably expressed in the vernacular: "It might have been worse."

On the theory that each man knows himself best, both as to his virtues and his weaknesses, the Administration folk chuckled in secret satisfaction that the really vulnerable and indefensible parts of the Administration escaped Mr. Hughes' judicial eye and that he hammered away for most part on non-essentials and details.

Let us submit the speech of acceptance to the President's Cabinet as each one in his Palm Beach suit arrived at the executive offices for the regular Tuesday meeting. Secretary Franklin Lane was the first to alight from his open-carriage. He paused just a second to answer the inquiring glances of the correspondents.

"What did you think of the speech?" came the question in chorus.

"Fine," said the Secretary, "fine." And there he stopped.

"What do you mean, fine?" asked some one.

"Fine, from what standpoint?" petitioned another.

"Oh, fine from all standpoints," answered Mr. Lane, with the most solemn of twinkles in his eye, as he hurried back into the common counsel chamber to express his opinions more fully to the President.

Attorney-General Gregory came in next. Being from Texas his mind was somewhat occupied with the Mexican portion of the speech.

"Mr. Hughes failed to make an issue out of the Mexican question. He was not specific. He did not dare to say what he would have done had he been President, whether he would have recognized Huerta or whether he would have intervened in Mexico."

The President himself read the Hughes speech hastily, but fast enough to catch the drift.

Mr. Wilson, to tell the truth, was not a bit unhappy over the speech. He is convinced that his Administration is good and honest that he thinks he sees an effective answer to every point Mr. Hughes has raised. And the President, of course, will add a few things himself which Mr. Hughes did not mention, such as the Republican party and its record and the German-American Alliance's enthusiasm for the Republican candidate.

The Republican leaders in town thought well of the speech as a whole. Some argued privately that it lacked punch, and that it might have been more caustic, but the doctrine in it pleased them. It did not, however, invoke the same enthusiasm that greeted so spontaneously Mr. Hughes' first telegraph of acceptance to the Chicago convention.

This is not saying that official and political Washington is disappointed with the Hughes speech. The people, with preconceived notions of what he would say, read it with preconceived prejudices. Republicans said for publication that they liked it. Some Democrats smiled, but didn't seem even to smart under it, though the Administration is by this time pretty well calloused to any kind of criticism.

Among the group of correspondents and others who try to look at things fairly here and who would just as soon have John Smith as Tom Jones in the White House provided his intentions were good and his execution of policy sincere and efficient, there was much favorable comment on the Hughes speech. It didn't arouse fanatical exaltation anywhere. No one threw up his hat for joy, but the clarity of the indictment, the forcefulness of the words, the conviction they seemed to carry suggested ever so strongly the the power of personality of the man behind the words.

But while there were many portions of the speech that were admirably worked out, such as the Mexican criticism and the Administration's surrender on civil service reform and other flagrant expediences of selfish politics, the feeling of friendly critics was that Mr. Hughes tried to do too much in one speech and consequently was not as specific as he might have been.

All critics were agreed, however, that the tone of Mr. Hughes' speech marked a new departure in American politics. He calls no names but fights fair. His speech was carefully balanced, perhaps too much so. But it was a dignified public utterance, inspiring Republicans and challenging Democrats, the brief of the opposition party on which the Republican party will in the next three months base its position for a return to power.

The next move is with President Wilson.

Mad Horns.

The archaeologists who are traversing the Susquehanna River Valley, visiting sites of Indian villages and digging up relics, are said to have made a most astounding discovery on the Murray farm, near Athens, Pa., in finding the bones of sixty-eight prehistoric men.

The average height of these men when their skeletons were assembled was seven feet, while many were much taller. Additional evidence of their gigantic size is found in the massive stone battle axes in their graves. The average age of these men is said to have been from thirty to forty.

Another amazing point of this discovery is the allegation that "perfectly formed skulls were found from which horns grew straight out from the head."

AN UNANSWERABLE ATTACK

The Hughes Indictment of The Wilson Administration.

(From the Wall Street Journal.)

In this remarkable speech occurs one most significant passage. It sums up not merely the foreign policy of the present Administration, but its attitude to all questions, even of a domestic character.

The chief function of diplomacy is prevention, but in this our diplomacy failed, doubtless because of its impaired credit and the manifest lack of disposition to back words with action. Had this Government by the use of both informal and formal diplomatic opportunities left no doubt that when we said "strict accountability" we meant precisely what we said, and that we should unhesitatingly vindicate that position, I am confident that there would have been no destruction of American lives by the sinking of the Lusitania.

That phrase "strict accountability" was used three months before the sinking of the Lusitania. One of the greatest American statesman now living, perhaps the greatest, said that the State Department, then in the hands of Mr. Bryan, had "used the last word first." The phrase "strict accountability" is a last resort of diplomacy. These are fighting words. They do not mean that we resort merely to the bombardment of the German or British Foreign Offices with notes. They mean, and should have meant in this case, that the German Ambassador would have been returned without ceremony to his own country at 24 hours' notice, and that the United States Government would take immediate and efficient means to protect its citizens.

And if this was the case in our relations with the belligerents, how much more so was it in the case of our relations with Mexico? The intimately related question of preparedness only makes the damnation deeper. Almost the single Secretary in Mr. Wilson's Cabinet with a soul of his own and a proper conception of his business, one who was not the result of a political diker, was forced out because he believed in deeds and not in words.

Wholesale Violations.

An inspector of the Public Service Commission has returned to Baltimore from Western Maryland, where he reported that 193 bus owners and drivers had failed to obey the new rules and regulations of the commission. Drastic steps will be taken at once to secure an observance of the rules.

FREE ADMISSION TO BIBLE CONFERENCE

The dates of the Bible Conference at Mountain Lake Park, Md., this season are August 13-20, and the program will again be in charge of the Rev. James M. Gray, D. D., dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. The unusual success of the conference last year made the call unanimous for Dr. Gray to lead it again. He will have associated with him many of the country's best known Bible teachers and preachers, among whom are the following: Rev. Dr. Robert M. Russell, ex-president of Westminster College; Rev. Dr. Melvin G. Kyle, archaeologist, of Philadelphia; Rev. Joseph W. Kemp, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, New York; Rev. Paul Rader, pastor of the Moody Church, Chicago; Rev. L. K. Peacock, evangelist; Charles G. Trumbull, editor of the Sunday School Times, Philadelphia; Attorney Fred L. Rosemond of Cambridge, Ohio; Rev. Dr. M. E. Dodds, pastor of First Baptist Church, Shreveport, La.; Prof. E. O. Sellers, a specialist in Sunday School work and men's meetings; Hon. Howard A. Banks, secretary to the Secretary of the Navy; and the Rev. George E. Guille, Elinor Stafford Millar and Margaret T. Russell, of the Extension Department of the Moody Bible Institute. Other speakers invited are Evangelist Bob Jones and Dr. Henry W. Stough, Rev. Don S. Colt of Baltimore and Rev. Dr. W. R. Wedderspoon, of Washington, D. C.

A feature of the Mountain Lake Park Bible Conference is that there will be no charge for admission to the grounds or to the auditorium. There is every indication of a large attendance.

Also for reservations of several small parcels of coal which are reserved to original owners in said deeds, but which do not materially effect the value of said property.

(4) Also the following personal property: 65 one-ton 26 inch gauge mine cars, more or less, 23 tons of steel rails, more or less, one set Fairbanks Scales, one set Blacksmith's tools, one lot of mining tools, two boilers, with pumps, one engine, and all appliances and appurtenances thereto, all tram ways, hoists, mine props, and all other tools, buildings, structures, appliances and equipment for operating the said coal mines and mining plant, together with all the rights of ways of every kind and nature, including said tracts and switches, and all the houses, residences and buildings, tipple dumps, etc., now erected upon the said above described premises.

The mining plant has recently been repaired and put into good condition for the mining and shipment of coal, and is now an actual working proposition. Inspection of the property by prospective purchasers is invited.

TERMS:—A deposit of $5000.00 on the day of the sale, and the balance in cash upon ratification of the sale by the Court.

PROCLAMATION

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND CREATING A BUDGET SYSTEM.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1916, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 159 of said Acts, being an Act to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, "Legislative Department," of the Constitution of this State; and which said Act is in words and figures following:

"CHAPTER 159.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, regulating the making of appropriations by the General Assembly of Maryland in regular session, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two houses concurring) That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 52 of Article III of the Constitution of Maryland.

Sec. 52. The General Assembly shall not appropriate any money out of the Treasry except in accordance with the followin provisions:

Sub-Section A:

Every appropriation bill shall be either a Budget Bill, or a Supplementary Appropriation Bill, as hereinafter mentioned.

Sub-Section B:

First. Within twenty days after the convening of the General Assembly (except in the case of a newly elected Governor, and then within thirty days after his inauguration, unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly for the session at which the Budget is to be submitted, the Governor shall submit to the General Assembly two budgets, one for each of the ensuing fiscal years. Each budget shall contain a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the particular fiscal year to which it relates; and shall show the estimated surplus or deficit of revenues at the end of such year. Accompanying each budget shall be a statement showing: (1) the revenues and expenditures for each of the two fiscal years next preceding; (2) the current assets, liabilities, reserves and surplus or deficit of the State; (3) the debts and funds of the State; (4) an estimate of the State's financial condition as of the beginning and end of each of the fiscal years covered by the two budgets above provided; (5) any explanation the Governor may desire to make as to the important features of any budget and any suggestion as to methods for the reduction or increase of the State's revenue.

Second. Each budget shall be divided into two parts, and the first part shall be designated "Governmental Appropriations" and shall embrace an itemized estimate of the appropriations: (1) for the General Assembly as certified to the Governor in the manner hereinafter provided; (2) for the Executive Department; (3) for the Judiciary Department, as provided by law, certified to the Governor by the Comptroller; (4) to pay and discharge the principal and interest of the debt of the State of Maryland in conformity with Section 24 of Article III of the Constitution, and all laws enacted in pursuance thereof; (5) for the salaries payable by the State under Constitution and laws of the State; (6) for the establishment and maintenance throughout the State of a thorough and efficient system of public schools in therein conformity with Article VIII of the Constitution and with the laws of the State; (7) for such other purposes as are set forth in the Constitution of the State.

Third. The second part shall be designated "General Appropriations," and shall include all other estimates of appropriations.

The Governor shall deliver to the presiding officer of each house the budgets and a bill for all the proposed appropriations of the budgets clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each house shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein, and such bill shall be known as the "Budget Bill." The Governor may, before final action thereon by the General Assembly, amend or supplement either of said budgets to correct an oversight or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the General Assembly by delivering such an amendment or supplement to the presiding officers of both houses; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as a modification of or a substitute for any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may affect.

The General Assembly shall not amend the budget bill so as to affect either the obligations of the State under Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, or the provisions made by the laws of the State for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools, or the payment of any salaries required to be paid by the State of Maryland by the Constitution thereof; and the General Assembly may amend the bill by increasing or diminishing the items therein relating to the General Assembly; and by increasing the items therein relating to the Judiciary, but except as hereinbefore specified, may not alter the said bill except to strike out or recuce items therein, provided, however, that the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be decreased during his term of office; and such bill when and as passed by both houses shall be a law immediately without further action by the Governor.

Fourth. The Governor and such representatives of the executive departments, boards, officers and commissions of the State expending or supplying for State's money, as have been designated by the Governor for this purpose, shall have the right, and when requested by either house of the Legislature, it shall be their duty to appear and be heard with respect to any budget bill during the consideration thereof, and to answer inquiries relative thereto.

Sub-Section C: Supplementary Appropriation Bills:

Neither house shall consider other appropriations until the Budget Bill has been finally acted upon by both houses, and no such other appropriation shall be valid except in accordance with the provisions following: (1) Every such appropriation shall be embodied in a separate bill limited to some single work, object or purdose therein stated and called herein a Supplementary Appropriation Bill; (2) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall provide the revenue necessary to pay the appropriation thereby made by a tax, direct or indirect, to be laid and collected as shall be directed in said Bill. (3) No Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall become a law unless it be passed in each house by a vote of a majority of the whole number of the members elected; and in the yeas and nays recorded on its final passage; (4) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall be presented to the Governor of the State as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution and thereafter all the provisions of said Section shall apply.

Nothing in this amendment shall be construed as preventing the Legislature from passing at any time in accordance with the provisions of Section 28 of Article III of the Constitution and subject to the Governor's power of approval as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution an appropriation bill to provide for the payment of any obligation of the State of Maryland within the protection of Section 10 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

Sub-Section D: General Provisions:

First. If the Budget Bill shall not have been finally acted upon by the Legislature three days before the expiration of its regular session, the Governor may, and it shall be his duty to issue a proclamation extending the session for such further period as may in his judgment, be necessary for the passage of such Bills but no other matter than such Bill shall be considered during such extended session except a provision for the cost thereof.

Second. The Governor for the purpose of making up his budgets shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to require from the proper State officials, including herein all executive departments, all executive and administrative offices, bureaus boards, commissions and agencies expending or supervising the expenditure of, and all institutions applying for State moneys and appropriations, such itemized estimates and other information, in such form and at such times as he shall direct. The estimates for the Legislative Department, certified by the presiding officer of each house, of the Judiciary, as provided by law, certified by the Comptroller, and for the public schools, as provided by law shall be transmitted to the Governor, in such form and at such times as he shall direct, and shall be included in the budget without revision.

The Governor may provide for public hearings on all estimates and may require the attendance at such hearings of representatives of all agencies, and of all institutions applying for State moneys. After such public hearings he may, in his discretion, revise all estimates except those for the legislative and judiciary departments, and for the public schools as provided by law.

Third. The Legislature may, from time to time, enact such laws, not inconsistent with this Section, as may be necessary and proper to carry out it provisions.

Fourth. In the event of any inconsistency between any of the provisions of this Section and any of the other provisions of the Constitution, the provisions of this Section shall prevail. But nothing herein shall in any manner affect the provisions of Section 34 of Article III of the Constution or of any laws heretofore or hereafter passed in pursuance thereof, or be construed as preventing the Governor from calling extraordinary sessions of the Legislature, as provided by Section 16 of Article II, or as preventing the Legislature at such extraordinary sessions from considering any emergency appropriations.

If any item of any appropriation bill passed under the provisions of this Section shall be held invalid upon any ground, such invalidity shall not affect the legality of the Bill or of any other item of such Bill or Bills.

Section 2. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said foregoing Section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution shall at the next ensuing general election, being the Presidential and Congressional election, being the Presidential and Congressional election, to be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, nineteen hundred and sixteen, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection in conformity with the directions contained in Article XVI of this State, and at said election the vote on said proposed amendment to the constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be placed the following synopsis of said amendment under the caption of

"This amendment provides that the Governor shall present to the Legislature soon after it is convened a Budget giving a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the two succeeding fiscal years showing clearly any surplus or deficit in State funds. In these estimates he shall make provision for the interest and sinking funds of all State debts, for all salaries as fixed by law, and for the public schools as fixed by law. With regard to most other matters he may revise the estimates presented to him either by State Officers or State aided institutions. The Legislature may not increase the estimates presented by the Governor or pass any additional appropriation act except by a majority vote and must make provision by tax for such increase or additional appropriation. The Legislature may not alter in any appropriation act the provision made by law for the State debt, or for the judiciary, but may reduce all other items in the Governor's estimates; and the words 'for the Constitutional Amendment' and 'against the Constitutional Amendment' as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote in accordance with Article XVI of the Constitution.

Approved March 28, 1916."

Now, therefore, I, Emerson C. Harrington, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct a copy of this Proclamation, containing a full, true and correct copy of the text of said Chapter 159 of the Acts of Maryland of 1916, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which said newspapers in the City of Baltimore to be printed in the German language, once a week for three months preceding the General Election to be held in this State on November 7th, 1916, and at which election the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be submitted, in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND THE GREAT SEAL OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND.

The Great Seal of Maryland.

DONE at the City of Annapolis, this twentieth day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen.

MARYLAND-WEST VA. RE-UNION OF ODD FELLOWS

Promises to be A Splendid Event at The Park on Saturday, Aug. 26th.

Letters and advertising matter are being mailed to all I. O. O. F. lodges of the two jurisdictions calling their attention to the fact that the Maryland-West Virginia Reunion of the order will be held at Mt. Lake Park on Saturday, August 26th. This reunion was originally scheduled for July 22nd, but it was necessary to postpone it until a later date as the result of not being able to secure cars, the government using them at that time for the movement of troops to the border.

The committee has been notified by the railroad company that the shortage of coaches is over, and they are now able to furnish the necessary equipment. There will be special trains and very low rates of fare for the round trip from Wheeling, Parkersburg, Morgantown, Weston, Buckhannon, Belington, Martinsburg, W. Va., Cumberland and Frostburg, Md.

Keen disappointment was manifested when it was announced that the reunion was to be postponed, but the fact that the railroad company has now guaranteed cars will mean that there will be much activity in the ranks of the I. O. O. F. throughout both states.

This will be one of the largest gatherings ever held by the members of the lodges of these jurisdictions and thousands are expected to be present and spend the day in the mountains at this famous summer resort, and enjoy the the exercises which have been arranged. A. F. Wagner, of Clarksburg, West Va., is chairman, and A. T. White, of Mt. Lake Park, is secretary of the committee.

SPEEDERS ON NATIONAL ROAD COME TO GRIEF

One Was Badly Injured When Car Twice Turned Over Near Grantsville.

Mack Decker, aged 22, Newell, Pa., is in Western Maryland Hospital at Cumberland with several fractured ribs and a punctured lung, sustained when an automobile in which he was riding with six others from Fayette county, Pa., turned turtle on the National pike, at Stanton's Mill, just east of Grantsville, early Sunday afternoon.

The chauffeur, named Nesser, had one ear torn off and is badly bruised about the head and body. He with the other five, all of whom were more or less injured, was taken to Uniontown Sunday night. The rear wheel of the machine hit the culvert wall at Stanton's Mill, and the automobile turned over twice landing in the front yard of William Stanton, the occupants being scattered in all directions, except Decker, who was pinned underneath the car.

The men were on their way to Cumberland and were speeding. The car is almost a total wreck.

Campers Return.

On Saturday of this week the girl campers of Oakland will return to their respective homes after spending a delightful two weeks along the banks of the Youghiougheny river, just below Sines, where they were under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Naylor and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Davis.

The party is composed of the following people from town: Mrs. Joseph Harned, Misses Mary Drake Naylor, Reva Davis, Louise Harned, Mildred Dixon and Evelyn Cheuvront; and Miss Esther Ingle, of Grantsville; Misses Nelle and Jennie Lee of Mt. Lake Park.

Miss Jennie Lee and Miss Evelyn Cheuvront returned to their respective homes the first part of the week.

ALL OCCUPANTS OF CAR PAINFULLY INJURED

When It Turned Turtle on State Road Last Saturday Afternoon.

Garrett county, thus far during the present automobile season, has had more wrecks and serious accidents than ever before in its history, caused, no doubt, by the congested condition of the main artery of travel, the State road leading north from Oakland, toward which every owner of an automobile turns owing to its excellent qualities for travel. During the past two weeks a number of accidents have occurred with more or less serious consequences.

On Saturday afternoon last at a point on the road near the residence of Justice Fraker, some ten miles north of Oakland, a Ford car owned and driven by James Rush, son of Mr. Clark Rush, a prominent farmer of near Accident, struck a large pile of screenings which had been placed alongside the road for repair purposes and before the driver could regain control of the machine it had turned turtle, throwing the occupants, who were Misses Margaret Friend and Mary Carr, Bliss Friend and James Rush, clear of the car and injuring all of them more or less severely.

The young people were brought to town in another automobile and taken the office of Dr. Broadwater where their injuries were dressed.

Miss Friend sustained a number of bruises and had her collar bone broken, while her brother Bliss suffered many cuts about his face, some of them being very deep and painful. Both are children of former County Commissioner Asa B. Friend, who resides near Hoyes.

Miss Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Carr, of McHenry, had her hand split for an inch or more, while Mr. Rush suffered a slight concussion of the brain and was also badly cut about his face and suffered a number of bruises. After the physician's work had been completed all of the injured were sent to their homes with the exception of Mr. Rush, who was taken to the Home Sanatorium, but on Tuesday he was removed from the instution and taken to his home by his father, his condition having greatly improved.

The automobile was almost completely wrecked and was taken to Accident for repairs.

Silver Loving Cups as Premiums.

Dr. George C. Melody, of Oakland, has received from the manufacturer two silver loving cups which will be awarded at the coming Garrett County Fair to boys of Garrett county. One of the cups will be given the boy under the age of twenty-one who scores the greatest number of points in judging dairy and beef cattle, while the other will be awarded the boy who exhibits the best colt of two years or under. Dr. Melody is chairman of the stock committee of the fair and is enthusiastically working for a large exhibit of live stock.

THE BIBLE CONFERENCE AT MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK

Large Crowds at the Famous Resort Are Being Entertained.

Mountain Lake Park is crowded with people from all parts of the country who are there for the Second Annual Bible Conference held under the auspices of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. The opening sermon on Sunday was preached by the leader of the Conference, the Rev. James M. Gray, D. D., Dean of the Moody Bible Institute. His theme, "The Christian's Blessed Hope," was ably and clearly presented. "It pays," he said "to be earnestly looking for the coming of our Lord, waiting for him and even suffering for Him. Paul, the greatest man who ever walked the earth, was faithful to our Lord Jesus Christ and longed for His return. If men were anxiously awaiting Christ's return they would live differently. If women had their minds on the things of God they would not dress as they do." Other speakers were Mr. Charles G. Trumbell editor of the Sunday School Times, who is giving a series of talks on "The Victorious life."

The Rev. R. M. Russell, D. D., of the Moody Institute, gave several addresses on "The Work of the Holy Spirit," and the "Deity of Christ." Prof. E. O. Sellers, chorister and soloist adds much inspiration to the Conference. He will also speak every afternoon on "Teacher Training," "Child Study," and other Sunday school problems.

The attendance this year far exceeds that of last year. All the hotels and boarding houses are overflowing. The cool mountain air has induced many who have been sweltering in the towns and cities to come, not only for the Conference, but to spend their vacations.

Speakers yet to be heard are Evangelist Luther K. Peacock, who spent three years as assistant to Billy Sunday; Pastor Kemp, of London, who recently became pastor of Calvary Baptist church of New York City; the Rev. Geo. E. Guille, of the Presbyterian church South; Miss Elinor Stafford Millar, of Melbourne, Australia; Pastor Paul Rader, of the Moody church of Chicago, and others. There is no charge for admittance to the Conference or to the grounds. Sunday will be the closing day of the Conference and the greatest. The speakers will be Rev. Dr. Gray, the director of the Conference; Rev. Paul Rader, pastor of the Moody church, Chicago, Miss Elinor Stafford Millar, the Australian Evangelist.

The soloists will be E. O. Sellers and Arthur W. McKee, of Chicago.

Proposals To Close Lutheran Schools.

The daily press of Tuesday contained a news note to the effect that the government of Victoria has under consideration a proposal to close all Lutheran schools in Australia because of the war feeling. Reason: Martin Luther, founder of the church, was a German.

THE GREAT GARRETT COUNTY FAIR FOR 1916

Many Unique Attractions and Entertainment for The Visitors.

The Fair management has been fortunate in securing the most unique musical organization in the State, the Boys Band of Cumberland, to furnish the music for this year's Fair. This organization is composed of about thirty boys ranging in ages from 15 to 19 years, all beautifully uniformed and led by Prof. Fradiski, a very competent musician. In addition to their instrumental music they render plenty of enjoyable vocal selections on the band stand. To hear them will be a real treat.

Nigro's Greater Shows, under contract with the Fair management to occupy a portion of the grounds during the Fair and give daily and nightly performances, will have in addition to their many tent attractions, a motor drome, merry-go-round and large Ferris wheel. They carry a splendid brass band to attract patrons and this excellent band will give daily concerts and join in the many parades to be given by the Fair management.

A complete marble yard in operation, an electric light plant for farmers, a self milker for cows, all in full operation will be among the attractions at the Fair.

Catalogues for the Fair are being issued this week from the office of the Secretary and bill posting has been going on during the past week all over this and the adjoining counties of West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The free attraction at the Fair this year will be a greater thriller than was the flying machine of last year. Sensational Smithson on his bicycle will actually ride through the air, high up, for a distance of many yards.

If you have a big pumpkin, a tall stalk of corn, some big apples or an old time relic, bring it to the Fair.

When you get your catalogue, read out the many special premiums offered in various departments of the Fair. Premiums have been increased in a number of the departments.

Remember that a season ticket is good for all four days of the Fair and costs you one dollar.

Prof. Grimes of the West Virginia University Preparatory School at Keyser, West Va., with several able assistants, will have charge of the Agricultural Department at the Fair this year. He is also a Garrett county farmer from near Deer Park.

Dr. Geo. Melody, in charge of the live stock department, is making an effort to have one of the largest live stock exhibits ever seen at a Garrett County Fair and will produce the proof that Garrett county cannot be beaten by any other county in the state in this line.

HURT IN AUTO WRECK

When Machine Struck and Killed a Cow Near McHenry Thursday Night.

Last Thursday evening a party of three young men, Messrs. Carroll Kelly, Robert Helbig and Joseph Woodware, the latter of Parkersburg, who is here on a visit to friends, were motoring on the State road near McHenry in the latters automobile when the machine struck a cow which was crossing the road and injured it so badly that it died shortly afterward. Young Woodward was struck in the eye by a piece of glass shattered from the windshield and has suffered considerably as a result. The other members of the party escaped with no injuries.

The car was badly damaged, the forward portion of the machine being stripped almost bare. The killed animal was the property of Mr. W. R. Drane.

Struck By Auto.

Last Sunday afternoon the son of Mr. Bayard T. Frantz, of Charleston, West Va., who with his parents were at Deer Park to attend a family reunion, was struck by an automobile and painfully hurt, his injuries, however, not being of a dangerous nature.

ROOSEVELT APPLAUDS HUGHES' SPEECH

Theodore Roosevelt sat in a box at Carnegie hall when Mr. Hughes delivered his speech of acceptance and vigorously applauded every telling point.

The colonel repeatedly arose and bowed in response to the cheers for him and the shouts of "Teddy!" "Teddy!" "Hurrah for Teddy!" and when the meeting adjourned he made the following statement:

"It is an admirable speech, and I wish to call attention to the following points:

"I am particularly pleased with the exposure of the folly, and worse than folly, of Mr. Wilson's Mexican policy and of the way in which this policy has brought humiliation to the United States and disaster to Mexico itself.

"Moreover, I am very glad of the straightforward manner in which Mr. Hughes has shown the ridicule with which Mr. Wilson has covered this nation by the manner in which he allowed foreign powers to gain the impression that, although he used the strongest words in diplomacy, they were not to be taken seriously.

Not Words Which Count.

"As Mr. Hughes said, it is not words, but the strength and resolution behind the words which count. As Mr. Hughes pointed out, there is no doubt that if Mr. Wilson's conduct and action had been such as to make the foreign nations believe that he meant precisely what he said in his 'strict accountability' there would have been no estruction of American lives by the sinking of the Lusitania.

"When Mr. Hughes uses strong words his record shows that they are always backed by strong deeds, and therefore in the enormous majority of cases the use of strong words renders it unnecessary ever to have recourse to strong deeds.

"Again, Mr. Hughes speaks in characteristically straightforward fashion of the outrages committed on munitions plants, and all men, whether citizens of foreign nations or nominal citizens of our own land, who had in any shape or way abetted or condoned those actions can understand that Mr. Hughes, if president, will protect these domestic American interests and punish offenders against them with the fearlessness and thoroughness that he showed in dealing with the powers of evil at Albany.

Brought Nation to Ignominy.

"Just before coming in to listen to Mr. Hughes' just characterization of Mr. Wilson's failure to protect the lives and property of Americans in Mexico and on the high seas I happened to pick up John Fiske's 'Critical Period of American History' and was struck by the following two sentences:

"'A government touches the lowest point of ignominy when it confesses its inability to protect the lives and the property of its citizens. A government which has come to this has failed in discharging the primary function of government and forthwith ceases to have any reason for existing.'

"Mr. Hughes has pointed out in his speech with self restraint, but with emphasis, that it is precisely this primary function which Mr. Wilson's administration has failed to discharge and that it is precisely this point of ignominy to which he has reduced the nation over which he is president."

A POLICY OF FIRMNESS AND CONSISTENCY NEEDED.

The nation has no policy of aggression toward Mexico. We have no desire for any part of her territory. We wish her to have peace, stability and prosperity. We shall have to adopt a new policy, a policy of firmness and consistency through which alone we can promote an enduring friendship. We demand from Mexico the protection of the lives and the property of our citizens and the security of our border from depredations. Much will be gained if Mexico is convinced that we contemplate no meddlesome interference with what does not concern us, but that we propose to insist in a firm and candid manner upon the performance of international obligations. To a stable government, appropriately discharging its international duties, we should give unGrudging support. A short period of firm, consistent and friendly dealing will accomplish more than many years of vacillation. — From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

AN ADMINISTRATION TOO CONTENT WITH LEISURELY DISCUSSION.

I do not put life and property on the same footing, but the administration has not only been remiss with respect to the protection of American lives. It has been remiss with respect to the protection of American property and American commerce. It has been too much disposed to be content with leisurely discussion. — From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

BUSINESS MEN TRY TO AVERT STRIKE

Ask Congress to Direct U. S. Inquiry Into R. R. Wages.

FOR PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT

Washington.—In order to ascertain the position of the business men of the nation on the controversy between the railroads of the country and the unions of train service employes, which was precipitated by the demand of the latter for an increase in wages that would amount to $100,000,000 a year, the United States Chamber of Commerce recently submitted the matter to a vote of all its members. They were asked to express their opinion as to whether the dispute should be allowed to take its course with the possibility of a great strike that would tie up all the transportation lines throughout the country and paralyze all business, or whether they would favor the adoption to a joint resolution by the two branches of congress directing the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate and pass upon the matter.

The vote received was a very large one and represented business organizations in every part of the country. The result was overwhelmingly in favor of placing the matter in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission, 984¾ votes being cast in favor of this course and only 28¼ against it. The result showed clearly that the business interests of the country are unalterably against permitting the transportation lines to be tied up by a national railroad strike that would paralyze the commerce of the country and inflict enormous losses on all classes of citizens.

Chairman Wheeler of the Committee in charge of the matter for the Chamber of Commerce appeared before the representatives of the railroads and their employes at their conference in New York in June. He announced the result of the Committee's inquiry among the business men of the country and urged both parties to the dispute to get together and adopt the course suggested. As a result the committee of managers representing the railroads submitted a proposal that the whole subject be placed before the Interstate Commerce Commission as requested by the representatives of the business interests. As an alternative they offered to submit the demands to arbitration under the Federal law. Both offers were refused by the union leaders, who announced that they would go back to their unions and get authority to declare a strike. This they have since been doing.

Meanwhile a resolution has been introduced in Congress directing the Interstate Commerce Commission to make an investigation of railroad wages. This resolution is now awaiting action. It is believed here that if nothing further is done by Congress or by the parties to the wage dispute to bring about a peaceful settlement the business interests of the country, through the United States Chamber of Commerce, or some other organization, will appeal to the Government to take some direct and decisive action to prevent the destruction of national prosperity by a strike on all the railroad lines.

DEMANDS OF R. R. TRAINMEN.

Wage Increase of $100,000,000 a Year Would Have to Be Borne by Public.

The train service employes of all railroad lines in the United States have united in a demand for a new basis of pay for all men engaged in operating trains, except those in passenger service. At the present time they are paid on the basis of ten hours of time or 100 miles of distance, whichever gives them the higher pay; and every man receives a full day's pay, no matter how short a time he works.

The trainmen now demand that, in all but passenger service, (1) the present ten hours pay shall be given for eight hours, or less, with a guarantee of a full day's pay, no matter how little service is performed; (2) overtime to begin after eight hours, instead of after ten hours, and to be paid for at one and one-half times the hourly rate.

These demands would increase the hourly rate of pay 25 per cent, and the overtime rate 87½ per cent.

They also insist that all special extra pay provisions in the 10-hour schedules shall be included in the proposed 8-hour schedule.

These special rules frequently give double pay for the same service, and enable the employes to earn two and three days' pay in a single day of ordinary working hours.

As the increase for all the lines is estimated to amount to $100,000,000 a year the railroads say that they cannot pay it unless they are allowed to increase freight and passenger rates.

The average wages of the men engaged in train service are already very much higher than those of other employees and they receive 28 per cent of the total payroll although constituting only 18 per cent of the whole number of railroad workers.

HOW THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION HAS PENALIZED PATRIOTISM.

"Having in view the possibility of further aggression upon the territory of the United States from Mexico and the necessity for the proper protection of that frontier," President Wilson on June 18 called out the mobile arms of the national guard for federal service.

He did not call them out at their existing peace strength, but at war strength, which is practically double. Lacking a system of reserves, the national guard organizations immediately had to start a campaign of recruiting to bring about the desired increase in their numbers.

Patriotic young citizens under the urge of the cry, "Your country needs you!" volunteered for service in gratifying numbers. According to Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the senate committee on military affairs, the result is that about 135,000 citizen soldiers have been mustered into the federal service and are now on the Mexican border or in camp in their home states. There may be more, but the administration refuses to make known the exact figures.

The movement is costing the public treasury many millions of dollars; it is costing the individual citizen soldiers many millions more. They went to the front believing the cry, "Your country needs you," for war service. They sacrificed advancement in their civil occupations, severed home ties, suffered in thousands of instances great financial loss. The less patriotic, who did not believe the cry or, believing, declined to make sacrifices, fatten at home on these losses.

The real purposes of the call are slowly developing. They are two in number:

First.—A patrol of the border to do the work which President Wilson's friend, Carranza, finds it impossible to do. Because the recognized government in Mexico is too ineffective to keep its own citizens in check and prevent them murdering Americans on American soil the American government undertakes the costly task of doing that work for them. The murder of American citizens on Mexican soil is another matter. Carranza may go as far as he likes in that direction.

Second.—A purpose of the mobilization on the border and in the camps is to train citizens to perform effective military service. The regular military establishment of the nation is manifestly too small for the actual military needs. To this extent the cry, "Your country needs you," was correct.

But these facts were not made clear when the call was issued. The idea was promulgated that men were needed for actual war service, not for military training. Deceit was practiced.

Opposing in the open legislation for universal military service, the administration by its acts has established what in essence is a system of compulsory military service. It is a system all the more vicious because it operates only against the patriotic, whereas a legalized universal training system equalizes the burden of military service among all men and all classes of men.

When in 1914 Europe plunged into the greatest war of all history and conditions in Mexico grew intolerable intelligent men realized the fact that it was incumbent on this nation to build up its tiny regular army and put its other military resources in condition for use. National safety demanded this. And yet in December of that year, four months after the European war began, President Wilson went before congress and declared that all agitation for military preparedness was hysterical; that we were adequately prepared.

After awhile the administration changed its mind and professed to believe in the necessity for preparedness. First came an enactment to increase the regular army by 20,000. But the body of the country, and even all parts of the Democratic administration, could not change front so quickly as the head. Recruiting for the regular army lagged. Not yet have the 20,000 been secured.

The need pressed. A new national defense act, providing for still more men in the regular army, was enacted. But still the men were not forthcoming.

Suddenly and without warning the administration issued its call for mobilization of the citizen soldiers. It seemed still obsessed with the Bryan notion that an army could be created by presidential ukase.

When the call went out the government did not own enough uniforms, shoes, socks, blankets, hats, wagons, trucks, horses, mules and other things essential to equip the men called. It had made no provision for transporting the troops called to the points where they were required.

Who suffered most by this amazing lack of foresight, this leaping before looking?

Only the 135,000 patriots who believed that their country needed them for national defense; only the men who are making the great sacrifices.

The whole disgraceful story may be summed up in the phrase, the administration has penalized patriotism.

True, it is accumulating by subterfuge a reserve of trained soldiers, but events have demonstrated that it cried "wolf" when there was no wolf. Should it be forced to cry "wolf" again, when the wolf is at the door, what will be the result?

Are You Wasting The Price Of a Titan Engine?

TITAN engines run on kerosene.

Average cost of gasoline so far this year, 16.9 cents per gallon.

Average cost of kerosene 7.7 cents per gallon.

Gasoline costs over 100 per cent more than kerosene. Gasoline is going up steadily. Kerosene is not.

At present fuel prices Titan engines, using kerosene, save their owners about 1.1 cents per horse power per hour.

Are you running a gasoline engine? What horse power is it? Figure what you'd be saving if you had a Titan kerosene engine. Rather surprising, isn't it? How long would it take that saving to pay for a Titan engine of the same size?

NATIONAL SURVEY OF PARALYSIS

Federal Government Is Investigating the Spread of the Scourge

CONFERENCE OF SCIENTISTS

Scourge Leaps the Mississippi and Spreads Outside New York City, Where There Is Lull—To Prosecute Quarantine Violations.

Washington.—The Government of the United States, in conjunction with municipal, county and State health officials in practically every commonwealth in the country, is planning the most colossal health survey ever undertaken.

That is the purpose of the conference called in Washington.

The object of the movement, which is comparable in magnitude to a national census, is to throttle the epidemic of infantile paralysis and to prevent other epidemics.

Two eminent surgeons of the Public Health Service, Dr. Charles E Banks and Dr. C. H. Lavinder, returned to Washington from New York upon the telegraphed summons of Surgeon-General Rupert Blue.

With twenty-eight other Federal physicians, Drs. Banks and Lavinder have been giving yeoman aid to New York City in its fight against the plague.

Reports of the progress of the epidemic show:

NEW YORK.—Totals of deaths and new cases in Greater New York at the present stage of the epidemic are 5,822 cases and 1,298 deaths. These are revised figures issued by the Department after discounting a few cases which proved not to be poliomyelitis. Forty-eight new cases of infantile paralysis in the State outside of Greater New York were reported to the State Health Department at Albany, making a total of 844. Five deaths, bringing the total deaths outside New York City to 79 were reported.

PENNSYLVANIA.—There are now 212 cases of infantile paralysis in Pennsylvania, and there have been 54 deaths there since July 1, said State Health Commissioner Dixon Dr. Dixon said the situation is steadily improving.

MASSACHUSETTS.—In Massachusetts 163 cases have been reported since June 1, with 12 deaths since July 1.

NEW JERSEY.—With 80 new victims New Jersey cases passed the 1,300 mark.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Four cases; one death.

NEW MEXICO.—No cases; no quarantine.

ALABAMA.—Fifty cases; no deaths.

MISSISSIPPI.—Forty cases; three deaths.

SOUTH CAROLINA. — Thirty-five cases; five deaths.

IOWA.—Fifty cases; three deaths.

GEORGIA.—Few cases; no deaths.

KENTUCKY.—Twelve cases; some deaths.

TENNESSEE.—Thirty-eight cases; one death.

MISSOURI. — Six cases; three deaths.

TEXAS.—No epidemic, but a few cases.

ARIZONA.—Two cases, both fatal.

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Five cases; two deaths.

MINNESOTA.—Two hundred and forty-six cases; 24 deaths.

ARKANSAS.—No cases.

MICHIGAN.—Seventy three cases; 20 deaths.

ILLINOIS.—One hundred and twenty-five cases; eight deaths.

INDIANA.—Thirty-six cases; four deaths.

KANSAS. — Twenty cases; four deaths.

NEBRASKA.—Seventeen cases; two deaths.

NORTH DAKOTA.—No cases.

OHIO.—One hundred cases; no records as to deaths.

DIPHTHERIA RIFE IN HOSPITAL

Doctors and Nurses in Boston Institution Stricken.

Boston.—Physicians at the Massachusetts General Hospital are trying to prevent the further spread of what the superintendent, Dr. Frederick A Washburn, described as "a small epidemic" of diphtheria among resident doctors and nurses. Twenty-seven nurses, two house doctors, and an ambulance driver who were suffering from diphtheria have been removed to departments of other hospitals.

BULGARIA IRRITATES RUMANIA

Soldiers Charged With Breaches of Neutrality on the Frontier.

Amsterdam.—On drawing the attention of the Bulgarian Government to recent incidents on the Bulgarian-Rumanian frontier, such as the recent attempt of Bulgarian soldiers to seize a Rumanian island in the Danube, the Rumanian Foreign Minister, according to a semi-official telegram, said the incidents were "too frequent and not in accordance with the good relations between the two countries."

PROCLAMATION

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND CREATING A BUDGET SYSTEM.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1916, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 159 of said Acts, being an Act to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, "Legislative Department," of the Constitution of this State; and which said Act is in words and figures following:

"CHAPTER 159.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, regulating the making of appropriations by the General Assembly of Maryland in regular session, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two houses concurring.) That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 52 of Article III of the Constitution of Maryland.

Sec. 52 The General Assembly shall not appropriate any money out of the Treasury except in accordance with the followin provisions:

Sub-Section A:

Every appropriation bill shall be either a Budget Bill, or a Supplementary Appropriation Bill, as hereinafter mentioned.

Sub-Section B:

First. Within twenty days after the convening of the General Assembly (except in the case of a newly elected Governor, and then within thirty days after his inauguration,) unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly for the session at which the Budget is to be submitted, the Governor shall submit to the General Assembly two budgets, one for each of the ensuing fiscal years. Each budget shall contain a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the particular fiscal year to which it relates; and shall show the estimated surplus or deficit of revenues at the end of such year. Accompanying each budget shall be a statement showing: (1) the revenues and expenditures for each of the two fiscal years next preceding; (2) the current assets, liabilities, reserves and surplus or deficit of the State; (3) the debts and funds of the State; (4) an estimate of the State's financial condition as of the beginning and end of each of the fiscal years covered by the two budgets above provided; (5) any explanation the Governor may desire to make as to the important features of any budget and any suggestion as to methods for the reduction or increase of the State's revenue.

Second. Each budget shall be divided into two parts, and the first part shall be designated "Governmental Appropriations" and shall embrace an itemized estimate of the appropriations: (1) for the General Assembly as certified to the Governor in the manner hereinafter provided; (2) for the Executive Department; (3) for the Judiciary Department, as provided by law, certified to the Governor by the Comptroller; (4) to pay and discharge the principal and interest of the debt of the State of Maryland in conformity with Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, and all laws enacted in pursuance thereof; (5) for the salaries payable by the State under Constitution and laws of the State; (6) for the establishment and maintenance throughout the State of a thorough and efficient system of public schools in conformity with Article VIII of the Constitution and with the laws of the State; (7) for such other purposes as are set forth in the Constitution of the State.

Third. The second part shall be designated "General Appropriations," and shall include all other estimates of appropriations.

The Governor shall deliver to the presiding officer of each house the budgets and a bill for all the proposed appropriations of the budgets clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each house shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein, and such bill shall be known as the "Budget Bill." The Governor may, before final action thereon by the General Assembly, amend or supplement either of said budgets to correct an oversight or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the General Assembly by delivering such an amendment or supplement to the presiding officers of both houses; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as a modification of or a substitute for any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may affect.

The General Assembly shall not amend the budget bill so as to affect either the obligations of the State under Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, or the provisions made by the laws of the State for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools, or the payment of any salaries required to be paid by the State of Maryland by the Constitution thereof; and the General Assembly may amend the bill by increasing or diminishing the items therein relating to the General Assembly and by increasing the items therein relating to the Judiciary, but except as hereinbefore specified, may not alter the said bill except to strike out or reduce items therein, provided, however, that the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be decreased during his term of office; and such bill when and as passed by both houses shall be a law immediately without further action by the Governor.

Fourth. The Governor and such representatives of the executive departments, boards, officers and commissions of the state expending or supplying for State's money, as have been designated by the Governor for this purpose, shall have the right, and when requested by either house of the Legislature, it shall be their duty to appear and be heard with respect to any budget bill during the consideration thereof, and to answer inquiries relative thereto.

Sub-Section C: Supplementary Appropriation Bills:

Neither house shall consider other appropriations until the Budget Bill has been finally acted upon by both houses, and no such other appropriation shall be valid except in accordance with the provisions following: (1) Every such appropriation shall be embodied in a separate bill limited to some single work, object or purpose therein stated and called herein a Supplementary Appropriation Bill; (2) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall provide the revenue necessary to pay the appropriation thereby made by a tax, direct or indirect, to be laid and collected as shall be directed in said Bill. (3) No Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall become a law unless it be passed in each house by a vote of a majority of the whole number of the members elected; and in the yeas and nays recorded on its final passage; (4) Each supplementary Appropriation Bill shall be presented to the Governor of the State as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution and thereafter all the provisions of said Section shall apply.

Nothing in this amendment shall be construed as preventing the Legislature from passing at any time in accordance with the provisions of Section 28 of Article III of the Constitution and subject to the Governor's power of approval as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution an appropriation bill to provide for the payment of any obligation of the State of Maryland within the protection of Section 10 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

Sub-Section D: General Provisions:

First. If the Budget Bill shall not have been finally acted upon by the Legislature three days before the expiration of its regular session, the Governor may, and it shall be his duty to issue a proclamation extending the session for such further period as may, in his judgment, be necessary for the passage of such Bill; but no other matter than such Bill shall be considered during such extended session except a provision for the cost thereof.

Second. The Governor for the purpose of making up his budgets shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to require from the proper State Officials, including herein all executive departments, all executive and administrative offices, bureaus boards, commissions and agencies expending or supervising the expenditure of, and all institutions applying for State moneys and appropriations, such itemized estimates and other information, in such form and at such times as he shall direct. The estimates for the Legislative Department, certified by the presiding officer of each house, of the Judiciary, as provided by law, certified by the Comptroller, and for the public schools, as provided by law shall be transmitted to the Governor, in such form and at such times as he shall direct, and shall be included in the budget without revision.

The Governor may provide for public hearings on all estimates and may require the attendance at such hearings of representatives of all agencies, and of all institutions applying for State moneys. After such public hearings he may, in his discretion, revise all estimates except those for the legislative and judiciary departments, and for the public schools as provided by law.

Third. The Legislature may, from time to time, enact such laws, not inconsistent with this Section, as may be necessary and proper to carry out it provisions

Fourth. In the event of any inconsistency between any of the provisions of this Section and any of the other provisions of the Constitution, the provisions of this Section shall prevail. But nothing herein shall in any manner affect the provisions of Section 34 of Article III of the Constution or of any laws heretofore or hereafter passed in pursuance thereof, or be construed as preventing the Governor from calling extraordinary sessions of the Legislature, as provided by Section 16 of Article II, or as preventing the Legislature at such extraordinary sessions from considering any emergency appropriations.

If any item of any appropriation bill passed under the provisions of this Section shall be held invalid upon any ground, such invalidity shall not affect the legality of the Bill or of any other item of such Bill or Bills.

Section 2. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said foregoing Section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution shall at the next ensuing general election, being the Presidential and Congressional election, being the Presidential and Congressional, election, to be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, nineteen hundred and sixteen, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection in conformity with the directions contained in Article XVI of this State, and at said election the vote on said proposed amendment to the constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be placed the following synopsis of said amendment under the caption of 'CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROVIDING FOR A BUDGET,'

"This amendment provides that the Governor shall present to the Legislature soon after it is convened a Budget giving a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the two succeeding fiscal years showing clearly any surplus or deficit in State funds. In these estimates he shall make provision for the interest and sinking funds of all State debts, for all salaries as fixed by law, and for the public schools as fixed by law. With regard to most other matters he may revise the estimates presented to him either by State Officers or State-aided institutions. The Legislature may not increase the estimates presented by the Governor or pass any additional appropriation act except by a majority vote and must make provision by tax for such increase or additional appropriation. The Legislature may not alter in any appropriation act the provision made by law for the state debt, or for the judiciary, but may reduce all other items in the Governor's estimates;' and the words 'for the Constitutional Amendment' and 'against the Constitutional Amendment' as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote in accordance with Article XVI of the Constitution.

Approved March 28, 1916."

Now, therefore, I, Emerson C. Harrington, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct a copy of this Proclamation, containing a full, true and correct copy of the text of said Chapter 159 of the Acts of Maryland of 1916, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which said newspapers in the City of Baltimore to be printed in the German language, once a week for three months next preceding the General Election to be held in this State on November 7th, 1916, and at which election the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be submitted, in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

HUGHES ON THE STUMP.

If our friends the enemy have been hugging to their hearts the illusion that six years of comparative seclusion upon the Supreme Court bench have unfitted Mr. Hughes as a political campaigner the vigor and earnestness of his few days work in the field must have banished the notion.

No fair minded reader or hearer of Mr. Hughes can have any doubt about what he would have done to uphold the honor of the nation and to defend the rights and persons of American citizens wherever and by whomsoever threatened. He fulfills every reasonable requirement when he lays bare the mistakes and blunders of the present administration and pledges himself to the people that, placed in a position of executive responsibility, he will "see to it that America's rights are safeguarded, and that America's name in administration, in policy and in execution is honored throughout the world."

This means, of course, that had the responsibility of dealing with the Mexican troubles rested on his shoulders he would not have neglected to provide for the protection of the lives of Americans in Mexico, he would not have meddled in the national affairs of the country by dictating who should and who should not become candidate for President, he would not have forced an aimless and futile intervention in Mexican affairs, he would not have dickered first with one and then with another of the bandit chieftains who were engaged in the effort to overthrow order and authority at the City of Mexico, and he certainly would not have given countenance and assistance to Villa or anyone like him.

In the face of specific declarations like these, it is childish to insist, as some of his critics are insisting, that he shall reverse the form of his attack and point out in other and less effective phrases the things which he would have done. It is quite sufficient for the country to learn what he would not have done, especially in the light of the anarchy and bloodshed that have been the direct results of the misguided and vascillating policies of the government during the last three years!

The coming years will determine national destinies as never before in the world history, and America will inevitably suffer if the guiding hand in the future, as in the present, is irresolute and timid, if American rights are to be flouted without effective protest and Americans lives be wantonly sacrificed without reparation or redress. This is the meaning of the present concentration of attack on the foreign policies and actions of President Wilson, and Mr. Hughes is directing it with a skill and resolution that must find an echo in American hearts, a response in American patriotism.

"DAVIE" DIDN'T KNOW.

In his recent speech of acceptance Mr. Lewis, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator in this State, referred to Charles Evans Hughes as a "leader without a record." In a recent editorial the Baltimore Sun says of Mr. Hughes:—"By his bold actions as Governor of New York State Charles E. Hughes gained the respect of the vast body of American citizens, including those of Democratic faith." Evidently "Davie" Lewis does not get in under that last clause. Which same is not surprising. Evidently Mr. Hughes did not gain the respect of "Davie" by his great record as Governor of New York. Evidently "Davie" did not know Mr. Hughes had a record, which is not surprising. "Davie" knows so many things which are not so, that it is not surprising he should be in entire ignorance of the things that are so.

ANOTHER 25,000 TO THE BORDER.

Negotiations with Carranza are now forward, which will deal, "preferably," with the question of the withdrawal of our troops from Mexico and the patrolling of the frontier. The administration has hopes, and has given out that it intends, that the scope of the commission's deliberations shall ultimately be made to include all the features of the Mexican situation, even down to the adjustment of claims and the possible financing of the country's needs by American bankers.

With this in prospect, the dispatch of 25,000 additional National Guardsmen to the frontier offers more food for speculation as to whether the prospects are real than for encouragement. The logical deduction is that Washington foresees a crisis that has no place in the roseate picture of peace which has been impressed upon the public by the official announcements.

No doubt the enthusiasm with which the National Guard mobilized for war has faded into disappointment. But by all accounts patrol duty along the border is as deadly monotonous as camp duty in Kentucky or Vermont; and there, as in the North, training and drilling form the chief elements in the day's work. The evidence is that the main object of the moment—protection of the border—is secured more by the show of force than by actual patrol activities. Unless news has has been unwarrantedly and and mysteriously suppressed, the men now at the frontier are doing all that the frontier requires. Here and there, perhaps, a bandit has made his appearance; but certainly disorder has not obviously been so rampant of late that reinforcement of our troops by a full 25,000 is demanded for its suppression.

But it is possible that between Carranza's "preferably" and the Administration's "ultimate hopes and intentions" a chasm is appearing which only a return to the resoluteness of attitude indicated in the American note of June 20 can bridge. Or it may be that the "platitudes and vaporizing" of Mr. Hughes, and their reception by his audiences have been appreciated more nearly at their true value by Mr. Wilson than by some of Mr. Wilson's supporters. At any rate, the American people will not feel satisfied with a solution of the Mexican situation that guarantees nothing but the protection of such American life or American property as is confined within the territorial limits of the United States. If the presence of 25,000 additional men on the frontier means that Carranza is to be impressed with the resolve not to accept this limitation, or if the men are being sent there in preparation for getting what we want, with or without Carranza's consent, we could wish 50,000 instead of 25,000 had been ordered to go.

THE DEATH RECORD.

ARTHUR W. HARVEY.

Arthur W. Harvey, aged twenty-five years, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Harvey, of near Mountain Lake Park, died in the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, where he had been a patient for some weeks, on last Friday afternoon and was buried from the home of his parents on Sunday afternoon, the Rev. A. S. Arnett, a Methodist minister, conducting the service, with interment on the home farm. Mr. Harvey had graduated from the West Virginia Wesleyan University at Buckhannon and had completed a post-graduate course this spring when he was stricken with appendicitis, an operation following, but complications having set up he never rallied entirely from the operation and was ill four months. He is survived by his parents and also by five brothers and five sisters. He was a most excellent young man of brilliant ideas and high ideals; loved and respected by a large family connection and by many warm friends who recognized in him a promising future.

SIMON P. BAKER.

Simon P. Baker, one of the leading and progressive farmers of Garrett county, died at his home near Mountain Lake Park last Friday after an extended illness. He was first stricken in the winter with an attack of the grip which later developed into pneumonia. His funeral took place from the U. B. church at Loch Lynn Heights on Saturday morning, the Rev. Fike, of the German Baptist church conducting the services. Mr. Baker is survived by his widow and several children, all of whom are grown. He was aged nearly sixty years and had been a resident of Garrett county almost his entire lifetime, coming to his home near the Park from the vicinity of Grantsville fifteen or more years ago.

APPEALS COURT MAY MEET FOR TAX CASE

State Commissioners to Ask That Special Session Be Held.

BALTIMORE, MD., August 11.—Chairman Arthur P. Gorman of the State Tax Cammission said that the Court of Appeals will be asked to sit in special session at the earliest possible date to hear the appeal from the decision of the circuit court of Frederick county holding unconstitutional the act of 1916 authorizing a reassessment of real property in the counties of Maryland.

A resolution setting forth the importance of an early hearing of the case and detailing the consequences that may result if the Frederick court's opinion is upheld, was prepared by Mr. Gorman and his associate commissioners. Yesterday afternoon Edward M. Hammond, counsel to the Tax Commissioner presented the resolution to Chief Judge A. Hunter Boyd, at his home in Cumberland. At the same time copies were sent to the other members of the court, so that it will not be necessary for Judge Boyd to make elaborate explanations when it comes to acquainting his colleagues with the commission's request.

The next regular term of the Court of Appeals will begin in October. Mr. Gorman is of the opinion that the case in question is of too much importance to be postponed until that time. As things stand, all plans for making the reassessment will be dropped until the Court of Appeals says whether such reassessment can be made.

Governor Harrington does not take so pessimistic a view of the situation as some of the members of the Tax Commission, as most of them, in fact, entertain. He does not believe that prior assessments will be wiped out, nor that, even should the Frederick county opinion be sustained, it will be impossible to collect any taxes for the coming year. He admits, however, that things may stop where they are and that, until the Legislature passes an enabling act it may not be possible to make any changes in assessments or to add to old assessments the value of new improvements made to property.

SEE AMERICA FIRST

The Third Annual Travel Tour Under the Auspices of the Ladies Aid

Under the auspices of the ladies aid society of the M. E. Church will be held on August 24 (Thursday) from 5 to 10 p. m. Owing to the war in Europe the tour will be "See America First," starting from the Union Station at the M. E. church and traveling to New York, St. Augustine, New Orleans, San Francisco, and back over the Lincoln highway to the nation's capital at Washington. This is an annual event with the ladies of the M. E. Church and is conducted by automobiles carrying the passengers to various homes which are decorated to represent the various cities and refreshments will be served characteristic of each city, free to each passenger. The entire trip covers a distance of about eight miles and promises to be a most enjoyable event. All who were fortunate enough to take this trip in the two previous years are loud in their praises and are going again this year. You must secure your tickets early to be sure to get passage as the number of tickets is limited. Tickets on sale at the store of Jos. E. Harned, at Sturgiss' Pharmacy and by the ladies of the Society on and after August 17th, at fifty cents each.

Collection Of Indian Stone Relics.

Robert Sliger, of Oakland, who for some time has been making a collection of Indian relics now has a large and varied collection, which will be exhibited at the Garrett County Fair, September 12-15. The collection, which will be larger at the the time of exhibit, now consists of the following: Three axes, 75 arrow heads, one celt or ungrooved axe, a cultivator used in tilling the soil, a rubbing stone used in polishing objects, a paint cup used to mix war paint, a stone cup used in drinking, a war club used in battle which weighs 1½ pounds, two pipes made of baked clay, one discoidal, four drills, five knives, a scraper, a hoe, a stone ball used in slings and for playing games, different ornaments, four spears, two of the little gem arrow points, the rarest arrow known. These are all made of flint or stone. Besides these he has a set of gambling sticks, a bead pocket book over 65 years old, a rawhide riding whip, wampum or Indian money, a real arrow on a thong, pieces of skull from a mound in Virginia. He has also been making a study of geology and will also enter a collection of 100 named and labeled minerals, and if time permits will also enter a geological exhibit from the county.

A GARRETT COUNTAIN ON THE MEXICAN BORDER

Private J. C. Brenninger Writes An Interesting Letter.

To the Editor and Friends.

The second Minnesota Regiment of the United States Volunteers left Fort Snelling, Minnesota, for the border over the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad July 15, 1916. At Albert Lea, Minnesota, the Battalion stopped for a while to take some marching exercise and to partake of the appetizing refreshments that were awaiting our arrival and were given us by the good citizens of this place. We again entrained after a stay of a few hours and went on our journey from this wheat belt state through the greatest corn belt state in the Union to Albia, Iowa. From Albia we glided over the iron rails of the Wabash road to Moberly, Missouri. At this place we enjoyed a nice plunge into the lake nearby. From Moberly we speeded over the Missouri, Kansas and Texas route to Muskogee, Oklahoma. Here we enjoyed the good accommodations of the Y. M. C. A. which was ready for our arrival.

We continued our travel southward through the stubbled grain fields, the cattle and pony ranches of Oklahoma, over the Red River of the South into Denison, Texas. This city welcomed us with a receptive hand, and showed their love by giving us a nice feast. On we went from here, passing through the corn and cotton fields, through Austin into San Antonio. This place gave us a hearty ovation and treated us so kindly while we were there that a number of the boys say that when they are mustered out they are going to make their home in San Antonio. From here we passed over the San Antonio and Arkansas Pass Line to Sinton, thence on to the Gulf Coast Line to Kingsville, where we stopped for a while.

This beautiful and wealthy southern city is the center of one of the largest ranches in Texas. It is known as the King Ranch. The place is miles west of the Gulf of Mexico and has a growing population of retired people who come in to its gates from the north and the east. In fact, this place is so nice and wealthy that a raid was planned on the place about three weeks before we arrived by the Mexicans, who lived there, under the secret direction of one of Villa's followers. When all was ready the leader came up by boat over the Gulf of Mexico and then by rail. In the city of Kingsville about thirty Mexicans were waiting to join him. Among the number was a prosperous Mexican baker who had fifty rifles and about seven hundred pounds of ammunition stored in his building. When the opportune night came, the ill-intentioned outlaw was speeding over rails of steel to join his lawless band and thereby do like the cur in the story, attempt to bite the hand that was feeding him. But at that quiet hour of the night the ranchers sprang upon them like a wildcat upon its prey, and took the leader and baker out and shot them down like they would shoot a Texas ox.

We continued our journey to Harligen. Here, two weeks before, a small fight took place between Mexicans and cowboys and the result was ten cowboys and thirty-six Mexicans were killed.

The Mexicans say they could whip the U. S. A. if we would leave Texas out. In looking over the situation, I have formed the conclusion that Texas alone, with her militia, soldiers, cowboys and rangers could handle Mexico very nicely on land. It is stated down here that one soldier is equal to ten Mexicans and a ranger is equal to ten American soldiers.

From this place we journeyed to our destination, Llano Grande. We are now in camp on a wealthy ranger's land in the vast Rio Grande Valley, six miles north of the Border, 28 miles north west of Brownsville and about 35 miles west of the Gulf. There are cowboys, rangers, United States Volunteers and U. S. Regulars all along the border, and north of the border for three or four hundred miles, guarding and protecting the railroads, the bridges, the ranchers, the towns and cities and all kinds of U. S. industry.

On this camping ground there are about 20,000 soldiers from Minnesota, Nebraska, Indiana and some regulars. All have their pyramidal tents, pitched among the mesquite trees, in the branches of which the beautiful song birds of the sunny south sing at the dawn of day, when the hot morning sun is gilding the lofty palm trees of the border land.

We are in a good camping ground and are thankful for it. Only the heat, the water, tarantulas, scorpions, snakes, fleas, storm, Mexican bush whackers, and sickness bother us at times.

I will now quote from F. P. Gibbons, who is encamped at McAllen, Texas, to show the privations and sufferings that some are enduring. "Everything was wet and flat. The moist earth steamed. The roads bounding the camp were bogs of tough gumbo or lakes of tepid yellow water. The company streets were ankle deep in mud. The men in mud stained khaki and with dripping wet faces swore as they swoshed and slid about in the morass.

Officers in panting motors fresh from eastern boulevards churned through the slop, cruised the water spaces to the accompaniment of spray showers from every wheel.

It rained the night before.

McAllen, headquarters for the division of New York militia, numbering between 16,000 and 20,000 men, has been reduced to a soggy pool over night.

These men are sleeping in the mud, their sick are lying on the ground. Daily they are doing harder and more labor than any Mexican laborer in the country. Unaccustomed to the work and the climate, unaccustomed to the the food, they are on the verge of exhaustion.

I was escorted to the hospital tents by the captain. I saw sixty sick men on blankets, lying on the damp ground. A six inch ridge of dirt had been thrown up around the edge of each tent to hold back the water. None had cots, none had mosquito netting. There was not even flooring.

Twenty feet away there was a row of officers tents. All of them had wooden floors; all of them had cots; some of them had camp chairs and tables. Most of them had been encased in protective structures covered with wire fly screening. Almost all the cots were covered with mosquito netting.

"Why are these sick men lying on the ground, Captain" I asked.

"This is a field hospital" replied the Captain, "it isn't a base hospital. The regulations are that a field hospital shall be so lightly equipped that it can move at anytime. We are sticking to the regulations. It we had cots we could not be able to carry them on the eight wagons alloted us."

We moved into a smaller tent. On the low stretcher on the ground was a wasted figure. A regular, slight jerking of the head indicated the feeble gasp for breath, by which the patient was making his fight against his real personal enemy, death.

"He has been unconscious five days," said the captain. "He has a severe attack of pneumonia. He is making a hard fight for life, but we hardly think he can make it. We could take care of him better back in the base hospital, but we don't dare to move him."

Then I learned that not a day passed that eight or ten New York boys are sent back almost 300 miles over a single track conjested railway line to the base hospital at San Antonio.

Lest some may not be able to come to a satisfactory conclusion why I am here during my summer vacation, I might state that I am here not because I love war, but because I favor peace. I am here to study the conditions carefully and thereby get a personal knowledge of our army and the Mexican situation. By being here I want to help someone nearer the Divine, and by this preparatory experience make myself more efficient for my life's work.

Greetings to all,

Sincerely,
J. C. BRENNINGER.

G. Semmes Hamill, Jr., Solicitor.

The alarming shortage of print paper is making it difficult for many newspaper corporations to continue business. In many cities there is talk of consolidating two or more plants to reduce working forces and expenses. In the job printing end of the trade the high cost of the finer grades of paper, used for correspondence as well as for advertising purposes, is cutting down orders from a large number of business houses and manufacturers.

Seldom has Anne Arundel county jail had such a full house as at the present time. There are 37 prisoners in the jail. There are more colored than white prisoners and many more male than female prisoners. It costs the county on an average of 30 cents a prisoner per day to feed them. Some are only in jail for 30 days, while others are held for the October term of court. It approximately costs the county $300 per month to feed the prisoners, says the Annapolis Evening Capitol. Sheriff Sullivan believes in giving the prisoners meat once a day and substantial food, well cooked. The sheriff is a humane man, and he also believes in giving the prisoners ice water, paying for the ice out of his own salary if necessary.

The star reporter for the Cumberland papers concerning weather conditions in Garrett county has broken loose again. Hear him: "Railroaders arriving here this morning from the west end of the Cumberland division, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, say that the temperature last night and early this morning dropped to 30 degrees at Altamont, Deer Park, Terra Alta and Oakland. The frost, they added, was so thick that it resembled a light fall of snow. No serious damage to crops was reported. A thermometer in the central part of Cumberland registered 43 degrees last night." The above was printed in Monday's Times. The lowest reading of the mercury here was 42 degrees, so Cumberland does not have very much on Oakland.

RUSSIANS SMASH 280-MILE FRONT

ARMY IN GALICIA IN FLIGHT

Petrograd.—All along a strongly fortified front of 280 miles, extending from the Rumanian border to the Pripet marshes, which the Austro-Germans erected last winter, the Russian armies have occupied the main Teutonic positions before Tarnopol and Duczacz and the entire line of the River Stripa. Here they captured six strongly fortified villages.

The troops that made the new gains in the Tarnopol-Buczacz sector were commanded by Gen. Garbachiev and Sakharoff. They took the villages of Gliadki, Voroblevsk, Cabrof, Czena and Pokropivna, all strongly fortified, and then, forcing their way with great bravery through the Burkanow forest which the Germans had fortified to protest Kosloff, took that village by storm. Kosloff is southwest of Tarnopol.

The entire line along the River Stripa, which runs from northwest of Tarnopol south to the Dniester beyond Buczacz, met the same fate.

While the drive for Halicz to the south goes on one of the gains in the new offensive in the centre also threatens this important railroad junction on the Dniesiter, considered the key to the Lemberg defenses.

In the centre offensive the Russians crossed the Koropico river in the region north of Buczacz. This advance adds to the peril of the Halicz position, which is almost directly west from the point of crossing. The Russians captured Slobudkagurna and Folvarki.

To the south also Gen. Lechitsky, who took Stanislau, is pushing the Austrian retreat toward Halicz, which is the present objective. Here his troops are crossing the two branches of the Bystritza river to the south.

STANISLAU IN HANDS OF CZAR.

London.—A further series of surprising successes by the armies of Generals Sakharoff and Letchitzky were announced by the Russians. The most important of these successes were the capture of the important railway junction and town of Stanislau; the definite occupation of Monasterzyska and the seizure of important positions on the Zlota Lipa line. Coupled with these victories was the capture of many thousands of prisoners, especially on the right bank of the Sereth, where the prisoners taken number 5,000.

The Germans appeared to regard the Kovel-Lemberg sector as the most critical on the eastern front and the appointment of Field Marshal von Hindenburg to the chief command undoubtedly had the effect of temporarily stemming the Russian advance on the northern section of the line. But Field Marshal von Hindenburg does not hold the controlling command over the troops guarding the southern approaches to Lemberg, where General Letchitzky, having taken Stanislau and being within striking distance of Halich, is rapidly completing his encirclement of the army of General Count von Bothmer. It cannot be long now before the fate of Lemberg is sealed, military observers believe.

It is reported that in their perplexity over the situations on the Italian and Galician fronts, the Austrians again have brought troops from Galicia to the Isonzo front in a desperate effort to save the situation there. Turkish troops having been sent to the Galician front to replace the Austrians.

Announcement that the Allied troops in Greece have begun their great drive aimed at clearing Germans, Austrians and Bulgars from Serbia was made. The first move in this offensive, making the fourth now in progress against the Central Empires, was the capture of the railroad station at Doiran, on the southeastern border of Serbia.

ITALIANS TAKE GORIZIA FORT

Chief Positions on the Isonzo and Carso Fronts Reported Abandoned by Austrians

CAPTURE 10,000 PRISONERS

London.—The vigorous offensive of the Entente Allies on the French, Galician and Italian fronts is still being rewarded with important successes. In Austria the Italians have captured the city of Gorizia, twenty-two miles northwest of Trieste. In Galicia the Russians in quest of Lemberg have further carried out their endeavors toward the capture of Stanislau from the Austro-Germans, while in France the French and British forces in the Somme region have attacked and won additional points of vantage from the Germans.

The capture of Gorizia by the Italians seemingly is as important a gain by the Entente Allies as has yet been attained in their present synchronous offensive, the city being the door through which the Italians may now pass in an endeavor to carry out their long cherished idea of capturing Trieste, Austria's big seaport at the head of the Adriatic Sea.

In the fall of Gorizia, in which Rome says the Austrians were completely routed, the Italians inflicted heavy casualties on its defenders, took over 10,000 men prisoner and captured considerable quantities of war requisities.

The Russian General Letchitzkey has driven his wedge farther into the Austro-German line near Stanislau, capturing eight miles east of that important city, through which the railroad leads to Lemberg, the town of Tysmienitsa. Northeast of Tysmienitsa the Russians have crossed the right bank of the Koropice River and captured a number of important positions west of Velesnioup and southward along the Niziniоff Monasterzyka Railroad, making the Russian menace against Halicz greater. To the south of Tysmienitsa the Russian advance has reached to Stokovohela.

Berlin admits the retirement of the Austro-Germans behind the Niznioff Tysmienitsa-Ottynia line, but says that in the Carpathian region heights held by the Russians near Jablonitza and Vorocht and west of Taraov were captured by the Germans and that strong Russian attacks in the Delatyn district were repulsed.

The Italian offensive began on Aug. 4 and was directed mainly against two points, Pietra and Rossa, on a rocky ledge about two miles southeast of Monfalcone and a simultaneously attack extending from Montecosich to the rocky spurs above the valley of the Seltz.

CAMPAIGN BOOKS COST MORE.

Uncle Sam Advances Price to Managers Because of High Paper.

Washington.—Members of Congress have had the high cost of paper brought home to them in the higher cost of campaign literature printed by the Government. As a result interest is keen in the Federal Trade Board's inquiry into paper prices.

A substantial increase in the printing of speeches and documents has been announced by the Government printing office. Still greater increases are to follow and campaign managers are busy getting in orders. Representative Cantrill, chairman of the Democratic state campaign committee of Kentucky, was forced to stand an increase of $50 on an order of $300 in campaign literature printed at the Government office. This is an increase of 16 per cent.

Henry T. Brian, deputy public printer, said that the increased cost of printing speeches is due to exhaustion of supplies of paper used in reprinting speeches as campaign literature. The supply purchased under contract has been exhausted and new contracts are at higher prices.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

The Italians seem to have few obstacles before them in their drive to Trieste, the big Austrian seaport on the Adriatic.

With the Allied steamroller under way in the Balkans, the last link in the great offensive on all fronts is completed. Berlin, for the first time in weeks mentions the Balkans, reporting the repulse of attacks.

Despite the small gains on the western front, the Entente Allies have had another week of striking success with the Great Italian and Russian victories and the repulse of the Turkish attack in Egypt.

More than 5,000,000 prisoners, double the number of men engaged in any previous war that the world has known, now are confined in prison camps of the belligerent nations.

General Letchitzky's capture of Tysmienica, Galicia, seems to make almost certain the early fall of Stanislau and Halicz and to bring nearer the recapture of Lemberg.

Turkish troops captured from the Russians the Armenian towns of Bitlis and Mush.

Throughout the Allied countries Cadorna's victory at Goritza has made a great impression.

25,000 MILITIA TO BORDER

Ohio, Kentucky and Vermont to Join Units Already There

CALLED MATTER OF ROUTINE

War Department Describes Movement as Merely Completing Original Mobilization — Officially Stated No New Complications Impend

Washington.—Twenty-five thousand more State troops were ordered to the border by the War Department. All Kentucky, Ohio, and Vermont troops were ordered to move, and all departmental commanders were instructed to send troops as soon as equipped.

They comprise practically all the units included in the original mobilization order, but which were unable to leave because of lack of equipment or shortage of men. They will now go forward despite the fact that some of the regiments are still 300 or 400 men short.

The War Department describes the movement merely as the carrying out of the first order to its logical conclusion. The presence of the men is not required, it is asserted, and there are no international complications dictating the action. The formal announcement says the order is solely to relieve thousands of troops held in mobilization camps only because they lack recruits.

While it was doubted that General Funston authorized the publication of such a statement, army officers generally said the calling out of the remaining regiments of the Guard was due to the impending railroad strike. They declared the stopping of troop trains by a strike during a national emergency, while not actually prohibited by statutes, could be prevented by the Federal government on the fundamental and constitutional ground of state necessity.

The President, it was believed by legal authorities in the War Department, could compel the operations of trains for Federal purposes.

The following announcement was made:

"Commanding General, Central Department, has been directed to send Kentucky troops to the border as soon as they have been equipped and transportation can be obtained, and to see that special attention is given to getting Vermont troops to the border as soon as possible.

Commanding General, Central Department, has been directed to send Ohio troops to the border as soon as they are equipped and transportation can be obtained.

150 DIE IN BIG FLOOD.

Cloudburst Devastates Cabin Creek and Coal River Valleys.

Charleston, W. Va.—A cloudburst swept the Cabin Creek and Coal River Valleys spreading devastation through out the district.

Various reports estimated the loss of life at more than 100 persons. The property damage was placed at not less than $1,000,000.

Two companies of the Second Regiment, West Virginia National Guard encamped at Kanawha City, near here, were ordered to proceed to the flood zone with tents and supplies.

Local officials of the Virginian Power Company asserted that the loss of life perhaps would reach 150. Scores of houses have been swept down the two streams which, swollen by the heavy rains, overflowed their banks carrying everything before them.

More than thirty houses were counted passing one point in Cabin Creek. Many of the houses crashed into the piers of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad bridge and were demolished. A boy was seen on top of one of the houses. An effort to rescue him failed and he disappeared in the water.

No More Free Seeds

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

When the agricultural appropriation bill was voted out of committee this year it contained a curt and unapologetic amendment abolishing an old and esteemed political custom—the annual free distribution of garden seeds by members of congress to their constituents.

This custom, which originated in the early days of the republic, is now asserted to have degenerated into a mild sort of political graft of statesmen, and in the majority of cases, unwelcome to the constituents. At the beginning the practice was instituted by Benjamin Franklin who sent back various roots and seeds gathered in his visits to Europe, suggesting to Congress that they be distributed throughout the country for experimental propagation. In this way many valuable species of European plants were introduced into this country. Now, however, the collection and dissemination of rare species is carried on entirely by the Department of Agriculture through its representatives in Europe and through its experimental farms in this country. The seeds distributed under the congressional frank now include only such well established varieties as radishes, beans, peas, onions and tobacco; and nasturtiums, which may be found growing on almost every farm and in a great many back yards all over the country.

The members of Congress have nothing to do with the seeds other than passing the appropriation for their purchase and making out the lists of constituents to whom they are to be sent. They are bought by the Department of Agriculture upon the same system that other government supplies are bought. At the beginning of the year the department sends out lists of the vareties of seeds required for spring distribution to large wholesale firms both in this country and abroad, and the contract is awarded to the most satisfactory bidder. Certain stipulations are given concerning the standard of seeds desired, and they are supposed to meet the tests of the department scientists, but in handling such tremendous quantities of seeds these specifications are necessarily largely perfunctory. As a matter of fact a package of radishes is just as likely to contain lettuce, and instead of being the soft succulent variety naturally expected from such an expert as Uncle Sam it often turns out to be as thick a texture as cabbage.

Under these circumstances, the constituents are usually disappointed and pained, and instead of receiving the praise due a benevolent benefactor, the member of Congress is occasionally the victim of bitter vituperation. One congressman received a letter from a constituent, asking him please not to send him any more seeds if he desired his vote. The year before, he asserted, he had spent hours of perfectly good leisure planting congressional seeds in his garden only to have unexpected and undesirable plants grow. A few small frail radishes came up where he had thought he planted nasturtiums and sweet alysum grew in his parsley bed, while several packages of seeds which he had carefully watered and weeded never came up at all. This unpopularity of the seeds in many cases may have had its influence in urging the senators to abolish the practice.

It gives the average citizen, however, a pleasing sense of importance to receive mail, even if it be government seeds for which he really helps to pay, under the frank of his district congressman. This importance grows even larger when the next year the package of seeds is addressed to his wife. He points with pride to his bed of struggling petunias and explains with studied carelessness that these government specimens were presented to him by Smith or Jones of his district. The seeds may be actually a liability, but the distinction conferred upon the citizen, who knows very little about parlimentary procedure, is usually sufficient to bring forth a favorable vote.

This was much more so a few years ago than now. Today, even the most remote farmer is familiar with the congressional seed distribution and is aware that it is nothing but a form. In a great many instances, according to letters received by various members, the seeds are immediately thrown into the waste basket or given to the children to play with. One congressman who represented a district composed of mostly poor people, including farmers and men who work in the mines, placed an advertisement in every newspaper throughout the district stating that he had several thousand packages of garden seeds to send out, and asking those who desired them to write him a letter. Then he sent to every school teacher printed slips to be distributed among the school children, requesting those who wanted the seeds to write to their congressman. From these two sources of widespread advertisement the congressman received in all five thousand requests for seeds in answer to which he was able to send out 12½ per cent. of his total allotment.

A congressional prerogative of any kind, however, usually dies hard, and until the bill actually leaves the Capitol on its way to the President there is a chance that the amendment will be stricken off. In the debate which preceded the final voting of the Senate many senators insisted that the seeds were appreciated in all parts of the country and if only ten per cent. of the seeds were used, anyway, the distribution was justified.

It was then suggested that the matter be left entirely in the hands of the Department of Agriculture which would send seeds in answer to any request for them. Since the quantity of seeds required would be greatly reduced it might, therefore, be possible to buy better ones and to take more time to give explicit directions as to their growing. The money formerly wasted in inadequate radishes and lettuce could be sent for the introduction of a new and useful species. For example, occasionally in the past when the department of Agriculture had made successful experiments with some new specie it would send out a few packages to special sections of the country under the congressional distribution system. In this way, the durham wheat, which was discovered growing in Siberia, was sent into various sections of the West for experimental propagation, where it is now flourishing vigorously. Under the new system the department would specialize in this sort of distribution, sending the common varieties of seed only when special requests were made for them.

The expense of purchasing the seeds is a minor consideration as compared to bother and expense of carrying the thousands of packages through the mail. This year over eighty million packets of garden seeds, making sixteen million large packages, were carried by the postal service under congressional frank, which if bearing postage would have amounted to $320,000. Not only this, but every spring a large force of employees must be hired by the Bureau of Seed Distribution of the Department of Agriculture to assort and prepare the seeds and mail them to the lists of constituents. At this time national legislation is forgotten while the members of Congress play Santa Claus. Letters must accompany several of the packages and time and care must be exercised in making out the lists of persons to whom they are to go. Many congressmen who represent urban districts where garden seeds are useless for the reason that there is no ground in which to grow them, endeavor to exchange their supply with rural congressmen for something else. Now after many years the members of Congress have suddenly come to realize that their work is largely unnecessary and that their benevolence is not appreciated.

Thus the member of Congress has turned his newly acquired sense of economy upon himself and nobly sacrificed a time-honored perquisite. No longer is he to be the dispenser of zinnias and beets, sunflowers and oats. The constituent has at least reniged on planting any more congressional seeds unless passed by an expert board of censorship.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Retribution.

The law of retribution is not so well understood or regarded as it ought to be. Many indeed do not seem to know that there is such a law in the divine government, though they know that in nature such a law is in force.

They would not expect to reap a crop of wheat by sowing cockle seed, nor barley from thistle seed. They expect to reap as they sow in nature, yet in morals ignore the law which is as inviolable as in nature. In spite of the testimony of inspiration, and regardless of the warning of God, they give the loose reign to passion and appetite, persuading themselves that they will reap a large harvest,—so they will, but it is always a bitter one—it is of the flesh.

We hear much of the mercy and compassion of God, of His willingness to forgive freely and to the utmost, that He has no pleasure in the death of any. It is pleasant to magnify His grace, but there are other attributes of the divine character which must not be ignored. The divine love is calculated to awaken love and gratitude in our souls. But we must not forget that there are other laws inwrought in our very constitution, the penalties of which are inseparable from our bodies and souls and which are as unchangable as the laws which govern the planets.

There are laws which the Most High will not interfere with, nay He cannot, without destroying the constitution of the universe which He has created and made immutable. This does not mean that in the exercise of mercy, He is not able and does not remit forms of punishment which He has connected with the violation of moral law. In the light of this law we can understand the force of the injunction, Let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him. Here is a promise of redemption from all his former trangressions, yet attached to it is the threatening, "if he turn not He will whet His sword," indicating the nature of the punishment that will come upon him.

Retribution means paying back, and it refers to the causes and consequences of evil actions, and is tersely stated in the words of Job. "They that plow iniquity and sow wickedness, reap the same. Men may differ as to the nature and extent of this law is not a matter of speculation or theory, but of fact.

We cannot escape from these facts if we would, they meet us on every turn. Paul applies this law in his "whatsoever a man sows that shall he also reap."

We see the working of this law in all the channels of life.

No one is entirely independent. A child cannot live as a flower. It is subject to government and must yield or suffer. The authority of the parent though recognized and instructed by christianity was established by the Lord long before christianity was introduced, If it disobeys that law retribution follows. It may be more severe or equitable in some cases than in others. Let a child run away from home restraint, dose it escape retribution? Law still holds its way over him, though he thinks he is free. He longs for liberty so he joins the army where he thinks he can do as he please, but he finds rigid law is over him; or he runs off to sea, still there is a governing power less tolerable and gentle, but more decided than that of home. Let him resist that power and handcuffs or the gloom of the ship's prison bring him to his senses.

But if in defiance of law he seeks his coveted freedom by joining a company of pirates, is he free? Far from it. No where will you find law so rigorous or so merciless as among desperados, where there is no confidence in each others word, where might makes right. Place some Robison Crusoe on a lone island as its sole inhabitant and is he free from law? True there are no Bible, no public sentiment, no legislation but is there no law with penalties for breaking it? Suppose he is given to appetite and eats too much, burning fever, sleepless nights, racking pain, distressing sickness and agony are the penalty. Go where you will or under whatever circumstances you may be, you can't escape; a governing power implies rewards and punishments. There are laws of nature which cannot be ignored no matter what laws society may have or what its condition may be.

A man may be honest in his dealings and all that a member of society could be, but if under cover of secrecy he indulges every propensity of his nature he will find out the existence of a statue book other than that which is written with pen on paper.

Does one imagine that because he escapes prison or fine or the gallows he he is free from law?

Look at the boy who in a healthy condition of body plunges into the cold water—as he shakes like an aspen leaf and then burns with fever. He has come in contact with law and as usual the law gets the better of him.

A life of debauchery brings sorrow, wretchedness, suffering and premature death.

Intemperance leads to results that are evil and though no law can arrest or punish yet a stricter, juster law of divine retribution visits his course with disease, loss of respect and at last an ignominious grave. No retribution! Go to the hospital or ask any physician what they think of the existence and character of natural penalties.

A man may writhe in pain, but neither nurses nor surgeons can give him relief. They cannot say to law thus far shalt thou go and no farther.

He is suffering the penalty of broken law and all the remedies of the apothecary are of no avail.

Sin brings consequences which mercy may deplore, yet not remedy. There are laws connected with transgression and pain which even prayer is powerless to remedy, though it may move the hand that brings us pardon.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS FROM SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE OF CHARLES E. HUGHES.

It is apparent that we are shockingly unprepared.

When we contemplate industrial and commercial conditions, we see that we are living in a fool's paradise.

Not only have we a host of resources short of war by which to enforce our just demands, but we shall never promote our peace by being stronger in words than in deeds.

We are neither deceived nor benumbed by abnormal conditions. We know that we are in a critical period, perhaps more critical than any period since the civil war.

The administration utterly failed to perform its obvious duty to secure protection for the lives and property of our citizens. It is not unworthy to slur those who made investments in Mexico in order to escape a condemnation for the nonperformance of this duty.

It is only through international co-operation giving a reasonable assurance of peace that we may hope for the limitation of armaments.

We have determined to cut out, root and branch, monopolistic practices, and we can do this without destroying enterprise or narrowing the scope of legitimate achievement.

We demand a simple, businesslike budget.

I believe it is only through a responsible budget, proposed by the executive, that we shall avoid financial waste.

We have had brave words in a series of notes, but, despite our protests, the lives of Americans have been destroyed.

WILSON FLEXIBILITY.

We do not see why there should have been any stir in the senate over the discovery that President Wilson has completely reversed himself in the matter of the proposed child labor law. Senator Borah was able to show that Mr. Wilson described this legislation in his "Constitutional Government" as unconstitutional, an "obviously absurd extravagance," carrying the congressional power to regulate commerce beyond the "utmost bounaries of reasonable and honest inference" and making it possible, if sustained, for congress to legislate over "every particular of the industrial organization and action of the country." That, we must confess, has also been the Evening Post's view. But the Evening Post and Senator Borah are old fogies, dating back to the time when it was the custom to have fixed beliefs and principles and stick to them. The senator has evidently not read Mr. Wilson's letter in explaining his change of front on the tariff commission—that it is only a narrow man, whose mind is stupidly closed to new ideas, who does not alter his opinions. By this test Mr. Wilson is obviously one of the broadest minded men this country has ever produced, for he has changed his mind to date on the initiative, referendum, recall, woman suffrage, the tariff commission, tariff for revenue only, a permanent diplomatic service beyond politics, the merit system in the civil service, the proper place of Tammany Hall in the scheme of the universe, child labor legislation, preparedness, Bryan, a continental army—but why continue? It is a long enough list to prove that Mr. Wilson's political views are not fossilized by any fear of inconsistency.—New York Evening Post.

ADEQUATE NATIONAL DEFENSE DEMANDED

We demand adequate national defense; adequate protection on both out western and eastern coasts. We demand thoroughness and efficiency in both arms of the service. It seems to be plain that our regular army is too small. We are too great a country to require of our citizens who are engaged in peaceful vocations the sort of military service to which they are now called. As well insist that our citizens in this metropolis be summoned to put out fires and police the streets. We do not count it inconsistent with our liberties, or with our democratic ideals, to have an adequate police force. With a population of nearly 100,000,000 we need to be surer of ourselves than to become alarmed at the prospect of having a regular army which can reasonably protect our border, and perform such other military service as may be required, in the absence of a grave emergency. I believe, further, that there should be not only a reasonable increase in the regular army, but that the first citizen reserve subject to call should be enlisted as a federal army and trained under federal authority.—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

GRANTSVILLE.

Miss Ruth Keller entertained on Wednesday night by giving a dance at the Pavilion. The affair was in honor of her house guests, Miss Margaret Gailey from Cardiff, Md., Miss Mary Porter, Oakland, and Miss Helen Lichty, Meyersdale. There were about thirty guests present. Music was furnished by Emons Younkin. Punch was served during the evening.

Mrs. Fred. Livengood entertained on Friday night at the Broadwater farm in honor of her niece, Frances Bevans, whose fifteenth birthday it was. There were about fifty boys and girls present and a most delightful evening was spent in spite of the rain. Miss Frances received a number of handsome presents.

The M. E. Church held a lawn fete on Saturday night with icecream, cake, coffee and sandwiches for sale. The heavy rain made it necessary to carry the tables, etc., into the Sabbath school room, but the social was a success despite the weather, everything being sold. The proceeds are for church improvement.

A new gasoline tank has been installed in front of the Victoria hotel for the benefit of tourists and villagers. There is also a tank in front of J. J. Bender's store and one at the garage, so that travelers will find no scarcity of this commodity when traveling through here.

A number of our people went to the Salisbury Chautauqua for the day on the Sabbath, others attending during the week and enjoying the talent immensely.

Captain R. R. Sanner has come back from Oakland to remain here for the winter.

Misses Effie and Carrie Gingerich and Edna and Esther Bender spent Tuesday evening in Frostburg.

Miss Pearl Engle, of Frostburg, is a guest of her cousins, the Misses Gingerich, this week.

J. J. Bender, Misses Edna and Esther Bender and Effie Gingerich were Cumberland visitors, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schaefer have moved into the house belonging to John Englehart, part of which is rented by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ringer.

Miss Bernadine Knecht spent the week-end with her cousin, Frances Bevans, returning to West Salisbury, Monday.

Miss Grace Reckner, from Confluence, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. Schaefer.

Miss Ruth Keller and Margaret Gailey, accompanied Miss Mary Porter to Oakland, where they will be the guests of the latter for a few days.

Mrs. Archie Zimmerman, of Davis, spent a few days of last week at Confluence and Scottdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller and children, of Meyersdale, Mr. and Mrs. Willard and son, of Cumberland, Miss Sloan, of Lonaconing and Myron Maust, of Springs, were registered during the week at the National.

The following motor party from Connelisville and Scottdale spent last Thursday night at the hospitable farm house of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wisseman, near Grantsville: Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Gordon and son, Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Gordon and daughter, Mildred, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Walker and family, Dr. Hess and Miss Maud Shelly. The party were enroute to Baltimore and Washington.

Mrs. Charles Getty and daughter, Margaret, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Frank Davis, of Davis.

Dr. and Mrs. Beverly Briscoe and party from Markleysburg were in Grantsville, Sunday, guests of relatives.

Margaret Getty spent several days of last week with the little Misses Engle, of Englewood.

Bruce Bender has accepted a position as chauffeur for Mrs. Jennie Wilmoth of Meyersdale. The young man is both capable and conscientious and is admirably fitted to the position.

Mrs. Robert Gibson has been visiting Miss Maud Bevans the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Roeder and family of Cumberland were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Getty Sunday. Their daughter, Miss Esther Roeder, and her cousin, Miss Lucretto Parker, of Pittsburgh, are spending a few days at the Victoria hotel.

Charles O. Keller has gone to Wilmington, Delaware, where, in company with his brother, William, he will have employment at the Dupont powder mills.

J. O. Getty was a business visitor at Frostburg and Meyersdale last week.

Mrs. Poling from Davis is visiting friends in Confluence.

Mr. and Mrs. John Zehner and family and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Bittinger and son were among those who attended the Frostburg Carnival last week.

Rev. E. E. Oney, Miss Lena Pritchard and Mrs. E. E. Haselbarth were Chautauqua boosters at this place, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis were Pittsburgh visitors last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Swauger entertained at Sunday evening dinner the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Williams, from Punxsutawney, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swauger, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Swauger and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Swauger of Grantsville.

Mrs. Howard Ringer is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Griffith, of Guard, Md.

The old building formerly occupied as a meat shop was torn down this week.

A large number of Cumberland and Frostburg cars were in Grantsville, Sunday, as usual.

SEED POTATOES INSPECTED

U. A. C. Expert and County Agent McGill Find Condion Favorable.

Prof. C. E. Temple, Plant Pathologist from Maryland State College of Agriculture, working in co-operation with County Agent John McGilland, the Western Maryland Seed Potato Growers Association has just finished the first inspection of the growing crop of seed potatoes in Garrett and Allegany counties. Prof. Temple states that he finds the fields remarkably free of disease and from mixture with other varities. They show the effect of good care, both as to "rogueing" or cleaning out of weak or diseased plants. The fields as a whole are in a splendid state of cultivation and there are few weeds in spite of the wet season. The bugs too have been kept off. All this taken together makes them show up fine. The vines look vigorous and thrifty and at present there is every prospect of a splendid yield of high quality of seed. If the growers take as much care to keep their fields free of disease and mixture until after the next inspection as they have up to the present time a very large percentage of the crop can be sold as certified seed.

Organizing the Growers into an association with the definite object of producing and marketing certified seed only has had much to do with the present excellent condition in which the fields were found. Also the prizes offered by the Citizens National Bank of Frostburg for the field showing the fewest diseased plants at the two inspections has created a friendly rivalry and competition among the growers. Only fields of members of the Association were inspected and out of the thirty or more visited only two or three failed to pass inspection.

Prof. Temple and County Agent McGill were much pleased with the marked improvement in the care of the fields in every way over last year.

Historical Relic On Exhibition.

Much attention has been attracted by the unique pair of pants which have been on display for the past week in the Hitchins Bros. Company's window. They are the property of Mrs. Carrie Coulehan, of Frostburg, and were worn by Thomas Johnson, Mrs. Coulehan's great great grandfather, who was the first Governor of Maryland under the State Constitution. Governor Johnson was a resident of Frederick. He was elected first constitutional governor of Maryland on February 10th, 1777. "During the panic created by Washington's retreat through New Jersey, the council of safety in Maryland called a special session of the legislature on the 5th of February, 1777, and placed Mr. Johnson in the chair as Governor. On the 21st of March, 1777, Mr. Johnson was inaugurated at Annapolis as Governor of the State; and at a session of the assembly which met on the 16th of June in the same year, he appeared in office as the chief executive officer of Maryland."—Dulany's "History of Maryland,"

Governor Johnson's brother received a grant of land from George Washington for military services rendered during the Revolutionary War, and he selected the land now known as the "Johnson Farm" on the National Pike, four miles west of Frostburg: Mr. Thomas Johnson, the present owner of the farm, is a descendant of this Mr. Johnson.—Frostburg Journal.

ORGANIZATION OF MARYLAND HUGHES ALLIANCE.

Was Effected In Baltimore Last Wednesday Afternoon.

At a meeting held at the Hotel Emerson Wednesday afternoon, the organization of the Maryland Hughes Alliance was effected. This meeting was called by Mr. O. E. Weller at the request of Governor W. Cameron Forbes, President, and Captain Arthur F. Cosby, Secretary, of the National Hughes Alliance, which has its headquarters in New York. Similar Alliances are being formed in different States, under the direction of the National Hughes Alliance, and will be parts of that organization. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Weller, who stated at length the purposes and objects of the Alliance.

Mr. H. Webster Smith was elected temporary Secretary of the meetieg.

Mr. E. L. Norton, President of the Equitable Trust Company, nominated Mr. Weller as President of the Alliance. Mr. Weller declined the nomination, and explained that it would be impossible for him to serve in this capacity for the reason that, at the request of the Committee of United States Senators, appointed to endeavor to secure a Republican majority in the next United States Senate, he has recently agreed to accept the active management of that work for this Committee. Mr. Weller added that he very much regretted that he could not devote his time to the work of the Hughes Alliance in Maryland, and that he was fully in sympathy with its aims.

Mr. James A. Gary, Jr., was then unanimously elected President of the Alliance, upon motion of Mr. Robert S. Mooney, Vice-President of the Baltimore Commercial Bank. Mr. Gary, has been taking an active interest in Republican politics for some time, having been the President of the Young Men's Weller League in the campaign of 1915. He is the son of E. Stanley Gary of Baltimore City, and a grandson of former Postmaster-General James A. Gary.

Mr. Blanchard Randall was elected Treasurer of the Alliance upon motion of Mr. O. E. Weller.

The President was authorized to appoint a committee of six, including himself as a member ex-officio, to dratt a constitution and by-laws, to complete the organization of the Alliance and to formulate plans for the organization of such local Alliances as might be considered desirable.

Mr. Galen L. Tait, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, was present, and expressed his satisfaction at the organization of the Alliance, as he felt that it would prove a valuable adjunct to the work of the regular party Committees in the conduct of the coming campaign.

BITTINGER.

Do not fail to remember and attend the Sunday School picnic to be held in Ellithorp's Grove, in this village, next Saturday, August 19th, all day and evening.

Mrs. Michael Custer and Miss Sarah Jane Custer, of near Jennings, spent last week among friends here.

Rev. Clyde Broadwater spent part of last week attending the Chautauqua at Salisbury, Pa.

Mrs. Frederick Newland and family, of Pittsburg, Pa., are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Bittinger.

A number of young people from this village motored to Salisbury, Pa., during the sessions of the Chautauqua the past week.

Dewey R. Wiley and Earl Brenneman drove over to St. Paul, Pa., last Saturday, returning on Sunday evening.

Clean Hands.

Disease germs lead a hand to mouth existence. If the human race would learn to keep the unwashed hand away from the mouth many human diseases would be greatly diminished. We handle infectious matter more or less constantly and we continually carry the hands to the mouth. If the hand has recently been in contact with infectious matter the germs of disease may in this way be introduced into the body. Many persons wet their fingers with saliva before counting money, turning the pages of a book, or performing similar acts. In this case the process is reversed, the infection being carried to the object handled, there to await carriage to the mouth of some other careless person. In view of these facts the U. S. Public Health Service has formulated the following simple rules of personal hygiene and recommends their adoption by every person in the United States.

Wash the Hands Immediately
Before eating.
Before handling, preparing or serving food.
After using the toilet.
After handling anything dirty.

NORTH GLADE

Since last writing our esteemed friend and neighbor, Theodore Beckman, has passed away. Funeral services were held in the Methodist church. About five hundred persons were present.

Another funeral service was held in the same church last Sunday it being that of H. C. Hersman's youngest son, Rev. McCamic gave an impressive sermon on the occasion.

The young son of Joseph Beckman has been seriously ill for sometime. Mrs. Fitzwater, the grandmother, has been one of its nurses.

We are sorry to learn that Buckner Mason is still so critically ill.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Ferguson, of Fairmont, spent last week at G. W. Moon's.

Judge and Mrs. Harvey were guests of G. W. Moon and wife on Sunday, the 6th inst.

Mrs. A. G. Ross is visiting her mother, Mrs. Rhodes.

Wm. Enlow and J. L. Fitzwater were Sunday visitors here.

Rev. McCamic will preach for us Wednesday and Thursday evening of this week and on Friday evening he will give us a lecture, free; all invited.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a recent meeting of Garrett Council No. 35, Junior Order United American Mechanics of Oakland, the following preamble and resolutions in memory of the late Charles Liller were presented and adopted:

WHEREAS, The members of Garrett Council No. 35, Jr. O. U. A. M., have heard with sincere sorrow and regret of the death of our beloved friend and brother, Charles Liller; and

AMERICA'S NEED.

In America we have had so much material prosperity, we have indulged ourselves in so much luxury, that we have lost the spiritual vision of our pilgrim fathers. I say this in full recognition of the magnificent beneficence of generous philanthropists and the noble work which has been done in uplifting the sinful and the unfortunate. But as a nation we need a new spiritual awakening. I speak only that which is in the minds of many thoughtful men, when I say that the greatest need of America today and its only antidote against the poison of Socialism is a great revival of religion which will turn the minds of men away from the consideration of these minor social evils to a contemplation of their relations with the Almighty.—Alba B. Johnson, President of New England Society of Philadelphia.

TALIAN ARRESTED FOR CARRYING LIQUOR

Steve Torento Held Up By Sheriff Ashby Saturday, but Was Released on Bail.

Steve Torento, an Italian who has been charged in the Garrett county courts and found guilty upon several occasions of illegally selling liquor, was caught at Thayerville Saturday by Sheriff Ashby and brought into Oakland upon the charge of violating the local option law.

Under the law enacted last winter one is allowed to bring into the county at one time not more than a quart of ardent spirits. The officials here were tipped off by telephone that the Italian was on his way to West Virginia with a cargo of beer and whiskey, having procured the same at a point in Allegany county, bringing it overland by way of the Pike enroute to Thomas, West Va.

Going down the State road to Thayerville Sheriff Ashby awaited his man and when he hove in sight with his automobile, which was filled to the limit with 241 bottles of beer and 5 pints of liquor, he flagged him and the Italian being of a generous disposition very kindly gave the officer a ride into Oakland where he was taken before Justice West and a hearing was had. The State was represented by State's Attorney Jones while Torento had as his attorney Mr. W. R. Offutt. Upon hearing the evidence Torento was held under $200 bonds for his appearance at the December Term, which he gave and was released from custody, taking the wet goods with him.

WENT OVER MOUNTAIN SIDE

Charles H. Whetsell Had Narrow Escape When Truck Took Plunge.

Charles H. Whetsell, aged about twenty years, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Whetsell of Oakland, who has been engaged for a few weeks driving a truck for his father at Piedmont, West Va., where the former is engaged in the bottling business, had an exceedingly narrow escape with his life on last Thursday afternoon when the machine he was driving left the road at a point about two miles east of Piedmont and plunged down the side of the mountain for a distance of upwards of ninety feet, damaging the truck to some extent and injuring the driver slightly.

Immediately after the accident occurred the boy was brought to Oakland and Dr. McComas was summoned who rendered surgical aid. While the patient was considerably bruised about the limbs and body he did not suffer any serious hurts and was about the streets Friday as usual.

In making the plunge over the mountain side eye witnesses state that the truck turned over several times and when it finally stopped young Whetsell was pinned beneath it, his arm having been caught and he was unable to release himself. Help arrived shortly afterward, however, and the truck was lifted from its position and the young man was taken to Piedmont, later in the day being brought to his home in Oakland.

ODD FELLOWS PREPARE FOR MT. LAKE REUNION

Members of Fraternity to Gather On Mountain Crest From Three States.

Saturday, August 26, will be a banner day among the Odd Fellows of this section, and from West Virginia. It has been set apart as a grand reunion day and Mt. Lake Park, at the crest of the Allegany Mountains, has been chosen as the meeting place. Secretary A. T. White, of Mt. Lake Park, has notified Harry L. Smith and J. Milton Patterson, the local committeeman of Chosen Friends and Chapel Hill I. O. O. F. lodges respectively, that the three Mountain Lake Park hotels will provide ample accommodations for the thousands who will attend. Large numbers from this section will avail themselves of the splendid state roads to the mountain park, and arrange the day's outing as a motor trip. Boating on the lake, the beautiful mountain drives, band concerts, competitive drills, and addresses on Odd Fellowship are among the attractions provided for.

The train service is excellent. There will be two trains from Cumberland, the first train leaving the Queen City station at seven o'clock Saturday morning arriving at the park about two hours later, and a second train leaving there about nine o'clock. The second train will carry the Martinsburg crowd. There will be special trains from Parkersburg, Wheeling, Weston, Buckhannon, Grafton, and Morgantown, West Virginia. Week-end special excursions will also be conducted from Baltimore and Washington at special rates. Westernport, Keyser and Piedmont will turn out unusually large crowds, according to the last report received from W. H. Fredlock, local committeeman at Westernport.

John Cornwall, the Democratic candidate for Governor of West Virginia, will deliver an address on behalf of his native state, while Saul Praeger, of Cumberland, will address the reunion crowd on the "Spirit of Odd Fellowship in Maryland." The speaking will take place in the auditorium, where the Grand Master, I. O. O. F., A. J. Wilkinson, of West Virginia, will preside.

Special committees have been appointed by both local I. O. O. F. lodges and are very active in promoting the coming reunion.

Newspapers Cut Size.

The action of New York newspaper publishers in decreasing the number of pages in order to conserve the stock of news print, has been followed by Philadelphia publishers. In New York 121 pages a week have been taken from the various papers, and in Philadelphia 80 pages have been deducted. The saving in the latter city is said to amount to more than 200 tons of paper a week. Publishers in other cities have already taken similar action, or are about to do so.

NO COMPENSATION AFTER WORK IS DONE

Claims For Compensation For Accidental Deaths Void Holds Commission

In a decision just handed down the State Industrial Accident Commission laid down the general rule that an employer is not responsible for an accident, fatal or otherwise, occurring after the hours of employment. Hence claims for injuries before or after working hours are void.

The decision in question was rendered in the case of the dependent widow and children vs. the Kendall Lumber Company, of Garrett county. The claim was compensation for the death of James Shaffer, an employe of the lumber company, who, with a companion, was killed in November, 1915, while returning home after work hours. Shaffer had been in the employment of the company as a mill workman for about 10 years. He lived about three miles from the mill and for about five years before the accident which caused his death he and several other mill workmen living in the same vicinity traveled back and forth to their work each day on a hand car operated on the tracks of the company's railroad.

During a blinding storm and when about two and one-half miles from the mill, at about 15 minutes after 6 o'clock p. m., on the fatal day, the hand car collided with a locomotive drawing a log train, and James Shaffer and his father, who was also on the hand car, were killed, and the other two workmen were injured, though not seriously. The car used at the time of the accident had been purchased by James Shaffer and his father through the superintendent of the lumber company about a month before the accident. The lumber company consented to this use of its railroad tracks by these employes, but did not require it. The evidence shows that there were roads or ways leading to the mill from the homes of these men over which they could have traveled.

The commission quotes numerous authorities to sustain its decision in disallowing the claim.

Celebrated Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swauger, of near Grantsville, celebrated their golden wedding at their home on Monday evening of this week, the celebration occurring at the home of their son Louis Swauger, one of the progressive farmers of the northern end of the county. Mr. and Mrs. Swauger are the parents of six sons and four daughters, most of whom, with their children, were present upon the happy occasion. Mr. Swauger is one of the few Civil War Veterans of Garrett county who still lives.

Attended Humbertson Funeral.

MORE SPLENDID PRIZES OFFERED FOR THE FAIR

Garrett National Bank Interested In Progress of Garrett County Fair.

The Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, offer prizes for exhibits at the Garrett county Fair September 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th as follows:

For the best colt one year old and under two, of draft horse type, $10.00.

For the best calf, one year old or under, of beef class, $10.00.

For the largest variety of vegetables put up in pint and quart glass jars, $5.00.

In the vegetable list are included tomatoes, corn, beans, peas, sweet potatoes, rhubarb, etc.

This liberal offer of the Garrett National Bank should be an inducement to the farmers and the ladies of the home to make a special effort to be prize winners.

Ex-Marylanders' Picnic.

The Maryland people who live near Fredonia, Pa., held a very enjoyable reunion at Milton Folk's Saturday, Aug. 5th. Everything was fine except for a shower at noon and another at supper. Everyone had a splendid time and were wishing that their many Maryland friends could be with them to enjoy the great feed and reunion. The following persons were present: Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Folk, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ringer, Lester Ringer, Misses Orpha, Edna and Vernie Ringer, Wm. Smith and family, A. H. Jordan and family, Mrs. Smouse, of Grantsville, Md., Mr. and Mrs. Sam Miller and son, Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kramer and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Spaun and Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Brown. They hope to make this an annual affair and hope to see many of their Maryland friends with them next year.—Meyersdale Republican.

ALLEGED BOOTLEGGERS CAUGHT AT DEER PARK

Two Colored Waiters of Deer Park Hotel In Oakland Jail.

Two alleged bootleggers, William Brown and John Langford, both colored, and employed as waiters at the Deer Park Hotel at Deer Park, were picked up Tuesday morning as they alighted from train No. 11 and brought to Oakland where they were held in jail until Tuesday noon upon the charge of bringing into the county an excessive supply of liquor.

Brown had twelve quarts while Langford went him a little better and had twelve and a half quarts. At the hearing before Justice West Tuesday both men testified that they had brought the liquor into the county for their personal use. State's Attorney Jones, who represented the State at the hearing, produced evidence tending to show that both men went to Westernport from two to three times a week and brought back with them liquor in violation of the law.

The prisoners were represented by Messrs. Renninger and Offutt. The two men were held under bond for their appearance and in default were remanded to jail for the action of the grand jury at the December term.

Yesterday Messrs. Offutt and Renninger, as attorneys for the alleged bootleggers, filed with Clerk Tower a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to release the men from jail. When the argument is made before the Court the local attorneys will attack the constitutionality of the Speicher law.

RUSSIANS PIERCE LEMBERG FORT

Infantry in Masses Is Hurled for 12 Hours Without Lull Against Austrian Defenses

GERMANS IN COUNTER ATTACK

London.—Russian troops are attacking heavily along the whole front of Gen. von Boehm-Ermolli's army before Lemberg.

For 12 hours, without a single lull, infantry has been hurled against the Austro-German positions between Paraplinska and Piniski, according to the official Vienna statement.

The Austrians claim that most of the attacks collapsed before the foe reached their wire entanglements. At some points the Russians gained a foothold in the first line trenches, only to be driven out by Teutonic reserves.

Near Kanojoa, the Austro-German line was pierced, but Vienna claims a counter-attack threw the Russians back to their original positions.

Particularly severe fighting is in progress on both sides of Horozanka, to the north of the Dniester. The town has been destroyed by shell-fire.

The Germans in France are engaged in a series of violent counter-attacks which, they claim, have enabled them to regain the greater part of the ground lost in the actions a few days ago. Only south of the Somme, in the sector of Belloy-en-Santerre, does the German General Staff admit the Allies were able to hold the conquered terrain.

Against the German version, the French announce that they spent the interval in consolidating the captured ground, while General Haig reports further penetration for 300 yards of the German front west of the High wood.

The dispatch from British Headquarters on the Somme front describes the sanguinary defeat of powerful German counter-attacks. In one of these the Germans advanced six deep but were taken under so heavy a fire they fled in retreat before even reaching the British lines. Their losses are described as enormous.

General Haig also announces the seizure of a 100-yard trench northwest of Bazentin-le-Petit, at the prow of the British advance toward the Martinpuich heights. A counter attack, delivered from the latter region, he asserts, was unsuccessful.

WAY OPEN TO HUNGARY.

The Hague.—The Russians have captured Jablonitza, one of the principal gateways from Galicia to the Hungarian plains, and Petrograd reports that their offensive in this direction is continuing. This is the first news of an advance by the Russian southern army since the conquest of the Austrian crownland of Bukowina was completed.

Farther to the north the Russians are continuing their driving operations against the Austrians with apparently uninterrupted success. Their troops are pouring across the Zlota Lipa at several points in spite of desperate resistance on the part of the Teutonic forces. Fierce fighting is being waged along the entire line south of Brody and General Brussiloff is apparently making a supreme effort to cut off the army of General von Bothmer and force its surrender.

As far as the other theatres of war are concerned, main interest centers in the Italian operations. The Italians are vigorously pressing their advance.

The Italian dreadnought Leonardo da Vinci caught fire and olew up in the harbor of Taranto, Italy, says a Turin dispatch to the Paris Petit Journal. Three hundred of her crew were drowned. Her displacement was 28,000 tons.

With a brief lull at short intervals, like intermittent gasps fo breath, the Battle of the Somme and Ancre, the greatest, bloodiest, noisiest and most terrific human conflict known to history, is raging on. The battle is now at the end of the seventh week.

TO EXCLUDE FEMALE LABOR

German Employers Agree to Encourage Soldiers After the War.

The Hague.—The various German merchants' associations have come to an agreement, to hold good for at least six months after the war, with the National Clerks' Union and other commercial employes' unions, to exclude female labor as far as possible from offices and stores, and to fix minimum wages for men returning from the war. This is considered a wise way to meet the situation.

NEW LINE FROM ROTTERDAM

Service to America Soon to Be Started, It Is Said.

The Hague, via London.—A new steamship line will soon be put into service from Rotterdam to America, according to an Amsterdam newspaper. A Rotterdam company is negotiating for the purchase of the former Greek steamer Macedonia, which can accommodate 2,000 passengers and has a freight capacity of 5,000 tons. It is proposed to open the new service with this ship.

DIE IN EXPLOSION IN MUNITION PLANT

Perish When Electricity Ignites 1,000 Pounds of Cordite in Canadian Works

TWENTY OTHERS INJURED

Few of These Are Expected to Survive—Disaster Purely Accidental, the Factory Owners Assert—Factory Continues Working

Montreal, Quebec.—With a deafening roar more than 1,000 pounds of cordite which was in proces of manufacture in the munitions factory at Drummondville, P. Q., for use in smokeless gun cartridges, exploded, killing five men, while twenty others, seriously injured, are in the General and Mount Royal Hospitals here. The explosion came without a warning, and so far as foresight could provide, was unavoidable.

The cause was static electricity, which brought about spontaneous combustion in a huge pile of cordite which was ready for packing in cartridge cases. One of the injured, questioned as to the cause of the explosion, said:

"We were busy assembling the cordite for packing purposes when there came a sudden flash, a blinding flame and a roar. That's all I remember."

Three men were killed outright and two others died in the hospital. All the survivors are badly burned and are suffering also from shock. Little hope is held out by the hospital authorities for the survival of more than two or three.

The company's officials say that there is not the slightest doubt as to the cause, and that no foundation whatever exists for any talk of incendiarism or plot.

Ambulances and medical men and nurses were rushed from Montreal by a special train over the Intercolonial Railway on receipt of the news, and the injured were brought to the hospitals within a few hours.

Two Government Inspectors began an investigation at once, and other officials from Ottawa will be on the spot in a short time.

The explosion took place in one of the drying houses and two or three sheds were ruined, but the operations of the factory will suspended.

NAVY PLAN PASSES HOUSE.

Senate Plan for 16 Capital Ships in Three Years Passes.

Washington.—The House adopted the Senate shipbuilding program and personnel amendments, the former by a vote of 283 to 51. The latter was adopted viva voce. The building plan makes provision for eight capital ships next year—four dreadnoughts and four battle cruisers. The personnel amendment increases the navy's strength in men to 74,400.

Secretary Daniels issued a statement pointing out that the building authorizations in the bill were the greatest ever passed in any country and would give the United States, in the opinion of naval authorities, the second largest navy in the world. He declared the measure "so complete and nearly perfect that it will stand as a model for all navy bills for future legislators."

The vote by which the House accepted the Senate increases in the building program was non-partisan, the majority of both Democrats and Republicans voting in the affirmative. Of the 51 members who voted in the negative there were 35 Democrats, 15 Republicans and one Socialist.

The program adopted authorizes 157 new ships for the navy, 66 of which are to be begun as soon as practicable, and the construction of the remainder to be begun prior to July 1, 1919. The ships authorized are as follows: 10 battleships, 6 battle cruisers, 10 scout cruisers, 50 torpedo boat destroyers, 9 fleet submarines, 58 coast submarines, 1 submarine with Neff system of propulsion, 3 fuel ships, 2 ammunition ships, 1 hospital ship, 1 repair ship, 1 transport, 2 destroyer tenders, 1 fleet submarine tender, 2 gunboats.

FACE PIPE BRIAR SHORTAGE.

Government Laboratories Experimenting With American Woods.

Washington.—American pipe makers, confronted with scarcity of French briar, are looking to the forest service for substitutes. The Government laboratories are experimenting with various native woods and many species of chaparral of the West.

A large quantity of mountain laurel roots have been sold from the southern Appalachian reserve for pipe making.

FEW PASS FOR ANNAPOLIS

Lack of Time Given as Cause for 256 Failures Out of 350.

Washington.—Out of 350 applicants who took the July examinations for admission to the Naval Academy only ninety-four received passage grades the Navy Department announced. The large percentage of failures is attributed to lack of time for preparation. As a result of the three examinations held this year the new fourth class at the Academy will number about 625.

WILSON VETOES NEW ARMY BILL

Objects to Exemption From Discipline of Retired Officers

DOUBTS CONSTITUTIONALITY

Changes Said to Be in the Interest of Retired Officers "at Outs" With the Army—Chairman Hay at Once Reintroduces the Bill.

Washington.—President Wilson unexpectedly vetoed the army appropriation bill, carrying $267,000,000 for preparedness and many important features of the Administration's national defense programme.

An obscure provision slipped into the bill by Chairman Hay of the House Military Affairs Committee when it was in conference was responsible for the President's action. This provision removed retired army officers from liability to special service and court-martial proceedings. The President denounced the provision as dangerous to discipline and probably unconstitutional.

The vetoing of this important measure constituted a significant rebuke to the chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee. Mr. Hay declined to comment on the action of the President, but he showed embarrassment.

Whether the President's veto will result in delaying the preparedness programme and putting off the adjournment of Congress remains to be seen. Chairman Hay already has reintroduced the army bill in the House eliminating not only the objectionable provision concerning retired officers but also the entire section of the bill which included the modified Articles of War.

It has been reported that the Hay joker was inserted in the army bill in the interest of Gen. Ainsworth retired, who desired to publish his side of the well known army controversy between himself and Gen Wood. It was rumored that Gen. Ainsworth had even written a book, which would make its appearance as soon as there was no danger of court martial. Mr. Hay from the beginning of the Wood-Ainsworth controversy, has been a supporter of the latter.

Mr. Hay has denied emphatically that he consulted Gen. Ainsworth or any one else in regard to the legislation, or that it was intended to help Ainsworth.

SHIP BILL PASSED.

Washington.—After a fight extending over two years the Administration has succeeded in putting through Congress its $50,000,000 Government ownership shipping bill.

The much discussed and much amended measure passed the Senate by a vote of 38 to 21. Every Democrat voting was recorded in favor of the bill. Every Republican who voted was in opposition.

DANISH KING TAKES A HAND

Would Form Coalition Cabinet to Avoid Elections Over West Indies' Sale.

Copenhagen, via London.—The situation regarding the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States changed suddenly, owing to the action of the King, who asked the Premier to examine the possibilities of the forming of the coalition Cabinet in order to avoid the general election, which the King does not consider opportune.

Previous confidential discussions in the Landsthing, after which the parliamentary majority made clear its determination to oppose the sale at this time, foreshadowed this latest development. Earlier in the day the Conservatives and the left wing of the House had declared its intention to vote for postponing the settlement of the question until after the new elections, or until after the war.

WORLD'S NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

THE HAGUE.—It is officially announced that the German Government has admitted that the Dutch steamer Rijndijk was struck by a German torpedo, and has apologized and offered to compensate the owners, a Rotterdam shipping firm.

BAR HARBOR, Me.—Andrew Carnegie arrived here in such feeble condition he found it difficult to walk without support.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex.—The loss of life from the tropical storm is placed at thirteen. The damage in this section is said to be about $2,000,000.

WASHINGTON.—Postmaster General Burleson has forwarded to the treasury department a check for $5,200,000 in payment of surplus in postal revenues for the past fiscal year.

PARIS.—The French and British armies are being supplied with machine gun rifles.

SAN ANTONIO.—The Gulf hurricane, which swerved west across the West Indies, and wrought such havoc in Jamaica, struck Galveston a glancing blow. It fell with full force upon Brownsville, Tex., overwhelming the troops encamped there with a mighty wind and a flood of rain.

THE PRESIDENT--MAKERS

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

NEW YORK, Aug., 22—"What is the Democratic National Committee?" A man representing one of the greatest financial rating concerns in the world walked into the Democratic headquarters and sprang that question on the publicity men. He wanted to know whether the thing was a corporation, if so how much capital stock it had, and what was the purpose of its existence.

They laughed at him, asked him if he had ever heard of the great Democratic party, told him they were an organization for the making of presidents.

No doubt the man was either very ignorant or unduly curious, but when it comes right down to specific information, what do you know about these national committees, who have constituted themselves of late and announced their intention of providing us with a chief executive.

Of course, you understand that a national committee consists of one representative from each state and territory, and that a campaign committee is selected (not elected) from among the members of this larger committee, and also from the ranks of the faithful at large, some men being chosen for their money, some because of where they live, and a few because they have brains or some social knowledge. You are also aware that a chairman for this campaign committee is selected and a secretary and treasurer (especially a treasurer) and that the thing is then organized into a series of bureaus, such as a publicity bureau, which disseminates information by every means possible; a speakers' bureau which selects from a host of volunteers a battalion of orators and tells them when and how to perform; and a foreign bureau which has for its special duty to explain to the untaught immigrant in his own language why he should and otherwise persuade him, to vote for the right candidate for President.

You also know that there is a Chicago headquarters which does for and to the West much the same things that the New York headquarters does in the East; and that the satellities of these chief national luminaries are the state headquarters, which do the local work, and in turn carry the organization on down to the counties, and from counties to voting precincts.

Familiar as you are with this widespread and detailed plan or organization, which covers the country like an octopus, and lays a persuasive tentacle of some sort upon every wavering voter you do not really know what a national committee is unless you have seen the monster at work. It is usually housed upon an upper floor of a downtown office building, and in general plan and outline resembles the chambered nautilus, or the French defense at Verdun. In the central chamber of strong-hold, surrounded by clouds of fifty-cent cigar smoke, golden-haired stenographers and checks in from three to seven figures, sits that man of destiny the national chairman. (At least this is the popular and hearsay impression of him.) He is protected by about forty-seven outer chambers of lines of defense in the shape of deputy chairman, secretaries, assistant secretaries, clerks, stenographers and office boys. All of them are needed. For against these bulwarks bravely hurl themselves all of the patriots who are bent on saving the party—country editors who want to devote their papers to the cause, would-be orators, leaders of the Italian, the Lithuanian, the Hindoo, the African, the liquor, the labor, and every other variety of vote in the country; chorus girls, society women, prize fighters and any number of other kinds. They are all laden with large, bright ideas and all of them are inspired by a deep devotion to the principles of the party. The press agents say so. They admit it themselves. And also most of them are willing and even anxious to be put upon the payroll or to spend fifty or a hundred thousand dollars of the committee's money for the good of the cause.

Receiving, sorting and ejecting this mass of humanity in a tactful and politicianly manner seem at a glance to be the main job of a majority of the employes of a national committee. The two great difficulties in the work of the President-makers is that many of those who are on the job, realizing that it is a political one, feel that it would be a violation of the best traditions of Americanism to work too hard, and those who are not on the payroll keep those who are, busy by their persistent and determined efforts to get on. Thus the national committee is thrown on the defensive early in the game, and has a hard time getting around to the aggressive features of its work.

Of course the thing is pretty well systematized. There is a man for each particular complaint, and he has several assistants, each of whom will hold the enemy for quite a while, so that it is only the most determined and the most favored who get any where near the committee chairmen. For example, if Colonel Quill, editor-in-chief of the Shellbark Weekly Struggle, wishes to tell the chairman of the Democratic National Committee what his paper can do for the cause and what the cause can do for his paper, after a reasonable wait in the ante-room, he reaches a polite but non-committal assistant, in the public bureau, who sizes him up and his sheet, and either shuts him onto a side track or passes him up to higher realms, according to what his proposition assays.

The plans for electing presidents that are laid before the men are often unique to the point of incredibility. For example a prominent actress called at Democratic headquarters with a plan for placing President Wilson's preparedness policy before the people in a pleasing light. She offered to buy a big fierce-looking bull dog, provided the committee would give her the money, and name him President Wilson. Owing to her prominence in the public prints the newspapermen would of course ask her why she had named her dog after the chief executive. She would then explain that he was a peaceful dog; who held himself aloof from the average dog fight, but that if driven too far, he would bite.

Then there was a man from Texas who wanted fifty thousand dollars with which to found a Democratic newspaper, so as to keep the Lone Star state from going Republican; the negro champion crap shooter who offered to "bust" all the colored voters in his district if the committee would furnish him with the money to make a start, and to cancel the debt on the sole condition that they vote right; and the barber who said that the men of his craft were against Hughes because he wears a beard, but who offered to swing the chin scraper vote if he was "treated right."

The women are there, too. One of them offered to demonstrate how the tariff had injured women by wearing a swell trousseau, to be provided by the committee, and so labeled as to show the baneful effect of the tariff on the prices of certain articles of wearing apparel. Society women of the kind whose husband's haven't much except their social position, are not uncommon around both headquarters. One of them wanted the committee to pay her husband's back club dues, so that he could once more attend the fashionable New York organization and urge the young men to vote, for Hughes. Another of the same class suggested that the committee pay the expenses of a series of teas and receptions which she would give at her town and country houses. To these exclusive affairs would be invited all of the social climbers who had money or influence. The gracious hostess would tell them she hoped Hugehs would be elected, and they would follow her advice out of gratitude. In return, she wanted for her husband a position paving at least fifteen thousand a year.

But for genuine generalship and ingenuity, the man with the land scheme had them all beaten. He proposed that every Republican in Pennsylvania, for example, be given an acre of land in some Western state where the vote is apt to be close. The grateful recipient would then carry the Western state for Wilson, while enough Republicans would be removed from Pennsylvania to assure Democratic victory there.

And all of these geniuses, we are led to believe, were turned down. Is it fair? Politics is the great American sport. Why should active participation be reserved for politicians and the methods limited to political oratory and editorials? There is a great future for a party that will make one of its planks policies of the people, for the people and by the people.

SHORT RUN

A severe wind and electric storm passed over this section of the country Monday afternoon and caused much damage of crops.

Our farmers have mostly finished their hay and oats harvest.

A number of our folks have been attending the Chautauqua at Kitzmiller, and report very interesting entertainment.

Mr. T. B. Wilson, of Oskaloosa, Iowa, is paying an extended visit to relatives in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilson are spending this week visiting relatives at Mill Creek, West Va.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Sharpless and family spent Sunday at Kitzmiller.

Misses Esta Wilson and Gladys Sharpless spent Sunday at Bloomington, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Fortney.

J. T. Harvey and T. B. Wilson were visiting G. W. Moon on Sunday.

Mrs. L. Brokemarkle and little son Marvin, of Keyser, West Va., are spending a week's vacation at the home of J. H. Wilson.

Misses Susan Harvey and Ida Miller, of Wilson, West Va., are visiting at Mrs. S. E. Harvey's this week.

Mr. H. H. Warnick attended the all-day meeting at Mt. Zion Sunday. He reported a very nice time.

TEAMSTERS IN STATE MUST OBEY ROAD RULES

Automobile Commissioner Given Important Ruling On Subject.

The State Automobile Commission has jurisdiction over horse-drawn vehicles on the public highway and may arrest drivers of the latter for infraction of the road rules. Attorney General Ritchie forwarded this opinion yesterday to Automobile Commissioner Baughman and the result will be an early crusade against drivers of heavy wagons, who of late have refused to observe the road rules.

Recently many complaints have reached Commissioner Baughman from motorists who have claimed that drivers of horse-drawn vehicles all over the state have attempted to "hog" the roadway and have refused to comply with requests to draw toward the right to permit the motorists to pass. The cases of noncompliance with the drawing aside request have been especially frequent on the Belair road, Commissioner Baughman says, and concern the drivers of heavy market wagons going to and from the city.

Asked for an opinion, Attorney General Ritchie replied that under section 237 of the Motor-vehicle Law the deputies of the State Commissioner's office have full power to make arrests of drivers of horse-drawn vehicles for road violations.

Section 163 of the Motor Law, Commissioner Baughman contends, makes it mandatory for drivers to give a right-of-way to other vehicles desiring to pass provided the highway is sufficiently broad at the place of attempted passage. The section says: "All vehicles when being driven upon the highways of this state, upon meeting others shall turn to the right of the center of the highway so as to pass without interferance, and in rounding curves shall keep as far to the right of the road as reasonably possible, and any vehicle overtaking another going in the same direction shall pass to the left of the vehicle so overtaken provided the way ahead is clear of approaching traffic.

* * *"

"Many complaints have reached us," said Commissioner Baughman, "of drivers of horse-drawn vehicles who have attempted to keep in the middle of the road and who when asked by motorists, desiring to pass, to draw aside to the right have replied with refusals and in some cases abusive language. Under the attorney general's opinion our deputies have the right to proceed in such cases and we intend to act at once."

HUTTON

Rev. James E. Connell, pastor of St. Peter's church, Oakland, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pendergast at luncheon Thursday.

It is with the utmost gratitude and genuine appreciation that I wish to express the sentiments of the entire community to the honorable gentlemen who so nobly assisted by their generous cooperation in the movement of effecting a more thorough highway than the one present existing, which is, as has already been proven, an incumbrance, not merely to the immediate neighborhood, but a sourch of constant annoyance to the tourists in general.

The indications are such that the outlook appears exceedingly favorable, and ere the dawn of a new year it is hoped that our fond expectations, shall be realized, not by the completion of the State Road alone but by additional improvements that the newly elected trustees of our public school may deem proper to make and which no doubt will receive the hearty endorsement of all concerned.

The importance of these two factors are indeed invaluable, and certainly behoves each and every individual to interest themselves in an united effort to obtain the desired results, which can only be accomplished by a constant and unrelinquishing perseverance.

Again thanking the above mentioned for the display of their kindly attention and consideration in our behalf during the past, we trust to receive a continuous share of their esteemed patronage in the future.

Mr. Jerry J. Pendergast, accompanied by Misses Gertrude and Frances Baker and Mrs. M. Pendergast, motored to Oakland Sunday where they attended church service.

Miss Marion Glover, of Keyser, West Va., was the guest of Hutton friends Sunday.

Misses Virginia White, of Oakland, and Corine DeBerry, of Romney, West Va., were visitors at this place recently.

A dance was held in Pendergast's Hall Monday evening, Aug. 14, with a large number of out-of-town people in attendance.

The bright summer days have nearly vanished and in a few more weeks, Autumn, with all its glamouring sheen of perfect splendor, hazy skies tinted in pastel-like coloring, shall appear as a setting for the third scene of Nature's dramas.

HUGHES AND FAIRBANKS.

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Two futile invasions of Mexico and six separate and distinct policies on the question of permitting arms and ammunition to be sent into that country are included in the performance of the Wilson administration in its dealings with our southern neighbors in less than three years. It is this characteristic instability of the government that makes people want a change.

Bryan reiterates that he is out for Wilson. "Hark from the tomb a doleful sound."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The stopping of Governor Hughes' auto by a Canadian soldier will not matter, inasmuch as the band wagon's progress is not to be interrupted

Democrats who harbored hopes that Josephus would catch the virus from the Bryan and Garrison resignations are still nursing their disappointment. Nothing remains for them but to resign to a realization that Josephus will not resign.

"Inadequate" aptly characterizes the Wilson administration, but almost any synonym of unsatisfactory will do.

When Charles E. Hughes said: "The dealings of the administration with Mexico constitute a confused chapter of blunders," he gave an explicit characterization of the Wilson administration's policy in one sentence.

Just as it is now obstinately shutting its eyes to the need of industrial preparedness, for three years the Wilson administration refused to see the need of adequate military preparedness. With war on our southern border it was content to rely on a regular army that could only muster 40,000 available men and refused to continue the established policy of building up our navy. When the time came for action the country had not sufficient troops to police the border, and this force has been supplemented by a trifle more than one-third the war strength of the national guard. If the national administration had had the ability to interpret the signs of the time military preparedness would have been well under way instead of barely begun.

Charles E. Hughes, the Republican candidate, recognizes an important fact that Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic president, appears to have overlooked—that the United States is big enough to help Mexico out of the condition of anarchy in which that country is plunged and, by securing order in Mexico, insure peace on our border.

If the Democratic national administration had left on the statute books in 1894 the federal corrupt practices act placed there by the Republicans there would be no occasion for the present administration's campaign publicity measure, which at best is a very poor substitute for the law repealed.

President Wilson's campaign managers are entitled to all the comfort they can get out of calling the roll of Progressives who are going to vote for him. It would be an endless task to call the roll of Progressives who are not going to vote for him.

For every reason that can be advanced why Progressives should vote for Wilson ten can be advanced why they should vote for Hughes, and the beauty of it is that they know the reasons without having to be told.

The Wilson administration went into Mexico to punish Villa for his outrage on American soil. The only punishment inflicted has been on American soldiers, who were shot down at Carrizal by order of First Chief Carranza.

"Franklin Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, sees a strong trend for Wilson in Maine."—News Dispatch. Who can blame a man who for three years has been assistant to Josephus Daniels for "seeing things?"

Even Woodrow Wilson could not save the infamous Clarke amendment to the Philippines bill. He lost the ablest member of his cabinet, Secretary Garrison, because of his advocacy of the policy of scuttle, but even the sacrifice of Garrison could not save it.

WILSON'S POLICIES BLOWN UP.

Charles Evans Hughes did have explosives with him when his motorcar was searched by a Canadian soldier, but they were under the candidate's hat. Mr. Hughes will set them off on his western tour, and some of Mr. Wilson's policies will be blown up—New York Sun.

DR. FRANCE WARMING UP FOR HIS BATTLE WITH LEWIS FOR SENATORIAL HONORS

Republican Candidate Began Life As A Messenger Boy And Worked His Way Up Ladder.

A knock-down-and-drag-out fight is promised between David J. Lewis, Democrat, and Dr. Joseph Irwin France, Republican, for Blair Lee's seat in the United States Senate.

Mr. Lewis as a member of the House of Representatives from the Sixth district is generally known to the voters of Maryland, but his opponent is comparatively a newcomer in State wide politics. He is, however, eager for the fray, is full of ginger and predicts that whichever side does the shouting after election day everybody will know that there has been a real contest.

The Doctor expects to go down the line, and will invade every county, in addition to making a vigorous campaign in Baltimore city. He has already begun the work of personally meeting the voters and of addressing tournaments, picnics, fairs and other gatherings.

"Davy" Lewis has nothing on his Republican opponent as an early toiler. Dr. France began the struggle of making his own living at the age of 11. He started out as a messenger boy.

The France family has for nearly two centuries been identified with the history of Maryland. The Doctor's first ancestor in this county—William France—came to Baltimore from England long before the Revolutionary War. Joseph France, a son of William, is buried in Old St. Paul's Cemetery, and Richard France, a great uncle of the candidate, lived on Mount Vernon place, two doors east of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church. Richard France also owned a beautiful estate called the Villa, in its time one of the show places of Maryland.

Dr. France's great-grandmother was Margueretta Boyle, daughter of Capt. Thomas Boyle, a noted privateer, who sailed his ships out of Baltimore and was conspicuous for daring deeds in the American Navy during the War of 1812. A model of one of Captain Boyle's ships—the Chasseur—is now on exhibition in the rotunda of the City Hall.

The Republican Senatorial candidate is 43 years old and is a son of Rev. Dr. Joseph Henry France, who graduated from Columbia University and Law School in Washington and later entered the Presbyterian ministry, now having a church at Naples, N. Y. The mother of Dr. France was Miss Hannah Fletcher James, daughter of Col. William James, of Richmond, Va. The Doctor is a second cousin of Joseph C. France, the Baltimore lawyer. So much for the family history.

As a boy young France was ambitious. Between his school hours he worked as a messenger, his pay consisting of a very small weekly wage and instruction on a telegraph instrument. He applied himself and studied hard, realizing that education is one of the most valuable assets.

At the age of 21 he was graduated from Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y., and was awarded the Elihu Root foreign fellowship in physical science, being appointed at the same time to a graduate scholarship in anatomy and physiology at Cornell University.

Later he went abroad and continued his studies at the University of Leipzig, in Germany. Returning to this country he took a course at Clark University, and was then called to the chair of natural science at the Jacob Tome Institute at Port Deposit, Md., where he formed a warm friendship with the founder of this famous school.

Then he decided to take up medicine, receiving his degree from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Baltimore and a post-graduate degree from the Johns Hopkins Medical School. He had an extensive experience in the dispensaries, and his practice brought him in intimate touch with the poor, during which time he made a scientific study of health problems. He is now secretary to the State Medical Society, technically known as the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, although he is not at present in active practice as a physician.

It was in 1905 that France became interested in politics and incidentally a vigorous opponent of the Poe amendment, having for its object the disfranchisement of colored voters. He was nominated by the Republican party in Cecil county for State Senator and was elected by over 400 majority after a spirited and memorable campaign in which he defeated the late Austin L. Crothers, afterward Governor of Maryland.

Crothers was a power in the politics of Cecil county, which had up to that time given Democratic majorities of from 400 to 700. But the Doctor made his fight directly to the people and on a platform which promised definite legislative reforms. He stumped every hamlet in the county and interviewed practically every voter.

His record in the State Senate was commendable and received the indorsement of the independent press. He was an earnest advocate of greater publicity for legislative procedure and for economy in the transaction of the State's business.

He took a firm stand for the printing of all bills for the appointment of employes in open session of the Senate and against the appropriation of lump sums for unspecified objects. He also urged stringent measures to prevent corruption in the lobby, or "Third House," and he gave strong support to a bill designed to improve the educational system of Maryland.

Since the expiration of his term in the State Senate Dr. France had not personally entered actively into the political game until he became an aspirant last spring for the United States Senatorship nomination, although he was interested in all campaigns and aided his party's candidates. For some years he has devoted himself to business and agricultural pursuits and to scientific studies.

The Doctor is also a farmer, and is a member of the famous Cecil Farmers' Club. His place is called Mount Ararat, and is situated on the high granite cliffs overlooking the Susquehanna river just below Port Deposit. He is a practical farmer—not an agriculturist—and applies business and scientific methods to making the property profitable and attractive. The land gives a rich yield of grain and grass and the Doctor has a successful dairy plant and one of the finest Guernsey herds in the country.

He erected modern barns and silos and installed up-to-date machinery, bringing Mount Ararat up to the standard set by such noted Maryland farmers as Robert Crain, who has a wonderful estate of some seven thousand acres in Charles county.

Dr. France contends that "all wealth must be produced from the soil," and his logic is that if the farmers are prosperous the country will be. "If you reduce the earning power of the farmer," he argues, "you decrease the wages of every other worker. The interests of agriculture are vital to the whole community, and it has been short-sighted statesmanship which has placed the farmers' interests last."

In 1903 Dr. France Married Mrs. Evelyn S. Tome, widow of Jacob Tome, who had aided in developing the Tome School as a great institution for Maryland boys. Mrs. France is a cultivated woman of strong individuality, and has taken an important part in philanthropic work, being familiar with the urgent needs of the State in this direction.

Dr. and Mrs. France spend their winters in Baltimore, having purchased the splendid house at Monument and Cathedral streets formerly the home of the late Major Alexander Shaw. The Doctor is quite an athlete and is an advocate of out-of-door life and sports. He is an adept boxer and established a record in college as a field and track man. He is also an expert boatman and sailor, and has spent many hours on the Chesapeake bay and its tributaries. This sort of life brought him in close touch with the oystermen in the Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland counties.

Personally the Republican Senatorial candidate is a good mixer and should develop into a fine campaigner. He is very much in earnest regarding a constructive program of legislation should he be sent to Washington as Maryland's junior Senator. He has devoted himself successfully to business problems in recent years, and will endeavor to show the voters of the State that he will be alive to their interests if elected.

Dr. France is a member of the Union League of Maryland, the University, Merchants', City and Baltimore Country Clubs, and is a trustee or director in a number of institutions. It is thus seen that his field of activity has not been limited, and he will go before the people of the State with the record of a man who has accomplished things.

ISN'T HE THE HANDSOME MAN!

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

The 1916 Campaign.

This campaign starts off with generalities, rather than detailed facts. Mr. Clark, in his main speech, does not give anything to satisfy the intelligant voter—the time has come when voters will not take things for granted. There must be a cause for the change from the times of 1914 and 1915. "Did we not hear then all over the country?" "This is the end of the Democratic party," "treasury running behind, and a stamp tax in time of peace," and in the midst of disastrous times to our Nation the Allied nations of Europe began to flood our country with orders for munitions of war. Ask Mr. Wood at Sparrows Point the amount of last year's business in that great plant absolutely for the war? Ask DuPonte the sourse of his hundred millions of business and he will point you to Hopewell and like places as products of the war to die at its closing. Ask Mr. Schwab, the great steel magnate, where the enormous business came from and he will tell you. Take the war contracts away from the years business and our Nation would be in the throes of the memorable Cleveland years at this very day.

Even this week a contract for 80 auto trucks a week comes from Europe to a firm in New York and they to be manufactured in Cleveland Ohio.

To find out the size of Wilson's administration in business every war order and the material used from the mines and farms and the horses, mules, cattle, every thing gathered for carrying on that war, subtract all this from our business and what would be left? Why if Mr. Clark could see the administration minus the blood drenched contracts he would hide himself in the mountains of Maine for the rest of his natural life.

The whole Mexican affair has been child's play and now comes bonds of one hundred and thirty millions and the trouble will not be permanently settled by the administration.

We are all hoping for the end of the European war and then our nation will face difficult problems to settle and one will be the finanses of our government. If the Democrats are let alone not only will large incomes be taxed but all incomes.

The thought of tariff originated in the brain of Alexander Hamilton and has saved the burden from falling on the farmers and the manufacture. Only a year ago a man in the Custom House at Baltimore, having been there twenty years, said, "I am no longer for free trade; I have been noticing the price of a certain barrel of fish, every barrel that came in one dollar of the three was added to our treasury; now it is free and costs just the same to consumers."

Where are our cheap meat promised by the Democrats in 1912? And cheap living in general? The Democrats gets behind the war while it lasts as a hiding place, but that will end and this nation will have Mr. Hughes who is one of the cleanest and brainest men this nation has ever produced as it President.

GORTNER

Miss Mabel Wamsley left for Morgantown, W. Va., Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sanders, of Fairmont, W. Va., are visiting home folks.

Mr. Reed Smouse and family, of Fairmont, motored to this place Tuesday, where they were the guests of relatives.

Roy Sporlein, of Accident, who has been visiting his brother for the past week, returned home Saturday.

Walter and Ruth Schlossnagle spent several days recently with their sister, Mrs. Owen Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bender, of Springs, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Noah Lichty.

Mr. and Mrs. Obed Hamstead, and two sons, motored to this place Sunday. Mr. Hamstead preached a very interesting and helpful sermon in the Union church that evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ruster, of Mattoon, Ill., are spending a week here with relatives.

Geo. Dennis and family, of Brandonville, W. Va., spent Sunday at Will Welche's, they were accompanied to this place by Evan Burkholder, who spent a short time with his sister, Miss Emma Burkholder.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Shetler expect to leave Tuesday for Masontown, Pa., where they will attend the conference to be held at that place.

Miss Ruth Irwin spent Sunday in Oakland the guest of Miss Norine Taggart.

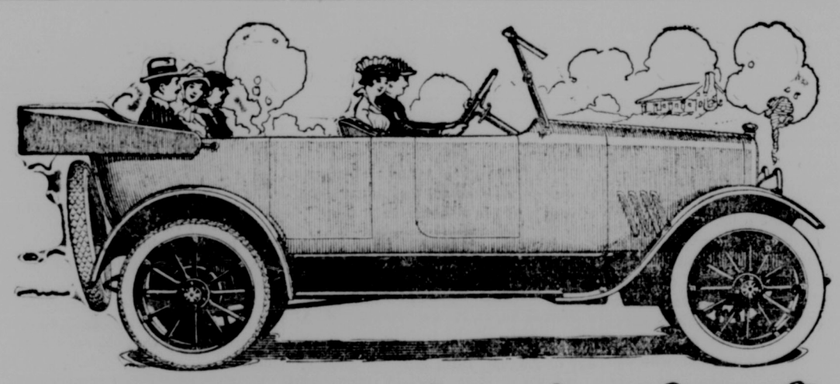
Mr. and Mrs. Eli Miller son, Erwin, and daughter, Eunice, of Springs, Pa., and H. E. Roder were Sunday visitors at S. J. Lichtey's.

Helen, the little daughter of Arch Baker had the misfortune of falling off the porch and breaking her arm.

Misses Beta Clyker, and Guien Dummer, of Wheeling, W. Va., dined at W. C. Welche's Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy White and children, spent Sunday with Mrs. Whites parents Mr. and Mrs. George Lee.

A terrific hail storm passed through our section Monday evening killing chickens, destroying crops and breaking window lights. H. E. Yoder's tin barn roof looked like a sieve; other roofs were also damaged. The largest stones were as big as hen's eggs. Mrs. P. P. Gortner's wash was on the line; you can imagine the rest. Some of our folks made the best of it and gathered the stones up for ice cream.



BRISCOE

"The Best Liked Car in the Country"

"A Friend of Mine Said"—

A dozen times a month some one comes into the showroom interested in the Briscoe because of the enthusiastic praise a friend has bestowed on it.

Sometimes it is the striking beauty of the car; sometimes the economy or the comfort or sturdiness, or any one of a score of Briscoe features.

But it emphasizes the fact that a Briscoe owner is a Briscoe booster—a motorist who realizes that he has secured the best value in the market today.

Below we give the names of a few Briscoe owners in town. Maybe some of them are friends of yours. Ask them what they think of their cars. In that way you'll get some real unprejudiced opinions that should be of value to you in making your own selection.

After you've seen them, see us.

ANY girl can gain a reputation for brilliancy if she is willing to let men drivel along and tell her the stories of their lives.

HAVING delayed thus long about it, why not put the Wilson notification meeting over till November 8 and then tell him all at once that he has been renominated and defeated?

ALL MEN are experts when it comes to giving other people advice. . . . Even President Wilson, in his historical writings, advanced some excellent ideas as to how governments should be administerad.

MR. MCADOO, who called the Republican Presidential candidate a pettifogger the other day, has thereby created no extensive disturbance in the public's opinion of Mr. Hughes, nor for that matter of Mr. McAdoo.

MATTHEW HALE charges that Hughes needs the aid of Penrose and Perkins. And he will get it. Wilson, on the other hand, needs the aid of Charlie Murphy much more than Hughes needs the aid of any man—and he will not get it.

WILSON may keep the Northern Guardsmen in Texas until after the election and John Sharp Williams may prevent them from casting their votes down there in camp. But nothing can prevent them from writing letters home—and their relatives cannot be kept away from the polls.

THE nomination of Myron T. Herrick as Republican candidate for Senator from Ohio will be followed by his election, of course. And this assures to the Republican Senate which is to come in next March a member who will be able to contribute a great deal to the task of reforming the rural credit law which the Democrats have just placed on the statute books but which they themselves do not expect to have in operation until some time next spring. By that time a Republican administration will be in charge and the work of perfecting hasty Democratic legislation will have begun. Meantime the Democratic press and the Democratic stump will resound with praise of this imperfect and impracticable legislation.

SOME OF IT IS IN THE MANNER OF THE SAYING

If the Honorable Thomas Marshall of Indiana were a candidate for the Presidency instead of the Vice-Presidency and should get up and say the things Charles Evans Hughes is saying, those things would be buncombe.

If the Honorable Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania were a candidate and should talk about civil service abuses, the country would laugh.

If the Honorable Henry F. Ashurst of Arizona were a candidate and should discuss vehemently his intentions of seeing all business get a fair deal, none would mistake the claptrap for sense.

If Senator Gore of Oklahoma or Vardaman of Mississippi were a candidate and should boldly announce his unalterable determination to maintain the national prestige, the public would be reminded of the Fourth of July.

Or if it were an Aldrich that was trying to define what this country needs in the way of a tariff and explain the hopelessness of getting it through the medium of the Democratic party, his argument would have no more weight than would that of a J. Ham Lewis in rebuttal.

There are not many men who can debate these things and hold their audiences. But when these men do debate them, others listen. Think what "public office is a public trust" would have meant in the mouth of a Martine or Bryan! Think what "government of the people, for the people, by the people" would have meant in the mouth of Rutherford B. Hayes! Think what they did mean, uttered by Grover Cleveland and Abraham Lincoln!

It is not by the appearance of the written word that one can judge the true character of seeming platitudes. And these is not much place for them anywhere between the extremes of the sublime and the ridiculous. The man who takes to them, who rests his argument for political support on them, is either floundering hopelessly about without an issue or else he is creating a very big and true issue indeed.

Some of the Democratic papers are asking "Where is the Hughes of 1908?" If he is behind what, with a smaller man behind them, might be considered the statements of a spell binder, the East will soon get a clearer idea of the Republican candidate than portions of it now admit having.

Mr. Cleveland, Elihu Root, and here and there another, could have fought a great campaign with the arguments and promises Mr. Hughes is using. There should be some little warning to Democrats in the fact that even the papers most antagonistic to him cannot conceal that those who hear him come away with the feelings a Cleveland or Root would have inspired.

HUGHES, THE PROTECTIONIST

Hughes's Republicanism responds in full measure to the fundamental party principle of protection. His speeches while a candidate for and while holding the office of Governor of New York, his Youngstown address—which was and which remains as the highest standard of political argumentation—and his speech of acceptance at Carnegie Hall this year all emphasize the soundness of his views on this great party doctrine and the provision with which he looks to the task of tariff revision which his administration must take up.

In all these utterances Mr. Hughes has made it clear that the Republican party stands for the principle of protection. Indeed it is in these words that he has most frequently introduced his discussion of the topic. To this party principle he has always given the most cordial of approval and support. Through protection he would provide for "the safeguarding of our economic independence, for the development of American industry, for the maintenance of American standards of living." He would have the principle applied "fairly, without abuses, in as scientific a manner as possible."

Regarding a tariff commission he has no illusions. He knows the limitations of the Constitution in this direction. But he believes that "Congress should be aided by the investigation of an expert body." This is both sensible and practicable. It complements the basic idea of the origination of revenue legislation and it recognizes the functions and preserves the freedom of the law-making body.

In short, Hughes as a protectionist leaves nothing which the most ardent advocate of the doctrine could desire.

Memorial on the Death of Daniel E. Offutt, Late President of the Garrett National Bank.

WHEREAS, In the providence of Almighty God, Daniel E. Offutt was called from all earthly duties on the 9th day of August, 1916; and

WHEREAS, It is thought proper and fitting that this memorial should be placed upon the records of The Garrett National Bank; and,

WHEREAS, In the life and example of Daniel E. Offutt we have the exhibition of the best qualities of man, and in his duties as President of this institution he was always careful, observing and conservative in all his acts and always had in view the best interests of this institution. As a citizen he was always highly respected, for his patience and kindness toward those who needed sympathy, and was one of the most sociable among men who sought and enjoyed his companionship. He was of approved honesty and intregity and never desired to do anyone a wrong.

RESOLVED, In his death this institution, as well as the community, has lost one of its best members as an exemplar of good business qualities, and we think it is fitting and proper to file these resolutions among the archieves of this institution.

RESOLVED, further, That a copy of these resolutions be sent by our cashier to the members of Mr. Offutt's family and that they be printed in the county papers.

These resolutions were adopted on the 17th day of August, 1916, by the President and Board of Directors of The Garrett National Bank of Oakland, Maryland, and in accordance therewith they are transmitted to the press for publication.

Road Oiling.

The work of oiling the State highway from Oakland north to the concrete road near Hoyes was begun yesterday morning when an immense tank truck carried the first load out of town. The capacity of the truck is sufficient to oil a mile of the road and it is thought that the work will be completed within the next two weeks. In the meantime, however, autoists will give the State road a wide berth.

LOST—On the road between Jennings and Grantsville, Monday, a blue serge coat, with the initials "C. A. D." on the inside of the garment. Finder please notify or return to the undersigned and receive reward. George A. DeWitt, Deer Park, Md. Adv.

GOVERNMENT ADOPTS STRINGENT RULES

Those Returning From Infected Areas After August 23 Will Be Isolated For 14 Days.

Dr. John S. Fulton, Maryland's health officer, who attended the conference at Washington and was the chairman of the committee named to adopt a plan of procedure in fighting infantile paralysis, made the announcement Sunday that after August 23 all children coming to Maryland from infected areas will be isolated for 14 days and kept under observation. This was decided upon to safe guard the state against the disease.

The public health service will assume control of the situation in all of the states, and a government official will be sent to each and he alone is authorized to issue permits free of charge. In this connection Dr. Fulton said:

"If you have any friends with children who are spending their vacations along the coast of New Jersey or in any other place where the disease is prevalent, write them to come home before the 24th instant with their children. Let every one know that after that date all children brought into the state will go under a daily inspection for two weeks."

The report of the committee to the conference, which was adopted, is an exhaustive one. It calls upon the United States public health service to take whatever steps are necessary to prevent the interstate spread of the disease. When a case is discovered the infected area is to be investigated and before persons under 16 years of age are removed therefrom the state health officer must be notified of the state of destination.

Other regulations adopted follows:

Permits to travel shall be void unless the journey shall begin within 24 hours.

Single permits shall not be issued for several persons except for family, or household goods coming from the same domicile.

The collection of fees by health officials from applicants for permits, whether resident or nonresident, should not be permitted.

The certificates of private physicians will not alone be sufficient basis for the issue of a permit to travel. Permits for interstate travel will be based on medical inspection.

Permits for interstate travel should be signed by an officer, of the United States public health officer, or by any officer authorized by the state health authority.

Children having clean bill of health must be kept under observation two weeks and those having the disease must be isolated six weeks. Funerals in case of death must be strictly private.

Where the disease is prevalent children must be prohibited from assembling in public places, and schools must not be opened without medical supervision by a health authority.

A general educational campaign for cleanliness and sanitation is directed.

Agents of common carriers should be prohibited from selling tickets for children unless they have health permits.

FORMER OAKLAND BOY HURT

Alton Cleveland, Son of W. O. Cleveland, Had Leg Broken at Fairmont.

Last Friday's Fairmont Times contained the following relative to a lad who was born in Oakland and removed to Fairmont with his parents a few years ago, the boy being the son of W. O. Cleveland and grandson of Mrs. James O. Cleveland, of Oakland.

Alton Cleveland, the eight year old son of W. O. Cleveland, was seriously injured today when struck by an automobile on Cleveland avenue. The child was rushed to Cook hospital where it was found that one of his legs was broken and that he was severely cut about the head. It is thought that he will recover.

The accident occurred shortly afternoon and the Cleveland boy was on his way to Russo's store to purchase fruit which he intended to sell from a stand at the Fair next week. He stepped from behind an ice wagon on Cleveland avenue near the fruit store, just as B. A. Michael, in a large automobile was passing down the street. The front wheel of the car struck the child knocking him down and running across his leg. Michael immediately stopped his car and rushed the boy to the hospital. Officer Boggess who saw the accident from the back windows of the City Hall rushed to the aid of the lad and Michael arranged a forfeit for his appearance before Mayor Bowen in the morning.

"Seeing The World."

The Ladies Aid Society of Friendsville will give an automobile trip around the world, on the second Saturday evening of September (Sept. 9, 1916.)

Refreshments will be served at seven different stations from 7 to 10 o'clock. The trains will start from Statler's, and end at the same place. Tickets will be sold at Statlers. Everybody come and have a good time.

OILING ROADS HEREABOUTS

Narrow Stretch and Savage Mountain Have Been Treated This Week.

The work of oiling the State road in Western Maryland is progressing rapidly under the direction of L. T. Downey, district engineer, and only a few detached stretches yet remain to be treated

The section of the road running through the Narrows at Cumberland, was completed Friday, and with good luck and favorable weather the workmen will finish the road all the way from Frostburg to two miles west of Johnson's this week. This will leave to be treated from Johnson's to the Pennsylvania state line about 17 miles. All of Little Savage has just been oiled, together, with a part of Big Savage, making about 3½ miles in all.

The truck was to be working now from the concrete at Accident to Oakland, a distance of 20 miles, but it has been delayed in getting here, so this work remains to be done.

By the first of September it is expected that every section of State road in this end of the State will have been oiled.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MRS. CYNTHIA BITTNER.

Mrs. Cynthia Bittner, aged 82, a native of Germany, and wife of the late Samuel Bittner, died at the home of her son, Urias Bittner, at Finzel, at 12 m. Friday. The survivors are two sons and one daughter. Geo. Bittner, Urias Bittner and Mrs. Baker, of Finzel.

MRS. MARY ELLA POTTER.

From an illness of less than a month and less than a week after the death of her infant daughter, in Providence, Rhode Island, at 4.30 Tuesday afternoon, August 22nd, 1916, Mary Ella, wife of Dr. Henry B. Potter, and daughter of Charles M. and Lizzie Lansdale Miller, recently of Swanton, Maryland.

BUCKNER MASON.

The death of Buckner Mason, aged 67 years, occurred at the Home Sanatorium in Oakland Saturday night after an illness of several months of kidney diseases. The deceased was brought to the local institution about four weeks ago from his home in the North Glade country, but the disease with which he was afflicted had made such inroads that it was impossible for his physicians to effect a cure, although everything known to medical science was done for the patient. Mr. Mason was born and reared in the county where he had many friends. He is survived by a large family of sons and daughters, all of whom are grown. He was an excellent citizen. His funeral occurred on Tuesday from his late home.

Family Reunion at Deer Park.

A reunion of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Frantz was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Ashby at Deer Park, on Sunday, Aug. 13th, 1916, celebrating the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frantz and the twenty fifth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ashby.

The family consisting of eleven children and twenty-one grand children all of whom were present, are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Ashby. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Warnick and daughter, of Deer Park; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Shaffer and family; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Frantz and family, of Rainelle, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Frantz and family, of Charleston, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Gribble and daughter Ethel and W. B. Frantz, of Clarksburg, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Frantz and family; Mrs. Thomas G. Travis, and son Gettie, of Fairmont, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Chisholm and famils, of Friendsville; and J. A. Frantz, of Akron, Ohio.

A family dinner was served at one o'clock in the spacious dining room which was artistically decorated in white and gold wedding bells. The table, at which about fifty relatives and guests were seated was laden with all the good things of the season and had for its center piece a bride's bouquet of yellow roses and a large wedding cake surrounded by lighted gold and silver candles. Artistic place cards, carrying out the color scheme of gold and white, were used.

During the afternoon several delightful solos and duets were rendered by Prof. Romine and W. B. Frantz, both of whom are possessed of unusual vocal talent, while Miss Ethel Gribble presided at the piano.

Following the music the entire group was photographed by a photographer from Oakland.

This being the first time the entire family have been together for more than twenty years it was a happy occasion and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Besides the family the other guests present were Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Smouse and son Frank and Rev. McCamic, of Deer Park; Miss Minnie Chisholm, of Germania; Mr. Harrison Arnold, of Clarksburg, and Prof. Romine, of Boston, Mass.

NEWSPAPERS FACE A VERY SERIOUS PROBLEM

High Price And Shortage of Paper Threaten Life of Many of Them.

[From the Manufacturer's Record]

The price of paper, which has advanced from 100 to 200 per cent. or more over prices prevaling a year ago, seriously threatens the life of a large number of publications throughout the country and greatly lessens the profit of others.

It is doubtful if any other large industry in the United States has had to face so serious a situation, because when prices of raw material have advanced the manufacturers of the finished products have advanced their prices and thus thrown the burden on the ultimate consumer. In the newspaper business this has not yet been done. The newspapers, from the largest dailies to the smallest weeklies, have been bearing the burden which to many publications will mean complete destruction and to others the wiping out of all profit.

Had the newspapers of the country been as prompt to defend their own interests as they have the interests of others, they, too, would have undertaken to save themselves by an advance in subscription prices and in advertising rates. Under existing conditions they will be forced to do this sooner or later, and they cannot postpone it much longer without serious financial embarrassment to many of them. Hundreds of the smaller weeklies, including the religious papers, which have had but a very narrow margin between loss and profit, will, we fear, suffer most seriously, and many of them disastrously, unless the public promply recognizes the situation and accepts an advance in subscription and in advertising rates and thus saves the situation.

The day laborer, the mechanic, the farmer and nearly all business interests, manufacturing and mercantile, under the activity of the times are showing larger earning than for years. But the newspapers, as a whole, are meeting a more preplexing problem in the doubling, and in some cases the trebling of the price of paper, and in the absolute inability to contract in advance for supplies, than they have ever had to face before. The statements which have recently appeard in the daily papers on the subject do not at all exaggerate the seriouness of the problem.

The man who makes money in a community has a duty to perform to that community. It may be he has made his money by his superior business ability, and that he would have done as well anywhere. That does not alter the case. If his gifts are great his responsibility is equally as great. No man was placed on earth for the sole purpose of making money, and the man who has this as his ideal had better never have been born. It is not an act of charity, but the performance of a simple duty for the man who has made money to pass a little of it on for the benefit of the community, even though he never expects to see a dollar of his contribution back.

MR. WILSON HAS HAD NO MEXICAN POLICY.

"We cannot let the American spirit fall so low that, lapped in the luxury occasioned by a foreign war, we shall see American lives sacrificed without a determination to prevent it and to make the American name honored and respected wherever our flag flies. The trouble with this administration is this: I don't think it ever has had a policy in Mexico worthy of the name."—From Mr. Hughes' Speech at Chicago.

MR. HUGHES HAS EXPLODED THE "KEPT US OUT OF WAR" ARGUMENT.

Mr. Hughes' attack upon the "kept-us-out-of-war" argument has aroused a storm of enthusiasm.

"Kept us out of war!" he demands. "Why, there were nineteen men—good American soldiers, shot down at Vera Cruz, and Many Mexicans were killed by our men. That was war. Moreover, it was a very ignoble war. I have heard three explanations of the Vera Cruz move.

"First, it was explained that it was made in order to compel somebody to salute the flag—somebody who had insulted us. But the flag was not saluted and has not been to this day. Then it was said that the salute was not what we sought, but to prevent the landing of a boatload of ammunition intended for Huerta. The ammunition landed, however, and it has been shown that it reached Huerta in due season without interference on our part.

"When that reason was shown to be untenable a third one—and possibly the real one—finally was advanced. It was said that our seizure of Vera Cruz was a move to compel the retirement of Huerta. It seems possible that this is true, although we had promised the Mexicans that we would not interfere in their affairs and told them more than once that we wanted them to handle their own affairs.

"That is why the Mexicans could not understand us and that is why they show little faith in our promises."

MANANA.

Manana, which is Mexican for "watchful waiting," is the Democratic keynote in the campaign. The Wilson drive is to begin "some time" after Sept. 1, but no definite engagements have been made, it is announced, for him to commence making political speeches. He has tentative engagements to make some western visits about the middle of September, but nothing positive. Plans are being formulated for carrying on a campaign to capture the woman vote of the country, but who will make the speeches on this phase of the controversy has not been determined. It has been expected that Mr. Bryan would speak in the Maine campaign, but it is now believed he cannot do so, but will make some speeches later. And so it goes. Watchful waiting will prevail, while in the meantime Mr. Hughes is carrying on a positive campaign and arousing the entire western country.

"I don't care, if I am elected president, what becomes of my personal political fortunes. I propose that we shall have no more, if I can stop it, of these 'kiss me and I'll kiss you' appropriations in Congress."—From Mr. Hughes' Speech at Chicago.

SOUTH-IN-SADDLE IN NAVY.

Out of the 17 Ranking Officers In Charge of Naval Affairs 12 Are From South.

To Josephus Daniels, who has represented the Administration's Policy with regard to the first line defense, is credited responsibility for cramping and thwarting progress and efficiency in the navy.

Many new men have been brought into the Washington end of the navy organization. Of the seventeen high ranking officers who are charged with the responsible duties of administering the affairs of the navy twelve are from the Southern states. In years gone by necessity did not arise to question from what section come the officers chosen to head the bureaus of the Navy Department. Comparisions between the army and navy in this respect will show that no such conditions exist in the war Department.

It is true, as Vice President Marshall remarked, that the Hughes speech of acceptance "had all the length and tone of a dissenting opinion." But he omitted to add that the dissenting opinion thus expressed is that of the American people.

WE WANT THE AMERICAN FLAG UNSULLIED.

"Now, my friends, we want not only American efficiency in business, in efficiency in the organization of business, in the protection of the factors of human industry and commerce, we want the American flag unsullied and the American name honored throughout the world."—From Mr. Hughes' Speech at Chicago.

THE FAIR PROGRAM.

Unusual Interest Being Taken in Exhibits Many Exceptional Ones Promised.

The interest being taken by farmers, stockmen and people generally in the coming Fair at Oakland, exceeds by far that of any previous year and the event promises to be better than any former exhibition.

The addition of a clean and highly entertaining carnival, carrying ten or more tent shows with a splendid brass band, the splendid free act of Sensational Smithson, which has thrilled Fair audiences in the west for seveal years past, is sure to be appreciated by the patrons of the Fair. His act in spanning a space high up in the air of from twenty-five to thirty feet on his bicycle and between two narrow tracks is sure to be worth going miles to see. His equal as a thriller has never been found.

The daily program as arranged and published in the catalogue will be as follows:

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY
Entrance Examinations
State Scholarship in Engineering Courses

Entrance Examinations for the Department of Engineering, as well as for the College of Arts and Sciences, will be held in the Academic Building of the Johns Hopkins University, Homewood, Baltimore, September 18-21, 1916, beginning at 9 a. m. each day.

Application For Scholarships in The Department of Engineering, established in the Johns Hopkins University under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, may now be made. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, a competitive examination must be taken in the Academic Building, Homewood, on September 22, 1916, beginning at 9 a. m.

Each County of the State and each Legislative District of Baltimore City, with the exception of Charles, Harford, and Queen Anne's Counties will be entitled to one or more scholarships for the year 1916-17, in addition to those which have already been assigned. In the three counties mentioned above all the available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City scholarships in the Department of Engineering are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted to them. The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text-books, and exemption from all regular fees. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is no greater than at other Maryland institutions.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, Maryland Agricultural College, Mt. St. Mary's College; and one scholarship will be awarded "At Large."

Applicants should address the Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University, for blank forms of application and for further information as to examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction.

FOR A MERCHANT MARINE WITHOUT FEDERAL COMPETITION.

Again, we must build up our merchant marine. It will not aid to put the government into competition with private owners. That, it seems to me, is a counsel of folly. A surer way of destroying the promise of our foreign trade could hardly be devised. It has well been asked, "Does the government intend to operate at a profit or at a loss? We need the encouragement and protection of government for our shipping industry, but it cannot afford to have the government as a competitor.—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

DECRYING INTERFERENCE, WE INTERFERED IN MEXICO EXASPERATINGLY.

The dealings of the administration with Mexico constitute a confused chapter of blunders. We have not helped Mexico. She lies prostrate, impoverished, famine stricken, overwhelmed with the woes and outrages of internecine strife, the helpless victim of a condition of anarchy which the course if the administration only served to promote. For ourselves, we have witnessed the murder of our citizens and the destruction of their property. We have made enemies, not friends. Instead of commanding respect and deserving good will by sincerity, firmness and consistency, we provoked misapprehension and deep resentment. In the light of the conduct of the administration no one could understand its professions. Decrying interference, we interfered most exasperatingly. We have not even kept out of active conflict, and the soil of Mexico is stained with the blood of our soldiers. We have resorted to physical invasion only to retire without gaining the professed object. It is a record which cannot be examined without a profound sense of humiliation.—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

The president had boldly signed the Pork river and harbor bill, and his facile pen is dripping with ink eager to attach itself to a pork public buildings bill.

The friendliest apologists of the president's part in the profligate waste of money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation have nothing better to say for him than that it is hardly fair to expect a man to say "I forbid!" in his presidential year when he is a candidate.

The foregoing words describing the profligate waste of the people's money with executive approval are taken without change from a plank of the platform on which Woodrow Wilson was elected in 1912:

"We denounce the profligate waste of money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriations of recent Republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and reduced the purchasing power of the people's toil. We demand a return so that simplicity and economy which befits a democratic government."

How much is now left of the principles declared and the promises registered at Baltimore as inducements to citizens to vote for Wilson.

Possibly it is because he and his party have been such reckless, such wholesale repudiators of the pledges of 1912 that few people remember or care to remember what pledges were made in his behalf about forty days ago at St. Louis.—New York Sun.

THE AMERICAN WORKING MAN SHALL NOT SUFFER

The Republican party stands for the principle of protection. We must apply that principle fairly, without abuses, in as scientific a manner as possible; and congress should be aided by the investigations of an expert body. We stand for the safeguarding of our economic independence, for the development of American industry, for the maintenance of American standards of living. We propose that in the competitive struggle that is about to come the American workingman shall not suffer.—From Mr. Hughes' Speech of Acceptance.

Strict accountability.
Too proud to fight.

Are You Wasting The Price Of a Titan Engine?

TITAN engines run on kerosene.

Average cost of gasoline so far this year, 16.9 cents per gallon.

Average cost of kerosene 7.7 cents per gallon.

Gasoline costs over 100 per cent more than kerosene. Gasoline is going up steadily. Kerosene is not.

At present fuel prices Titan engines, using kerosene, save their owners about 1.1 cents per horse power per hour.

Are you running a gasoline engine? What horse power is it? Figure what you'd be saving if you had a Titan kerosene engine. Rather surprising, isn't it? How long would it take that saving to pay for a Titan engine of the same size?

U-BOATS SINK BRITISH CRUISERS

Nottingham and Falmouth Sent to Bottom by Germans in North Sea Fight

ONE SUBMARINE DESTROYED

London.—Two British light cruisers, the Nottingham and the Falmouth, were sunk in the North Sea by German submarines while the vessels were searching for the German High Seas Fleet, according to an official announcement issued by the Admiralty.

One German submarine was destroyed by the British, while another was rammed and possibly sunk, according to the Admiralty statement, which reads:

Reports from our lookout squadrons and other units showed that there was considerable activity on the part of the enemy in the North Sea Saturday, the 19th. The German High Seas Fleet came out, but, learning from their scouts that the British forces were in considerable strength, the enemy avoided an engagement and returned to port.

In searching for the enemy we lost two cruisers by submarine attacks—H. M. S. Nottingham, Captain C. B. Miller, and H. M. S. Falmouth, Captain John Edwards.

All the officers of the former were saved, but thirty-eight of the crew are missing. All the officers and men of the Falmouth were saved, but one leading stoker, Norman Fry, died of injuries.

An enemy submarine was destroyed and another was rammed and possibly sunk. There is no truth in the German statement that a British destroyer and a British battleship damaged.

The presence in the North Sea of a German squadron of some fifteen warships, including large cruisers, was previously reported by trawlers arriving at Ymuiden, Holland, a Reuter dispatch from that point says. The squadron was sighted in the region of White Bank, and was accompanied by two Zeppelins. It was taking a northwesterly course.

ALLIES CAPTURE 3-MILE FRONT

London.—A new blow, for which the French and British artillery has been preparing the way for more than two days, was struck against the German front both north and south of the Somme. As a result Teuton trenches were carried on a two-mile front on both sides of the village of Maurepas to a depth of from 350 to 600 yards, while south of the river the German line three-quarters of a mile in length was seized by the French.

These successes, which mark the opening of the fourth phase of the bloody struggle in Picardy, have enabled the Allies to penetrate at points the Guillemont-Maurepas road, besides giving them complete control of the highway from Maurepas to Clery.

The village of Maurepas itself is practically in their hands. Surrounded on three sides, and with French troops engaging the Germans in the outskirts, its complete capture is expected at any moment. The hamlet is one of the foundation stones of the German defense in this region, each house having been separately fortified and each barn a small arsenal.

These attacks, coming on the heels of declaration from Germany that the Allied offensive in Picardy was definitely halted, and that the German lines could never be broken, are taken here to indicate that the French and British are determined at all costs to keep up their desperate offensive.

Heavy losses were inflicted on the Germans, the official statement issued in Paris says, while a large number of prisoners, the total of which has not yet been reported, were captured.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

Continuing their attacks north of the Somme, the French scored another success, capturing a strongly fortified wood between Guillemont and Maurepas, it was announced officially in Paris.

The French artillery continues to pound the German line along the whole Somme front.

On the Verdun front the Germans made vigorous efforts to retake the village of Fleury, from which they were driven. Several attacks were made, but all of them failed. Other attacks in the region of Thiaumont met with a similar fate.

Gen Cadorna's big guns continue without pause to batter the heights east of Gorizia to clear the way to Trieste.

The supreme test between Russians and Teutons in the Carpathians has begun. A battle of unprecedented ferocity is raging in and around the Jablonica, or Tartar Pass. The initiative continues on Russian side.

The Muscovites, "continuing their advance," in the words of the Petrograd official report, "approached the summits of the mountains in the vicinity of Kerosmezo." This places the Russians already inside of Hungary.

INSPECTING HIGHWAY MAINTENANCE SYSTEM

Commissioner Rogers, of Michigan, Going Over Roads In State.

Coming to Baltimore for the purpose of investigating the state highway maintenance system of Maryland, State Highway Commissioner Frank F. Rogers, of Michigan, is being piloted over the state roads in Southern Maryland by Chairman Zouck, Commissioner Uhl and Chief Engineer Shirley, of the State Roads Commission. It was expected that the Florida and Illinois Commissioner would make the trip also, but after coming to Baltimore last night they were forced to leave for home this morning.

Mr. Rogers was taken to Southern Maryland because he is especially interested in gravel roads, and most of the gravel roads built by the commission are located in that part of the state. However, down in that section he will be able to see stretches of every other type of road Maryland has adopted.

Michigan is the only state in the Union wherein the Highway Commissioner is elected by the votes of the people. In all of the other states such officials are appointed. Mr. Rogers was Deputy Highway Commissioner in his state for eight years, when the commissioner was appointed. After the law making it an appointive office was changed he was elected for a four-year term, which expires next spring.

Thursday morning before starting on the Southern Maryland trip, which will not be completed until tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Rogers said that the patrol maintenance system of Maryland is attracting attention throughout the country and that he is especially anxious to familiarize himself with its workings.

"The Maryland maintenance system is unique," said Mr. Rogers, "in that so far as I know, it is the only one that contemplates a continuous building up of roads. In other words, you have put into effect in this state a system of perpetual maintenance which means that the roads not only are to be kept in the condition they were in when completed, but that they actually are to be made better. I shall have a good deal to say about your system when I get back home."

"And have you seen any of the Maryland roads yet?"

"Yes; with Mr. Shirley I traveled over the Frederick road yesterday. It is beautiful, magnificent! I am highly pleased with it. If the rest of your roads are as good as that is, I shall be fully prepared to believe everything I have heard about Maryland's state road system."

Mr. Rogers says that Michigan has built 4,200 miles of improved roads within the last 11 years. About 60 per cent. of the roads are built of gravel, 25 per cent. of waterbound macadam and the remainder of concrete, sand and clay and a combination of macadam and gravel. All the work is done under state-aid system and there is no such thing in Michigan as a state system. However, larger contributions are made toward the building of roads that will link themselves into a system.

The Michigan roadf, Mr. Rogers said, cost from $2,000 a mile for gravel construction up to $6,500 or $7,500 for macadam, depending entirely upon the width and type of construction. Grading, which constitutes an important item in the construction of Maryland roads, costs very little in Michigan, owing to the level character of the country.

Some of the Michigan roads are but 9 feet in width, some run as high as 16 or 18 feet. But 6 inches of stone are used on macadam roads. In Maryland all macadam roads are 8 inches thick. This accounts, in part, for the difference in cost between the Maryland and the Michigan roads.

BITTINGER.

No principal teacher having been appointed for the Bittinger school for the approaching season the trustees will be glad to consider applications for the position from all who will apply by letter or in person before Sept. 1st.

The Sunday school picnic held in this village last Saturday was a very pleasant affair and was largely attended. The weather was ideal and all report having had a pleasant time.

B. H. Wiley, of Oakland, and Miss Louise Beckman, of North Glade, were among those who attended the picnic here.

Three touringcars, carrying a company of eighteen persons, arrived here last Thursday evening, having been driven all the way from Akron, Ohio, without serious mishap. The party were the children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Bittinger and will remain with friends and relatives here for a couple of weeks.

Earl Brenneman was slightly injured a few days ago when the motorcycle, upon which he was riding, was overturned while descending a steep hill near Jennings.

John L. Beachy and family, of Fort Hill, Pa., and George Yommer, of Somerset, Pa., were among those who tarried with relatives after the picnic on Saturday.

PROCLAMATION

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND CREATING A BUDGET SYSTEM.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1916, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 159 of said Acts, being an Act to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, "Legislative Department," of the Constitution of this State; and which said Act is in words and figures following:

"CHAPTER 159.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, regulating the making of appropriations by the General Assembly of Maryland in regular session, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 52 of Article III of the Constitution of Maryland.

Sec. 52. The General Assembly shall not appropriate any money out of the Treasry except in accordance with the followin provisions:

Sub-Section A:

Every appropriation bill shall be either a Budget Bill, or a Supplementary Appropriation Bill, as hereinafter mentioned.

Sub-Section B:

First. Within twenty days after the convening of the General Assembly (except in the case of a newly elected Governor, and then within thirty days after his inauguration,) unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly for the session at which the Budget is to be submitted, the Governor shall submit to the General Assembly two budgets, one for each of the ensuing fiscal years. Each budget shall contain a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the particular fiscal year to which it relates; and shall show the estimated surplus or deficit of revenues at the end of such year. Accompanying each budget shall be a statement showing: (1) the revenues and expenditures for each of the two fiscal years next preceding: (2) the current assets, liabilities, reserves and surplus or deficit of the State; (3) the debts and funds of the State; (4) an estimate of the State's financial condition as of the beginning and end of each of the fiscal years covered by the two budgets above provided; (5) any explanation the Governor may desire to make as to the important features of any budget and any suggestion as to methods for the reduction or increase of the state's revenue.

Second. Each budget shall be divided into two parts, and the first part shall be designated "Governmental Appropriations" and shall embrace an itemized estimate of the appropriations: (1) for the General Assembly as certified to the Governor in the manner hereinafter provided; (2) for the Executive Department; (3) for the Judiciary Department, as provided by law, certified to the Governor by the Comptroller; (4) to pay and discharge the principal and interest of the debt of the State of Maryland in conformity with Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, and all laws enacted in pursuance thereof; (5) for the salaries payable by the State under Constitution and laws of the State; (6) for the establishment and maintenance throughout the State of a thorough and efficient system of public schools in conformity with Article VIII of the Constitution and with the laws of the State; (7) for such other purposes as are set forth in the Constitution of the State.

Third. The second part shall be designated "General Appropriations," and shall include all other estimates of appropriations.

The Governor shall deliver to the presiding officer of each house the budgets and a bill for all the proposed appropriations of the budgets clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each house shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein, and such bill shall be known as the "Budget Bill." The Governor may, before final action thereon by the General Assembly, amend or supplement either of said budgets to correct an oversight or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the General Assembly by delivering such an amendment or supplement to the presiding officers of both houses; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as a modification of or a substitute for any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may affect.

The General Assembly shall not amend the budget bill so as to affect either the obligations of the State under Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, or the provisions made by the laws of the State for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools, or the payment of any salaries required to be paid by the State of Maryland by the Constitution thereof; and the General Assembly may amend the bill by increasing or diminishing the items therein relating to the General Assembly and by increasing the items therein relating to the judiciary, but except as hereinbefore specified, may not alter the said bill except to strike out or reduce items therein provided, however, that the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be decreased during his term of office; and such bill when and as passed by both houses shall be a law immediately without further action by the Governor.

Fourth. The Governor and such representatives of the executive departments, boards, officers and commissions of the State expending or supplying for State's money, as have been designated by the Governor for this purpose, shall have the right, and when requested by either house of the Legislature, it shall be their duty to appear and be heard with respect to any budget bill during the consideration thereof, and to answer inquiries relative thereto.

Sub-Section C: Supplementary Appropriation Bills:

Neither house shall consider other appropriations until the Budget Bill has been finally acted upon by both houses, and no such other appropriation shall be valid except in accordance with the provisions following: (1) Every such appropriation shall be embodied in a separate bill limited to some single work, object or purdose therein stated and called herein a Supplementary Appropriation Bill; (2) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall provide the revenue necessary to pay the appropriation thereby made by a tax, direct or indirect, to be laid and collected as shall be directed in said Bill. (3) No Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall become a law unless it be passed in each house by a vote of a majority of the whole number of the members elected, and in the yeas and nays recorded on its final passage. (4) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall be presented to the Governor of the State as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution and thereafter all the provisions of said Section shall apply.

Nothing in this amendment shall be construed as preventing the Legislature from passing at any time in accordance with the provisions of Section 28 of Article III of the Constitution and subject to the Governor's power of approval as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution an appropriation bill to provide for the payment of any obligation of the State of Maryland within the protection of Section 10 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

Sub-Section D: General Provisions:

First. If the Budget Bill shall not have been finally acted upon by the Legislature three days before the expiration of its regular session, the Governor may, and it shall be his duty to issue a proclamation extending the session for such further period as may, in his judgment, be necessary for the passage of such Bill; but no other matter than such Bill shall be considered during such extended session except a provision for the cost thereof.

Second. The Governor for the purpose of making up his budgets shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to require from the proper State Officials, including herein all executive departments, all executive and administrative offices, bureaus boards, commissions and agencies expending or supervising the expenditure of, and all institutions applying for State moneys and appropriations, such itemized estimates and other information, in such form and at such times as he shall direct. The estimates for the Legislative Department, certified by the presiding officer of each house, of the Judiciary, as provided by law, certified by the Comptroller, and for the public schools, as provided by law shall be transmitted to the Governor, in such form and at such times as he shall direct, and shall be included in the budget without revision.

The Governor may provide for public hearings on all estimates and may require the attendance at such hearings of representatives of all agencies, and of all institutions applying for State moneys. After such public hearings he may, in his discretion, revise all estimates except those for the legislative and judiciary departments and for the public schools as provided by law.

Third. The Legislature may, from time to time, enact such laws, not inconsistent with this Section, as may be necessary and proper to carry out it provisions.

Fourth. In the event of any inconsistency between any of the provisions of this Section and any of the other provisions of the Constitution, the provisions of this Section shall prevail. But nothing herein shall in any manner affect the provisions of Section 34 of Article III of the Constution or of any laws heretofore or hereafter passed in pursuance thereof, or be construed as preventing the Governor from calling extraordinary sessions of the Legislature, as provided by Section 16 of Article II, or as preventing the Legislature at such extraordinary sessions from considering any emergency appropriations.

If any item of any appropriation bill passed under the provisions of this Section shall be held invalid upon any ground, such invalidity shall not affect the legality of the Bill or of any other item of such Bill or Bills.

Section 2. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said foregoing Section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution shall at the next ensuing general election, being the Presidential and Congressional election, being the Presidential and Congressional, election, to be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, in the nineteen hundred and sixteen, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection in conformity with the directions contained in Article XVI of this State, and at said election the vote on said proposed amendment to the constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be placed the following synopsis of said amendment under the caption of 'CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROVIDING FOR A BUDGET.'

"This amendment provides that the Governor shall present to the Legislature soon after it is convened a Budget giving a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the two succeeding fiscal years showing clearly any surplus or deficit in State funds. In these estimates he shall make provision for the interest and sinking funds of all State debts, for all salaries as fixed by law, and for the public schools as fixed by law. With regard to most other matters he may revise the estimates presented to him either by State Officers or State-aided institutions. The Legislature may not increase the estimates presented by the Governor or pass any additional appropriation act except by a majority vote and must make provision by tax for such increase or additional appropriation. The Legislature may not alter in any appropriation act the provision made by law for the State debt, or for the judiciary, but may reduce all other items in the Governor's estimates; and the words 'for the Constitutional Amendment' and 'against the Constitutional Amendment' as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote in accordance with Article XVI of the Constitution.

Approved March 28, 1916."

Now, therefore, I, Emerson C. Harrington, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct a copy of this Proclamation, containing a full, true and correct copy of the text of said Chapter 159 of the Acts of Maryland of 1916, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore to be printed in the German language, once a week for three months next preceding the General Election to be held in this State on November 7th, 1916, and at which election the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be submitted, in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

DETROIT'S IMPRESSIONS OF A MAN.

Governor Hughes' visit to Detroit opened the presidential campaign of 1916, and if we may forecast the events that are to follow by the omens of Monday we would prognosticate an intensely warm, vivid and humanly interesting period in the next few months.

Setting aside the auspices of meteorological conditions in this prevision of the future—although they are approved by numerous professional augurs and by a host of commonalty as well—we base this prophecy on the characteristics of the candidate whose too brief stay with us has been enjoyed by all with whom he came into contact.

The misguided individuals who have been expecting Charles E. Hughes would prove to be a cold proposition and therefore easy to beat are in for a shock that will make them think they have been hit by an uninsulated trolley wire. There is nothing cold about Mr. Hughes, Detroit has learned. He is about as intensely human a piece of humanity as ever captured the hearts of a crowd, and the more people in the United States he meets between now and November the more votes will be cast for him. As a campaigner he is a revelation. He likes his fellow beings, and they like him because they see he likes them.

And what his personality begins his remarkable powers of intellect and utterance finish. He drives his points home with tremendous force. What he says sticks. There are thousands of Americans today who can retell every step in the arguments he made eight years ago on the Bryan trust policy, yet in 1908 Mr. Hughes was not especially a prominent figure and there was no particular reason why his address more than others should have remained clearly in the memory except the gift of the man to send his own thoughts so deep into the brains of others. They are clear in his own mind first, undoubtedly. He knows precisely what he wants to say because he has reasoned it out before he speaks it out. Probably that has something to do with the ease with which he conveys his meaning. But it is a very rare quality he possesses in his ability to master subjects so thoroughly as to make the most abstruse simple to himself and his hearers. It is a quality eminently desirable in a political candidate. It is infinitely more to be desired in the president of a great country like the United States.

Detroit's impression of Charles E. Hughes is all favorable. The thousands of people who have studied him at close range are convinced that if he is elected president next November he will be a great president, one of the greatest this nation has known, worthy to stand in history with George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, a custodian of the republic's fate to whom that fate may confidently be intrusted. If that conviction is shared by the people of other states whom he is still to meet the outcome of his swing around the great American circle cannot fail to be propitious for him.—Detroit Free Press.

CRELLIN

Mr. Whipp and Mr. White, of this place, motored to Morgantown and Uniontown Saturday, returning Sunday afternoon. They report a very nice trip.

Mrs. Cleve Ashby, of Horton, West Va., is visiting her father, Mr. Charles Edwards.

Mr. Chas. Ream and family motored to Kingwood Sunday and spent the day with Mr. C. F. Hammond.

Mr. Albert Ashby and family were visiting his father, R. T. Ashby, on Sunday.

Mr. Rolland Schoch of this place, purchased a new Briscoe roadster. The girls will all be on the lookout now.

Arthur Beachy and wife, of Pittsburgh, are visiting John Foreman.

M. M. Hann and Mr. Tobis Kilmer was visiting Mr. Dorsey L. Ashby of near here yesterday.

The boys of Crellin are making big preparations for their annual picnic on Saturday of this week. They have good encouragement from all over the country that they will have a large crowd. They have been fortunate in securing a twenty-five piece band from Pierce, W. Va. Hon. Frederick N. Zihlman and other noted speakers will be present. There will be six coaches on the excursion from Shaffer.

The State surveyors have been surveying on the proposed new state road route the past week.

Mr. Jas. Lipscomb an employee of the Kendall Lumber Company at Shaffer, W. Va., when trying to get on a log car at Shaffer, fell between the cars, one truck passing over his body. He only lived about four hours after the accident, Mr. Lipscomb was about forty years old.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

I. O. O. F. REUNION.

Saturday next special trains will carry thousands of excursionists to Mountain Lake Park from Martinsburg in the east, and Parkersburg and Wheeling in the west. It is the occasion of the reunion of the Odd Fellows of West Virginia and Maryland. Able speakers are to be present. Great games of baseball are booked, bands of music will be on hand and a drill by the Clarksburg Daughter of Rebekah in the afternoon. The day will be full of pleasure and good humor. The program is the greatest ever pulled off at Mountain Lake Park.

A. J. Wilkinson, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of West Virginia, will preside, Hon. J. J. Cornwell will be the orator of the day. In the evening there will be a splendid entertainment, "Scenes and Songs from Shakesperean Plays," by Lina Henning Sherman, Prof. Patterson, Thomas B. Foulk, Flora A. Williams and others, given in the amphitheatre. Wherever given this entertainment has won great applause and enthusiastic press notices.

At night there will be a "Grand Pagent of Peace and War," accompanied by music, tableaux, procession, etc.

Do not miss this great day in the Park.

Commissioners Meeting.

Office of the County Commissioners for Garrett county, Oakland, Md., August 24th, 1916.

The Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, Maryland, will meet in their office in the town of Oakland, on Monday, September 11th, 1916,

to transact routine business.

By order of the Board.

W. G. MEYERS, Clerk.

It was stated that the president would work on his acceptance speech during his week end trip on the Mayflower. Among the salt billows there should be some inspiration for ringing sentiments on naval preparedness.

Now that Mr. Hughes knows he has been nominated for president we may wait patiently a few days longer to hear what Mr. Wilson has to say about it.

The psychologist who said that anybody can be hypnotized offers the most encouragement that Carranza has yet found for his hopes of borrowing money.

MR. HUGHES OPPOSED TO FOOLISH GOVERNMENT.

"I have no respect for the idea that because democratic government is a government of the people, by the people and for the people it is a government of the foolish, for the foolish and by the foolish."—From Mr. Hughes' Speech at Chicago.

AMERICA'S NEED.

In America we have had so much material prosperity, we have indulged ourselves in so much luxury, that we have lost the spiritual vision of our pilgrim fathers. I say this in full recognition of the magnificent beneficence of generous philanthropists and the noble work which has been done in uplifting the sinful and the unfortunate. But as a nation we need a new spiritual awakening. I speak only that which is in the minds of many thoughtful men, when I say that the greatest need of America today and its only antidote against the poison of Socialism is a great revival of religion which will turn the minds of men away from the consideration of these minor social evils to a contemplation of their relations with the Almighty.—Alba B. Johnson, President of New England Society of Philadelphia.

SODA GLASSES TO GO SEPTEMBER FIRST

Strict Measures Against Infantile Paralysis.

The new ruling of the State Board of Health that soda water containers must not be used a second time or by different persons will be rigorously enforced after September 1. The health authorities claim that rinsing glasses in tunning water is not sufficient to cleanse them, and after September 1 paper cups must be used at all soda fountains in Maryland. This rule is to prevent any possible spreading of infantile paralysis among children, who are great consumers of soda water. Any person violating this act will be subject to a fine not to exceed $600.

The State Board of Health issued two travel orders, designed to prevent the importation of infantile paralysis in effect from August 26. The first provides that persons 16 years of age and under, temporarily residing in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, or any other state where infantile paralysis is epidemic or unusually prevalent, desiring to return to Maryland must be provided with the official travel permit or certificate of the public health service.

Children returning home, even with such permits, will be quarantined in their homes and subject to medical observation for fourteen days after the date of their certificate.

The second order provides that, from August 26, the local health authorities may not grant to any child, of 16 years or under, a permit to enter New York, New Jersey or Pennsylvania or other states in which infantile paralysis prevails, unless the person applying intends to make his permanent residence in that state. Children residing in Maryland, whose places of employment are in another state, may be allowed to go to and from under limited permits, which must be renewed weekly. Permits will in no case be granted when the object of a visit to a state where infantile paralysis prevails is instruction, recreation or pleasure.

RAILWAYS OF THE UNITED STATES

Two-thirds as Much Mileage as Rest of World.

Illuminating figures setting forth the extent, amount of business handled, the vast capital invested and the importance of railway systems of the United States compared with those of other nations are given in a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society from Washington headquarters:

"With its more than a quarter of a million miles (257,569) June 30, 1915, the United States not only leads every other nation in the world but exceeds by 50,000 miles the total railway mileage of Europe. In fact, it has two-thirds as much mileage as all the rest of the world combined. The length of tracks, including switches and sidings, reaches the enormous total of 391,000 miles—enough to reach from the earth to the moon and with a surplus sufficient to girdle the globe six times. Over these tracks 65,000 locomotives are operated, drawing 2,327,000 cars. If all these cars were converted into grain carriers and were placed at the disposal of the farmers of the country the entire 1915 wheat crop of more than a billion bushels could have been moved at once and not employed more than one third the total tonnage capacity.

"The average number of employes of all the railroads in the United States whose annual operating revenues amounted to $100,000 or more last year was 1,409,342, the number of miles of road coming under this classification being about 225,000. The total compensation paid these employes was $1,165,000,000, an amount exceeding the total revenues of the United States government for 1913-14 by more than a hundred and twenty million dollars. The average annual wage of railway employes is therefore, $826.

"Among the railway employes in 1914 the largest average daily compensation went to general officers, $16.06, with other officers ranking second, $6.48. Third in line of average daily compensation were the enginemen, $5.24, followed by conductors, $4.47. The lowest wage was to the trackmen, a daily average of $1.59. In every class save one (employes—account floating equipment) the compensation for 1914 was more than in 1913, the largest daily increase going to the general offices (39 cents) with firemen ranking next (9 cents), and conductors third (8 cents.)

"For the twelve months ending June 30, 1915, our railroads carried 976,000,000 passengers, 85,000,000 fewer than during the previous twelve months. These travelers paid the roads $546,000,000, about 66 cents each and the average receipts per passenger were a fraction under two cents. The number of tons of revenue producing freight handled was 1,802,000,000, for which shippers paid the roads $1,977,000,000. The average freight rate per ton mile for these shipments was a little less than three-quarters of a cent.

"The total railway operating revenues for the year amounted to $2,956,000,000, with operating expenses of $2,088,000,000.

The railway capital of the United States actually outstanding on June 30th, 1915 ($19,717,000,000), was equal to 44 per cent. of the total indebtedness of all the nations of the earth, computed prior to the outbreak of the European war. It is a sum representing more than 10 per cent. of the total wealth of the country, and equal to the wealth of Belgium, Spain and the Netherlands combined."

A Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Glotfelty entertained a number of guests at their home near Oakland, Wednesday evening in honor of their daughter Margaret's 18th Birthday. Those present were: Misses Ada and Florence Wensell, Naomi and Dessie Lohr, Mattie Browning, Lucie Spiker, Daisy Nines, Martha Glotfelty, Manona and Wandelle Thayer, and Mrs. Wm. Ewing, of Thomas, W. Va.; Messrs. Pete and Avin Brenninger, Adrian and Hiram Glotfelty, William Dodge, Ernest Gortner, Jake Yutzy, Harland Browning, Floyd Wensell, Reverdy Beckman, Michael Kildow; Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Thayer, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Beckman, Mr. and Mrs. Russel Beckman.

Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake, candy, fruit and other delacacies were served at a late hour. The birthday cake was baked to represent a pyramid and decorated with 18 candles.

Miss Glotfelty was the recipient of many beautiful as well as useful presents. A GUEST.

Glotfelty Family Reunion.

A reunion of the entire Glotfelty clan has been planned and arranged for Sunday, September 10th, at the farm of Mr. Mahlon Glotfelty near McHenry, at which time and place every family connection as well as their friends are invited and expected to be present. The Glotfelty family is a large one and with all its members present a large crowd will be there to enjoy a pleasant day.

We have received this morning a newsy communication from our Bloomington correspondent, but unfortunately too late for publication in this issue. It will appear next week.

GARRETT COUNTY DAY AT MT. LAKE PARK

Well Known Speakers Are Expected to be Present and a Splendid Time Assured.

Saturday of this week is Garrett County Day at Mountain Lake Park, plans for which have been under way for several weeks past with the assurance that a roval good time will be had by all who may be fortunate enough to be at the Park upon that day.

The program as outlined by Manager Rudisill, will be as follows:

A game of base ball between two excellent and well-known teams of ball players. The Garrett county boys thus far during the season have been winners and they should be on Saturday.

Addresses will be made by Dr. Joseph Irwin France, Republican candidate for United States Senate; by Representative David J. Lewis and by State Senator Fred. N. Zihlman, who will succeed Mr. Lewis in Congress; also by Mr. Dorsey Etchison, Democratic candidate for Congress.

Free admission may be obtained to the auditorium for these addresses.

Then many of the old settlers of Garrett county will be present with their families and friends and one may be able to meet and greet those whom they have not seen for years. It will be a great Garrett County Day.

Interest In Survey.

The Eastern Panhandle of West Virginia is interested in the geological survey which is being made by William A. Baker of Johns Hopkins University of the coal seams of the Georges Creek coal field and the series of the Upper Potomac basin, extending into this state.

Baker has headquarters at Frostburg, Md., and is working under the direction of Dr. Charles K. Swartz. The maps and data collected will be a part of the Western Maryland coal survey. While this work is going on ex-Senator Brown, of Bayard, W. Va., is making a similar map of the Upper Potomac coal basin, and the clays of the region are being studied by Dr. Watts of the Ohio State University, Dr. Shurect of the Federal Bureau of Mines and G. M. Hall of Johns Hopkins University. The limestone, clays, standstones and other minerals of the eastern counties of West Virginia are already playing an important part in the state's progress, and production is considered to be only in its infancy.

Struck By Auotmobile.

Jenevieve Walters, aged about six years, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Walters, was struck by an automobile on Second street Tuesday afternoon and knocked to the pavement, but escaped any seriour injury. The driver of the car, a young man, named Boxwell, of Baltimore, who is a summer resident at the Park, brought his car to a stop and assisted in caring for the child at the office of a physician. It was clearly an unavoidable accident, according to eyewitnesses.

LIGE LIVENGOOD'S BARN BURNED

Four Horses and 125 Tons of Hay Lost—Lightning the Cause.

The large barn belonging to Elijah Livengood, the Mample Sugar King, located about three miles south of Salisbury near the state line, was struck by lightning between 10:30 and 11 o'clock Tuesday night and burned to the ground.

Mr. Livengood was awake at the time of the stroke and hurried to the barn, but three minutes after it was struck it was enveloped in fire, the flames shooting out in twenty foot sheets. There were no possible means of saving the building or its contents and consequently 125 tons of hay went up in smoke together with four horses, four wagons and numerous farm implements. A near-by shed also burned, but aside from the barn and this shed the other buildings were unharmed.

Mr. Livengood estimates his loss at about $5000. To cover this loss he will realize but $2000 insurance, leaving him very much to the bad on account of the fire. The loss of the hay also means a great deal to Mr. Livengood, as does the loss of his fine big horses, and his many farm implements.

On account of this disastrous fire Mr. Livengood will be seriously handicapped in getting in his grain and attending to the other many duties of the farm. To meet this work he has but one horse and will necessitate an immediate outlay for wagons and so forth. The cattle, being out of the barn at the time of the fire, were uninjured.—Meyersdale Republican.

Musical at Accident.

In the public school building at Accident the pupils of Mrs. Iva McCullough Statler will give a musical recital on the evening of September 8th. Mrs. Statler is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston, Mass., and is well equipped and exceptionally well trained to impart musical knowledge to those under her charge. The entertainment at Accident promises to be quite a treat.

REUNION OF ODD FELLOWS

Thousands Attend Festivities at Mountain Lake Park.

The reunion of Odd Fellows of West Virginia and Maryland brought the largest crowd of the season to Mountain Lake. The excursionists, who numbered thousands, came from points as far as Martinsburg, on the east, and Parkersburg and Wheeling, on the west. A feature was a drill by the Rebekahs, of Clarksburg, in the afternoon. A. J. Wilkinson, of Huntington, W. Va., grand secretary, presided, and the exercises opened in the afternoon with a concert by the Berkeley Springs Band. Prayer was offered by Rev. A. H. Snedegar, grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Maryland.

The opening address by Grand Secretary Wilkinson was followed with a talk on Rebekahism by Mr. Currence, of Clarksburg, W. Va. Saul Praeger, of the Cumberland bar, a member of Chosen Friends Lodge, spoke on The Spirit of Odd Fellowship in Maryland, The oration of the day was delivered by John J. Cornwell, of Romney.

At night an entertainment was given under the direction of Linna Henning Sherman, assisted by Professor Patterson, Thomas B. Foulk, Flora A. Williams and others.

Garrett County Ideal.

The scientists of the world have agreed that we mortals ought to breathe the strata of air between 2,000 to 3,000 feet. If this is true (and who doubts it?) Oakland Garrett County, Maryland, (which is about 2,500 feet), is the beau ideal climate to live in and happily flourish. Any greater altitude is too rarified and apt to affect the heart.

Wager Walk For $100.

Howard Kenney and George Robinson will walk to Grantsville from Frostburg on Friday, September 1, in a walking contest. They will leave the mile-post at St. Cloud hotel at 7. p. m. One hundred dollars will be awarded the winner. The referees are Arthur Bond for Kenny and Joseph Brophy for Robinson.

SUPER-ZEPPELINS ATTACK ENGLAND

Latest Type of German Air Fighters in Squadron of Six Drop 100 Bombs

FIRES STARTED IN LONDON

Official Statement Regarding Raid Says One Hostile Balloon Succeeded in Reaching Outskirts of Metropolis—Ships Fired On.

London.—Eight persons were killed and thirty-six injured in the Zeppelin raid. This was announced officially. One hundred bombs were dropped.

The Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily News says that super-Zeppelins, of which frequent reports have come from Germany, evidently took part in the attack, for two of these vessels were seen clearly on their way west by inhabitants of Dutch islands. Of the four airships observed on the westward course, two were of the newer type, each carrying four gondolas.

According to a statement of Lord Montagu in a speech in England a short time ago, the new German Zeppelins are 780 feet long, have a capacity of 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas, a speed of 80 miles an hour, and a radius of action of 3,000 miles at 35 miles an hour. Their engines, he said, have 15,000 horse power.

These super-Zeppelins are to carry five tons of bombs, and are armed with machine guns at bow and on top of the envelope. Two of these monsters, Lord Montagu said, are already completed, and four will be in commission in October.

Many remarkable stories are told of the night's Zeppelin raid. In one case a bomb fell near three cottages in which, in all, there were twenty-five children, shattering the windows and throwing the furniture about, yet not a child was hurt, although in one case the glass of a picture smashed on a baby's head.

In another case an old woman in her bed fell through from the top floor of her home into the drawing room, bed and all, and partly below the drawing room, being rescued by firemen.

One of the Zeppelins eluded the searchlights several times, but was picked up again. Another, after being under heavy fire for fifteen minutes, vanished in a dense cloud of smoke, apparently created by an apparatus on board.

One Zeppelin reached the outskirts of London and started fires there. Ship in the harbor were fired on.

NAMES MEXICAN BOARD

Secretary Lane, Judge George Gray and Dr. John R. Mott the Appointees.

Washington.—Secretary of State Lansing announced the appointment of the American members of the International Joint Commission which is to consider the differences existing between the United States and the de facto Government of Mexico. They are:

Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior.
Judge George Gray of Delaware.
Dr. John R. Mott of New York.

The Administration's purpose to get the work started at the earliest practicable date is known. There is no disposition whatever to delay a beginning of the important work which confronts the joint body.

First Chief Carranza announced the appointment of the Mexican members of the joint commission weeks ago. They are:

Luis Cabrera, Minister of Finance.
Ignacio Bonillas, engineer.
Alberto Pani, engineer.

Judge Gray, formerly United States Senator from Delaware, is one of the most widely known jurists in the country, and is the American member of the International Permanent Court of Arbitration.

Three Presidents of the United States have honored Dr. John R. Mott of New York, now named as a member of the Mexican Arbitration Commission. "One of the greatest men of our generation," ex-President Taft once called him.

GERMANS CLAIM BIG CROPS

Batocki Reports That There Is Enough Food for Another Year.

Berlin, (by Wireless to Sayville).—Information now at hand gives assurance that this year's crops will be much in excess of those of the last peace years, according to a statement from the office of Adolph von Batocki, President of the food regulation Board.

It is said that Germany is assured of supplies of all food necessaries for another year.

END OF PRINTERS' STRIKES

Typographical Union and Publishers Sign Arbitration Agreement.

Baltimore.—At the closing session of the sixty-second annual convention of the International Typographical Union an arbitration agreement with the American Publishers Association was ratified. The agreement is to cover a period of five years beginning on May 1, 1917. Under its terms every difference of the members of the union with their employes will be settled by arbitration along fixed lines.

2 KILLED IN RACE AS 11 CARS PILE UP

Peacock's Machine, Leading In 100-Mile Contest at Kalamazoo Skids, Blocking Track

EIGHT DRIVERS BADLY HURT

Car Driven by Andy Burt, Whose Mechanician, Marion Arnold, Was Killed, Was the First to Strike That of Peacock.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—Two men were killed and eight others injured, one of them fatally, when eleven of fourteen automobiles piled up at the first turn during the 100-mile race at Recreation Park here.

The dead are:

MARION ARDOLD, mechanician, Chicago, decapitated.

JACK PEACOCK, driver, Brooklyn, both hips broken and head crushed; died in hospital.

F. E. Marquette of Kalamazoo, mechanician for Peacock, was fatally injured in the head and his left leg was broken in three places.

The others injured are Harold W. Downs, Kalamazoo, driver, cut about face and head; Roy Newton, Kalamazoo, mechanician for Downs, cuts on face an head; Thomas Ball, Coldwater, Mich., driver, back injured; Guy L. Bailey, Coldwater, mechanician for Ball, face and back injured; Jimmy Alexander, Sioux City, Ia., mechanician, badly bruised; Andy Burt, driver, Chicago, badly bruised; Otto Henning, driver, Chicago, minor injuries.

The accident occurred when Peacock's car, leading in the race, skidded and struck the fence at the first turn. It was overturned and thrown squarely across the track. Before track attendants could signal the other drivers ten of the machines going at a terrific clip ploughed into the overturned car. Five of them were demolished.

CAR IN RIVER; 4 KILLED.

Wellsboro, Pa.—Two men and two children lost their lives and four other persons were injured when an automobile occupied by Earl Sherman and family of Endicott, N. Y., went over an embankment into the Tioga River near Covington, Pa.

The dead are:

EARL SHERMAN, 35, captain of firemen and police at Endicott; neck broken.

FRANK PERRY, chauffeur, 32; drowned.

TWO DAUGHTERS OF SHERMAN 2½ years and 5 months old; both drowned.

Heavy rains and a dense fog prevented Perry from making a curve on the down grade of the slippery road. The automobile went over a twelve foot embankment and turned bottom side up. It took twelve men to raise the car from the bodies beneath it.

GERMANY FETES DEUTSCHLAND

Children and Streets Named After Captain Koenig and Cities Celebrate.

Berlin.—Captain Paul Koenig the hero of Germany. Children and streets are being named after him. Cities are flaunting every available stitch of bunting in his honor. A new national festival has received birth from the magic of his exploit in bringing the merchant submarine Deutschland home again.

The Kaiser seeks to shake his hand and pat him on the back, and to pin some bit of ribbon and tag of metal on his seamanlike chest.

"With sincere pleasure," the Emperor telegraphed, "I have just received news of the safe return of the submarine liner Deutschland. I heartily congratulate the owners and builders of the vessel and the brave seamen under Koenig's command."

WORLD'S NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

WASHINGTON, W. Va.—Dr. Oliver A. Howard was arrested charged with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Frances Robertson Howard, a prominent Woman Suffragist and a leader in civic and club activities.

BERLIN, (by wireless to Sayville) —According to the Cologne Gazette as quoted by the Overseas News Agency, the German merchant submarine Bremen is on her way to the U. S. now with a cargo of dyes.

MEXICO CITY.—As a consequence of the receipt of information that cholera exists in Vera Cruz a quarantine has been declared in Cuban ports.

EL PASO, Tex.—Villa raiders have appeared in the vicinity of Jiminez on the Mexico National Railway, midway between Torreon and Chihuahua City.

WASHINGTON.—A protocol amplifying the financial, economic, and administrative treaty with Haiti was signed by Secretary Lansing and Minister Menos. The most important addition to the treaty is the provision that the native police force is to have American officers.

SANTIAGO.—A number of Chilian students left this city to attend different universities in the United States.

ALLIES ROUTED BY BULGARIANS

British and French Gain Only in Centre of Great Macedonian Battle Line

TWO WINGS PUT IN PERIL

Paris.—The drama of war is developing rapidly in the Balkan theatre, events hurrying forward toward the crash which may have a profound effect upon the outcome of the world conflict.

In the actual fighting the honors are with the Bulgars, who, the French Office admits, swept forward on both the extreme right and the extreme left of the Allies' line until, some military critics say, the flanks are in peril. In the centre only the story was different and the Allies progressed.

A profound sensation was caused in the Balkans, and more particularly in Greece, by the arrival of the Russian advance contingent which was assigned after a conference of the allied commanders to join the reorganized Serbian army on the frontier of Serbia.

The Greeks are described as viewing bitterly the spectacle of Russian troops disembarking at Salonica to participate in the campaign and carry on the work in which their own army might have been engaged had Venezelos carried the day. They are said to realize that this puts an end to the dream of a greater Greece.

The Russian force eventually will number 80,000, it is asserted. British, French, Serbian, Italian and Russian troops will soon be fighting side by side against the Central Powers.

The belief prevails among some military experts here that the Russians are content with the successes achieved up to date by Gen. Brusiloff's great offensive in Volhynia, Galicia and the Carpathians, and have decided to reap the fruits of the weakening of the Teutons during the last 2½ months by withdrawing strong forces from the eastern front for the Macedonian campaign.

U-BOATS SINK BRITISH CRUISERS

London.—Two British light cruisers, the Nottingham and the Falmouth, were sunk in the North Sea by German submarines while the vessels were searching for the German High Seas Fleet, according to an official announcement issued by the Admiralty.

One German submarine was destroyed by the British, while another was rammed and possibly sunk, according to the Admiralty statement, which reads:

Reports from our lookout squadrons and other units showed that there was considerable activity on the part of the enemy in the North Sea Saturday, the 19th. The German High Seas Fleet came out, but, learning from their scouts that the British forces were in considerable strength, the enemy avoided an engagement and returned to port.

In searching for the enemy we lost two cruisers by submarine attacks—H. M. S. Nottingham, Captain C. B. Miller, and H. M. S. Falmouth, Captain John Edwards.

All the officers of the former were saved, but thirty-eight of the crew are missing. All the officers and men of the Falmouth were saved, but one leading stoker, Norman Fry, died of injuries.

An enemy submarine was destroyed and another was rammed and possibly sunk. There is no truth in the German statement that a British destroyer and a British battleship damaged.

The presence in the North Sea of a German squadron of some fifteen warships, including large cruisers, was previously reported by trawlers arriving at Ymuiden, Holland, a Reuter dispatch from that point says. The squadron was sighted in the region of White Bank, and was accompanied by two Zeppelins. It was taking a northwesterly course.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

Bulgarian forces seized the Greek port of Kavalla, on the Aegean Sea, and all but one of its defending forts. An official communication from Saloniki announces that they already have been brought under the fire of Allied warships.

The Bulgarian advance in the valley of the Struma also continues, according to an official statement from Berlin, and the invaders are nearing the mouth of the river.

The developments in the Balkans appear to be causing perturbation in Austria-Hungary, according to advices from Bern, Switzerland.

There will be no official effort to hinder the Bulgarian invasion of Greece, which is rapidly converting wide sections into a battlefield.

An Austrian aeroplane was brought down and destroyed by flames after a battle with an Italian Nieuport machine over Gorizia. Vienna reports the repulse of heavy attacks in the Fassa Alps.

The Allies made another great effort on the Somme and scored further important local successes on both the French and British fronts north of the river. The French seized all remaining ground in Maurepas.

A Town In One House

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The amazing rise of the New York apartment house is about to reach its zenith in the creation of an immense cooperation country home on the shores of Long Island. The idea of this super-apartment originated with two well-known American artists, Walter Russell and Penrhyn Stanlaws. So far it has its existence only in drawings and plans, but inasmuch as a number of New York's millionaires are back of the project, and such artists as Frederic MacMonnies, Paul Bartlett, Jules Guerin and others, as well as Russell and Stanlaws have perfected the plans with the architects, there is no reason to doubt that it will in due course arise to amaze the world.

The development of the New York apartment is the most striking phenomenon of modern urban living, and the one fraught with the greatest possibilities. Not many years ago, the only apartment houses were tenements, and all the rich and well to-do lived in houses of their own. But the individual dwelling was forced out by the sheer limitations of space. First the old brownstone fronts were deserted and changed into lodging and boarding houses; then more expensive residences shared their fate. A house that rented for five thousand dollars a few years ago may be had now for fifteen hundred. Only the very wealthy can afford separate houses in desirable parts of the town, while the demand for apartments by the moderately wealthy has brought into being tenements of the most luxurious and elaborate sort. Twenty-five thousand dollars a year is paid for the occupancy of more than one New York apartment.

But this apartment house vogue is not merely a space-saving expedient. The significant thing is that the apartment house is an experiment in co-operative living. The occupants combine, in effect, to build them a house and heat it, and provide themselves with other conveniences. This cooperative idea has already been given definition by the erection of a series of apartment houses in which each tenant actually buys one-half of the space he occupies, while paying rent on the other half. This cooperative idea was first put into practice by a group of artists. In fact the rise of the apartment house and the artists have been to a great extent co-temporaneous. When the apartment was in its infancy, the artists were most confined to Washington Square, McDougall Alley and Greenwich Alley, where they eked a precarious existence out of the few magazines and art patrons of that day. But the rise of the magazine brought wealth to the story writer and illustrator, while portrait painters, sculptors and architects began to enjoy a new vogue. Forthwith, they moved uptown.

But the artist wants few possessions. He does not wish to worry about servants, and garages and furnaces and gardens. The apartment is his natural habitat. He was first among the successful to make the apartment his home, and first to devise and inhabit the cooperative apartment. It was he who designed the "duplex studio apartment" which is now all the go in New York, even among people who never study anything. It is an apartment of which almost the whole first floor is one great room, with a vaulted ceiling, and a gallery all the way around, upon which the bed rooms open. Thus the ancient wheeze about the small size of apartment rooms has lost its force. A famous dancing teacher holds classes of thirty pupils in her duplex apartment without crowding, and one artist, Walter Russell, has a studio in his apartment home that is sixty feet long, and has a number of windows ten feet wide opening upon Central Park.

To avert to the Long Island wonder, it is to take these ideas of plenty of room and cooporation for convenience and carry them to their logical limit, by having every occupant the owner of his own share of the building, and by erecting it out in the country. Incidentally, this most ambitious of all partments is to be called "New Versailles," not because it will be a copy of its French counterpart, because no work of art can be copied, but because the name conveyes something of the intention of the builders. It is to be an American work of art, with the spirit of American art back of it. The designs, which have already been painted by Jules Guerin, show an immense palace of marble climbing by a series of terraces set with ornamental pools and formal gardens and colonnades and fountains, from the sea shore to the top of a gently sloping hill. It is proclaimed that this is to be the true home of all that is great in American sculpture. MacMonnies will here restore the famous fountain which he designed for the Chicago Exposition, and which has been torn down because there was no room for it. So will Aitkens' "Fountain of the Earth" be preserved along with Bartlett's equestrian masterpiece.

The United States lacks great architecture. Its work of decorative art have heretotore been housed mostly in museums. At the New Versailles they are to be given their true place in a scheme of elaborate beauty. In a word, when the scheme reaches its logical fulfillment, this will be the supreme monument to American wealth. In the year five thousand and something, mayhap, it will be dug up and exhibited as a masterpiece of the American civilization. It will be to the American millionaire what the pyramids as to the Pharoahs—a physical demonstration of their tremendous power to create.

But meantime, and as soon as the first chauteau is finished, it will do for the American millionaire a great many things that he would otherwise have to do for himself. It is to be an experiment in communal living for the rich. All over the world, at various times, communal colonies have been founded by socialistic dreamers and always they have failed because there was no real need for them. Now, in New York, the need has grown up because of the great number of people, and the complexity of their wants, and the need has brought into being the communal apartment house. This great cooperative country home will take up the idea and carry it a step further. Every family that wishes to live in it will buy as much space as it needs. One man for example, has bought only a room and bath for $5000.00, while another has bought $256,000 worth. With this he can do as he pleases, for he owns it. This particular man has decided to cut out the floors of the second story, so that all of his rooms will have vaulted ceilings twenty feet high.

Having thus acquired an ownership the tenant has satisfied all of his needs without any further effort upon his part except the writing of checks. Automobiles, garages, chauffeurs, are all supplied by the colony as a whole. So are yachts and motor boats, and a giant sea-plane. A theatre, schools for children, and a playhouse to cost $22,000 are all thrown in. Tennis courts and golf courses and an aviation field and hangars and aeroplanes are all there. Cooperative stores are maintained and cooperative restaurants, grill rooms, bars, and catlring establishments. In a word, the millionaire without once thinking about them, he may revel in the complex luxury of modern wealth and his own contribution will consist merely in paying the bill. He may go to Europe for the summer and return with out notice and find everything in running order at his home communal.

The servant problem is to be solved in the same way. There will be a cooperative servant's quarters where the valets and lackeys and chamber maids will have a club house of their own, and a swimming pool and an auto bus to take them on picnics, and many other perquisites. From this establishment the tenant will be able to employ whatever servants he desires by the day, hour or year. There will be but one requirement; no servant will be allowed to work more than eight hours a day.

This town-in-a-house is to have a board of directors elected by all the tenants, and this board is to hire a manager. It will be run just like a modern small city, with one important exception. The board directors will carefully pass upon the social and financial qualifications of every would-be inhabitant. So this is to be a very exclusive experiment in communism. But if it works there will doubtless be other and less exclusive ones. So crowded are the great cities becoming that self-preservation has of necessity become mutual preservation. The cooperative apartment of today is probably a forecast of how we will all be living in the not so distant future.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The fact that the Democratic campaign managers have booked Secretary Daniels for a speech in Maine seems to indicate that they have abandoned all hope of carrying the state and simply don't care what happens to the ticket in the September election.

Senator J. Ham Lewis, a spokesman for the administration, in attempting to apologize for the president's molly-coddle expression that we are "too proud to fight," explains that it is an old Latin quotation. But the people already know that it is out of date and the expression of a decadent nation.

"We don't want to maintain a political almshouse," remarked Mr. Hughes to the North Dakota farmers, and a nation applauds him. Americans are beginning to see a possibility in the near future of regaining their self respect.

This administration seems to have sold everything it could, from the nation's honor down to the smallest rural postmastership.

Secretary Daniels says this is no time for politics. And it's no time for Secretary Daniels either.

Senator Lewis, defending the president on his "too proud to fight" expression intimates that it was due solely to the ignorance of his audience that the popular interpretation that has been put upon it was evolved, and that anyway it didn't mean what it appeared to mean. The latter statement can be taken with some degree of confidence, as it is quite a well known fact that most of the things the president says do not mean what they are supposed to mean.

Secretary Redfield has presented another of those living illustrations of the old adage that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread," with one important modification. The difference in the Secretary's case is that he walked right in and turned around and was kicked right out again.

The Democratic contingent in the Senate is all worked up over the fact that the terms of the treaty for the purchase of the Danish West Indies "leaked out." "Pitiless publicity," you understand, has been consigned to the scrap heap with a large assortment of vadious other Democratic policies and promises.

Housewives in need of pork recipes should address the Wilson administration.

Mr. Wilson has made no reply to the charges of Mr. Hughes. Is he still too proud to fight?

By the way his opponents are abusing him, it is evident that Mr. Hughes has touched them on the raw.

No apology which the Wilson administration can make for its futile and irritating Mexican policy will satisfy the American people. It has lacked conspicuously the two characteristics which Hughes promises—a friendly spirit and a firm hand.

Pitiless publicity, says Mr. Hughes; have a heart, say the Democrats.

Of Mr. Wilson it may be said he meant well, but he now finds himself buried under the evidence of inefficiency that Mr. Hughes has brought forth.

There are those who assert that Woodrow Wilson is a clever politician. But how do they account for his remark to a committee of women, calling upon him, to the effect that if they made suffrage "the paramount issue of this campaign," he would "lose all respect for them?" The women of the enfranchised States assert that this threat will cost Wilson the presidency.

Secretary Daniels, however, has the distinction of being one of the greatest arguments the Republicans have ever had.

The salary part of the rural credit system has already begun.

Mr. Bryan thinks Mr. Hughes unfitted for the bench because of the prejudiced frame of mind evinced by his speeches. Wake up, Bill, he ain't running for no judgeship.

Mr. Wilson underestimated the suffragists; but it appears they have him sized up properly.

Ill fares the land where public office is bought and the people are sold.

The high fragmentation of those Hughes bombs is causing consternation in the Wilson trenches.

Bainbridge Colby is almost as violent in his criticism of Mr. Hughes he was in condemnation of Mr. Wilson's position on Panama tolls two years ago.

Of course President Wilson has a perfect right to change his mind as often as he pleases, but that is quite different from repudiating distinct promises made to get votes. If the pledges on which he rode into the White House have proved worthless because he changed his mind, what faith is to be put in the pledges he is now making in his appeal for re-election?

Retribution.

Continuing where I left off last week, let me say that by the laws of nature God holds the evil doer to the rack.

The transgressor may repent, pray, even censure himself. His friends may condole with him, and he may hear the promises of religion, and forgiveness, but he cannot escape from those ordained penalties which fasten on him with a grip that nothing can relax.

He will realize the truth of God's word "His bones are full of the sins of his youth which shall lie down in the dust with him." It is an inexorable law written in nature entering into the very marrow of the bones and proves that whatever a man sows that shall he reap.

Penalties sure and severe overtake the workers of iniquity, penalties that may begin in our earliest days. They are seen on the schoolground where the boy cheats his playmates out of his marbles, practices fraud in the games, and for his meanness loses the confidence of his mates and is branded with a mark that may follow him through life. So to-day the man who cheats his neighbor, practices, fraud in business, or is guilty of duplicity for selfish ends, though he escapes the clutches of the civil law is nevertheless a marked man and will reap his reward in the loss of respect and honor and the blighting of that which Solomon said was rather to be chosen than great riches, just as surely as the young man who breaks a law of nature. The Divine laws and ordinances will experience in his health, body and mind the consequences of his wrong doing.

It does not follow that this is always equal in its operations at first. Sin is not always immediately punished at first, nor are its consequences always visible. Many penalties are delayed, but that does not argue that law ceases when we cannot see the results.

It still goes on until the time when its fullest revelation will be seen in the day of judgment. There are some crimes that are not and cannot be visited with retribution in this life. It was not the design that retribution be an expression of perfect justice, only such a measure of it as is necessary for the continuation of the present economy. Such restraint and penalty as will be necessary to keep the mechanism from distinction. Human governments notice only such acts as threaten the subjects for which it is administered, while many acts, far worse, are referred to a higher tribunal (E. q.) You have recourse to law against the impositions of a dishonest hackman in the city. You can arrest the swindlers or imprison the thief, or hang the murderer, but you cannot touch the parent who by his neglect or indifference or slights makes the life of his child miserable or subjects it to hardships and petty cruelty. That is left to a higher tribunal where justice will be fully ministered. Yet the unnatured parent suffers something by being generally despised.

We see the law now and then, but it will one day be manifested before all. Then the secrets of the heart will be open and perfect justice will be rendered according to the demerits of each.

A man suddenly strikes down a companion though it is in a fit of passion and unintentional, but so soon as he tees the consequences of his rash act he is overwhelmed with grief and sorrow. Another dogs the victim of his hate with the determination of destroying him. No favorable opportunity is offered and so he is disappointed that his victim escapes. Will divine justice punish the first and let the second go? No, the day when delays will not, cannot be prolonged, that will right all wrongs. Think as we will, act as we may, we are the subjects of law, a law of nature, of our being our bodies and minds, of revelation, of the universe of God, which cannot be interpreted too strictly, and by this retribution sooner or later overtakes evil doing. Not a jot or a letter of God's law shall fail. The sun may fade; the moon and stars may fall, but the decree of heaven never. What then! Is there no way to escape? How can we be delivered from the sweep of nature? It is not enough to talk of the goodness of God. We want to know how mercy may rejoice against judgment. Now the Publicans and Harlots, the Prodigals and Profligates; how men even in the last hours; thieves on the cross and those whose bodies and souls have felt the awful consequences of sin, through its treachery and tyranny have been brought down to an infamous condition. How these or any one may be delivered from the inflexible course of the law of retribution which compels one to eat the fruit of his own ways and be filled with his own device. So we see Domitian the famous persecutor, murdered by his own people. Cladius was eaten with worms. Maximutius put out the eyes of thousands of Christians and soon after a fearful disease of the eyes broke out among his people, of which he himself died in great agony.

Thousands gaze with interest on an eclipse of the moon, yet do not consider that it was calculated long before, so precise and regular are the movements of the heavenly bodies. They move in accordance with law and there is no diviation, so that astronomers calculate to the second when the phenomena will commence and end. Such is the precision of the science of mathematics. But all this accuracy and certainty in nature only illustrates the higher precision of the laws which govern His moral economy. Retribution is no accident and the law regarding sowing and reaping is no contingency. It is unchangeable. If this were not so there would be no place for fate, nor would there be any certainly as to our expectations.

If the statutes of His government were liable to be thwarted, or of His word were falsified by events which follow, we would have everything to fear, but no resting place for unwavering confidence.

How can this unbending law comfort with the promises of gospel mercy? How can we have relief without the laws of the universe being suspended? Go ask reason and she promptly admits that it is beyond her province. Summons nature and she says I cannot tell you. JOANNES.

EGYPTIAN WROTE FIRST "AD" COPY

Advertising Began 3,000 Years Ago, When Nile Dweller Sought Lost Slave.

The Egyptian gentleman who sought a runaway slave 3,000 years ago and advertised on a bit of papyrus for his recovery turned out the first piece of advertising copy.

Whoever he was, he was a genius in more than a small way. His copy still lives, preserved in the British Museum as an exhibit of consider able archaeological importance and as an example of what our advertising experts of today would do if they, like the Egyptian, did not have the benefit of up-to-date information.

The Egyptian knew nothing about the topography of advertising, nor the effect of different colors. He didn't know, for instance, that red is the most effective eye-catching color and that green is second and black third.

He didn't know that an advertisement could be made to appeal to the mind or to the emotions; that various words and phrases and numerous devices may be used to affect the psychology of persons in a particular way, or that there is such a thing as eye-movement and that a badly arranged advertisement may be an eyesore.

We do not know whether he got the slave back, but he deserved to.

With the development of community life, Dr. Herbert W. Hess tells us in his book on "Productive Advertising," advertising commenced. Various human desires began to develop and soon there was competition among people to supply the thing that would satisfy this desire, whether it came from hunger, vanity, love of comfort or what not.

As communities developed into towns and cities, those that had goods to dispose of established permanent locations. "Shops were opened; itinerancy lessened." The town crier began to yell out the names if various wares and people gradually became more and more discriminate in their purchases.

Finally, the written advertisement came into being and, as has been stated, an Egyptian landowner gets the credit for writing the first ad.

The Greeks usually made music a part of the advertising program. They gave us the idea of employing bands to attract attention, undoubtedly one of the most successful methods of drawing a crowd at any place and time. The "song-pushers" who have come quite frequently of late to tour the principal street of our city in a slow-moving wagon, seeming hardly able to carry the tuneless piano inside, attempting to popularize "$10,000" songs, have the Greeks to thank for the privilege of imitation.

The Romans are commonly credited with the origin of the signboard. Today we have the bulletin board, which corresponds to the Roman tabellae found in the ruins of Pompeii and Herculaneum, where public announcements were made.

Advertising met the same fate as Romans did when the barbarous Huns came sweeping down from the north. Until the middle Ages very little of it is seen. But with the appearance again of the town crier, supplied with the customary long-winded declarations and a choice supply of adjectives, advertising began to make itself felt in the conduct of business affairs. The public criers began to organize themselves both in France and in England and they were persons with considerable prestige.

From crying out the superior qualities of merchandise and all kinds of goods and wares, the crier soon began to make announcement of things lost and found, of sales, weddings, christenings and other interesting events.

Gradually, as time went on, inns began to use distinctive signs and symbols to mark their hostelries, just as individuals had employed coats of arms. All kinds of devises were used and are still used by inns to the present day. All such signs as the blue anchor, the black dragon, the boars head, the red lion and so on made definite representations and implications.

Of course, with the development of the printing press, advertising took a great spurt. The use of posters came into vogue, and all kinds of pamphlets were printed and distributed. Printing gradually began to supersede the hand-written manuscript. William Caxton set up his press in Westminster Abbey in 1471 and two centuries later in 1622, a newspaper was printed. It was called the Weekly News, and purported to contain news of doings in Germany, France, Hungary and Bohemia.

From then on newspapers, mostly weekly publications, began to appear from time to time in increasing numbers. Advertisements of medicines began as early as 1600. The insertion of the first real newspaper advertisement, however, is credited to Nathaniel Butler, who advertised books.

The first two magazines to carry advertisements were Godey's Lady Book and Peterson's but it was not until the appearance in 1864 of J. Walter Thompson that magazine advertising really began, and it was not until 1880 that a general use was made of magazines for advertising purposes.

THE MUSTN'T TALK IDEA.

The promsters and defenders of the Democratic cause were profuse in criticisms of Mr. Hughes during the period extended from the time of his nomination to the day of his speech of acceptance. They didn't like his silence; they found fault with him because he would not talk. Now that he is talking with a clearness of statement and a logical analysis that leaves nothing to the guessing, the other fellows—the party of the defense—are more dissatisfied than ever.

The New York Times in arguing for the suggestion that Hughes should have stayed at Bridgehampton and have immolated himself in silence until after election agrees that his silence would have mystified and angered many voters, but, in the opinion of the Times, "the Hughes of the popular imagination would not have been destroyed." But the Hughes of the popular imagination has not been destroyed. That is a theory which Democratic newspapers have invented and which they are laboriously striving to put over.

The Times says that if Hughes had stayed at home and kept silent even those who assailed him would have had an uncomfortable feeling that there was something menacing and terrible in this silence. But those who are assailing him know perfectly well that there is something far more terrible and menacing to Democratic prospects in the Hughes who is discussing the issues involved in this campaign. He is but following the example of Wilson in 1912 and of other presidential candidates since the time of McKinley. The time has gone by when a presidential candidate can pose as a sphinx. The people want to know what a presidential candidate stands for. Hughes is telling them what he stands for.

COL. HARVEY HAS THE FLOOR

As a Hughes Democrat Col. George Harvey should give a new dash of ginger to the campaign. There must already be an anticipatory twinkle of delight in those expressive eyes behind the tortoise-shell goggles as the Colonel contemplates the prospects for having a little fun with his old-time political protege and pupil, W. W. Broth Harvey, as he must hereafter be called, has proved in his own case that made-to-order statesmen, as distinguished from the ready-made and self-made variety, can be as ungrateful as republics. What does it profit a brilliant, influental journalist to groom a dark horse, teach him how to run and win a minor race and later one for the grand prize, and then get kicked over the fence?

Col. Harvey, trying to believe, perhaps, that "faithful are the wounds of a friend," continued to support the exemplar of ingratitude in the columns of his weekly newspaper, even though by special request he had removed the name of Woodrow Wilson from the masthead. But after the election and inauguration constant readers thought they perceived a slight note of bitterness when they read on the editorial page a joke to this effect: One man asks another: "Did you ever read Pudd'nhead Wilson?" To which the other replies: "Read Pudde'nhead Wilson? Why, I voted for him." After that there was little doubt that the iron had entered Col. Harvey's soul.

Col. Harvey is a man of distinguished ability, perhaps the keenest of contemporary satirists. If he occasionally infuses a little vitrol, good humor for the most part prevades his writings, though no one is more adept at impaling a wriggling victim on the point of a pen. The genuineness of his grievances against the present occupant of the White House, one who would never have been there except for the efforts of Col. Harvey, is well known. If he cares to tell all, the editor of the North American Review should be able to make some exceedingly piquant contributions to the litarature of the campaign.

DEMOCRATIC RECORD.

An obtuse supporter of President Wilson wants to know why the Republican party, in control of the government most of the time from the Civil War to the present, had not built up national defense, and why it had not eliminated such outrage upon the republic as the pork appropriations.

If the majority of the voters in the United States are slightly simian and intend to mark their ballots with their feet, these questions are complete estoppel of Republican argument. If the booths are to be filled by men and women, standing and not hanging from some convenient horizontal bar by appendages furnished by provident nature for such purpose, such questions will be fat in the fire of Republican criticism.

When the Democratic party was given control of the United States navy, the first line of defense, was ranked second in the world's lists. Only one power could hope to penetrate this first line and that power, Great Britain, could do so only by so weakening its home defense that it would be dangerously exposed to attack by an ambitious continental nation. Germany was an ambitious continental nation. Great Britain did not dare enter a controversy with the United States which would employ her great sea force so long as the powerful German ambitions were waiting watchfully for opportunity.

The United States in second naval strength was safe. The United States, after three years of Democratic administration, is in fourth place, and unsafe.

Until 1914 the nation had a right to think that behind an adequate navy its frontiers could be protected by a small professional army. Sentiment throughout the nation, however badly formed, was determined against a larger military establishment. August, 1914, changed every prospect. The lesson was taught when the Democratic party was in power.

For two years, with every European country suggesting our dangers to us, the Democratic party rolled the pork barrel and ignored national necessity. It dredged creeks and put money into small towns. It had all the little pigs of the pork family in at the trough and it told the nation to go around in the back yard where the grass was longer.

For two years, full of danger and threat, the record of the Democratic party shows no accomplishment for the safety of the nation. Now Democracy, after hundreds of thousands of citizens had protested, is tumbling over itself to get away from a political danger.

Such a government! Two years of neglect to be repaired in two weeks of political panic! Do the people want a government such as this? Do they want a government which will act only when it is scared sufficiently politically?

And the pork barrel. A Republican President gave a Democratic Congress a budget system. The Democratic Congress rejected it. A Democratic President has not mentioned it. A Democrat President has signed every pork bill presented to him. Enough, except for voters who will vote hanging from horizontal bars.

THE BLAME RESTS AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

President Wilson would not have been forced to the necessity of appealing to Congress to prevent a strike had he not made a vital blunder when the railroad controversy was first put up to him. Had he put the full weight of his position behind the demand that all the issues between the men and the railroads be arbitrated, it is now perfectly apparent that he would have had a popular backing so strong, so determined, that the employees would not have dared go counter to it.

There would have been then a clear illustration whether the country needs compulsory arbitration; whether the great body of the people, given the facts in disputes of this kind, could not merely by weight fo nformed and enlightened public opinion compel both sides to such a quarrel to submit their differences to an impartial tribunal for adjustment. Far from taking action that would have settled the threatened strike in this way, the President in his first statement of what ought to be done committed another egregious blunder. He misstated the root of the trouble between the roads and the men in a most unfortunate way. He gave the impression that the real trouble concerned the eight-hour day rather than, as is actually the fact, the amount of wages the men shall receive for the hours they work, whether six, eight, ten or twelve.

In other words, the President, without investigation, took the side of the men and by that course strengthened their stand, giving them the very backing they needed to go to the mat if necessary and with the support of the White House for their unyielding attitude.

This is not a fight between labor and capital. It is a fight to prevent labor and capital combining to load the public with higher freight rates before it has been demonstrated that the mass of the people ought to be asked to shoulder the burden. It is a fight to preserve the principle of arbitration, without which the public can see no end to the vicious circle of constantly increasing demands by railroad employees, constant yielding to threats by railroad managers and constant recouping out of the pockets of the ultimate consumer.—Baltimore News.

DELIGHTED WITH MARYLAND HIGHWAYS

West Virginia Official Praises the Model Thoroughfares of This State.

Wheeling, Aug. 28.—"When it comes to good roads we will have to hand it to the state of Maryland," said Charles O. Ephlin, member of the board of county commissioners, last night upon his return from a tristate tour with other members of the board and the road engineer. The commissioners have been out of the city for the past four days touring the roads of Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Tarvia roads seem to be in the majority, according to Mr. Ephlin. He said that they were lucky enough to see the roads in the point of construction and also their way of maintenance. This latter part, said he, impressed him the most. Upon the tarvia roads a man is assigned to five miles to care for as his section. This man has his small portable kettle, and wherever a rut shows he fills it with crushed stone and tar and with a metalic plunger batters it into the hole, making a complete patch. Mr. Ephlin said that one could travel for miles and never see a break in the road, and the cost of such maintenance is amazingly small.

All in all, the commissioners covered more than five hundred miles, going from here to Uniontown, Pa., then to Cumberland, then to Hagerstown, then to Sharpsburg, then to Harpers Ferry, then to Charles Town, then to Winchester, Va., then to Martinsburg, then to Hancock, and back home over the Old National road.

NORTH GLADE

Farmers busy this nice weather harvesting and threshing with some time to attend picnics and other places of social interest.

The funeral services of Buckner Mason was held last Thursday in the Methodist church, of which he was a member, by Rev. McCamic assisted by Rev. Parish, of Cumberland. A large number of people were in attendance. Interment was made in the North Glade cemetery.

We are sorry to note the continued illness of Mrs. J. L. McRobie, also Mrs. Lucy McRobie. Both ladies are critically ill.

The number of aged Garrett countains passing away this year is remarkable. We recall nearly a dozen who had reached four score or more years.

Mrs. Stephen Rhodes was visiting at Lonaconing and Cumberland last week.

Mrs. Theodore Beckman has been with her daughter, Mrs. Sharpless, who has been in the hospital at Cumberland for several days.

Russell Moon and J. I. O'Brien were business callers at Oakland yesterday.

We are glad to note that G. W. Moon has been appointed teacher of our school again this year. He has taught five successful schools at this place, and with the co-operation of all patrons we predict greater success the coming year.

Our neighbor, J. A. Wilt has been suffering loss. His second daughter Miss Lulu, just recently lett him, marrying a W. Va., farmer, and his oldest son, Andrew, returned last week from the Eastern Shore with Miss Garringer, a former Garrett county teacher as his wife. They will reside in Akron, Ohio. Congratulations to these young people.

A surprise party was held at Judge Harvey's on Thursday night. A large number of friends were present who enjoyed the occasion very much.

Miss Brewer, a returned missionary from India, gave us an illuminating lecture in the Lutheran chapel on Friday evening of last week. She was accompanied by Miss Hoffmester, of Wheeling, W. Va.

INDIVIDUAL CUP ORDER SWEEPING

May Be Extended to Hotels, Restaurants and Cafes.

Extension of the individual drinking cup order of the State Health Board to hotels, restaurants and saloons is engaging the attention of the state health authorities. Aimed directly at the drug stores and other places selling soft drinks to children, the new regulation is so sweeping that the other drink emporiums may be included.

The question has already been raised by interested managers and proprietors, and while no stringent prohibition was given, the advice was rendered for the use of the individual cups. It is stated that the matter will be discussed officially by the board at its next meeting.

Because they believe the order discriminatory, several druggists registered a protest with the state health officials this morning. They intimated that if the prohibition were confined to the drug stores they would make a legal issue of the order. The explanation was given that the order would apply to all places selling soft drinks. The question was then raised as to the interpretation of a soft drink and whether it included milk and water. The inquiry was too great a problem for the individual officials, and while they advised all purveyors of soft drinks, including milk and water, to use the individual cup, they were not able to make a strict application of the advertised order to hotels, restaurants and saloons.

The order contemplates the use of paper cups, which are already in use in several of the drug stores. One of the druggists who has just ordered 40,000 of these cups made the statement to one of the state officials that the health order could not be enforced on September 1 for the reason that the necessary supply of the paper containers could not be filled within three months.

Another criticism directed against one of the other orders of the State Board of Health concerns the prohibition of children from Maryland under 16 years of age from entering any of the states where infantile paralysis is prevalent. At the same time children from these infested sections are permitted to enter this state under a health certificate, subject to a two-week surveillance. The point is raised that the state is really quarantining itself and that the order will create a hardship upon children attending schools in other states.

The answer of the health authorities is that the community at times requires stringent measures to protect its own health. While it is admitted that the question of entering an infected district might be a matter of individual desire, yet the claim is made that the general community is concerned that the public health must be subserved. The clause in the order permitting the deputy health officers to pass upon all application is claimed to be a saving feature of this situation.

THE DEATH RECORD.

AMI FORMAN.

Ami Forman, an aged resident of District No. 8, who was engaged in farming all his life, died on Friday last after an illness of some duration, and was buried Monday. He is survived by his widow and a number of children.

TWO FREIGHT WRECKS

Aside From Delay of Trafic Little Damage Was Done Tuesday.

On Tuesday afternoon an eastbound freight train was wrecked and both tracks more or less damaged when a loaded coal car left the rails at a point just west of the Washington Spring crossing, the car leaving the rails being the only one involved, but the tracks were badly twisted and many ties were torn out and cut to pieces. A wrecking crew from Piedmont arriven on the scene an hour after the occurrence and succeeded in clearing the track and trains moved after an hour's interruption.

About ten o'clock Tuesday night and at the same point a second wreck occurred, when two cars of an eastbound train were derailed and the tracks blocked, which delayed traffic upwards of two hours.

Festival.

A festival will be held at Sunnyside on Wednesday, Sept. 6th, the proceeds being for the benefit of the bell fund for the Red House church.

Festival and Box Supper.

A festival and box supper will be held at the Thayerville school house on the State road on the evening of September 9th.

Additional Game Wardens.

E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden, has announced the appointment of additional game wardens throughout the state. The list includes for Garrett county:

B. F. Shaffer, John O. Thayer, Simon Meyers, A. M. Chisholm, L. H. Friend, J. Alvin Friend, John W. Markley, Clayton Wolf.

William A. Walker Nominated for Congress Last Saturday.

The Congressional convention of the Sixth District of the Prohibition party was held in Montgomery Chapel, near Mt. Airy, Saturday. William A. Walker, a prominent farmer of near Mt. Airy, was nominated for Congress.

The convention also selected an executive committee with authority to appoint a campaign committee as follows: Thomas E. Watkins, chairman; Asa Watkins, secretary, and Harry Runkles, treasurer.

Charles R. Woods, state chairman, spoke of the prospects of the party at the coming election.

CHILDREN MUST NOT RUN AUTOS

Auto Commission Goes On the War-path and Causes One Arrest.

Prosecution of all persons who permit juveniles under the age of 18 years to operate automobiles has been determined upon by State Automobile Commissioner Baughman. Such juvenile driving, the state officials believes, has helped to materially swell the number of motor accidents that have occurred in recent months.

Complaints of youngsters being allowed to drive motors have reached Commissioner Baughman from all over the state of late, and yesterday the Colonel nabbed a case himself. The offender was the 9-year-old son of Dr. Marshall B. West, of Catonsville. The case has been reported to the police of that section and Dr. West will be cited before the court for trial on the charge of permitting the violation of the law.

"Section 143 of the Automobile Law," said Colonel Baughman, "provides that no person under the age of 18 years shall be allowed to operate any motor vehicle except a motor-cycle, and in the latter case the minimum age limit is 14 years. Whether a person holding an operator's card is in the machine with an offending juvenile makes no difference in the eyes of the law.

"The law is a wise one, for I believe that, under no circumstances, should a 17-year-old boy or girl, or persons below that age, be allowed the responsibility of operating a car. Even over that age all persons must first give a demonstration of their ability to drive before obtaining a license. Accidents have become so numerous all over the state that it is necessary to take every precaution to stop what seems like slaughter. I have instructed all of my deputies to carry out this phase of the law to the fullest extent."

In the car with the West youngster, Colonel Baughman said, was a chauffenr, but the commission maintains that if a road crisis occurred the driver would probably not have been in position to have prevented an accident.

FLEETING PROSPERITY IS FOOL'S PARADISE

Don't Let Smoke From Munition Factories Cloud Your Brain With Belief It's Abiding.

PROTECTION OUR BULWARK.

Forget Not the Dire Conditions Which Depressed This Country Under the Democratic Free Trade Tariff Prior to the War—They Will Return to Plague and Hunger You Unless the Republicans Are Restored to Power.

"When we contemplate industrial and commercial conditions," says Mr. Hughes, "we see that we are living in a fool's paradise." This is the condition to which the administration and its supporters have deliberately closed their eyes. When the war cloud broke over Europe this country was experiencing the most serious depression it had known since 1893, when the Democratic party and its policies were in full control of the United States.

Suddenly there came from over the sea a demand for munitions of war, clothing, food, supplies, everything needed by vast armies and by countries whose sons were taken from the field and the workshop, never to return.

As a result our exports and the balance of trade in our favor have reached figures far surpassing any ever before known. Temporarily, especially in the east, there is no lack of work at high wages, for Europe must pay whatever price America asks. No thoughtful person would imagine that this condition is anything like real prosperity. How false it is we in Oregon, who have the clearer vision, because not clouded by the smoke from munitions factories, have fully felt and fully appreciated.

What the Republican candidate for president says about it the Democrats know to be true:

"Our opponents promised to reduce the cost of living. This they have failed to do, but did reduce the opportunities of making a living. Let us not forget the conditions that existed in this country under the new tariff prior to the war. Production had decreased; business was languishing; new enterprises were not undertaken; instead of expansion there was curtailment, and our streets were filled with the unemployed."

The suspension of these conditions is not nation wide, only sectional, and depends upon the duration of the war. Those who think otherwise are indeed living in a fool's paradise.—Portland (Ore.) Telegram.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS FROM HUGHES' SPEECHES.

"What is the president's policy—does any one know? Has the executive ever had a policy for more than six months on the Mexican question?"

"If I am elected president I will see to it that American rights in Mexico are respected."

"There is no man who could successfully present to an American community the platform that an American citizen's rights stop at the coast line."

"We will get through with this old strife between capital and labor. We are not laborers and capitalists in this country. We are fellow citizens."

"All that the workingmen want is a square deal."

"We want the United States efficiently managed. I want to see men in office who believe in prosperity."

"The Republican party stands for a prosperity produced by sound American policies."

"We have removed from office men of experience and substituted others to satisfy partisan obligations. This must stop."

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY
Entrance Examinations
State Scholarship in Engineering Courses

Entrance Examinations for the Department of Engineering, as well as for the College of Arts and Sciences, will be held in the Academic Building of the Johns Hopkins University, Homewood, Baltimore, September 18-21, 1916, beginning at 9 a. m. each day.

Application For Scholarships in The Department of Engineering, established in the Johns Hopkins University under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, may now be made. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, a competitive examination must be taken in the Academic Building, Homewood, on September 22, 1916, beginning at 9 a. m.

Each County of the State and each Legislative District of Baltimore City, with the exception of Charles, Harford, and Queen Anne's Counties will be entitled to one or more scholarships for the year 1916-17, in addition to those which have already been assigned. In the three counties mentioned above all the available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City scholarships in the Department of Engineering are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted to them. The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text-books, and exemption from all regular fees. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is no greater than at other Maryland institutions.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, Maryland Agricultural College, Mt. St. Mary's College; and one scholarship will be awarded "At Large."

Applicants should address the Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University, for blank forms of application and for further information as to examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction.

STRING OF INTERROGATIONS TO FEASE WILSON IDOLATERS

Questionaire No. 1—Will All the Wilson Notes Be at His Notification? How Did Fool Free Trade Hit Your Line of Business Just Before the Battles Began?—When the War Babies Die Will You Weep at the Funeral?

The question habit grows. You may ask a question of any one. Why should the dear old public escape? Here are a few from the New York Sun for the man in the street:

Do you approve of the rivers and harbors loot?

Do you want four years more of watchful waiting, with the national guardsmen undergoing military training in tropical climate in midsummer?

Do you hold that the duty of the United States is to serve humanity and let its own citizens be killed and outraged?

Do you feel proud of notes with nothing behind them?

What do you think of the Vera Cruz adventure?

Would you like to have been an American soldier at Carrizal?

Do you love Carranza?

Do you believe in a financial regime conducted largely in the interest of one section of the country?

Do you desire to cut the Philippines loose in order that Japan may gobble them?

Do you want four more years of Daniels?

Do you approve of wrecking the diplomatic service to provide jobs for deserving Democrats?

Are you in favor of inflation?

Do you believe in preparedness for a flood of cheap European wares as soon as peace comes?

Have you noticed the significant increase of imports in the past year, despite the war?

How did fool free trade hit your line of business before August, 1914?

And your friends?

Were you all cheered up by the Underwood tariff bill?

Do you think the doubling of the income tax is fair while millions' worth of competitive imports come in free?

Where are you going to be when the war babies die and business slips back to the cold, hard normal basis?

Can you conceive of any possible good to you or to the country from another presidential term like the present one?

Will you perpetuate sectionalism, greed, ignorance, stupidity—general ineptitude in congress?

DENIES ASSAILING MR. HUGHES

Percy Mackaye Writes He Never Saw "Authors' Letter" With His Name Appended.

Percy Mackaye, playwright, whose name appeared as one of the signers of the so-called "authors' letter," published in the newspapers last week, knew nothing about the matter until after publication, according to a statement given out yesterday at Republican national headquarters. The letter attacked Charles E. Hughes' criticism of President Wilson as "nonconstructive" and propounded ten questions for Mr. Hughes to answer. In a letter to Mr. Hughes Mr. Mackaye said:—

"My attention has just been called to an open letter addressed to you, printed in the New York Herald of August 2, signed by a number of professional writers, among whom my name is included. I beg to send you this word, to say that I did not sign the letter and never saw or heard of the letter until it was shown to me in print."

It was stated at Republican headquarters that neither Mr. Hughes nor any of his staff had seen the letter except as it appeared in the newspapers.

POINTS FROM HUGHES' SPEECHES

Reckless extravagance of the Democrats is an insult to the American people.

Deserving Democrats! Deserving in heaven's name of what?

We have a splendid system of government, on paper, but we want that system vitalized.

The pork barrel bill brings a blush of shame to the cheeks of every American.

I am here because I have a vision of what America needs.

An idle American will always feel uncomfortable.

America will not hold her own by high sounding phrases.

Are we not a nation great enough to have sufficient foresight to protect our borders in a sensible fashion by means of sensible preparedness?

If we state our rights in a firm and determined manner it should carry conviction. There should be no vacillation in connection with that assertion.

ITALY DECLARES WAR ON GERMANY

King Victor Emmanuel Asks Switzerland to Inform Berlin of Her Action.

FORMAL DECLARATION SENT

Rome.—"The Italian Government declares in the name of the King that Italy considers herself to be in a state of war with Germany, as from Aug. 28, and begs the Swiss Government to convey this information to the Imperial German Government."

In these formal words Italy declared war upon Germany.

Declaration of war by Italy on Germany had been expected for several days owing to the fact that Italian troops are fighting against the Germans in Greece.

The declaration will make it possible to employ Italian troops against the Germans in France, if General Joffre deems such a measure advisable.

Diplomatic circles in Rome were assured of intervention in the war by Rumania against the Central Empire.

A possibility much discussed here is that a large contingent of Italian troops will be sent into France to aid the Allies on the western front. A great offensive invasion of Alsace, directed from Belfort as a base, is declared to be the plan of the Allied commanders.

Italy's declaration of war on Germany brings to an end of the strangest situations recorded in the history of nations—the mysterious rentention of peace between these two countries for more than two years after the outbreak of the conflict which burst the Triple Alliance and which resulted on May 23, 1915, in an open break between Italy and Austria-Hungary.

Though thrown into the maelstrom of a war against a world in arms by her Hapsburg ally, Germany has not been officially at war with Italy until that country now has made the long expected move. No aim in the diplomatic field has been more ardently pursued by the Kaiser than to avert an open break with his former ally At the beginning of the war Italy renounced the Triple Alliance and declared for a policy of neutrality. On May 23, 1915, she declared war on Austro-Hungary, yielding to over whelming pressure of public sentiment and rejecting sweeping territorial offers from her former ally On Aug. 23, 1915, she followed this up with a declaration of war against Turkey, Germany's pet protege.

On Feb. 16 last, the Italian Government requisitioned 34 of 37 German steamships interned in Italian ports and the climax came on the third day of the present month, when Italy gave notice to Germany of the termination of the Italo-German commercial treaty of 1891, which would have expired at the end of 1917.

WIPE OUT GREEK GARRISONS.

Athens.—While the operations on the frontier, where the Bulgarians are strengthening their grip on the Strumna defenses and the Serbians on the left wing have captured a section of trenches, have caused excitement throughout Greece, the heroic struggle of the Greek troops against the Bulgar invaders at Phea Petra has stirred the national imagination as nothing else since the victories of the Balkan wars.

Colonel Christodoulos, commanding Seres region, reports that the Greek garrison at Phea Petra put up a splendid resistance and though not numerous fought with unexpected valor, disputing every inch of ground.

The Colonel made this statement declaring that there still remain Greek soldiers worthy to be classed as companions of Leonidas's soldiers, men who know how to die in order to save the honor of Greece. Phea Petra, he says, will perhaps one day figure in history with the Thermopylae.

Lack of Impartiality Charged by Kaiser's Official Orgen.

London.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Copenhagen says:

PROCLAMATION

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND CREATING A BUDGET SYSTEM.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1916, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 159 of said Acts, being an Act to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, "Legislative Department," of the Constitution of this State; and which said Act is in words and figures following:

"CHAPTER 159.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, regulating the making of appropriations by the General Assembly of Maryland in regular session, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two houses concurring.) That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 52 of Article III of the Constitution of Maryland.

Sec. 52. The General Assembly shall not appropriate any money out of the Treasry except in accordance with the followin provisions:

Sub-Section A:

Every appropriation bill shall be either a Budget Bill, or a Supplementary Appropriation Bill, as hereinafter mentioned.

Sub-Section B:

First. Within twenty days after the convening of the General Assembly (except in the case of a newly elected Governor, and then within thirty days after his inauguration,) unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly for the session at which the Budget is to be submitted, the Governor shall submit to the General Assembly two budgets, one for each of the ensuing fiscal years. Each budget shall contain a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the particular fiscal year to which it relates; and shall show the estimated surplus or deficit of revenues at the end of such year. Accompanying each budget shall be a statement showing: (1) the revenues and expenditures for each of the two fiscal years next preceding; (2) the current assets, liabilities, reserves and surplus or deficit of the State; (3) the debts and funds of the State; (4) an estimate of the State's financial condition as of the beginning and end of each of the fiscal years covered by the two budgets above provided; (5) any explanation the Governor may desire to make as to the important features of any budget and any suggestion as to methods for the reduction or increase of the State's revenue.

Second. Each budget shall be divided into two parts, and the first part shall be designated "Governmental Appropriations" and shall embrace an itemized estimate of the appropriations: (1) for the General Assembly as certified to the Governor in the manner hereinafter provided; (2) for the Executive Department; (3) for the Judiciary Department, as provided by law, certified to the Governor by the Comptroller; (4) to pay and discharge the principal and interest of the debt of the State of Maryland in conformity with Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, and all laws enacted in pursuance thereof; (5) for the salaries payable by the State under Constitution and laws of the State; (6) for the establishment and maintenance throughout the State of a thorough and efficient system of public schools in conformity with Article VIII of the Constitution and with the laws of the State; (7) for such other purposes as are set forth in the Constitution of the State.

Third. The second part shall be designated "General Appropriations," and shall include all other estimates of appropriations.

The Governor shall deliver to the presiding officer of each house the budgets and a bill for all the proposed appropriations of the budgets clearly itemized and classified and the presiding officer of each house shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein, and such bill shall be known as the "Budget Bill." The Governor may, before final action thereon by the General Assembly, amend or supplement either of said budgets to correct an oversight or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the General Assembly by delivering such an amendment or supplement to the presiding officers of both houses; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as a modification of or a substitute for any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may affect.

The General Assembly shall not amend the budget bill so as to affect either the obligations of the State under Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, or the provisions made by the laws of the State for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools, or the payment of any salaries required to be paid by the State of Maryland by the Constitution thereof; and the General Assembly may amend the bill by increasing or diminishing the items therein relating to the General Assembly and by increasing the items therein relating to the judiciary, but except as hereinbefore specified, may not alter the said bill except to strike out or reduce items therein, provided, however, that the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be decreased during his term of office; and such bill when and as passed by both houses shall be a law immediately without further action by the Governor.

Fourth. The Governor and such representatives of the executive departments, boards, officers and commissions of the State expending or supplying for State's money, as have been designated by the Governor for this purpose, shall have the right, and when requested by either house of the Legislature, it shall be their duty to appear and be heard with respect to any budget bill during the consideration thereof, and to answer inquiries relative thereto.

Sub-Section C: Supplementary Appropriation Bills:

Neither house shall consider other appropriations until the Budget Bill has been finally acted upon by both houses, and no such other appropriation shall be valid except in accordance with the provisions following: (1) Every such appropriation shall be embodied in a separate bill limited to some single work, object or purdose therein stated and called herein a Supplementary Appropriation Bill; (2) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall provide the revenue necessary to pay the appropriation thereby made by a tax, direct or indirect, to be laid and collected as shall be directed in said Bill. (3) No Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall become a law unless it be passed in each house by a vote of a majority of the whole number of the members elected; and in the yeas and nays recorded on its final passage; (4) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall be presented to the Governor of the State as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution and thereafter all the provisions of said Section shall apply.

Nothing in this amendment shall be construed as preventing the Legislature from passing at any time in accordance with the provisions of Section 28 of Article III of the Constitution and subject to the Governor's power of approval as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution an appropriation bill to provide for the payment of any obligation of the State of Maryland within the protection of Section 10 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the United States.

Sub-Section D: General Provisions:

First. If the Budget Bill shall not have been finally acted upon by the Legislature three days before the expiration of its regular session, the Governor may, and it shall be his duty to issue a proclamation extending the session for such further period as may, in his judgment, be necessary for the passage of such Bill; but no other matter than such Bill shall be considered during such extended session except a provision for the cost thereof.

Second. The Governor for the purpose of making up his budgets shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to require from the proper State officials, including herein all executive departments, all executive and administrative offices, bureaus boards, commissions and agencies expending or supervising the expenditure of, and all institutions applying for State moneys and appropriations, such itemized estimates and other information, in such form and at such times as he shall direct. The estimates for the Legislative Department, certified by the presiding officer of each house, of the Judiciary, as provided by law, certified by the Comptroller, and for the public schools, as provided by law shall be transmitted to the Governor, in such form and at such times as he shall direct, and shall be included in the budget without revision.

The Governor may provide for public hearings on all estimates and may require the attendance at such hearings of representatives of all agencies, and of all institutions applying for State moneys. After such public hearings he may, in his discretion, revise all estimates except those for the legislative and judiciary departments and for the public schools as provided by law.

Third. The Legislature may, from time to time, enact such laws, not inconsistent with this Section, as may be necessary and proper to carry out it provisions

Fourth. In the event of any inconsistency between any of the provisions of this Section and any of the other provisions of the Constitution, the provisions of this Section shall prevail. But nothing herein shall in any manner affect the provisions of Section 34 of Article III of the Constution or of any laws heretofore or hereafter passed in pursuance thereof, or be construed as preventing the Governor from calling extraordinary sessions of the Legislature, as provided by Section 16 of Article II, or as preventing the Legislature at such extraordinary sessions from considering any emergency appropriations.

If any item of any appropriation bill passed under the provisions of this Section shall be held invalid upon any ground, such invalidity shall not affect the legality of the Bill or of any other item of such Bill or Bills.

Section 2. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said foregoing Section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution shall at the next ensuing general election, being the Presidential and Congressional election, being the Presidential and Congressional, election, to be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, nineteen hundred and sixteen, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection in conformity with the directions contained in Article XVI of this State, and at said election the vote on said proposed amendment to the constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be placed the following synopsis of said amendment under the caption of 'CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROVIDING FOR A BUDGET.'

"This amendment provides that the Governor shall present to the Legislature soon after it is convened a Budget giving a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the two succeeding fiscal years showing clearly any surplus or deficit in State funds. In these estimates he shall make provision for the interest and sinking funds of all State debts, for all salaries as fixed by law, and for the public schools as fixed by law. With regard to most other matters he may revise the estimates presented to him either by State Officers or State-aided institutions. The Legislature may not increase the estimates presented by the Governor or pass any additional appropriation act except by a majority vote and must make provision by tax for such increase or additional appropriation. The Legislature may not alter in any appropriation act the provision made by law for the State debt, or for the judiciary, but may reduce all other items in the Governor's estimates; and the words 'for the Constitutional Amendment' and 'against the Constitutional Amendment' as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote in accordance with Article XVI of the Constitution.

Approved March 28, 1916."

Now, therefore, I, Emerson C. Harrington, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct a copy of this Proclamation, containing a full, true and correct copy of the text of said Chapter 159 of the Acts of Maryland of 1916, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which said newspapers in the City of Baltimore to be printed in the German language, once a week for three months next preceding the General Election to be held in this State on November 7th, 1916, and at which election the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be submitted, in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

ROBIN REDBREAST GETS DRUNK DOWN IN DIXIE

But His Conduct is Above Reproach When Visiting His Friends in the North

Robin Redbreast, hero of the story books and well known model in the bird kingdom, has been charged with leading a dual life. In the North, a sober, industrious, home-loving father, the allegation is that he spends his winters in the South in riotous living. Even in Georgia, where state prohibition prevails, he is reported as having been seen drunk in public. On coming north, however, it is said he always reforms.

Asked for an opinion in the case of Cock Robin, Secretary Pearson of the National Association of Audubon Societies, an authority on birds and their habits, said he had frequently seen robins in the South so intoxicated that they could scarcely flutter along the ground. The misdemeanor is reported to occur in the Southern states where grows the China tree, also known as the "Pride of India," or "Persan Lilac."

Robins sometimes eat the berries of this tree which, having absorbed rainwater, form an alcholic liquid which intoxicates birds, causing them to lose control of themselves and fall to the ground. Thus, many birds are captured and eaten by the negroes of the South.

It is said that, during the Civil War, soldiers gathered china berries and distilled from them an alcholic beverage, which became quite popular. The prohibition people are said to be looking into the tree's alleged properties.

The China tree, scientists say, is very common along the lower Gulf coast country, where it grows very rapidly and is a popular shade tree. Its abundant lilac-colored flowers appear early in the spring and the leaves are retained late into autumn, followed by clusters of yellow berries.

Notwithstanding Robin Redbreast's occasional sprees, the Audubon Societies give him a good general reputation in an attractively illustrated little bulletin which they are sending out from their New York offices to anyone who will send them a two-cent stamp.

BUBONIC PLAGUE

Has Been Fought Since 1661 By Scientists The World Over.

It is a remarkable fact, confirmed by many observations, that many physicians who have devoted considerable labor to the study of a particular disease have themselves died of that disease. One of the most interesting examples is that of John Daniel Major, born August 16, 1624, in Breslau, a physician and naturalist of no mean ability. Bitten early by the wanderlust, he studied at Wittenburg, took courses at many of the schools in Germany, and finally went to Italy where he received the decree of doctor of medicine at Padua in 1660. Returning to his own country, he resided for a short time in Silesia, and in 1661 married at Wittenburg, Margaret Dorothy, a daughter of the celebrated Sennett. The following year his young wife was stricken with plague and died after an illness of eight days. Distracted by his loss, Major wandered up and down Europe studying plague wherever he found it in the hope that he might discover a cure for the disease that had bereaved him. Spain, Germany, France and Russia were visited by him. He settled in 1965 in Kiel, where he was made professor of botany and the director of the botanical gardens. He made frequent voyages, however, always in quest of the remedy for plague. Finally in 1693, he was called to Stockholm to treat the queen of Charles the Eleventn, then ill with plague. But before he could render her any service, he contracted the disease and died on the third of August.

The bubonic plauge of to-day is identical with the black death of the Middle Ages. Primarily a disease of rodents caused by a short dumb-bell shaped microscopic vegetable, the pest bacillus, it occurs in man in three forms; the pneumonic, which has a death rate of almost 100 per cent.; the septicaemic, which is nearly as fatal, and the bubonic in which even with the most modern methods of treatment the mortality is about 50 per cent. It is a disease of commerce, spreading around the globe in the body of the ship-borne rat. It is estimated that every case of human plague costs the municipality in which it occurs at least $7,500. This does not take into account the enormous loss due to disastrous quarantines and the commercial paralysis which the fear of the disease so frequently produces.

The disease is now treated by a serum discovered through the genius of Yersin. This is used in much the same way as is diphtheria antitoxin.

Plague is transferred from the sick rodent to the well man by fleas. The sick rat has enormous numbers of plague bacilli in its blood. The blood is taken by the flea which, leaving the sick rat, seeks refuge and sustenance on the body of a human being to whom it tranfers the infection.

Since plague is a disease of rodents and since it is carried from sick rodent to well men by fleas, safety from the disease lies in the exclusion of rodents, not only exclusion from the habitation of man but also from the ports and cities of the world. Those who dwell in rat-proof surroundings take no plague. Not only should men dwell in rat-proof surroundings, but he should also live in rat-free surroundings. The day is passed when the rodent served a useful purpose as the unpaid city scavenger. Rats will not come where there is no food for them. Municipal cleanliness may be regarded as a partial insurance against plague. The prayer that no plague come nigh our dwelling is best answered, however by rat-proofing the habitations of man. Modern sanitary science has evolved a simple and efficient weapon against the pestilence which walketh in darkness and striketh at noonday, and the U. S. Public Health Service has put this knowledge into practical operation and thus speedily eradicated plagve wherever it has appeared in the United States.

DR. FRANCE AND SENATOR ZIHLMAN VISIT GARRETT

Came Here to Appear Before Voters at The Park on Saturday Afternoon.

By reason of the fact that the farmers of the county were engaged up to their eyes at work on their farms, Garrett County Day at Mountain Lake Park on last Saturday, was not up to expectations in any respect, but notwithstanding this fact quite a number gathered there to spend the day.

Dr. Joseph Irwin France, Republican nominee for the United States Senate, and Mr. H. Dorsey Etchison, Democratic nominee for Congress, were both present and met the assembled people and spent the day quite pleasantly.

State Senator Zihlman, Republican nominee for Congress, did not get to the Park at all, owing to the press of other engagements which kept him at his office in Cumberland until a late hour in the day. He came to Oakland, however, on train No. 55 in the afternoon where he and Dr. France met and where they visited quite a number of their mutual friends.

Typhoid Fever at Crellin.

Three well developed cases of typhoid fever are being treated at Crellin by local physicians, one of the patients being Mrs. Charles Reams. The State Health officer visited Crellin last Saturday and after making a survey of the situation recommended that to prevent a general outbreak of the disease all residents of the place be vaccinated. This was consented to and yesterday the work of administering the virus was started by the physicians. The water supply and unsanitary conditions at Crellin are credited with being the cause of the cases now being treated.

SEED POTATO INSPECTION.

State Extension Service Interested In Garrett.

On August 28th and 29th Prof. C. E. Temple, State Plant Pathologist, visited the seed potato fields in the vicinity of Oakland, for the purpose of determining the relative value of the tubes for seed. The fields were inspected for foreign varieties and for diseases.

The inspected fields were planted with Irish Cobblers secured by Mr. R. E. Sliger, Cashier of the First National Bank, and it was at his request that the Extension Service sent Mr. Temple to inspect the fields. Mr. Temple's report on the inspection follows:

DEAR MR. SLIGER:—In compliance with your request I take pleasure in submitting my report on the inspection of the fields of Irish Cobbler potatoes in your vicinity. I visited eleven fields of Cobblers and dug several hills in each field.

The most conspicuous disease observed was the late blight. This is the most destructive and rapidly spreading disease that the Irish Potato is heir to. It prefers a cool moist climate, such as you have in Western Maryland. Where such climate prevails, frequent sprayings with Bordeaux Mixture, 4-4-50, are necessary to insure a crop. Five sprayings were required this year to control the disease. The total expense of spraying potatoes should not exceed one dollar per acre per application and the profits of spraying on years when blight is severe are many fold. In fact some of the fields visited are almost a total loss. However, the small tubers from plants killed prematurely make fairly good seed. So I would advise that they be kept for seed at home, even though they may be very small. All tubers of this variety, at least down to one inch in diameter, may be used for seed.

For some reason or another, there were some plants of late varieties mixed in with the Cobblers. All plants of late varieties, should be removed separately and they should not be used for seed. This is very important, as, no doubt, every grower clearly understands. It is the mixture of late varieties with the extra early Cobblers, that makes the Cobblers unfit for seed on the Eastern Shore and in Virginia. So, whatever the growers may do, they should hold on to their Cobbler stock and root out all late varieties mixed with it.

I would suggest also that next year each grower should try planting some Cobblers as early as it is safe to plant potatoes, and some a little later.

There is one thing that should always be done wherever blight has killed the vines: as soon as the vines die, dig the potatoes and store them in a dark dry place. A barn floor is a good place to store potatoes at this time of the year, if sufficient hay is put over them to shut out the light. The light will not injure them for seed but it will cause a bitter taste to develop in them, making them undesirable for table stock.

In summing up, let me assure you that if the growers will remove the hills of the late varieties from the Cobblers and dig the Cobblers now or as soon as the vines die, they will have some good Cobbler seed. The tubers of all are practically free from scab and other tuber diseases.

The Cobbler fields of the following were inspected: Mrs. L. F. Tower, Mr. Jack Stevenson, Mr. H. B. Harvey, Mr. F. O. Hixan, Mr. O. C. Bittinger, Mr. F. A. Thayer, Mr. B. C. Scott, Mr. J. B. Cheuvront, Mr. M. S. Mellott, Mr. A. D. Naylor, Mr. Abel DeWitt.

Special mention should be made of Mrs. Tower's Cobblers as they are of good size and almost free from the blight. This is due to the fact that she sprayed. She has also placed a stake near every hill of other varieties in her Cobblers, so that they may be dug separately. This is a good practice.

Allow me to commend you in your good work of encouraging the potato work in Western Maryland. I should think that every farmer could profitably grow from five to twenty acres of potatoes every year, but they must spray for the blight.

Very truly yours,
C. E. TEMPLE,
State Plant Pathologist.

A Double Wedding.

AUSTRIAN NOBLEMAN NOW A U. S. CITIZEN

Chief Engineer of Kendall Railroads a Scion of the Royal Family of Austria.

Chief Engineer Von Planta of the Raseburg & Eastern Railroad soon to be constructed from Roseburg, Ore., to the Umpqua River Forest Reserve to develop the Kendall Bros.' timber holdings in Oregon, came east several weeks ago to do some engineering for the Kendall Lumber Co., in connection with the Preston Railroad which brings the logs from Garrett County, Md., and Preston County, W. Va., to the Kendall mill at Crellin, Md. He was a guest at Kendalwood Saturday night and Sunday and is this week doing some engineering for the Kendalls' unfinished railroad from Cheat Haven, W. Va., to their new lumber mill on the Cheat River.

Mr. Von Planta who is an eminent civil engineer, has royal blood in his veins, being a member of the Austrian nobility. He is a nephew of Emperor Franz Josef and was a cousin of the Archduke whose assassination a little over two years ago at Serajeva was the spark that kindled the flame that has embroiled all Europe in the greatest war the world has ever known.

Mr. Von Planta's father is inspector general of the Austrian armies. He was a lieutenant in the Austrian army before he came to America several years before the out-break of the great war, owing to a disagreement with his royal uncle. He has married an American girl and taken out naturalization papers to become an American citizen.

Notwithstanding his royal pedigree, Mr. Von Planta is a very democratic gentleman, courteous to all and modestly eschewing any claim to superiority on account of his distinguished ancestry.—Meyersdale Republican.

MARYLAND S. S. ASSOCIATION

Mr. A. T. White Is Superintendent of the Local Branch.

Maryland has a new secretary for its Sunday School Association in Dr. E. Morris Fergusson, who, while serving in the same position in New Jersey established the famous School of Methods at Asbury Park. He put the schools of Delaware upon a successful basis. He has been the educational superintendent for the Presbyterian Board of Publication's work for Sunday Schools. He is the author of "How to Run a Little Sunday School," the only book of its kind and a uniquely helpful one. He will be in Mt. Lake Park on Sept. 19 where he will speak at ten o'clock and again at 2.

A. T. White, the superintendent of the local Sunday school, was requested by Mr. Hooper, the President of the State Association, who spent a little time in the Park this summer, to act as temporary county secretary and it is through him that we are to have the privilege of hearing Mr. Fergusson. Announcements have been sent to all schools whose addresses are known but the press notice is the only means of reaching many.

Upon the great map displayed at the state convention last year Garrett county was in crepe, while others had banners and badges for the work done. Supporting these men who know how and are desirous of acquainting us with the best methods of procedure in our schools will make such an exhibit impossible at the next State meeting.

Reported Having Seen a Bear.

A report from Bayard, this county, is to the effect that a large black bear was seen near that point a few nights ago by a party of automobilists who were on their way from Bayard to Dobbin, the animal occupying the road at the junction of the Dixon and Dobbin roads. When the lights of the automobile reflected in bruin's eyes it is said by the members of the party that he curled his lip and made off into the woods.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OFFERS MANY FAIR PRIZES

For the best Polled-Angus bull, $10.00.

For the peck of best Irish Cobbler potatoes, $5.00.

For the peck of best potatoes of other varieties, $5.00.

For the best loaf of home made bread, $2.00.

For the best pan of biscuts, $2.00.

For the best apple pie baked by a girl not over 16, $1.00.

The awards are to be made in accordance with the decision of the judges appointed by the Fair Association.

Longevity Seems to Favor This Family

Garrett V. Dixon, a retired farmer, of Friendsville, was visiting friends and relations in the Tri Towns Sunday, including Miss Rachel Wilson, who is a cousin, at the residence of Mr. Overfield on Green street. He is a grandson of Joseph Dixon, who attained to the good old age of 106 at Elk Garden, and it is an interesting fact that he was raised in the Wilson family prominently mentioned recently. Mr. Abraham Wilson having attained to about a hundred at Altamont. They were related to the David Davis family, prominent in the Tri Towns Mrs. Davis living to be quite old, thus showing that longevity favors families who live according to proper rules. The subject of this notice is the father of D. M. Dixon, a prominent general merchant at Oakland, and bids fair to live a long life himself—Piedmont Independant.

FIERCE DRIVE WINS KRONSTADT

Rustchuk, on Danube, and Varna, Black Sea Port, Bombarded by Entente's Latest Ally

AT TRANSYLVANIA'S GATES

London.—Rumanian armies drove the Austrians from all passes in Transylvania, and captured Kronstadt, the most important city in southeastern Hungary.

Turkey declared war against Rumania. The action of the Sublime Porte followed quickly upon that of Germany.

Bulgaria is expected to follow suit, although the delay of the Sofia government in acting is reported to have caused much uneasiness in Berlin, where it is feared the Russophile party is gaining ascendency in the Bulgarian councils.

In view of reports, however, that Rustchuk, on the Danube, and Varna, the great Bulgarian Black Sea port have both been bombarded by Rumania, it is not expected here that the Bulgar government can much longer procrastinate.

News of Turkey's declaration of war was received almost simultaneously with official statements from Bucharest and Vienna which indicate that the Rumanians are making wide inroads upon Transylvania soil.

Vienna admits a withdrawal along the whole Rumanian front, "in accordance with plans provided for a long time ago in case of war." This withdrawal, the Austrian War Office sarcastically observes, probably will lead "the enemy to boast of having occupied Petrosend, Kronstadt, (Prusso) and Kesdi-Vasarholy" These, with Hermanstadt, are the principal cities within striking distance of the frontier

Rumania's intervention on the side of the Allies is the chief subject of discussion on the part of the press and public in Germany. Indignation over what is generally characterized by the newspapers as "Rumania's treachery" continues at fever heat, but everywhere stress is laid upon the assertion that from a military standpoint this latest addition to the ranks of the Central Empires' enemies will not alter the outcome of the war, which it is still insisted will be a Teuton victory.

An Exchange telegram from Athens reports that Rumania is preparing an ultimatum to Bulgaria, demanding the evacuation of Serbian territory seized by the Bulgars last winter. The ultimatum is based on a demand that the territorial status quo established by the Treaty of Bucharest after the second Balkan war be restored. By this treaty Macedonia was divided between Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece. Bulgaria seized the Serbian share last winter.

The British press representative at Saloniki sends a report which is current there that King Constantine of Greece has fled to Larissa, in Thessaly, to take refuge with a guard of 300 Uhlans.

DECLARES WAR ON GERMANY

Rome.—"The Italian Government declares in the name of the King that Italy considers herself to be in a state of war with Germany, as from Aug. 28, and begs the Swiss Government to convey this information to the Imperial German Government."

In these formal words Italy declared war upon Germany.

Declaration of war by Italy on Germany had been expected for several days owing to the fact that Italian troops are fighting against the Germans in Greece.

The declaration will make it possible to employ Italian troops against the Germans in France, if General Joffre deems such a measure advisable.

A possibility much discussed here is that a large contingent of Italian troops will be sent into France to aid the Allies on the western front. A great offensive invasion of Alsace, directed from Belfort as a base, is declared to be the plan of the Allied commanders.

WILSON PROPOSES ANTI-STRIKE LAW

Power to Draft Men to Run Railroads and an Eight-Hour Day

APPEARS BEFORE CONGRESS

Would Draft Men Into Service If Necessary—Urges Arbitration Law to Safeguard Nation In Future—May Force 8-Hour Day.

Washington.—Appearing in person before the two houses of Congress, assembled in joint session to hear him, President Wilson read an address in which he proposed far-reaching legislation to meet the crisis in the relations of the railroads and their 400,000 trainmen.

His program offers the most radical recommendations relating to disputes between capital and labor ever laid before Congress by a President of the United States. While the immediate design of the President's plan was to prevent the strike order from becoming effective, he emphasized that the legislation he suggested for enactment was intended to bring permanent relief and obviate the possibility of a general tie-up of railroad service in the future.

In summarized form this is what President Wilson before Congress proposed in regard to the railroad wage controversy and threatened strike:

First—Enlarge the membership of the Interstate Commerce Commission to equip it to deal with larger situations.

Second—That an eight-hour day be established for all trainmen in interstate commerce.

Third—That a commission investigate the effect of the eight hour day but without recommendation; that the public may learn from a disinterested source the merits of the question.

Fourth—That the Interstate Commerce Commission consider the increased cost of the eight hour day in making rates.

Fifth—Amend the mediation law to prevent strikes or lockouts while industrial disputes are being investigated.

Sixth—That the President be empowered to operate the railways in case of military necessity.

BACON CAMPAIGN IS ACTIVE

State Headquarters of Senatorial Aspirant at Murray Hill Hotel.

New York.—The campaign of Robert Bacon for the Republican nomination for United States Senator began in earnest when he made his first speech before the Jamestown Chautauqua.

Immediately afterward the headquarters of the Robert Bacon Senatorial League opened in the Murray Hill Hotel.

The league has been organized to inform the voters of Mr. Bacon's qualifications and has already received applications for membership from all over the state.

Joseph H. Choate has been chosen honorary chairman of the advisory committee and Henry W. Goddard chairman of the executive committee. Mr. Goddard is in charge of headquarters. Local branches of the league will be established throughout the state in response to requests from hundreds of voters who want to do something to aid the former ambassador.

"We intend to lay before every enrolled Republican voter in the state the eminent qualifications of Robert Bacon to represent the Empire State in the United States Senate at this time," Mr. Goddard said. "The many supporters of high statesmanship, national honor and preparedness throughout the state who are urging us to remind the public of what Mr Bacon is and stands for intend that the great body of voters in the Republican party shall have the opportunity to learn the large measure of this man whom the party may put forward to represent it before the people."

British Columbia Salvage Co. Plans to Refloat Kosmos Liner.

New York.—The scarcity of ships caused by the unusual demands of the war, and to a lesser degree by submarine activities, has placed such an extraordinary value on seagoing hulls that almost every expedient is resorted to in order to obtain freight carriers. An example of this is the expedition now working to salvage the $1,000,000 steel Kosmos liner Sesostris which has lain stranded for 10 years

ITALY SEIZES VENEZIA PALACE

Famous Property of Austria-Hungary Since 1797 Taken as Reprisal.

Rome.—The famous Palazzo di Venezia, property of the Austro-Hungarian government since 1797, has been seized by Italy as an act of retribution for the violations of international law by Austria, it was announced.

The Palazzo di Venezia, is a historic and magnificent structure dating from the year 1455, when it was begun by Cardinal Pietro Barbo.

15,000 MILITIA ORDERED BACK

War Department Sending Militia From the Border to Camps

PERSHING TO QUIT MEXICO

Three New York Regiments, Two From Jersey, to Return—Selection Left to Gen. Funston—Places to Be Taken by Troops on Way.

Washington.—Orders for the return to their state mobilization camps of 15,000 National Guardsmen now on the Mexican border were issued by the War Department.

This was interpreted in some quarters here as a sign that the President was preparing to meet any emergency railroad strikes might create. Virtually the entire mobile army is now on the border.

General Funston was directed to return three regiments from New York, two from New Jersey and one each from California, Oregon, Washington and Louisiana.

Secretary Baker announced the order after a conference with President Wilson at the White House. Earlier in the day the department had ordered to their home stations 6,000 regular Coast Artillerymen who have been serving as infantry on the border.

The Secretary's statement said:

"In view of the fact that substantially this number of troops who have not done patrol duty on the border are now on their way there, it is felt that this number can be spared.

More to Be Sent Home.

"In a few days, if transportation facilities remain undisturbed, the department intends to order home some more regiments, and possibly to replace them with troops now in their mobilization camps in the several states."

Regiments to be sent home were not designated by number, and it is understood that their selection is left to General Funston.

Department officials think there is ample force on the border now to insure proper protection, and with the immediate gravity of the Mexican situation constantly lessening, it is not considered necessary to strengthen General Funston's command. The policy now is to give all of the state troops called into the Federal service opportunity to see service on war footing along the international line.

Pershing Withdrawal Soon.

Withdrawal of General Pershing's expedition in Mexico, which is expected to follow soon after the meeting of the Mexican-American joint commission at Portsmouth, N. H., probably will lead to the early return home of all the Guardsmen.

Pershing's troops added to the regulars already on the border, army officers think, would make the patrol sufficiently strong unless some new trouble developed.

U. S. CRUISER MEMPHIS LOST

Warship Hurled on Rocks in San Domingo Harbor by Sudden Storm.

Santo Domingo.—The United States armored cruiser Memphis was driven ashore on the rocks of the outer harbor by a great, sudden ground swell.

All the fires under the boilers of the Memphis were extinguished by the inrush of water.

The United States gunboat Castine managed to escape by putting to sea. The gunboat Castine was dragged close in toward shore during the storm, but did not strike and was uninjured. The Memphis is Admiral Pond's flagship, and he sent word that nearly all the officers and men on board would be saved.

Memphis driven ashore by heavy sea at Santo Domingo City, west of lighthouse, about 4:20 P. M. She is lying close under bluff.

The Congressional Record

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29—Among many other activities, Uncle Sam is the most prolific publisher in the world—an achievement which has been thrust upon him by necessity rather than built up by ambitious zeal. Every day a continuous flood of copy pours into his printing office from all the government departments, covering every imaginable subject from the gross consistency of oleomargarine to the relative heat of the stars. From the capitol comes an incessant stream of bills—small bills for the relief of John Smith and Harry Jones; large bills for army appropriations and shipping boards; and interspersed with these are huge stacks of committee hearings requiring immediate printing. As if this were not enough to keep four thousand people busy, at midnight is rushed in the copy for the daily organ of Congress—the Congressional Record.

It is the Record more than anything else, which best illustrates the marvelous efficiency of Uncle Sam's printing business. Although the copy is never received until twelve o'clock and then is often held up for correction, the Record must be off the presses and at the Union Station to catch the mail at 6 A. M. Fortunately, the Union Station is only a block away and is connected with the printing office by an underground passage. Through this electric conveyors shoot the still warm copies of the Record in mail bags from one building to another, thus saving the usual delay of local transportation. In addition to this, every possible time-saving factory device is employed to insure a speed maximum. The fastest presses are used and electric trucks carry the Record in its various processes of manufacture from one part of the building to another. By this system, combined with the expert skill of its operatives, the printing office turns out the thirty-two thousand copies of the Congressional Record every morning, ranging from 32 to 128 page, on time every morning.

Of these thirty-two thousand copies each senator receives eighty-seven and each representative fifty-nine. There is a list of 321 paid subscribers to which it must be mailed daily, who pay for it by the session—eight dollars for a long session and four dollars for a short session. This slim subscripition list is largely made up of business men throughout the country who are interested in certain legislation. Besides these two sources of distribution, there is the Congressional Record office in Statuary Hall at the Capitol where it is sold to individuals at so much per page, but these sales are usually slight unless some particularly interesting speech or debate is recorded, and do not yield any profit. It costs the government about six hundred thousand dollars a year to publish this newspaper, which makes no provision for the reporter's fees, charged up to the expenses of Congress.

The congressional reporters are hired by contract by Uncle Sam, seven being detailed to each house. Any day the visitor to the Capitol may behold these men, their bodies tense, their pens flying as they take down in shorthand the national proceedings. Each man works until he gets tired, and then he is relieved by the next in line, and so on. As soon as he is finished, he hurries to his office, which is in the Capitol, and proceeds to make dictaphone records of his notes, from which they are written out by a corps of typists. The reporter then reads the proof of the final copy and if necessary, sends it to the office of some member of Congress who desires to make a few corrections in his remarks. At half-past eleven the last page of the day's proceedings is turned over to the messengers of the printing office and is delivered into the hands of the copy editor in that building.

While no part of the check is changed or cut out after it leaves the capitol, unless specially requested, the government has its own style of punctuation and spelling to which each document and bulletin and report must conform. From the hands of this copy editor, then, the Record goes directly to the lynotype machines, of which there are sixty-four, where it is set into type by as many operators, several of whom are women. From this point on it receives much the same treatment as any other newspaper. A matrix is made and from this a plate is cast, which is carried by truck to the press room. Again on an electric truck the sheets are rushed to the bindery where the pages are clamped together, and then it is but a few minutes before they are shooting over to the station.

In the country where the national prerogative of fee speech is considered one of the most enviable assets, the Congressional Record has a dignified and important political status. Ever since 1789, when the United States government was still looked upon as an experiment, a record has been kept of the daily sessions of Congress, giving in detail each separate debate and speech. This record was known as the Annals of Congress until the name was changed to the Register of Debates. From that it developed into the Congressional Globe and finally it became the Congressional Record, which seems likely to remain its permanent cognomen. Bound volumes of these old papers are on file in the Government Printing Office and are occasionally sold to individuals at the price of $150 per volume.

Although not attracting either the circulation or the popular interest of the regular newspaper daily, needless to say, the Record is the joy and pride of Congress. Here the members behold their eloquence reproduced on paper, and note with satisfaction the clever replies or scathing rebukes they administer throughout the course of debate to their colleagues. Moreover, the member who can not make his house vote an appropriation for a federal site in his home town can at least have his good intentions printed in the Record and sent around to his constituents. The fact that speeches are often corrected and revised many times by their authors before they appear in the Record is a fact not generally known and has no influence on the folks back home. Often whole speeches are inserted which were never delivered on the floor under the convenient privilege of "leave to extend;" and it is a practice not unknown for a member to garnish his remarks and addresses with neat little brackets enclosing the words "Loud Applause" or "Laughter." Of course, in the majority of cases these insertions are made by the reporters themselves who take them down as they come, but members occasionally put them in, if the text seems to require it.

Often corrections are requested after the copy has left the Capitol and is in the hands of the linotypers. One night, for example, a member of Congress called the office of the Superintendent of Work on the telephone and said that an important correction must be inserted after his speech in that day's Record. Now a correction is not an easy matter in a system where each process follows the other in such rapid succession, and it usually costs the government several dollars. After some trouble on this night, the Superintendent of Corrections discovered that the Record was just in the act of going to press and that it was not too late to grant the request. A few minutes later the correction arrived on a slip of payer from the Capitol, at which the whole working force was forced to laugh, although they were considerably irritated. It read merely, "Loud Applause" to be inserted in brackets.

Pleasing the oratorical congressman is only an incidental of the Record's function, however. It is really an extremely important paper containing many well-written speeches which are the products of men who have had occasion to make a thorough study of their subject and are singularly expert in delivering it. Owing to the large subscription price, the number of subscribers increases but slowly from year to year, but every once in a while a member who has made a particularly brilliant speech in the Record, ventures to estimate that it will not be long before the official organ of Congrrss will be self supporting.

"The Best-liked Car in the Country"

A Motor That Thrives on Short Rations

Motors are just like people—some have to be fed an enormous amount to keep going right, and others eat less but digest all of it—and turn every atom into energy.

The long-stroke (3 1/8 x 5 1/2) motor in the Briscoe Twenty-four is the same that made such wonderful economy records in the 1915 Briscoe—a car that led its field for value at $785.

In the Twenty-four—a car much lighter—the gasoline consumption is almost unbelievably small until you've tested it yourself. We have records of 35 miles to a gallon in actual service.

The motor is Briscoe-built, and especial attention has been given to minimizing friction. Lubrication is simple but thorough.

Here's a motor that will never "eat its head off"—but that gives you a reserve of power more than sufficient to take you wherever you want to go.

And it's in a car that for beauty, comfort and sturdiness will be a revelation to you.

A Scathing Denunciation Of The Wilson Administration

(Extracts from Colonel Roosevelt's Speech at Lewiston, Me., Thursday Night.)

Thanks to the fact that President Wilson has sometimes led us wrong, and sometimes not led us at all, and that at the best he has merely followed afar off when convinced that it was politically safe to do so, we are at this moment no more prepared to defend ourselves than we were two years ago when the world war broke out.

* * *

There should be in this country a system of universal obligatory military training in time of peace, and in the time of war universal service in whatever capacity the man or woman shall be judged most fit to serve the Commonwealth.

* * *

As an American with exceptional international knowledge has said: ". . . A single official expression by the Government of the United States, a single sentence denying assent and recording disapproval of what Germany did in Belgium, would have given to the people of America that leadership to which they were entitled in their earnest grsping for the light. It would have ranged behind American leadership the conscience and moraltiy of the neutral world."

* * *

Let me repeat this. A greater number of Americans have been killed by Mexicans during these years, when we are officially informed that we have been at peace with them, than were killed by the Spaniards during our entire war with Spain. Moreover, when the war with Spain was through, it was through. But peace still continues to rage as furiously as ever in Mexico. . . . This Administration has displayed no more feeling of responsibility for the American women who have been raped, and for the American men, women and children who have been killed in Mexico, than a farmer shows for the rats killed by his dogs when the hay is taken from a barn. And now American people are asked to sanction this policy in the name of peace, righteusness and humanity.

* * *

And yet Mr. Wilson's defenders say that he "has kept us out of war." As a matter of fact, his policy in Mexico has combined all the evils of feeble peace with all the evils of feeble war. He has secured no benefits of war; but he has not avoided war. He has sacrificed the honor and the interest of the country; but he has not received the thirty pieces of silver. . . . But as he never followed any policy of either intervention or non-intervention with any resolution—always yielding at the critical moment to some bandit chief of whom he became fearful—both his spasms of intervention and his spasms of non-intervention have alike been entirely frutile. . . . They ask Mr. Hughes, "Would you have recognized Huerta?" The answer is that any one of several courses could have been adopted, provided only that the course adopted had been followed with resolution and with full acceptance of the responsibility involved.

* * *

There was much to be said in favor of the policy of recognizing Huerta and avoiding intervention. There was also much to be said in favor of the policy of refusing to recognize Huerta, which was intervention, and then of fully accepting the responsibility implied in intervention. But there is nothing to be said in favor of wobbling between the two policies, and neither recognizing Huerta nor acceptiug the responsibilty for the chaso caused by failure to recognize him. Yet this was the course Mr. Wilson followed.

* * *

This was on August 27, 1913. On February 2, 1914, he changed his mind (Mr. Wilson may have a single-track mind, but as has been remarked, in that event he possesses unexampled switching facilities) and lifted the embargo on arms and munitions. On Februarv 5 the papers published the news of the great rush of arms and ammunition across the border to the Mexican armies.

* * *

He admits that we have been at war; for example, on May 11, 1914, in an address over the dead marines at the Navy-yard in Brooklyn (in which, by the way, he in effect claimed sympathy on the ground that his feelings had been as much lacerated by sneers as the bodies of the dead men by bullets), he said that the marines had been engaged in a "war of service." A war of service to wohm or what? Certainly not to the United States; nor to Mexico; nor to humanity at large. Was it to Mr. Wilson?

* * *

This kind of "safety first" means duty last, honor last, courage last. I do not believe in it. I believe that it is obtained at the cost of moral degradation in the present and at the risk of national ruin in the future. . . . Not once has President Wilson squarely placed before the American people the question which Abraham Lincoln put before the American people in 1860; what is our duty? Not once has he appealed to moral idealism, to the stern enthusiasm of strong men for the right. On the contrary, he has employed every elocutionary device to lull to sleep our sense of duty, to make us content with words instead of deeds, to make our moral idealism and enthusiasm evaporate in empty phrases instead of being reduced to concrete action. . . . We cannot undo what has been done. But we can repudiate what has been done. We can regain our own self-respect and the respect of other nations for this country. We can put in power an administration which will throughout its term of power protect our own citizens and live up to our national obligations.

* * *

The next four years may well be years of tremendous national strain. Which of the two men do you, the American people, wish at the helm during these four years; the man who has been actually tried and found wanting, or the man whose whole career in public office is a guarantee of his power and good faith? But one answer is possible; and it must be given by the American people through the election of Charles Evans Hughes as President of the United States.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

The Law of Retribution.

Reason and nature declares that the law of retribution destroys the hope of the hypocrite and dessolutes and furnishes no way of escape for the confirmed sinner.

It gives no light to those adicted to sin, though it may prevent the virtuous from lapsing into sin. It shows no mercy, is no respector of persons, is impartial in its operations, so that if we are shut up to what it teaches and nothing more, we are bound hand and foot, helpless prisoners in the castle of giant despair. It crushes hope, is unrelenting and remorseless as the grave to those who have sinned, though no strictor than we could wish, if we were sinless as angels and desired to be kept from falling.

Where then can the promises of Christ to Publicans and sinners find a place—the gospel He preached to prisoners to downtrodden and outcasts, and which He offered to all men to the uttermost. Here we have a stern law with its unavoidable penalties, a law that is seen in life, felt in death and follows us through eternity.

Does the gospel destroy this law? It too has its law. If under the gospel you adhere to sin, you reap the consequences and suffer the penalties. The merciful Son of God inaugurated the gospel dispensation, under which the law is most stringently interetpred. It is reaping in accord with the sowing.

There is hope of deliverance for the worst if they repent and believe, so we would go to the thief and the profligate, the murderer and vile, to the bedside where anguish, remorse and despair are, and say, if you truly repent you shall be saved.

We would in the name of the Master, offer mercy to the chief of sinners, but his repentance must be genuine. It is the law of retribution either modified or abolished- No, but the guilty subject is changed in feeling, act and character, and is thereby delivered from further accumulation of its penalties, by a divine power, which is put in our nature.

Having turned from a life of sin, he is no more exposed to its penalties. What of retribution on the sins already committed! Are they already arrested upon repentance? Not at all. The poor sufferer dying of disease, hears the message of the gospel, repents and rests on Christ. Does he, for that reason, rise up and walk, or does the fever leave him, and is the pain expelled? Does he cease at once to suffer in his body the results of his sinful course? That moral medicine, cures the sin sick soul but not the physical evils. Mercy does not do this, she soothes the aching spirit and gives a cordial to the broken heart, but does not prevent the pain and suffering which are consequences of former sins. The man who repents and turns from the evil of his ways, may die prematurely by reason of his former sinful course. His sufferings however cease with this life while those of the impenitent go on forever.

Retribution can follow him no further than the grave, for tribulation and anguish in the world to come are the result of unrepented sins in the life that now is. This much is true, the penitent sinner finds his remorse and anguish of spirit soothed by the assurance of divine forgiveness. As to the impenitent, the law continues in force, and no power can stay it, though it is in the case of the penitent. Here is the miracle of mercy—Christ converts the sinner, brings him inco newness of life and though he may suffer some of the natural consequences of his folly, yet the curse of burden are lifted by a gradual relief through His work of promises, but in the life to come there is complete exemption and eternal deliverance.

Though we are free from condemnation when we are in Christ, we cannot escape at once from the consequences of past sins, nor from the bitter memories thereof. How they embitter life, though when we remember Calvary the anguish of remorse are gone. He soothes the wounded spirit by His grace.

We are reminded of our past record and are in despair, but when we look to the sacrifice of the cross, the blood of Jesus cleanses from all sin.

The eternal consequences have been suffered for us; the guilt is taken away and the sorrow that is occasioned by the memory of the past, leads to repentance, confession and the consciousness that we are reconciled by God in His dear Son.

Memory will be an element in this retribution. We will remember the deeds of the past, the wrongs we have done others, the abuses we have heaped upon them. We remember them now and as we think of this law, of the things we have suffered, we will be constrained to say, with one of old, "Even Adomibezek, who cut off the thumbs and great toes of the kings he had captured, and who when captured was mutilated in the same way, as I have done, so God hath requited me." Judges 1:16.

JOANNES.

This Correspondent Presents Some Facts Concerning Road Building.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Will the State of Maryland meet the State of Pennsylvania at the State line on the Young River with a state road?

The State of Pennsylvania will build a state road from Somerfield, Pennsylvania, to the State line three miles below Selbysport to the State line of Pennsylvania.

This road is now graded from Hoyes to Selbysport and from Selbysport to the State line is only three miles and in the two miles from Somerfield and three miles to Selbysport the road is almost impassable and to get to Selbysport you have to go from Somerfield to the State line of Maryland and Pennsylvania then through the Cove to Accident, then to Hoyes and down by the way of Friendsville to Selbysport a distance of over 25 miles where it could be made in five miles if this connecting link was made.

The road could be started at the bridge at Selbysport and go straight down the Yough River through the Liston, Schlossnagle and Dunham properties, then follow the old road through the Fike property to Guard's bridge, then straight through the Swalape property to the State line at Watson ond connect with the Pennsylvania road.

This piece of road would be of more benefit to the people of the western end of Garrett county than any road that could be built and would increase the valuation of the abutting properties 100 per cent and the increase of taxes would soon pay for same.

Just think of only five miles of road to be opened and built that would save a drive of twenty five miles around and the time it would save. It would put Oakland twenty miles nearer to Pittsburgh and Uniontown if it was opened.

The people of District No. 2 should hold a citizen's meeting at Selbysport and invite the County Commissioners and the State Commissioners to meet and go over the short distance and show what improvement it would be to the Western end of Garrett county.

Wake up, citizens of District No. 2, and get together on Saturday, September 30th, and invite the Maryland and Pennsylvania Commissioners to meet us on that date and go over this road and build it as it is a benefit to the citizens of both States.

The western end of Garrett county pays big taxes and has not one foot of State roads and why should she not have them and can have them if her people go after them and demand they be recognized the same as the balance of the county.

How many of the citizens of this end of the county will go in and help to get this enterprise started. All in favor of it and the holding of a citizens meeting on September 30 will kindly drop a line to W. W. Schlossnagle, Selbysport, Md.

Yours truly,

JAMES FIKE.

United States Takes Practical Step to Stop All Wars.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Attached to the appropriation bill, which calls for the Construction of a navy by the United States to be the second largest in the world, is a provision which gives the President the power to suspend building of warships if the nations want peace. This move is a long step toward world peace, and is in fact a triumph for peace. It is the outgrowth of the efforts of the National League to Enforce Peace to whose platform President Wilson committed himself last Spring. The Republican National platform also endorsed it. Former President William H. Taft is President of the League. Former Governor Warfield is President of the Maryland branch of the League. By Executive and Congressional action the United States would be willing to put its bulk of force in the arch that would support the peace of the world.

Such an arrangement, however, must take into consideration the limitation immediately of naval armaments since this is the most costly item of all. The Washington Government is preparing to move decisively toward this end as soon as the European war is over.

Hence the bill for national preparedness carries with it a move for peace. It carries a specific provision for the peace of the world. The bill says:

"Upon the conclusion of the war in Europe or as soon as it may be done, the President of the United States is authorized to invite all the great governments of the world to send representatives to a conference which shall be charged with the duty of suggesting an organization, a court of arbitration or other body, to which disputed questions between nations shall be referred for adjudication and peaceful settlement and to consider the question of disarmament and submit their recommendations to their respective governments for approval."

The bill further provides that if this effective tribunal shall have been established prior to award of contracts for Warships, thus rendering unnecessary, maintence of competitive armaments the construction of the new navy may be suspended.

"PUNCH" SUPPORTED BY FACT.

Col. Roosevelt's opening address in this campaign in advocacy of the election of Charles Evans Hughes and the straight Republican ticket displays his old-time vigor. "A speech with the punch!" is the way his myriad Pennsylvania admirers echo the applause of the Maine audience. But there was something more than "punch" in the address. It overflowed with fact. What we would like all readers to do is temporarily at least to keep in suppression the influence of brilliant rhetoric and flashing, scalpel and concentrate upon the facts presented. Take one of them—the Wilsonian Mexican policy—as a starter. Today, as Col. Roosevelt truthfully declares, the Wilson buglemen advance as his greatest achievement that "he has kept us out of war." And with what results! The Colonel answers:

Under President McKinley we had a war with Spain. Under President Wilson we are assured that we have had "peace" with Mexico. These are the words. Now the deeds. During the war with Spain fewer Americans were killed by the Spaniards than have been killed by Mexicans during the present "peace" with Mexico. Moreover, when the war with Spain was through, it was through. But "peace" still continues to rage as furiously as ever in Mexico.

Col. Roosevelt's manner of campaigning will appeal more strongly to the average man in the street than the manner of Mr. Hughes, his temperamental opposite; but each, dealing with fact in his own way, will impress the whole body of voters, and there can be no doubts as to the outcome in November.

WILSON PROVES HE'S A MISFIT

In his speech accepting the Democratic nomination, Mr. Wilson said the following, which every American ought to keep in mind, for every word is true:

The future, the immediate future, will bring us squarely face to face with many great and exacting problems which will search us through and through whether we be able and ready to play the part in the world that we mean to play. It will not bring us into their presence slowly, gently, with ceremonious introduction, but suddenly and at once, the moment the war in Europe is over. They will be new problems, most of them; many will be old problems in a new setting and with new elements which we have never dealt with or reckoned the force and meaning of before. They will require for their solution new thinking, fresh courage and resourcefulness, and in some matters radical reconsideration of policy. We must be ready to mobilize our resources alike of brains and materials.

Mr. Wilson described what he conceived to be the part the United States must play in restoring the world after the war, declaring, "We must make ourselves ready to play it intelligently, vigorously and well." There can be no dissent from that. It is what the Republican Press has asserted many times during more than a year. Here is a work of preparation in which every voter can and should take a hand directly. It is the selection of a President who can be depended upon to act for the nation "intelligently, vigorously and well." Mr. Wilson cannot be depended on so to act. The record proves it. He is a misfit in the handling of international and domestic affairs. Only a couple of examples now to make that clear.

In his Long Branch speech Mr. Wilson stated as principles involved in war situation that "we have never lost sight of or departed from."

Property rights can be vindicated by claims for damages, and no modern nation can decline to arbitrate such claims; but the fundamental rights of humanity cannot be. The loss of life irreparable. Neither can direct violations of a nation's sovereignty await vindication in suits for damages. The nation that violates these essential rights must expect to be checked and called to account by direct challenge and resistance. It at once makes the quarrel in part our own.

This also has the approval of the American people, insofar as it is not made the excuse for permitting continued invasions of our rights, property or otherwise. President Wilson says his "record is clear and consistent throughout." It is—as to his failure to vindicate the principles he has outlined. He has not stood up manfully for the "fundamental rights of humanity;" Germany was not brought to a cessation of her submarine frightfulness for over a year after she entered upon her dreadful campaign. Our national sovereignty has been directly violated many times. Have England, France or Italy been "checked and called to account by direct challenge and resistance?" Not so far as any of us knows. How would Mr. Wilson meet the new problems that will arise "suddenly and at once the moment the war in Europe is over"? Judging by his handling of the transportation crisis of last week, he would be thrown into a panic in which his sense of justice would be paralyzed, his mind frozen, his backbone wilted, his intelligence palsied. He would rush to a solution without thought of the future. The experienced diplomats of Europe would gently brush him aside with a "run along, sonny"; the great part he sees the United States playing in the readjustments would be no part at all. That is what the Wilson record reveals.

Mr. Wilson says the problems to come will "require for their solution new thinking, fresh courage and resourcefulness, and in some matters radical reconsideration of policy." Then why leave to Woodrow Wilson the consideration of them? Rather let us submit them to the clear thinker, the courageous administrator, the resourceful statesman that we know Charles E. Hughes to be. As President he will lead the United States out of the darkness into which the Democratic administration has plunged it into its rightful position of respected leadership.

Some well meaning but nevertheless misinformed person, probably with a view to making a few dollars for himself at the expense of Oakland and Oakland people, placed a large placard, we are informed, at the junction of the National Road and the Cove road at Keyser's Ridge, warning motorists that infantile paralysis was raging in Oakladd and for them to keep away. The notice had the desired effect with many and the result was that this section of Garrett county was not visited by the usual number of automobilists last Saturday and Sunday. The placard occupied a very prominent position along the roadside until it was seen by a passing Oakland motorist, who promptly removed it.

A Fountain Without Water.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Several times it has happened, while passing the Court House, I have seen some one hopefully approach the drinking fountain, press the faucet (if that be its proper name), and—that was all. No water responded to the appeal.

Inquiry brought the information that the fountain was not broken or out of order—the water was just "turned off."

It is a little hard to see just what is the purpose of a fountain without water. Surely not ornament. Anyone of us could think of a dozen more ornamental things than a dry drinking fountain to occupy the space on the Court House curk, and Oakland is not situated on the Western plains where every drop of water is precious.

Everyone, presumably, knows some of the Carnegie Library plan. Andrew Carnegie, through his agents, gives to a town a handsome library building and the town fills it with books. I have seen many such Carnegie libraries, but never one that was empty. Such a one would be a laughing stock. It is hardly necessary to point to the analogy.

The drinking fountain was a gift to Oakland. To the corporation was left the duty of supplying it with water. The coming week will bring to Oakland many strangers to attend the Fair. At present there is not a place in town where one can get a drink of water without asking for it, and thus causing some one more or less trouble.

May we not hope that for these few days, at least, our Town Council see fit to order the water turned on in the fountain?

Cashier G. A. Fraley of the Garrett National Bank, accompanied by his two sons, Messrs. Neil and Lawrence Fraley, and Mr. Max Jarboe, left Oakland Monday morning in Mr. Fraley's automobile for Baltimore for a day's outing. The return was made on Tuesday by train.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company employees have just recently completed very noticeable improvements to the Company's property in Oakland by repainting the depot and other buildings as well as the railings along the elevated walk leading to the station along Railroad street.

Mr. Stuatr F. Hamill returned home Sunday night from a brief visit to Johnstown, Pa., where he was the guest of Col. Rose and family. Mr. Hamill is the very proud father of a son who was born on Saturday of last week.

Prof. and Mrs. C. Edward Bender returned to Oakland last Thursday afternoon from Goshen, Ind., where they were engaged during the summer months in teaching. They were accompanied here by Mrs. Bender's brother, Mr. Ross Isenberg. On Monday Mr. Bender resumed his position as principal of the high school in Oakland.

Mr. Franklin O. Glotfelty returned to his home in Oakland last Friday morning from a point near Jellico, Tenn., where he had gone about ten days previous to inspect a large tract of timber and estimate upon a logging contract for the owners. Mr. Glotfelty is much impressed with the country he visited and may be employed there during the winter with his teams and men.

West Virginia stands tenth among all of the states in the production of salt and ninth in the value of the salt produced. The state produced in 1915 a total of 232,239 barrels, valued at $115,143, an increase of 86,810 barrels in quantity and $37,107 in value. The salt is produced in Kanawha and Mason counties. Bromine and calcium chloride are manufactured in connection with the salt at these localities.

Mrs. E. A. Turner, of near Honolulu, H. I., arrived in San Francisco, Cal., from the Islands on August 28th and is now on her way across the continent to visit relatives and friends. Mrs. Turner will be remembered by many Oakland people as Miss Lillie Brown, an instructor of more than ordinary ability, who resided and taught school upwards of thirty years ago. The editor was one of her pupils and the days spent in her school room were happy ones.

Samuel A. Kendall, Jr., and his brother John Wiley Kendall, who developed muscle during their college vacation by shoving lumber on the big Kendall sawmill at Crellin, Md., left Saturday for Atlantic City for a week's pleasure before returning to college at the opening of the Fall term. Several of their college chums also spent their vacation by working in the Crellin lumber mill. John Wiley Kendall is reported to have shown the most strength and endurance of all the college boys. —Meyersdale Republican.

Crellin was visited on Monday by Mr. J. L. Kendall and members of his family who drove through to that place from Pittsburgh in two automobiles. Mr. Kendall is president and general manager of the Kendall Lumber Company and he states that operations on the Chess lands in Preston and Monogahela counties, West Va., will begin in a short time. This property was purchased by the Kendall interests two or three years ago with the intention of beginning operations at once but owing to the failure of the Kuhn interests who had the railroad under construction work was delayed until the present time. Now, however, the road is being built and the property will be at once operated.

Mrs. James Willison and children, of Cumberland, returned to that city from a visit to friends in Oakland Monday afternoon.

Monday being Labor Day both the Oakland banks and the postoffice were closed and the rural route carriers also had a holiday.

THE MEXICAN PEON AND HIS CUSTOMS

As He Is Known Only to Americans Who Have Lived Among The Peons in Mexico.

A striking picture of native life in Guanajuato, the treasure chest of mercurial Mexico, is given in a communication to the National Geographic Society by Frank H. Probert, a part of which is released today from the society's Washington headquarters. Mr. Probert reveals the Mexican peons as they are known only to the American who has lived among them.

"Leaving the walled inclosure of the railroad yards," says the writer, "one looks down on the apparently cramped and crowded city of Guanajuato, capital of the richest of the south-central states of Mexico. Hard by, to the right, is the bull-ring, the scene on Sunday and fiestas of farcical combats between two-legged brutes and four-legged beasts.

"In the sott sunshine of summer days the first vista of the city is striking indeed. Churches of magnificent proportions; ancient and modern architectures strangely blended in the same edifice; stately buildings; imposing markets stores of all descriptions; and dwelling places, rudely bare, variously colored with neutral tints of calsomine, their granted windows and open doors exhibiting to all the sparsely furnished interior where tird, beast and human eat and live together. The sordid squalor of the many contrasts strikingly with the oppressive opulence of the few.

"The cobblestone streets are crooked and narrow, so narrow, in fact that caballeros must take to the sidewalk to permit of the passing of any kind of vehicle. The dingy tram-cars are drawn by relays of mules, three abreast, beaten into subjection by the stinging lash or coaxed into action by the curses of the youthful drivers, whose vernacular is wonderfully expressive and effective; indeed, I doubt if anything but a mule can really appreciate the depth of feeling and irresistible persuasiveness of the vile expressions.

"What strange sights one can see in these main arteries of the city. I have set my camera on the balcony of my room at the Woods Hotel and will snap what passes by. At first, a herd of patient plodding burros loaded down with slabs of the pale green sandstone, quarried nearby and used for building purposes; a legless cripple shuffles along on a board, propelling himself with his hands; a cargodoa trots along tirelessly with his awkward burden, in this case a sewing machine; more burros overloaded with charcoal; another pack struggles under the weight of sacked ore from the mines; still another bearing grain to the market, and the street car demanding loudly a clear track; a funeral procession where laughing children carry a baby's casket, swaying from side to side to the accompaniment of anything but appropriate music, and behind the mourners in silent solomnity.

"Strangely superstitious are these people. Grossly ignorant, constant in their faith, pathetic in their simplicity, kindly and respectful, their life is epitomized in the verse:

" 'Let the World shde, let the World go;
A fig for care and a fig for woe!
And death makes equal the high and low.'

" 'Tis Easter Sunday morning. I am awakened at early dawn by the tooting of tin horns, accompanied by the sonorous scheeches of bass viols and fiddles as sounds are sawn from their strings; by the shuffling of sandled feet over the stones of the street, and by the babel of voices of passing peons. Church bells clang, sirens scream, whistles wildly mingle in the melody of merriment; for is not this the day when Judas Iscariot is to be hung in effigy.'

"A grotesque dummy figure is paraded through the town, followed by the jeering and cheering crowds, who have risen early to give expression to their righteous indignation against the betrayer. After circling the city the procession halts, Judas is promptly yanked by the ropes from the bearers and dangles in mid-air, a sorry sight, spit upon, cursed, condemned, consigned to everlasting purgatory, to which place, at sunset, he is sent by the explosion of dynamite concealed in his carcass. Riboldry runs riot as the day advances, and night falls on an exhausted though happy people. What matters if the prison is overcrowded that night, or that the supply of mescal is depleted almost to the degree of exhaustion?

"To the casual visitors from the States the habits and customs of these lowly people are strange, but fascinating. They do not need our commiseration or sympathy; they are content in their mode of living, and who shall say that they are the less happy or human in their habitat than many of us?

"The Mexican peon knows that he is born to serve, as did the old southern darky, and caste or class distinction is emphasized on all occasions. The mozo rides silently behind the lordly caballero; the peon woman steps into the street and bows her head as the padre passes; in the plaza on Sunday evening, when the melody of martial music fills the air, the upper classes parade in one direction, while the peons gyrate as an outer ring in the opposite direction. As a class they are industrious and skillful if the time element is eliminated.

"The peon miner is a competent workman when unhampered by modern machines and has a 'nose' for ore that is truly remarkable. As tillers of the soil their methods are primitive but productive; they still use oxen and the wooden plow share, and the fields are fenced with imperishable dry-rock walls. In the making of pottery and basketry they excel; in tanning hides, saddlery and the working of metals they are inimitable. The women, too, can grind corn on a metate, cook tortillas and frijole, raise families, launder clothes on a rock near the creek, make the most exquisite laces and the finest of drawnwork with equal skill.

Paris plans to levy a tax of 5 per cent. on all restaurant bills over $1 a person.

RUSSIAN ARMY HITS BULGARIA

Rumanian Army Successful on Whole Front of Lower Carpathians

AUSTRIANS STILL FALL BACK

London.—While the Rumanians are advancing steadily in Transylvania, a Russian army is massing on the Danube line, ready to strike at Bulgaria. The passage of the Czar's troops through the Dobrudja is announced officially by Bucharest.

The Russians are preparing a heavy blow. A drive into Bulgaria from the north by large forces, which are being poured steadily into Rumania, is planned, in conjunction with a bombardment of the Bulgar ports on the Black Sea. Russian warships have been assembled already at Constanza, the principal Rumanian port on the Black Sea, according to a Reuter dispatch from Petrograd.

From Paris comes a report that Rumanians already have invaded Bulgaria and occupied the important town of Rustchuk, on the Danube. This dispatch has not been confirmed although it is believed here that the invaders may have been Russians and that the Czar's attack has been launched.

The Rumanian advance continues along the whole Transylvanian line. The Austrians admit a retreat to the heights west of Osik Szereda, lying about at the centre of the northern front and sixty miles northeast of Kronstadt, which the Teutons abandoned recently.

Meanwhile the Rumanian thrust westward from the Serbian line is gaining momentum. Mehadia, near the Iron Gates of the Danube and fifteen miles north of Orsova, is threatened. A heavy battle is still in progress here. A Rumanian advance in this sector would flank the Austrian second line of defense along the mountains dividing Hungary and Transylvania.

There is great alarm in all the Teutonic capitals at the sudden and successful thrust of Rumanian armies through five mountain passes into Hungary. A council of war is to assemble shortly at Vienna, at which Kaiser Wilhelm, the Emperor Francis Joseph and Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria will be present.

RUMANIA JOINS ALLIES.

London.—Rumania, with a thoroughly trained and well equipped army of 1,000,000 men, declared war on Austria-Hungary. This was immediately followed by Germany declaring war upon Rumania.

Austro-German troops clashed with Rumanians on the Siebenburgen (Transylvania) frontier within a few hours after Rumania's entrance into the war, Berlin officially announced.

Bulgaria and Turkey are expected to declare war upon Rumania without delay.

It was reported in diplomatic quarters that Greece will soon enter the war on the side of the Allies.

The declaration by Italy of war on Germany simultaneously with the entrance of Rumania into the war are believed to be part of a prearranged plan that will culminate with similar action by Greece.

Giving the reasons for her declaration of war, a long note was transmitted to the Rumanian Minister at Vienna for presentation to the Austrian Foreign Office.

The document sets forth that the agreements existing between Rumania and the Triple Alliance, the pre-war alliance of Germany, Austria and Italy, ceased to exist from the day on which a war of aggression was declared by Germany and Austria.

Also the eventuality of Russia sending troops across Rumania from Bessarabia to punish the Bulgarians for attacking the Serbs, as the Czar swore he would do, cannot be overlooked.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

On all the fronts on which they are engaged, British forces during the month of August lost approximately 128,000 men, killed wounded and missing. Appearing on the British casualty list for August are the names of 4,711 officers and 123,234 men of other ranks.

Withdrawal to the Dorna Vatra-Orsova line means the evacuation of more than 15,000 square miles of Hungarian territory.

The Austrian General Staff plans to evacuate all southeastern Transylvania to the Rumanians in order to shorten the Austrian lines.

The sinking of a British auxiliary cruiser in the North Sea by a German submarine was announced by the German Admiralty. Berlin newspapers say that apparently the vessel referred to was the Duke of Albany.

The French frustrated two German efforts to attack near Reillon, in Lorraine, and made progress east of Fleury in the Verdun area.

German aeroplanes and Zeppelins shelled Bucharest and also the town of Balitchik as the crowds were celebrating reports of Rumanian victories.

PROCLAMATION

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND CREATING A BUDGET SYSTEM.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1916, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 159 of said Acts, being an Act to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, "Legislative Department," of the Constitution of this State; and which said Act is in words and figures following:

"CHAPTER 159.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, regulating the making of appropriations by the General Assembly of Maryland in regular session, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two houses concurring.) That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 52 of Article III of the Constitution of Maryland.

Sec. 52 The General Assembly shall not appropriate any money out of the Treasry except in accordance with the followin provisions:

Sub-Section A:

Every appropriation bill shall be either a Budget Bill, or a supplementary Appropriation Bill, as hereinafter mentioned.

Sub-Section B:

First. Within twenty days after the convening of the General Assembly (except in the case of a newly elected Governor, and then within thirty days after his inauguration,) unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly for the session at which the Budget is to be submitted, the Governor shall submit to the General Assembly two budgets, one for each of the ensuing fiscal years. Each budget shall contain a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the particular fiscal year to which it relates; and shall show the estimated surplus or deficit of revenues at the end of such year. Accompanying each budget shall be a statement showing: (1) the revenues and expenditures for each of the two fiscal years next preceding; (2) the current assets, liabilities, reserves and surplus or deficit of the State; (3) the debts and funds of the State; (4) an estimate of the State's financial condition as of the beginning and end of each of the fiscal years covered by the two budgets above provided; (5) any explanation the Governor may desire to make as to the important features of any budget and any suggestion as to methods for the reduction or increase of the State's revenue.

Second. Each budget shall be divided into two parts, and the first part shall be designated "Governmental Appropriations" and shall embrace an itemized estimate of the appropriations: (1) for the General Assembly as certified to the Governor in the manner hereinafter provided; (2) for the Executive Department; (3) for the Judiciary Department, as provided by law, certified to the Governor by the Comptroller; (4) to pay and discharge the principal and interest of the debt of the State of Maryland in conformity with Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, and all laws enacted in pursuance thereof; (5) for the salaries payable by the State under Constitution and laws of the State; (6) for the establishment and maintenance throughout the State of a thorough and efficient system of public schools in conformity with Article VIII of the Constitution and with the laws of the State; (7) for such other purposes as are set forth in the Constitution of the State.

Third. The second part shall be designated "General Appropriations," and shall include all other estimates of appropriations.

The Governor shall deliver to the presiding officer of each house the budgets and a bill for all the proposed appropriations of the budgets clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each house shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein, and such bill shall be known as the "Budget Bill." The Governor may, before final action thereon by the General Assembly, amend or supplement either of said budgets to correct an oversight or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the General Assembly by delivering such an amendment or supplement to the presiding officers of both houses; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as a modification of or a substitute for any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may affect.

The General Assembly shall not amend the budget bill so as to affect either the obligations of the State under Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, or the provisions made by the laws of the State for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools, or the payment of any salaries required to be paid by the State of Maryland by the Constitution thereof; and the General Assembly may amend the bill by increasing or diminishing the items therein relating to the General Assembly; and by increasing the items therein relating to the Judiciary, but except as hereinbefore specified, may not alter the said bill except to strike out or reduce items therein, provided, however, that the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be decreased during his term of office; and such bill when and as passed by both houses shall be a law immediately without further action by the Governor

Fourth. The Governor and such representatives of the executive departments, boards, officers and commissions of the State expending or supplying for State's money, as have been designated by the Governor for this purpose, shall have the right, and when requested by either house of the Legislature, it shall be their duty to appear and be heard with respect to any budget bill during the consideration thereof, and to answer inquiries relative thereto.

Sub-Section C: Supplementary Appropriation Bills:

Neither house shall consider other appropriations until the Budget Bill has been finally acted upon by both houses, and no such other appropriation shall be valid except in accordance with the provisions following: (1) Every such appropriation shall be embodied in a separate bill limited to some single work, object or purpose therein stated and called herein a Supplementary Appropriation Bill; (2) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall provide the revenue necessary to pay the appropriation thereby made by a tax, direct or indirect, to be laid and collected as shall be directed in said Bill. (3) No Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall become a law unless it be passed in each house by a vote of a majority of the whole number of the members elected; and in the yeas and nays recorded on its final passage. (4) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall be presented to the Governor of the State as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution and thereafter all the provisions of said Section shall apply.

Nothing in this amendment shall be construed as preventing the Legislature from passing at any time in accordance with the provisions of Section 28 of Article III of the Constitution and subject to the Governor's power of approval as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution an appropriation bill to provide for the payment of any obligation of the State of Maryland within the protection of Section 10 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

Sub-Section D: General Provisions:

First. If the Budget Bill shall not have been finally acted upon by the Legislature three days before the expiration of its regular session, the Governor may, and it shall be his duty to issue a proclamation extending the session for such further period as may, in his judgment, be necessary for the passage of such Bill; but no other matter than such Bill shall be considered during such extended session except a provision for the cost thereof.

Second. The Governor for the purpose of making up his budgets shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to require from the proper State Officials, including herein all executive departments, all executive and administrative offices, bureaus boards, commissions and agencies expending or supervising the expenditure of, and all institutions applying for State moneys and appropriations, such itemnized estimates and other information, in such form and at such times as he shall direct. The estimates for the Legislative Department, certified by the presiding officer of each house, of the Judiciary, as provided by law, certified by the Comptroller, and for the public schools, as provided by law shall be transmitted to the Governor, in such form and at such times as he shall direct, and shall be included in the budget without revision.

The Governor may provide for public hearings on all estimates and may require the attendance at such hearings of representatives of all agencies, and of all institutions applying for State moneys. After such public hearings he may, in his discretion, revise all estimates except those for the legislative and judiciary departments and for the public schools as provided by law.

Third. The Legislature may, from time to time, enact such laws, not inconsistent with this Section, as may be necessary and proper to carry out it provisions

Fourth. In the event of any inconsistency between any of the provisions of this Section and any of the other provisions of the Constitution, the provisions of this Section shall prevail. But nothing herein shall in any manner affect the provisions of Section 34 of Article III of the Constution or of any laws heretofore or hereafter passed in pursuance thereof, or be construed as preventing the Governor from calling extraordinary sessions of the Legislature, as provided by Section 16 of Article II, or as preventing the Legislature at such extraordinary sessions from considering any emergency appropriations.

If any item of any appropriation bill passed under the provisions of this Section shall be held invalid upon any ground, such invalidity shall not affect the legality of the Bill or of any other item of such Bill or Bills.

Section 2. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said foregoing Section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution shall at the next ensuing general election, being the Presidential and Congressional election, being the Presidential and Congressional, election, to be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, nineteen hundred and sixteen, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection in conformity with the directions contained in Article XVI of this State, and at said election the vote on said proposed amendment to the constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be placed the following synopsis of said amendment under the caption of 'CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROVIDING FOR A BUDGET.'

"This amendment provides that the Governor shall present to the Legislature soon after it is convened a Budget giving a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the two succeeding fiscal years showing clearly any surplus or deficit in State funds. In these estimates he shall make provision for the interest and sinking funds of all state debts, for all salaries as fixed by law, and for the public schools as fixed by law. With regard to most other matters he may revise the estimates presented to him either by State Officers or State-aided institutions. The Legislature may not increase the estimates presented by the Governor or pass any additional appropriation act except by a majority vote and must make provision by tax for such increase or additional appropriation. The Legislature may not alter in any appropriation act the provision made by law for the State debt, or for the judiciary, but may reduce all other items in the Governor's estimates; and the words 'for the Constitutional Amendment' and 'against the Constitutional Amendment' as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote in accordance with Article XVI of the Constitution.

Approved March 28, 1916."

Now, therefore, I, Emerson C. Harrington, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct a copy of this Proclamation, containing a full, true and correct copy of the text of said Chapter 159 of the Acts of Maryland of 1916, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which said newspapers in the City of Baltimore to be printed in the German language, once a week for three months next preceding the General Election to be held in this State on November 7th, 1916, and at which election the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be submitted, in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

BLOOMINGTON

Mr. Pat Murphy, our jovial English friend with an Irish name, has returned to town after spending the harvest season in the neighborhood of Firm Rock assisting Mr. Irving Fazenbaker to harvest a bumper crop of cereals. He is now wiping the honest sweat from his manly brow and the dust of honorable toil from his noble breast plate, due to the arduous duties connected with his position as the heavy weight clerk in the Warnick grocery.

County Commissioner, George Warnick met with a very painful accident on last Saturday afternoon. We all know that oil and water will not mix, but no one knows just exactly what a mule and hoss will do when hitched up as a double team. Mr. Warnick was delivering groceries to one of his customers near the Junction when a passing automobile frightened the mule, and he shied and caught Mr. Warnick's leg between the hub of the wagon and a nearby tree; painfully bruising the limb between the knee and ankle. He was brought home in the automobile where his injuries were dressed by a physician. He is now reported as resting as comfortably as could be expected and no serious results are expected.

Mrs. Charles Sullivan and two daughters, of Hagerstown, Md., are guests of relatives in town.

Mrs. Cummins, wife of Mr. Frank Cummins of this place, is a patient in the W. M. Hospital, Cumberland, suffering from typhoid fever.

Mr. Albert Wilson, of near Chestnut Grove, is reported as very ill with an attack of summer grip.

Mrs. Tabitha Warnick, aged 93 years, living with her son, Mr. Patrick Warnick, of Warnick Station, W. M. R. R., is reported critically ill and not expected to live.

The lamb roast and beer feast at the old Lochiel slab burner on last Sunday was a howling success in every particular. Quite a number of invited guests from Piedmont and Westernport participated in the festivities and assisted very materially in the transfer of the golden brew from one keg to another. The usual number of delegates from Bloomington were present and enjoyed themselves very much and added quite a great deal to the sociability of the occasion. The cheif was in fine fettle and soon had the lamb roasted to a most delightful and appetizing brown, when the fun and frolic commenced. Water and buttermilk, grape juice and lemonade were tabooded and nothing in the shape of a beverage but the extract of malt and hops was permissible. We have heard it said that State's Attorney Jones, of Oakland, expressed his regrets at not being able to attend the function and will extend an invitation later on to some of our boys to meet him at the county seat and talk the matter over.

Mr. Frank Cummins received a message this morning announcing the death of his baby boy at Corinth, W. Va., where it had been taken and placed in the care of relatives, when its mother was sent to the hospital at Cumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wilson, of Bond, were in town this week the guests of relatives.

Mrs. G. C. Pattison, of this place, has gone to Berkeley Springs to test the efficacy of the medicnal springs of that locality in the treatment of an obstinate case of rheumatism. She left last Monday morning in her son's auto and was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Howard Carroll, of Piedmont, and her son, Mr. Carroll Pattison.

Misses Nellie and Catherine Calkins, of Elkins, daughters of the late Hiram Calkins of that city, a former resident of Bloomington, are spending a few weeks in this place, visiting their aunt Mrs. John Cleary, and other relatives at Franklin and Piedmont.

Mr. Dwight Alexander, of Marlington, en route to Toronto, Canada, spent a few days in town the first of the week, the guest of Dr. Kemp.

Mr. G. C. Macfarlane, of Barnum, was in town Monday looking after his saw mill interests, located about a mile from town, near the Green farm.

Mr. O. Tibbetts, of Keyser, was in town this week on business.

Mesdames John Rowland and F. H. Tibbetts, of Hampshire Heights, were guests of friends in town on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. David Beevers, of Empire, spent the week end with relatives in Baltimore city.

Messrs. Harry Coffman, Grant Harshbargar and Jacob Stump, all of this place, enjoyed a most delightful trip to the base ball park at Westernport on last Sunday afternoon, in squires "Tin Lizzie."

Mrs. W. A. Mullen, of Fredericksburg, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bonner, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who have been the guests of the Kemp family for the last few weeks, left for their respective homes this week. Mrs. Mullen will stop off in Cumberland, en route, to visit friends and relatives in that city.

Miss Mary Martin, of Frostbug, has been appointed assistant in the public school at this place. She succeeds Miss Ella Kerns, of Deer Park, who acceptably filled the position for the past six years and on account of other pursuits, was compelled to resign.

Mr. William Harvey and Miss Naomi Flick, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Leonard Flick of Barnum, were married at the U. B. parsonage by the minister in charge at Keyser on last Saturday afternoon. The bride and groom are residents of Barnum and will make their future home at that place, where Mr. Harvey is employed by the Monroe Coal Mining Co.

The stork was on a lark in this vicinity on last Friday and very generously and graciously distributed souvenirs of his visits to the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Tiberius Wilt, of Beryl; Mr. and Mrs. William Guy, Sr., of Franklin, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Elliott, of Bloomington—all boys, and everybody interested, smiling and happy. Having exhausted his supply of boys for the time being, he dropped in on the family of Mr. and Mrs. David Warnick, of Hampshire, on last Sunday morning, and departing left behind him a dear little girl.

The little daughter, 17 months old, of Mr. and Mrs. Atley Foley, of Beryl, died at the home of her parents on last Tuesday morning at ten o'clock. The funeral ceremonies took place at the home of the little one on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Ray of the Presbyterian church, Piedmont, officiating. The remains were interred in the Bloomington grave yard.

County Commissioner Warnick, is still confined to his room on account of his injuries and we understand does not expect to be able to attend to business under three or four weeks.

SHORT RUN

We are having most pleasant autumn weather at this writing.

The Short Run school has not yet been taken up for the coming terms.

Mr. M. L. Sharpless, who has bought a farm in this community is busily engaged in excavating a cellar and hauling lumber preparatory to building a new home.

READY FOR THE FAIR

Grounds and Buildings Being Repaired and Cleaned for Opening Date.

Great preparations are being made for the opening of the Fourth Annual Garrett County Fair on next Tuesday. Many entries have already been made in the live stock and other departments of the Fair and the outlook for a mammoth exhibit is much better than in former years.

Many new and novel industrial exhibits have taken space on the grounds and along Third street. This will be a feature that we have never had before and one that will interest the young and old alike.

The ladies of the Oakland Civic Club will superintend the decorating of the building and an expert will supervise the work.

Under the supervision of H. W. Kahl & Sons the building will be thoroughly braced and made perfectly safe. The grounds have been cleaned and everything has been done to make the building and grounds presentable and attractive.

The Home Monumental Works of Terra Alta, W. Va., has already had a large display stand erected on the grounds and will exhibit many attractions in their line.

A. D. Naylor & Sons will have a splendid display of their wares and McIntire, the new Oakland hardware merchant, will be among the biggest exhibitors at the Fair.

An erroneous report has been circulated that infantile paralysis has broken out in Oakland and many have made inquiries regarding this report which is unfounded in every particular. The only case under the care of the health officer is outside the town and has been under quarantine for a week or more.

Supervisors and judges have been appointed in every department and will assist in staging the exhibits in their department.

Every day will be a BIG ONE at the Fair this year and Oakland extends a hearty welcome to all to visit us and see what can be produced in this section and enjoy a pleasant vacation.

Ample hotel accomodation can be secured at reasonable rates either at Oakland or Mt. Lake Park.

A request comes from the committee of ladies having charge of the Primary Department that all teachers in the county send in exhibits for the Fair taken from work of last year, if, on account of the short time that school has been in session this year, they have no new work for exhibition.

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY

Entrance Examinations State Scholarship in Engineering Courses

Entrance Examinations for the Department of Engineering, as well as for the College of Arts and Sciences, will be held in the Academic Building of the Johns Hopkins University, Homewood, Baltimore, September 18-21, 1916, beginning at 9 a. m. each day.

Application For Scholarships in The Department of Engineering, established in the Johns Hopkins University under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, may now be made. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, a competitive examination must be taken in the Academic Building, Homewood, on September 22, 1916, beginning at 9 a. m.

Each County of the State and each Legislative District of Baltimore City, with the exception of Charles, Harford, and Queen Anne's Counties will be entitled to one or more scholarships for the year 1916-17, in addition to those which have already been assigned. In the three counties mentioned above all the available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City scholarships in the Department of Engineering are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted to them. The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text-books, and exemption from all regular fees. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is no greater than at other Maryland institutions.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, Maryland Agricultural College, Mt. St. Mary's College; and one scholarship will be awarded "At Large."

Applicants should address the Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University, for blank forms of application and for further information as to examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction.

PRAISES STATE'S ROAD SYSTEM

Nationwide Experts Come to Maryland to Inspect Construction of Highways.

Maryland's roads are being accepted by nation-wide experts as models.

The last demanstration of this fact was given when Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, in charge of public road construction, and Austin Fletcher, consulting engineer of the department, and chief highways engineer for California, called up Chairman Zouck, of the State Roads Commission, over the phone from Washington and asked that they be conveyed over the states' improved highways on the Eastern Shore. Mr. Zouck arranged to give them the opportunities today to inspect what are said to be the best public roads in the country, those on the Eastern Shore where the country is level and where no grades are encountered.

Another demonstration that Maryland is on the map as a road builder is furnished by the forthcoming visit of inspection by the heads of the New Jersey Department of Roads. They will visit the Eastern Shore next week, accompanied by Assistant Engineer B. P. Harrison.

Loud in their praise of the Maryland roads are members of the Board of Trade of Atlantic City who last week journeyed over those roads.

A Lancaster (Pa.) automobilist, after a trip to Ocean City and back, made this comment in the Philadelphia Press:

What good roads have done for Maryland he who runs may read. That Maryland has the question of good roads solved is indisputable, and, while it's beautiful to indulge in the thought of "this, my own, my native land," it's a positive fact that the average citizens of this section after riding from Calvert to Lancaster on a' return trip from touring Maryland must suffer a sense of humiliation.

The inspection trip today is noteworthy because Assistant Secretary Wilson and Mr. Fletcher are in quest of data to guide them in directing the expenditure of $90,000,000, to be distributed among the several states during the next six years for public road construction.

AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR THE COVE

Five Hurled From Machine and Injured When it Ditched.

The antomobile of John Reichenbecker, of the Cove, this county, occupied by Mr. Reichenbecker, who was driving, Mrs. Reichenbecker, their two children, Darmet, a girl of two years, and an infant of six months, and D. A. Speicher, was ditched on the State road near the residence of Mr. Christopher Folk, father of Mrs. Reichenbecker, one-half mile south of Keyser's Ridge, Sunday morning. The infant sustained a fractured skull and may die, while the other child was internally injured. Mrs. Reichenbecker was also hurt, but it is thought not seriously, while Mr. Reichenbecker and Mr. Speicher escaped with a few slight bruises. Dr. J. D. Darby, of Oakland, who was on his way to a Cumberland hospital with a patient, reached the scene of the accident less than five minutes after its occurrence and gave the injured attention. They were all removed to the Folk home.

The party was on its way to the Cove Lutheran church. Mr. Reichenbcker, in trying to avoid a motor cycle being driven by his brother, Albert Reichenbecker, got too close to the edge of the road and landed in a ditch, tearing a wheel off the machine, which was whirled around and overturned against a wire fence. Mrs. Reichenbecker was thrown on top of her infant which was in her arms.

BOY OF SEVEN WAS BURNED TO DEATH

Kerosene Oil Exploded While Contents Were Being Poured Into Pumpkin.

Leon, aged seven years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smouse, residing in the Pleasant Valley country south of Oakland, was burned to death Saturday afternoon, and his mother was fearfully burned about her hands and arms while endeavoring to extinguish the flames that encircled the form of the boy.

From what can be learned the boy along with a son of Mr. and Mrs. Willey S. Friend, a near neighbor, had secured a pumpkin and after making a jack lantern carried it to the second floor of an outbuilding where they secured a candle and after lighting it one of the boys suggested that the candle did not give sufficient light and proposed that some kerosene oil be poured in. This was assented to and the Smouse lad went to the house and brought out a can containing the liquid which he poured in upon the candle. An explosion immediately followed which scattered the burning oil and all about the building and set the clothing of the Smouse boy on fire. The mother heard a commotion and the screams of the two boys ran to the outbuilding. Seeing what had occurred she frantically fought the flames and in her efforts to get the clothing from the boy her hands and arms were fearfully burned.

The body of the lad was literally burned to a crisp but he lingered in agony for an hour or two when death released him from his sufferings.

Mrs. Smouse's burns were treated by Dr. Broadwater. While she suffered extremely for a day or two after the calamity she is now slowly recovering.

The funeral of the boy victim took place Monday from the home.

ACCIDENT ON ROAD

An Automobile Collided With Buggy and Occupants Injured.

Last Wednesday evening about 11 o'clock, Mr. W. Z. Hendrickson and Miss Effie Porter were returning from Sunnyside, where they had been attending a festival, and when near the Porter home, south of Oakland, an automobile driven by a Mr. Lynch, of Ben Bush, W. Va., collided with the buggy while going at full speed.

The buggy, horse and occupants were hurled into the ditch at the side of the road, Miss Porter being thrown out backwards, and landing on the back of her head, sustaining painful injuries which confined her to her home for several days after the accident. Mr. Hendrickson was thrown directly beneath the horses hoofs, and was trampled by the animal besides having the buggy run over him, and sustained some severe bruises. He was able to be out the next day.

The horse was seriously injured by the collision and the buggy more or less damaged.

Mr. Lynch was arrested by Sheriff Ashby and brought to jail last Thursday and given a hearing before Justice West, who fined him $25.00 and costs for reckless driving.

Went Through The Roof.

David Yoder, a young farmer living near Grantsville, Md., had a heavy fall on Monday afternoon while threshing at the old Miller homestead. Mr. Yoder was working on the upper den and jumped from there out on the roof of a chicken coop which stands near the granary and is of the same height and was often used by the men for this purpose. This time, however, the roof broke beneath his weight and precipitated him through to the ground below, rendering him unconscious. Medical aid was summoned and it was found no bones were broken though the fall resulted in severe and painful bruises. The patient is now recovering.—Meyersdale Republican.

MORE ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Delegation of Grantsville Residents Here Monday To See Commissioners.

A delegation of the leading citizens of Grantsville and the immediate community thereabouts was in Oakland Monday of this week, in company with a committee of Somerset county (Pa.) residents, for the purpose of laying before the Board of County Commissioners the great needs of the northern section of this county for the repair or reconstruction of the Stone House Road from the Pike to the Pennsylvania State line, there to connect with an improved road which is now being constructed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The road in question, in order to reach the new road of the neighboring state, is less than three miles in length and will afford a splendid line of communication with the system of roads now being made by Pennsylvania, as well as affording those of the state to the north of us a direct line to Maryland's preeminently splendid system.

The delegation of Grantsville people who were here on Monday was composed of Messrs. J. O. Getty, Hilead Broadwater, Dr. R. C. Bowen, Noah Warnick, Gideo J. Gnagey, Truman Maust, Fearson Maust and Jonas Wampler, while the members of the delegation from Pennsylvania were Dr. Albert Lichty, Albert Reitz and Samuel Engle, all of Elk Lick.

The Commissioners, all of whom, with the exception of Mr. Warnick, who is still confined to his room on account of the injury he suffered some days ago, were present, and after hearing the statements and arguments of the gentlemen from Grantsville, appropriated a substantial sum of money for the repair of the road in question.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

Cumberland Automobile Dealer Goes to Jail in Default of Bond.

C. C. Frederick, an automobile dealer of Cumberland, who has been a familiar figure in police courts recently, was taken before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., and given a hearing this morning on a charge of embezzlement, brought by Carl Sanders, of Romney, W. Va. After taking the testimony of a number of witnesses Frederick was held for the action of the grand jury in the sum of $300 bond, which he failed to fill. He was taken to jail.

According to the testimony offered at the hearing Frederick agreed to sell an automobile for Sanders, and as his commission on the sale Frederick agreed to take all over $200. Frederick sold the machine to A. Lazarus for $106 but, it is alleged, failed to turn the money over to Sanders. After pressing him for a settlement Frederick, it is alleged, told Sanders he had sold the machine jointly to A. Lazarus and a man named Scheunt of Cumberland, for which he was to receive $212. Frederick informed Sanders he had received $106 from Lazarus, but had been unable to secure the payment from Schlunt. Sander then made an investigation and learned, it is asserted, that Schlunt had not been in the deal and the machine had been sold to Lazarus for $106, which sum had been paid to Frederick. Sanders engaged A. A. Young and Carl G. Mullin as his attorneys and proceedings were instituted to recover the amount paid for the machine.

During the progress of the preliminary hearing Frederick was rearrested on a warrant sworn out by Attorney William C. Devecmon, charging him with operating his car without permission. Frederick will be given a hearing this afternoon on this charge.—Cumberland News.

GERMANS WIN SILISTRIA FORT

Second Rumanian Fortress Falls to Army Operating With the Bulgars.

AUSTRIAN WING REPULSED

London.—Continuing their advance in western Dobrudja, the German and Bulgarian forces have captured the old Bulgarian fortress of Silistria, which lies about 25 miles northeast of Turtukai and 60 miles east of Bucharest, the capital of Rumania, and about an equal distance south of the Constanza-Bucharest Railway line. The capture of the fortress is announced by the Berlin War Office, which adds that the Rumanians and Russians fighting in Dobrudja apparently have suffered very considerable losses during the last few days.

In Banat, north of Orsova, however, the Rumanians are keeping up their advance against the Austrians, having compelled the Austrian right wing, after it had pushed them back two and a half miles, to withdraw to its former position under a strong counter-attack. Attempts by the Rumanians to advance against heights west of Zsik Szereda were repulsed. In southern Bukowina, near the junction of the Hungarian and Rumanian borders, the Germans are in contact with the Rumanians.

Berlin and Vienna concede a gain of ground to the Russians in the Carpathians near Zabie, to the west of Shypot. The Russians, says Berlin, are on the offensive from the Baltic to the wooded heights of the Carpathians, but everywhere except near Shypot their attacks have been repulsed.

Attempts by the Russians to break through the Austrian lines southeast of Lemberg, near Halicz, failed, according to Vienna, with heavy losses. The Vienna statement mentions the gallantry of the Turkish forces fighting with the Austrians in this region.

The repulse of German counter-attacks and continued heavy bombardments formed the chief features of the fighting on the western front in the Somme region between the French and British forces and the Germans against the British took place north of Ginchy and against the French south of Derny-en-Santerre.

A recapitulation by the British War Office of the results attained by the British on the Somme front during the past week shows an advance on a front of 6,000 yards to a depth varying from 300 to 3,000 yards.

In Albania the Italians in the Avlona sector have taken, without opposition, several Austrian points of vantage. The usual artillery activity continues in the Austro-Italian theatre.

GERMANS TAKE RUMANIAN ARMY

London.—German and Bulgarian troops have stormed the Rumanian fortress and town of Tutrakan, capturing 20,000 prisoners and much booty, Berlin announces. This important victory seriously threatens Bucharest, the Rumanian capital.

The Teutonic success seems to have been complete. Besides the prisoners taken large numbers of Rumanians were killed. Among the prisoners are two generals and 400 other officers. The booty includes 100 cannon and stores of all kinds.

This blow, struck against Rumania little more than a week after she entered the war, was marked by rapid and effective concentration of German and Bulgar troops and heavy guns.

No admission of the capture of Tutrakan has been received from the Rumanian War Office, but a Russian official statement, telegraphed here, says that the Rumanians were evacuating the place. A Rumanian statement said that the Teutons had been re-enforced, especially with big guns, but the Rumanian garrison was ceaselessly counter attacking. The fall of the town and forts has been forecast by the Germans, who announced that seven forts had been taken.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

The French again won at Verdun, in what is described officially as a "brilliant action," they took 100 more prisoners east of Fleury, west of the Meuse, bringing the total up to 300, and crushed a German attack west of Fort Vaux.

There is great rejoicing in Berlin over the capture of Turtukai because that fortress held the key to a swift drive on Bucharest. Major Moraht puts the Rumanian losses in the battles for this stronghold at 80,000.

German seaplanes again bombarded the Rumanian Black Sea coast.

News comes from Paris that Emperor William is viewing in person the terrible struggle on the Somme.

There are indications that the "big push" of the Allies may soon come to a halt for the winter. Members of the British staff are quoted to the effect that next spring the Allied preponderance of artillery will make the decision easier.

Large Russian forces have joined the Rumanians in the defense of their southern frontier. The Russians engaged in strong counter attacks again Dobric, which recently fell into the hands of the Bulgarians.

Alaska And The Paper Famine

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7.—The high price of paper is one of the really important questions of the moment. Paper of all sorts is scarce and apparently getting scarcer. This is especially true of the paper that newspapers and the cheaper magazines are printed on, which has soared in a manner comparable to the sensational ascensions performed by the prices of dyes and chemicals. And paper today, especially news-print paper, is no luxury. It is a necessity of our daily life.

The briefest consideration shows what a part paper plays in the modern scheme of things. You are continually buying and using paper of one sort or another, from the time you get up and read a morning paper at breakfast to the time when you lay aside your book or magazine and go to sleep at night. The amount of paper that a big city consumes in a day is enormous. Raise the price of paper fifty or a hundred per cent. and a score of industries are vitally affected.

The price of paper has risen immensely since the European war began, due partly to higher costs of certain chemicals, but chiefly to the fact that trade with Norway and Sweden is disorganized, and from these countries we have been importing great quantities of wood pulp for paper manufacture. If we have not felt the effects of the situation to any great extent so far, it is because the men who use the paper in their business and pay the bills have been holding on and hoping for a return of normal conditions.

In the meantime, we are beginning to economize on paper in every possible way. More waste paper is being saved and sold to be used over again in manufacture than ever before. Advertisers have actually been asked to hold down the size of their advertisements in order to use as little paper as possible in getting results. A Congressional investigation into the price of paper has been held. Some of the less wealthy periodicals are appearing printed on paper of new and startling hue and surface. The situation is unprecedented in the history of the paper industry.

If all this is simply a result of war conditions, the general sentiment is that we shall just have to weather the stringency as best we can and be a little more careful of our paper. But it has been suggested that the present high prices are at least in part a result of increased demand as well as of the cutting off of foreign supplies. In which case the end of the war will not settle the question.

And this view, which has led us to take stock of our national resources, has drawn attention to the immense and little-known stretches of paper material in Alaska. Newsprint and similiar papers are made from wood-pulp. It is the steady depletion of our timber lands that makes us dependent on foreign countries for any pulp stock at all. And in southern Alaska we have, on government land, as the property of the nation, one of the greatest supplies of raw material for paper making in the world.

It is only recently that any attention has been paid to these Alaskan national forests. Great stretches of them are still to be explored. But we know that they contain billions on billions of feet of virgin timber. Nature seems to have laid them out especially with a view of keeping the American public supplied with reading matter. They are distinctively what lumbermen know as a "pulp proposition." That is, they would naturally and normally be worked for paper rather than lumber. The trees are large, often running up to six feet in diameter, but the quality of the wood is not of the highest for building purposes. They are capable, however, of being worked into a paper equal to the best.

Norway has made of herself a exporter of pulp and pulp-wood. She has done this because her own natural resources are not of the most varied, and on looking them over she found that this particular industry was one for which nature had fitted her. She had great stretches of timber of the grade and species used in paper manufacture. She had large rivers plunging down the steep grades from the mountains to the coast within a few miles, and generating great power in their flow. Her deep fiords run far inland up the sunken valleys of these rivers, so that deep-sea vessels can load at the very mills. And Norway ships pulp wood not only to America, but through the Suez canal to India and China.

Now in our own southeastern Alaska territory we have these very conditions duplicated on a larger scale. There is the same juxtaposition of water power, timber, and deep fiords running far inland where steamers can load at the mill itself. The Alaskan forests are exceedingly dense and luxurant. The rainfall is very heavy—twice as great as that of the eastern United States—and the result is a prodigal luxuriance of vegetation hard to reconcile with the popular idea of Alaska. The forrests are chocked with deep underbrush, carpeted with moss, and so shadowed by the roof of spruce and hemlock foliage that the light is half twilight at noon.

Through this forest runs many streams, falling many hundreds of feet in the course of a comparatively few miles, with speed of water and resulting power. The American-Canadian boundary runs along the crest of the coast range—its location was so defined by the treaty of purchase from Russia—and from that crest to the very edge of the sea the earth is clothed with trees.

The coast line is very irregulur, fringed with islands, indented by deep narrow channels. The largest steamers can penetrate far up many of the fiords. Everywhere is the timber. There are 12,000 miles of timbered shore line on the Tongas National Forest alone.

The Forest Service has recently made the best estimates possible with available facilities of the resources of the two Alaskan National forests. The reconnoissance to date is admittedly incomplete—we do not know exactly how rich we are in timber—but on the basis of what has been done, it is estimated that the Alaskan forests would yield 700 million feet of timber annually on the basis of increase alone—that is, without decreasing the forest appreciably at first, and not at all after the first year. In other terms, it is estimated that after supplying local demands for saw timber, paper mills with a capacity of 3000 tons per day—and 3000 tons is six million pounds—could be fed from the natural yearly increase, without depleting the real supply. And that is a good deal of paper, when you come to consider it.

The natural query is, since Alaska offers such attractive fields for a paper mill, why aren't there any up there? Capital usually doesn't wait to be asked three times before seizing a chance to earn good interests or investment.

Alaska is not producing paper for several reasons. In the first place, she is pretty remote. Transportation is just beginning to be put on an efficient and reliable basis; it is only in the last few years that the extent and value of the forests has been realized. Under normal conditions, before the war, the result of foreign competition, high freights, and the prevailing price of paper was such that Alaska as a paper producer was on the wrong side of the coast line. But conditions are changing.

For the moment of course, a pulp mill in Alaska would be one of the most profitable bits of property you could choose to ask for. As one put it, it would be "as good as a license to rob banks." With a guarantee of continuance of present conditions, capital would run to Alaska to build pulp mills. What obviously deters it, is the fear that after the war prices will drop until the Alaskan investment would prove unprofitable.

But things may not be the same after the war as they were before. Even if the price goes back all the way to the old level which is by no means sure in view of increasing demand, there is the increasing efficiency of steamer service to Alaska to be considered, which promises that the peninsula can compete with western Canada and Norway under any conditions. Then too, if the Oriental market for paper develops as it is expected to develop, Alaska is the best and nearest place for the Orient to draw its pulp from. When China used one-tenth as much paper per capita as the average European country, she will be calling for 1,000,000 tons a year.

The Forest Service has begun to receive inquiries from various interested parties about the purchase of stumpage in Alaskan forests. Sooner or later Alaska will be one of the world's great sources of paper. So long as we own the Alaskan National forests, we will be able to go on printing our papers and our books, though Norway and Canada both stop shipping us wood. We have not yet stopped taking our profit on the investment of seven million dollars that Mr. Seward made fifty years ago.

NOW READ THE RECORD

THE BALTIMORE SUN SAYS.

David J. Lewis is the Father of the Parcels Post.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD SAYS:

He is not; but the Sun declines to give its readers the Record. Here it is.

"On June 1, 1911, Hon Jonathan Bourne, then a Senator from Oregon, introduced Senate Resolution No. 56, authorizing the Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, of which he was chairman, to conduct an inquiry into the subject of a parcel post. That resolution was adopted June 16, 1911, and a sub-committee was appointed consisting of Senators Bourne, Penrose, Briggs, Bristow, Bankhead, Swanson and Bryan. Formal hearings were held by this sub-committee from Nov. 7, 1911, to April 23, 1912. Among others who appeared at the hearings was Congressman Lewis, of Maryland, whose statement is found in Vol. 2, of the printed hearings. Mr. Lewis presented a written statement entitled:—A SYSTEM OF POSTAL EXPRESS—ARE PARCEL POST SCHEMES ADEQUATE. On page 367 of the printing hearings will be found the text of a bill by Mr. Lewis "Providing for the purchase, etc., of the express companies of the U. S." Although the House of Representatives was at the time in the control of the Democrats Mr. Lewis was unable to secure any favorable action on his Bill. On May 16, 1912, Senator Bourne introduced Senate Bill No. 6850, which Bill passed both the Senate and House, after some alteration in the details recommened by a conference committee said committee consisting of Messrs. Moon, Finely and Weeks (on the part of the House) and Senators Bourne, Penrose and Bankhead (on the part of the Senate).

* * * * * * *

On July 18, 1916, Mr. Moon, Representative from Tennessee and a Democrat said on the floor of the House:—"The Senate and House conferees directed the Senator from Oregon (Mr. Bourne) to draw a parcel post law. WE DREW THE LAW WHICH IS ON THE BOOKS TODAY. There was more work done by Mr. Bourne in the drafting of the Bill than was done by myself. I AM HERE TO ASSERT THAT JONATHAN BOURNE IS ENTITLED TO MORE CREDIT THAN ANY OTHER LIVING MAN FOR THE PARCEL POST.

* * * * * * *

On Feb. 24, 1914, on the floor of the Senate, Senator Bryan, of Florida, also a Democrat, said:—"I have seen it stated that nobody knew how the parcel post Bill originated. I wish to say that everybody who can read print ought to know that the bill was prepared by the former Senator from Oregon, Mr. Bourne." (Cong. Record, 63 Cong. p. 3840.)

* * * * * * *

On Feb. 25, 1914, on the floor of the Senate, Senator Bristow, of Kansas, a member of the sub-committee which conducted the investigation for a parcel post Bill, said: "I was somewhat amused yesterday to hear a Senator state that a member of the House—Mr. Lewis—was the father of the parcel post. As I remember, he is not a member of the Post Office Committee, and had nothing to do with preparing the House provision. I KNOW THAT HE DID NOT DRAW A LINE OF THE PARCEL POST BILL AS IT PASSED THE SENATE AND BECAME A LAW. If anybody deserves the credit for the Parcel Post system, it is ex-Senator Bourne, of Oregon.

(Cong. Record, 63d Cong., p. 3888.)

On Feb. 28, 1916, Mr. Finley, of North Carolina, a Democrat, on the floor of the House said:—"Let me say to the gentlemen from Maryland that he is not the father of the parcel post idea in this country. The grangers of this country, long before the gentleman was born, passed resolutions demanding it. THE GENTLEMAN FROM MARYLAND HAD ABOUT AS MUCH TO DO WITH THE FORMATION OF THE BILL WHICH PASSED CONGRESS AS ANY OTHER MEMBER OF THE HOUSE. Mr. Moon, of Tennessee, and Senator Bourne, Chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee largely formed the Bill."

* * * * * * *

Now, we are submitting the above extracts from the pages of the Congressional Record in contradiction of the claims of Mr. Lewis and his friends. The only rejoinder so far made by the Baltimore Sun (which has taken up the cudgels in his behalf) is to quote a paragraph from its own columns in which it says that it (the Sun) congratulates Mr. Lewis on having accomplished etc.; and a statement from Senator Underwood that when he (Mr. Underwood) was in the House he asked Mr. Lewis to prepare certain schedules, etc., etc. And this is all the foundation there is for Mr. Lewis' claim to be the "Father of the Parcels Post."

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

I AM FOR HUGHES, SAYS GIFFORD PINCHOT

Ex-U. S. Forestry Chief and Progressive, Says President False to His Vows.

MR. B. H. SINCELL,

Editor, The Republican, Oakland, Md.

DEAR SIR: It is the duty of every American citizen to make and support openly his choice among the candidates for the Presidency. That duty is especially solemn this year because great events and great decisions are certain to confront us during the next Administration. I am writing to give you my reasons for my own choice. If you care to lay them before your readers, please do so.

I am neither a Democrat nor a Republican, but a Progressive. Yet, there being no Progressive nominee, unless I choose to support a candidate who can not be elected, I must vote for either Wilson or Hughes.

For many months after his inauguration, I thought well of President Wilson. In many respects I liked what he said about what he was going to do. He talked well and made a good impression. It was only when I began to check up what he said by what he did that I was forced to change my view.

In the end I came to see that President Wilson has a greater power than any other man in public life to say one thing but do another, and get away with it.

The facts which justify this statement are common knowledge.

We have all heard him tell Germany publicly that she would be held to strict accountability; and have learned afterward that he had actually let her know secretly at the time, by the mouth of his Secretary of State through the Austrian Ambassador, that what he said he did not mean. We have all seen him prove that he did not mean it by his total failure to exact reparation, apology, or even disavowal for the murder of Americans on the Lusitania.

I do not say that Wilson should have thrust us into war. There was no need of war. But there was need of courage to give us peace with self-respect. If Wilson had shown courage this country would not have skidded from one crisis to the next, again and again narrowly escaping disaster.

We have all heard him declare against intervention in Mexico, while actually intervening to dictate who should and who should not hold office there; and denounce war against Mexico while actually engaged in war.

With war on every side of us, we all heard him, in his second annual message, solemnly assure the country that we had not been negligent of National defense. It was not true; and later on he himself proved that it was not true by proclaiming aloud the need of what he had solemnly assured us we already had.

For more than a year after the world-war began, Wilson did not raise a finger to put us in a condition of defense. Only the proverbial good luck of America has kept us from paying the bitterest price for his unforgivable neglect.

We have all heard him ridicule the idea of a greater navy, then declare for incomparably greatest navy in the world, and then go back on that.

We have all heard him declare for exempting our coast-wise trade from tolls in the Panama Canal; and have seen him show our own people and the English that he did not mean it.

We have seen him elected on a platform which pledged him to a single term as President, and then become a candidate for another term.

We have all heard him declare for the Conservation of our natural resources; and have seen him neglect that policy, and refuse his help to defeat the Shields waterpower bill, the most dangerous attack on Conservation since Ballinger's effort to turn Alaska over to the Guggenheims.

We have all heard him declare for efficiency in Government, and have seen him set the pork-barrel first and throw efficiency away. I have known official Washington from the inside for six Administrations. In that time the Government has never been so badly done and so extravagently as it is now done under Wilson.

We have all heard him announce himself as the champion of Civil service reform; and have seen him turn the Government Departments over to the spoilmen as no other President has done in twenty years.

We have all heard him declare for pitiless publicity; and have seen him conduct the most secret administration of our time.

We have all heard him announce himself as President of all the people, and have seen him, as the most partisan President of his generation, flout and oppose the Progressives, whom now, because he needs them, he seeks to conciliate and enlist.

Worst of all is this: When every principle of freedom and equality for which our fathers fought was at stake in the great war, when our whole country eagerly awaited the leadership of our President, Wilson dodged. He refused to take sides on the great moral issue of our time. He advised our people to be "neutral even in thought," undecided between right and wrong. While our friends abroad were fighting for the principles we held equally with them, he taught us that profits and ease were better than self-respect. President Wilson has done our Nation the most serious injury that any leader can do to any people by making us flinch with him from a great moral decision. Thereby he weakened our hold as a nation on the principles which alone can make any people self-respecting, safe and strong.

Having led us wrong on the ground that we must be neutral in the face of the deliberate breaking of the world's peace, he has just reversed himself again, and in his speech at Shadow Lawn now assures us that "No nation can any longer remain neutral as against any wilful disturbance of the peace of the world."

It is bad enough that Wilson's foreign policy has left us without a friend among the great nations of the world, and without the respect of any one of them. What is worse is that he has kept us from standing up for what we know to be right.

The ignoble standard of profit over principle which Mr. Wilson forced upon the country in our foreign relations, he has applied to himself as President. In what he has said, done, and left undone, the record shows him steadily dominated by political expediency.

These facts, and many others like them, have forced me to see that what Mr. Wilson says is no sign of what he has done, or of what he will do. The one thing his record shows is that what he stands for now he is not likely to stand for long. I do not care what his platform or his campaign declaration may be, because the common experience of us all has taught us that to him they are simply "molasses to catch flies."

Hughes, on the other hand, is a man of his word. His record as Governor of New York proves that. It shows him to be honest, fearless, and free from the domination of special interest and corrupt politicians. So far as the Conservation policies are concerned, both what he said and what he did could hardly have been better. I am confident that under him these policies will be safe. He is a strong man who will dodge no moral issues, and he will give us an honest and an efficient administration.

As a Progressive I believe in Nationalism. So does Hughes. I am certain that under Hughes the progressive policies will fare better than under Wilson, and that the safety, honor, and welfare of the country will be in immeasurably surer hands.

I can not vote for Wilson because I can not trust him. He does not do what he says. Hughes does. Therefore my choice is Hughes, and I shall work and vote for him.

Very truly yours,
GIFFORD PINCHOT.

Will The People Be Misled?

To the Editor of The Republican.

The American people seem to be easily excited on the approach of questions that concern the voters, but usually by election time are ready and exercise sober judgement at the ballot box, but in a few instances probably have not as in the case of James G. Blaine who was in his day the greatest American citizen as well as statesman, and in this campaign the Republican's have the same type of man as this candidate again.

Will the Republicans and Progressives throw their united strength to Mr. Hughes or will a large enough per cent bolt to re-elect Mr. Wilson. The claims made by Democrats to entitle them to re-election when considered intelligently are not well founded.

First, keeping the nation out of war. They have no assurance that any other man would have even so nearly plunged us into war, as Mr. Wilson has in Mexican blunders. He was loud in his cries against anything that would indicate war and began by saying we are too proud to fight. Then the next thing we hear he is out (having taken Mr. Roosevelt's views on preparedness) urging this upon Congress, and then see Davy Lewis, who fought all that appeared like preparedness having voted against any preparedness even to no ships at all. He silenced public ownership of telephone, telegraphs, railroads and all else to dance to Mr. Wilson's music, and through Congress was passed the most extravagant measure known in all history in times of peace. Is not this a grievous blunder when there are no evidences of war and no one now thinks there will be war with any nation for many years and all this as improvements will become junk. Why not go in a moderate way. At this time we are furnishing a large portion of the munitions to destroy Germany. We may have a legal right to do this, but no moral grounds can ever be discovered, but without this blood dripping business a political party would have our nation today in the throes of idleness and poverty. Was the nation not pondering on this at the beginning of the war?

Take our export business and subtract it from domestic business and see what we have lost and that will show any thinking man how he should vote.

The management of the Panama Canal and San Domingo and the ship purchase bill are specimens of Democratic rule. Why not have given the building of these vessels to our own ship builders, and thus build up our own country?

Then the Underwood tariff bill. Did it not smash the treasury, and not one cent less in the cost of living.

Mr. Democrat says we have war prices, true but are we not having war business generally and the point to be determined is, would we not without the war be issuing bonds as in the Grover Cleveland administration with the Wilson bill that was fought by such statesmen as Gorman, of the Democrats, who claimed such times would be the outcome. Re-elect Mr. Wilson and the war closes in two years the nation will be again just where it was at the beginning of 1915 when every where the mutterings were heard, "I am done with the party; it cannot run this government!" Mr. Kitshen, the Democratic leader in the House, said it was a bitter pill for him to swallow—the tariff on dye stuffs—but allow me to say if the Democrats ever run this nation properly they must take a Republican purgative. It will do the work and I am mighty glad the leader uses good judgment in taking the dose.

The old farmer after the doctor gave him a box of pills and he had taken two met the doctor and said, "How are you, Mr. Jones?" "I am 95 per cent more capable of doing my work than I was."

Mr. Underwood since taking the tariff pill has increased his capability 47½ If he takes a few more he will be a real statesman.

Yes, Mr. Wilson threw away the tariff commission preparation by Mr. Taft, but has gone into the apothecary shop and brought out the old pill box. It seems the only good thing of administration one of Republican origin.

Mr. Wilson got in a few new things, among them the stamp tax in time of peace. It seems Mr. Taft paved the way for income tax, but this administration now doubles the amount to be collected and along comes the inheritance tax. The party has to pursue citizens to their grave to find sufficient revenues, to keep the government going. Well one man can run a great business and another come along to go into bankruptcy. Mr. Taft left millions in the treasury, now bonds are piling up one hundred and thirty millions at a clip.

Another specimen, the eight hour day with so many flaws in it that any sane man doubts its constitutionability. It would have been just as easy to pass a straight bill to make the eight hour day a law for the nation in all business and then all would be treated alike and no question about constitutionality.

Editorial Comment.

Bryan butts, Wilson tuts.

Watchful waiting maketh woeful wanting.

Candidate Hughes doesn't talk like a tut-tutter.

Hughes is hammering and the Democrats are yammering.

The Wilson Administration stands for taxes, and more taxes.

The Hughes trail will be cold by the time the Democrats strike it.

As a party leader, would it be fair to refer to J. Ham Lewis as J. "Pork" Lewis?

Can the folks on the Democratic band wagon continue to play by the president's notes?

Bryan says Mr. Hughes' talks aren't judicial. No. The people can understand 'em perfectly.

Hughes says the country can't be saved by letting it drift. That's where he and W. Wilson differ.

Washington reports that a new apology has been sent to First Chief Carranza. Looks like a habit.

Mr. Bryan is mistaken when he says Hughes is "vitriolic." The candidate is merely applying the acid test.

Political opponents are beginning to find that why Mr. Hughes kept silence so long wasn't because he had lost his tongue.

Another encouraging feature about our new navy is that when it is completed Mr. Daniels will not be secretary of it.

Having discovered that the Democrats don't like what he is saying, Mr. Hughes doubtless is convinced that he is on the right track.

A bond issue by the Wilson administration is merely Uncle Sam's note, and the best thing Woodrow Wilson does is to write notes.

Mr. McCormick follows the same method in claiming credit for legislation as he does in his predictions. He includes several acts of the Taft administration.

The Democratic press is convinced that it is the duty of Mr. Hughes to say something that will hurt his chance of being elected.

President Wilson in his acceptance speech may reply to Mr. Hughes' charges, but he will not answer them. That is an entirely different matter.

A messenger of President Wilson found out that Colorado women were for the administration. No messenger, of course, can be blamed for making good.

It is reported from Washington that the administration will ignore most of Mr. Hughes' charges. That is very much the easiest way for it to answer them.

President Wilson will not make any speaking dates, we are told, but only separate engagements for addresses, considering a "speaking tour" undignified. "Too proud to fight."

Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy announces that he will retire after the campaign. It is believed that many other more or less distinguished Democrats will follow his example.

Governor Hughes announces in one of his speeches that he is a constructionist. But we are willing to admit that so far as Democratic policies are concerned he is a destructionist.

President Wilson will be notified of the Democratic nomination at Shadow Lawn. This seems a most appropriate place for letting him know that he will shortly have to give up his place in the sun.

Grover Cleveland was the last Democratic president. He was also the last president to issue bonds to secure money to defray the running expenses of the government. But Wilson will tie him in this.

"Eminent judges," says Colonel Henry Watterson, "have ever proved disappointing candidates." He is right. Alton B. Parker was a big disappointment to the Democrats. And so is Charles Evans Hughes.—Toledo Blade.

What Josepfilleous Daniels, the well known nautical militarist, can't understand is why men should waste time Plattsburging at sea when they might just as well learn how to become sailors in three lessons in any good, reliable correspondence school.

President Wilson appears to have been keenly alive to the expediency of accepting several invitations to make speeches in the West. Nobody knows any better than he that it will take considerable shoveling to fill up the holes that have been dug in that locality by Justice Hughes.

It was John P. St. John of Kansas, one time Prohibitionist candidate for president of the United States, who said that Americans vote as they cheer. If so, there is mighty little consolation for the Democratic party in this campaign, for the Democratic administration in three years has given us nothing to cheer over. On the contrary, as Mr. Hughes has said, these last three years have been years of humiliation and embarrassment.

REPUBLICAN TICKET

For President:

For Vice President:
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS
For United States Senator:
JOSEPH IRWIN FRANCE
of Cecil County.
For Congressman:
FREDERICK N. ZIHLMAN
of Allegany County

By the terms of the Adamson Bill the United States government assumes control over railroad wages as well as over railroad rates.

Neither the unions nor the railroads seem to realize as yet that as a result of their eight-hour controversy government regulation of interstate common carriers has entered into a new phase.

Both the union leaders and the railroad presidents assume that the Adamson Bill arbitrarily establishes an eight-hour day for train crews. It does not. It establishes an experimental eight-hour day to enable Congress to obtain information upon which to take definite action.

By the terms of the act an eight-hour day is to go into effect January 1. The President is to appoint a commission to study the practical workings of this eight-hour day. The activities of the commission are to cover a period of not less than six months or more than nine months. The eight-hour day is extended for 30 days after the report of the commission, the whole question having again become subject to the will and authority of Congress.

Out of this must necessarily come a new railroad code under which railroad labor no less than railroad capital will be subject to the control of the United States government.—New York World.

MAINE SPEAKS

To Mr. Vance McCormick, Chairman of the Democrat National Committee, and to other willful optimists of the same persuasion, who see in the Maine results the indications of a sweeping Democratic victory in November, we commend perusal of the following little review of Gubernatorial majorities there in recent years:

1906	7,838 Rep.
1908	7,653 Rep.
1910	8,753 Dem.
1212	3,226 Rep.
1916	13,000 Rep.

In 1908, when Maine went Republican by 7653 in the Gubernatorial election, she gave Taft 30,584 in November. In 1912, when a Republican Progressive truce yielded the party a plurality of 3295 in September, the combined vote in November out-totaled Wilson's by 23,925. What does a September majority of 13,000 forecast for November 7? By the rule of proportions, about 60,000.

Seriously, however, both the Democrats and Republicans succeeded in injecting national issues into this campaign to a far greater extent than is usual. Strict alignment on national issues in the Main State elections is impossible; for prohibition is ever an acute State issue there and on it the electorate is nearly equally divided. But, while we may count on a largely increased Republican majority in November, the great questions raised by Mr. Wilson's Administration of the nation's affairs were in the minds of voters yesterday. The defeat of Congressman McGillicuddy by upward of 400 contrasts rather sharply with his election in 1912 by nearly 1300 over a candidate who had the combined Republican-Progressive vote. But Senator Johnson was the candidate on whom the Administration pinned its hopes. Its speakers fought hard for him. They themselves made his re-election or defeat the test of indorsement or repudiation of the Wilson policies. He was badly beaten.

It is only fair to say that the results fail to disclose which of the many Wilson policies contributed most to bring about the general adverse decision. The Republican campaign was long in a lethargic condition; the Democratic campaign lively and aggresive. The Republicans woke up with Mr. Roosevelt's famous speech at Lewiston. Mr. Hughe's, in the last three days, put still more life into them. The two, between them, brought home to the Maine voters issues as different as black and white, but all of fundamental importance. Whether the one that appealed most was the need of denouncing a bungling repudiation by the Government of its obligation to protect its national's lives and property abroad, or the safeguarding of American industries against cheap foreign competition, or the need of showing Mr. Wilson that the nation will not tolerate the debasement of its executive and legislative before any man or set of men under threat of force—which of these played the greater role in the result, none can say. Any one of them should suffice. And in the end it suffices that Maine, responding to one or all, has shown that good red blood is still flowing through the country's pulse.

BULL MOOSE GOATS.

When Wilson summoned his campaign managers to luncheon at the White House he carefully separated the sheep from the goats. That is, he entertained the faithful Democrats on one day and the co-operating Proressives on another. This is typical of the manner in which Democracy is dealing with the Bull Moose as distinguished from the manner in which the Republicans act toward them. The Progressives who are assisting in the management of the Hughes canvass are full-fledged members of the committee. Their presence and their activities there are proof of a complete and genuine amalgamation between the two elements who warred against each other—and against the interests of the nation—in 1912. The Democrats, on the other hand, do not admit the Progressives to fellowship. Their attitude is that the Bull Moose may help Wilson in his campaign for reelection, but they must not be permitted to know too much about the fight nor are they to be allowed to count themselves members of the family. Their assistance is accepted, but it is none too welcome. They can help if they want to, but they must not expect to eat with the family.

STATE FORESTER IN THIS COUNTY

Forestry Matters of Local and General Importance to Be Gone Over.

The Western Maryland counties are receiving a visit from the State Forester, F. W. Besley. Mr. Besley is making a tour of the state for the purpose of extending the valuable work being done by the Maryland State Board of Forestry, and of stimulating a practical interest in it on the part of the local residents and owners of woodland.

At each point touched by the State Forester a careful study is being made of such special timber problems as may confront the farmers and other landowners with stands of valuable timber which through a little practical care of the right sort might readily become so. The Board of Forestry has a well defined plan for woodlot improvement and the marketing of forest products, and it is the purpose of Mr. Besley to explain the operation of this plan to all who may have an interest in it through owning forest lands not in their highest state of productivity. Such lands may be inspected at this time free of charge, and at any time at no cost but the traveling expenses of the State Forester from his office and return. Actual improvement work—and this includes the marking for removal of the trees which should come out, their estimate, and a list of timber buyers—is done at a very low per diem charge representing perhaps a cost of 30 cents or less per acre. Such work should be taken up during the Forester's stay or by communicating with his office at Johns Hopkins University, North Howard street, Baltimore.

In addition to this special field of work, Mr. Besley is also taking a complete census of sawmill operations and all wood-using industries; securing the names of woodland owners and examining their properties where it is so desired; calling upon the State's Forest Wardens, and visiting ones whom it has been suggested be given this office; taking up the question of better fire protection with county officials and private individuals; securing local timber, wood and lumber prices, logging and milling costs; making a study of local shade tree conditions and problems in towns and cities; visiting planting projects; calling upon granges, societies, and civic clubs who may be expected to take a helpful interest in the forest problems of the state. In other words, Mr. Besley is making a careful study of all such questions with the idea of furthering the work of the board throughout the state.

Forty Years Ago.

In its notes of "Forty Years Ago" the Cumberland News of Saturday contained the following relative to Garrett County Happenings:

A team of mules driven by Israel Thompson, an aged and well-known resident of Garrett county, ran away, seriously injuring a three-year-old grandchild of Mr. Thompson, killing the driver instantly.

FOURTH ANNUAL FAIR OPENS HERE

Greatest Crowds in City's History Are Expected at the Big Show.

The fourth annual fair of the Agricultural Association of Garrett county opened here Tuesday and will close Friday evening. The fair has grown each year and has reached such proportions that its promoters and the public generally look upon it as a permanent institution with the prospects eventually of taking its place among the leading fairs of the state. The growing importance of Garrett as an agricultural and stock raising county assures the fair's future, it is generally believed.

The opening day, was designated "Get Acquainted Day." It opened with a concert by the Boys' Band of Cumberland which has been engaged for the entire fair.

The display of live stock, poultry, grain, fruits and vegetables is noteworthy. Many local business men have offered special prizes for live stock, grain and fruits. State Senator Harvey J. Speicher and former State Senator W. McCulloh Brown are among the exhibitors. Professor Grimes of the agricultural department of the West Virginia Preparatory school at Keyser, has charge of the agricultural department of the fair.

Thursday will be Farmers' Day There will be a parade of farmer's floats and live stock. The closing day will be featured by a school rally with athletics. There will be a parade of children in unique uniforms. The school rally is under the direction of Professor William Burdick of the Public Athletic League of Maryland.

Oakland is in holiday dress in honor of the fair and has the greatest influx of visitors in the history of the city. Maryland's fine roads means many visitors from West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The decoration of the main building was arranged by the ladies of Oakland Civic Club. Many new and novel industrial exhibits have taken space on the grounds and along Third street. This is a new feature. Among the free attractions is Smithson in leaping a gap down an incline on his bicycle and the features connected with the Nigro shows. Liberal premiums have been offered by the management in all departments. A chicken and pet stock department and "Old Curiosity Shop" are additional features this year.

H. Dorsey Etchison, Democrat, and Frederick N. Zihlman, Republican, candidates for Congress, will be visitors to the fair.

The officers of the association are: President J. A. Kelly, Oakland; Secretary and Treasurer, James D. Hamill, Oakland, who with John Stevenson, Mountain Lake Park, George D. Browning, Friendsville and Wade H. Hinebaugh, Oakland, form the board of directors.

SHORT RUN

Miss Esta Wilson and brother, James, entertained a number of their friends to a chicken roast in the grove near their home on last Saturday evening. The grove was beautifully decorated and lighted up and as the evening was slightly chilly, one of the most pleasant features proved to be a large bonfire, which every one enjoyed thoroughly. The girls especially enjoyed seeing the "sparks" fly. The young folks indulged in playing numerous out-door games and at a late hour delicious refreshments were served, which consisted of chicken and rolls, ice cream, cake and lemonade. The guests were: Misses Esther Price, Myrtle and Velma Arnold and Messrs. Albert Enlow, Luther Kepler and Leroy Price, of Kitzmiller. Misses Cinda and Ruth Wilson, Nelle and Belle Harvey and Virgie Moore and Messrs Milo and George Wilson, Robert and Dan Harvey, Thomas and Reese Moore, J. C. Meyers and James Hoopengarner. Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Sharpless chaperoned the party.

During the severe electric storm which passed over this section last Friday afternoon the beautiful home of Mr. Scott Harvey was struck by lightning, and slightly damaged. The structure was insured.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wilson spent the week-end visiting friends near Thayerville.

Mrs. S. E. Harvey is visiting her sister Mrs. Huldah Lauer near Mt. Lake Park. Mrs. Harvey will attend the fair at Oakland before returning home.

Mr. John Harvey, of Corinth, W. Va., spent Sunday at this place, the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Harvey and family, of Paradise, spent Sunday here visiting Mrs. C. B. Harvey.

Mr. H. L. Warnick was visiting his aunt at Warnicks Station, on Saturday and Sunday.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MRS. BRIDGET ANN RICE.

Mrs. Bridget Ann Rice died at her home here at 9 o'clock last Tuesday morning, after an illness of some weeks from heart trouble.

The deceased lady was born in the Parish of Knock, County Mayo, Ireland, in 1836, being aged 80 years at the time of her death. She came to America while still quite a young girl.

On Nov. 18, 1865, she was united in marriage to the late Mr. John Rice, at St. Peter and Paul's church, Cumberland, by Rev. Father Joseph Wurst. This union was blessed by the birth of seven children, four sons and three daughters, five of whom survive as follows: Michael, William E. and Lawrence, of Oakland; Mrs. Mary Cromwell, and Mrs. Ellen Patterson, both of Baltimore. One son, John, Jr., and one daughter, Mrs. Anne Bergner are deceased.

Mrs. Rice came to Oakland in the year 1865 with her husband and resided here up to the time of her death, making many friends who deeply sympathise with the surviving sons and daughters in their loss.

The funeral will take place this morning from St. Peter's Catholic church at 9 o'clock.

JOHN EMORY FISHER.

John Emory Fisher was born in Cove, Garrett county, Maryland, July 5, 1848, and died at his home August 28, 1916, aged 68 years, 1 month and 23 days. The deceased had only been confined to his bed one week prior to his death, although his health had been failing for the past six months. He apparently seemed to suffer no pain, and when asked always said nothing hurt him, he was willing to die and quietly and peacefully waited for the time to come. He was married to Elizabeth Ringer in the year 1870. To this union six children were born—four sons and two daughters, all of whom are living: Ella, wife of Perry Frazee; Maggie, wife of the late Jesse McClintock; Milton, Norman, Albert and John. His funeral took place in the Cove Lutheran church of which he was a life-long member, with interment in the Cove cemetery, beside his wife who had preceded him to the spirit world four years.

BUCKNER FAIRFAX MASON.

Buckner Fairfax Mason was born in the year 1849 and had passed the 67th mile stone of life when death called him. Mr. Mason was born in Garrett county and spent practically all his life within its limits.

He grew to manhood without the tender care of a mother, she having gone to the spirit world when he was but six years old, and this being at a time when educational advantages were much limited and not so highly prized by many, his school days were few in number, and as his vocation in life he chose farming and lumbering.

As a farmer Mr. Mason did his full share in clearing away the forests and turning them into productive fields. In the pursuits of the lumber business he worked hard and seemingly considered no labor, travel or exposure too much for him to endure and possibly in this way hurried on his last illness.

When a young man he enjoyed hunting, as in these days deer, bear and other game still traversed the county, and in his last years he enjoyed telling of his hunting trips and the game he brought in, he having killed three black bears and many deer.

His health was failing for a number of years and he suffered greatly at times. Tho enduring it without a murmer. Until five weeks prior to his death he was taken beadfast with brights disease, the best medical aid that could be secured was provided but he did not improve. The physician suggested that possibly he could help him if he could see him quite frequent and it was decided to take him to the Home Sanitorium at Oakland, where all that the specialists knew to do was done to save his life, but all would not avail, his work here was finished and on August the 19th at 12 o'clock p. m. death fastened his icy hands and his spirit went to be with Jesus.

The funeral services were conducted at North Glade by the pastor, Rev. McCamic, the interment being in the Fitzwater cemetery.

He leaves to mourn his loss a widow, three sons, John W. Alfred B. and Columbus C., three daughters, Alice V. Bell, Effie A. Baker and Lillie Mason, a number of other relatives and a host of friends.

He was a member of the M. E. church and before he died testified that he was at peace with his God and prepared to go. HIS DAUGHTER.

Killed By Accidental Discharge of Shotgun.

Charles Teets, aged 17, of the Mountain Dale neighborhood of Preston county, W. Va., near the Maryland ine, was instantly killed yesterday as the result of the accidental discharge of his gun. He was on the road to a neighbors house, carrying the gun, and when found a few minutes after the report of the gun, was lying beside a log against which the gun rested. It is supposed that the young man was searching for a shovel he had previously secreted under the log while at work on the road.

Lutheran church that everything would be in readiness for services in the auditorium on Sunday next, but this has been found to be impossible and as a result the services will be held as they have for the past two Sabbaths in the Sunday school room of the edifice. A recital will be given some evening next week to which the public generally is cordially invited. Announcement of the date will be made later.

The property of the Meadow Mountain Coal and Coke Company, located on Meadow Mountain in Garrett county, was sold at Sheriff's sale Tuesday of this week, the First National Bank of Trenton, N. J., which concern held the bond indebtednes of the company, being the purchaser, at the sum of $5,000. The bonded indebtedness of the coal concern was in the neighborhood of $18,000, the bank having recovered a judgment for this amount at a recent term of the Circuit Court for this county. Mr. G. Semmes Hamill was attorney for the bank in the matter.

Mr. Peter J. Rowan, of Keyser, West Va., is in Oakland the guest of relatives.

Miss Josephine Browning, of Accident, was one of the many visitors to Oakland yesterday.

State Forester F. W. Besley spent Saturday, Sunday and Monday in Oakland inspecting the forest situation and preparing his wardens here for their fall campaign against fires in the timber.

Lost or Strayed—Short tail Brindle bull dog. Reward if returned to W. S. Chester, Mt. Lake Park, or any information looking to recovery of the animal.

Senator and Mr. H. J. Speicher, who spent two weeks on a motor trip through West Virginia and Ohio, returned to their home at Accident Wednesday last and came up to Oakland to attend the fair Tuesday of this week. The horse exhibit at the fair by Senator Speicher is attracting the attention generally of all who enter the gates.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Fleming and daughters, of Fayetteville, N. C., who are spending the summer with Oakland friends and Miss Grace Lohr, of Oakland, motored over Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Fleming and daughters were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Whetsell and Miss Lohr of Mrs. S. A. Pratt.—Kingwood Journal.

Mr. James W. Harvey, of near Kitzmiller, who is a veteran of the Civil War, and upwards of eighty years of age, came over to Oakland early Tuesday morning with the intention of remaning here throughout the four days' fair. Mr. Harvey takes great interest in matters pertaining to agriculture as well as those of every day interest notwithstanding his years.

Mrs. Paul A. Trageser, of Cecil Avenue, Baltimore City, terminated her visit at the summer home of her mother, Mrs. G. W. Haulenbeek, and went back to Baltimore on Friday with her little daughter, Susan Anne. The trip to Deer Park was made on the third of July on No. One train reaching the Hotel station just one minute ahead of time, and No. 16 train on which they returned to their Baltimore City home, was also just one minute ahead of time.

This newspaper business is a great game. Just in the midst of an obituary of a dear friend and when hot tears threaten to flow down and blot out the words you write, there breaks through the office door the radiant face of the daddy of a new boy. Tears and joy mingle in the same breath and the giving and taking away of life are recorded on the same page.

Before you have finished the obituary the breezy advance man for a comedy show pops in and asks you to write a scream for his Forty Fat Frolicsome Fairies and how joyous they are. Before you have done with the kind words about your departed friend, the joy over the new baby and finished the showman's ad. a fellow sneaks in to ask you to suppress the story of the fight that he was mixed up in. Then, after putting all the lace and trimmings on the bride's wedding gown, dressing the groom in the conventional black and starting them off with congratulations and best wishes, you turn again to the tear side of life and write: "But the stately ship moves on. To the haven under the hill. And, oh! for the touch of a vanished hand. And the sound of a voice that is still."

Then comes a lull and the old typewriter is content to record the common place facts, knowing that just around the corner and each awaiting his turn stands Joy, Grief, Sorrow, Mirth, Sarcasm, Wit and Laughter.—Oakley (Kan.) Graphic.

Glotfelty Family Reunion.

The reunion of the Glotfelty family of Garrett county was held on last Sunday afternoon at the farm of Mr. Mahlon Glotfelty near McHenry, when the crowd present was estimated at from three hundred to four hundred persons, all, or nearly all of whom, were either Glotfeltys or were members of that family. The occasion was a memorable and extremely pleasant one, especially to the older members of the clan.

M'KINLEY'S WAR COST LESS BLOODSHED THAN WILSON'S PEACE

By Theodore Roosevelt.

Under President McKinley we had a war with Spain. Under President Wilson we are assured that we have had "peace" with Mexico. These are the words. Now for the deeds. During the war with Spain fewer Americans were killed by the Spaniards than have been killed by Mexicans during the present "peace" with Mexico. Let me repeat this. A greater number of Americans have been killed by Mexicans during these years, when we are officially informed that we have been at peace with them, than were killed by the Spaniards during our entire war with Spain. Moreover, when the war with Spain was through, it was through. But peace still continues to rage as furiously as ever in Mexico. Nor is this all. The instant effect of the outcome of the war with Spain was to put a stop to the dreadful butchery and starvation in Cuba and the Philippines, and the entry of both Cuba and the Philippines on a career of eighteen years of peace and prosperity such as they had never known before in all their checkered history. But during these three years of Mr. Wilson's "peace" the Mexicans themselves have been butchered by their own bandits steadily and without intermission; and Mexican women and children have died by thousands—probably by scores of thousands—of starvation and of the diseases incident to starvation. In other words, Mr. McKinley's war cost less than peace; and it reflected high honor on the American people; whereas Mr. Wilson's peace has been one of shame and dishonor for the American people, and one of ruin and bloodshed for the Mexicans.

A PICTURE OF HUGHES.

The New York World, which once was outspoken in its admiration for Mr. Hughes, now declares that the people do not know where Hughes stands, or what he stands for. This Wilson organ had no such criticism to make when Mr. Hughes was governor. The World said on May 17, 1910: "He dictated no nominations, controlled no convention, trafficked in no patronage, made no bargains with office-holders. He has rewarded nobody for supporting him and punished nobody for opposing him. What influence he has wielded over public opinion has come through his appeals to the voters themselves." That is the estimate of Mr. Hughes given by the World six years ago. It is a pretty fair letter of recommendation. Could the World say as much for President Wilson? Hardly, for the president has done all of the things from which the World absolved Hughes.—Kansas City Journal.

GUARDSMEN PAY THE PRICE OF WILSON'S ABASEMENT.

Having condoned the repeated murders of Americans by the Carranzistas and having abased himself before Carranza and having aided in placing Carranza in power, what is Mr. Wilson's reward, and who pays it? The reward is that Mr. Wilson has to place 150,000 troops on the border to partially prevent the raids and murders that his friend, Mr. Carranza, will not or cannot prevent, and the payment is made by the soldiers who are slain and by the families of the guardsmen who go in want because their husbands and fathers have been called to the border to make good Mr. Wilson's refusal to let the regular army administer such punishment to the bandits as to inspire in them a healthy fear.—From the Speech of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Delivered at Lewiston, Me., in Behalf of Charles E. Hughes.

The President himself has tried to appropriate for his own advantage the sentiment of "America first." The Democrats have tried to make his support an act of piety by adopting "Thank God for Wilson" as a slogan. Mr. Hughes, with rare courage, frankness and penetration, is exposing the flimsy foundation for the claims of Wilsonian infallibility. He is laying bare a record of extravagance, partisanship, sectionalism, incompetence, wrongheadedness, vacillation and insincerity which destroys the attempt to make a joss out of the President. The Democrats must come out of their ecstatic trance and defend their stewardship. The President is to be put on the stump. We are to hear something beside Delphic prose poems.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Mr. Wilson now virtually admits that all his own ideas were wrong four years ago. He has changed his mind on every public question. On some of them he has changed twice or even three times. Even if his friends could satisfy the public at this time he is exactly right, what assurance could be given that he would be right a year hence?

HE KEPT US OUT OF WHAT WAR?

Disingenuous to Boast That It's Through Any Act of Wilson We Are Out of the European Contest.

RATHER SHOULD BE BLAMED FOR MEXICO BELLIGERENCY

During the Present Administration We Have Seized a Mexican Port and Sent Our Entire Army and Militia to Fight Mexicans While Armed Mexican Forces Have Invaded American Soil and Fought Battles Against Our People.

Sometimes you hear men, sensible men, too, say, "I'm going to vote for Wilson this year because he kept us out of war."

Ask such men a short question. Ask them, "Out of what war?"

Did Mr. Wilson keep us out of the European war? No. He has himself in a formal address to congress spoken of the European war as "a war with which we have nothing to do, a war whose causes do not touch us." How could Mr. Wilson keep us out of a war with which we have nothing to do and whose causes do not touch us?

Did he keep the rest of the western hemisphere out of the European war? No independent nation on this side of the world is involved in it; the only people in it are the colonies of European powers and they had no voice in their fate, for they were automatically at war when their mother governments went to war. Who kept Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, out of the European war? Did Mr. Wilson?

Did Mr. Wilson keep us out of war with Mexico? No. In his term more Americans have been killed by Mexicans and more American property has been destroyed by Mexicans than by Spaniards during the whole Spanish war. In his term we have seized a Mexican port and have sent our entire regular army and militia to fight Mexicans. In his term Mexican armed forces have invaded American soil and fought battles against our people within our boundaries.

President Taft went through two Mexican revolutions during his term, the revolution against Diaz and the revolution against Madero. American lives were safe in Mexico during that time. No Mexican cities were seized by Americans and no armed Mexicans invaded the United States while Mr. Taft was in the White House. Yet Mr. Taft never thought of asking the American people to vote for him because he kept us out of war with Mexico. He put an embargo on arms so that American weapons would not be sent across the boundary, and he refused to interfere in Mexican affairs. When he left office Mexicans liked Americans, and Americans were safe in Mexico. Since he left office Mexicans hate Americans and Americans dare not remain in Mexico. Did Mr. Wilson keep us out of war with Mexico? Not if words mean anything.

Mr. Wilson did not keep us out of the European war, and he did not keep us out of war with Mexico.

Out of what war, then? —Detroit Free Press.

UNITED STATES' HONOR.

Hughes' Criticism of Foreign Policy Approved In West.

[Portland (Ore.) Telegram.]

The Republican party has selected a standard bearer whose utterances from day to day justify the people who chose him. Not only does he bring before the country the shortcomings of the Administration that owes its existence to a divided Republicanism, but his criticism is everywhere constructive.

He tells what must be done and will be done by the party he represents to prevent wastefulness and extravagance in the governmental expenditures and to put a stop to the vacillating policy that has caused other nations to believe that the United States has no intention of backing up its demands made in the interests of justice and humanity.

Most vulnerable of all points in the Democratic armor is its foreign policy. Primarily this is because of the spoils system by which men trained in the consular and diplomatic service through long years, have been displaced to make room for politicians and friends of politicians, whose sole claim to preferment was their services to the Democratic party.

"If I am elected president of the United States," said Mr. Hughes last night, "I propose that every man I put in charge of an important department shall be a man eminently fit to discharge the duties of that department."

The denuding of the diplomatic service of men of experience in order to supply political jobs, as has been done by Mr. Wilson, or with his consent, Mr. Hughes denounces as "a capital offense—trading in the good name of the United States and damaging its honor." "Nobody," he adds, "has a right to pay political debts with the good name and honor of the United States."

Which is clear proof that Mr. Hughes has not been unmindful of the high principles of government which must be maintained in order that this republic shall maintain its place as a shining example to all nations.

COMPULSORY SCHOOL LAW

ARTICLE 72, CHAPTER 506 Acts of 1916

The following is a copy of the State Compulsory School Attendance Law, the provisions of which apply to Garrett County, Maryland. This copy thereof is being distributed in order to make the public thoroughly familiar with its requirements, in order that those who are affected thereby, in this county, may be properly guided.

B. H. WILEY,
School Attendance Officer, Oakland, Md.

156. . . . . The county board of education of each of the several counties shall appoint, with the approval of the county superintendent, and may remove at pleasure, with the approval of the county superintendent, at least one attendance officer, male or female, who shall give his or her entire time to the duties of the office; and such additional attendance officers may be appointed as the county board of education may deem necessary.

157. It shall be the duty of each attendance officer, and said officer shall have full power within the city or county for which he or she may be appointed, to arrest without warrant any child between eight and sixteen years of age found away from his home and who is a truant from school, or who fails to attend school, in accordance with the provisions of this subtitle. The said officer shall forthwith deliver a child so arrested either to the custody of a person in parental relation to the child or to the teacher from whose school such a child is then a truant; but if a child be a habitual or incorrigible truant, said officer shall bring him before the magistrate for juvenile causes, or, in a county where such court does not exist, before a justice of the peace having jurisdiction, who may commit him to a parental school, as provided for in the next section, or to some other suitable institution for children located in the State of Maryland, where no persons convicted of any crime or any offense other than truancy shall or may be confined; provided however, that such court or justice may in its or his discretion parole such child instead of committing him as aforesaid. The attendance officer shall promptly report every such arrest to the school commissioners of the said city or county respectively or to such person or persons as they may direct.

160. It shall be the duty of the principal or head teacher of every public or private school in this State to report immediately to the school commissioners of the county where such school is located, or of Baltimore city, if located therein, or to an attendance officer or other official designated by such commissioners, the names of all children enrolled in his or her school who have been absent or irregular in attendance three days, or their equivalent, without lawful excuse, within a period of eight consecutive weeks.

161. Attendance officers may visit all establishments where minors are employed in their several cities and counties and ascertain whether any minors are employed therein contrary to law. Attendance officers may require that the certificates provided for in Article 100 of the code of public general laws of Maryland relating to minors employed in such establishments shall be produced for inspection.

161 A. Any person violating any provisions of this subtitle where no special provision as to the penalty for such violation is made shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not exceeding fifty dollars for each offense.

162. Every child residing in any county of the State being seven years of age, and under thirteen years of age, shall attend some public school during the entire period of each year that the public schools of the county are in session; unless it can be shown to the county superintendent of schools that such a child is elsewhere receiving regular and thorough instructions during such periods in the studies usually taught in the public schools of the county to children of the same age; provided, that the superintendent or principal of any school, or persons duly authorized by such superintendent, may excuse cases of necessary and legal absence among such enrolled pupils, and provided, further, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to children whose mental or physical condition is such as to render the instruction above described inexpedient or impracticable. Every person having under his control a child seven years of age and under thirteen years of age, shall cause such child to attend school or receive instruction as required by this section.

Every child, residing in any county of the State, being thirteen years of age or fourteen years of age, shall attend some public school not less than one hundred days, as nearly consecutive as possible, beginning not later than November first, during the period of each year that the public schools of the county are in session, and such child shall attend some public school the entire period of each year that the public schools of the county are in session, if not regularly and lawfully employed to labor at home or elsewhere, unless it can be shown to the county superintendent of schools that such a child is elsewhere receiving regular and thorough instruction for such period in the studies usually taught in the public schools of the county to children of these ages; provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to children whose mental and physical condition is such as to render the instruction above described inexpedient or impracticable. Every person having under his control a child thirteen years of age or fourteen years of age, shall cause such child to attend school or receive instructions as required by this section.

Every child residing in any county of the State, being fifteen years of age or sixteen years of age, who has not completed the work of the public elementary school, shall attend some public school not less than one hundred days, as nearly consecutive as possibe, beginning not later than November first, during the period of each year the public schools of the county are in session; and such child shall attend some public school the entire period of each year the public schools of the county are in session, if not regularly and lawfully employed to labor at home or elsewhere, unless it can be shown to the county superintendent of schools that such child is elsewhere receiving regular and thorough instruction for said period in the studies usually taught in the public schools of the county to children of these ages; provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to children whose mental and physical condition is such as to render the instruction above described inexpedient or impracticable. Every person having under his control a child fifteen years of age, or sixteen years of age, shall cause such child to attend school or receive instruction as required by this section.

Any person who has a child under his control and who fails to comply with any of the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding five dollars for each offense.

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY
Entrance Examinations
State Scholarship in Engineering Courses

Entrance Examinations for the Department of Engineering, as well as for the College of Arts and Sciences, will be held in the Academic Building of the Johns Hopkins University, Homewood, Baltimore, September 18-21, 1916, beginning at 9 a. m. each day.

Application For Scholarships in The Department of Engineering, established in the Johns Hopkins University under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, may now be made. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, a competitive examination must be taken in the Academic Building, Homewood, on September 22, 1916, beginning at 9 a. m.

Each County of the State and each Legislative District of Baltimore City, with the exception of Charles, Harford, and Queen Anne's Counties will be entitled to one or more scholarships for the year 1916-17, in addition to those which have already been assigned. In the three counties mentioned above all the available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City scholarships in the Department of Engineering are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted to them. The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text-books, and exemption from all regular fees. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is no greater than at other Maryland institutions.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, Maryland Agricultural College, Mt. St. Mary's College; and one scholarship will be awarded "At Large."

Applicants should address the Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University, for blank forms of application and for further information as to examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction.

RUMANIAN DRIVE FORCES FOE BACK

Austrians Compelled to Withdraw from Positions Fifty Miles North of Kronstadt

BULGARS TAKE SEA PORTS

London.—The rapidity with which the Rumanians are advancing in their invasion of Transylvania is indicated by an announcement from Austrian Army Headquarters at Vienna that Austrian positions six miles west of Csik Szereda have been abandoned under pressure. These positions at Hargitta are fifty miles north of Kronstadt and about twenty-five miles west of the Rumanian border. The announcement says:

West of Csik Szereda our troops have been withdrawn before superior enemy attacks against Hargitta.

An undated official Bulgarian report received here says that the Bulgarian and German forces which are invading Eastern Rumania have captured the fortress of Dobric (Bazardjik) and the seaports of Baltjik, Kavarna, and Kali Akra.

The capture of Orsova gives the Rumanians a grip on the Austrian second line of defense behind the mountains dixiding Transylvania from Hungary. To the Teutons its loss means the hampering of traffic along the Danube which served as a supply line for Turkey.

On the Somme front in France the violent bombardment continues along almost the entire line. The only infantry engagements have taken place south of the river. The French report a further advance for their troops in the village of Vedandovillers. In the Berny-en-Senterre and Chaulnes sector, where the fighting was particularly vicious, both the Germans and the French record successes for their armies in the repuse of attacks.

The capture of Turtukai is by far the most significant success scored thus far by the Bulgarians and their Teutonic allies in the Rumanian campaign. Once the Danube is crossed at this point, a railroad leading directly to Bucharest is at their disposal.

SWEPT BACK ON SOMME.

London.—On both banks of the Somme the fierce battle continues. Berlin reports that 560,000 Allied troops are attacking the Picardy line. North of the Somme alone 200,000 French soldiers are massed. Taken in conjunction with Berlin's official statement that the artillery fire in the last few days exceeded in expenditure anything known before, some observers here see a hint that the Germans plan a withdrawal from the Roye sector.

All reports agree that the Allied gains are costing much less than was expected. The artillery is smothering the enemy's defenses so thoroughly that the infantry casualties are relatively low. Foch's progress has been accomplished at a surprisingly low expense, due largely to the efficiency of the new French guns.

The strategy of the Allied command also has contributed to this result. The French and British have been able to assail the German line mainly from the flank, thus avoiding the costly frontal assault that laid so heavy a toll on the Germans at Verdun.

From the large number of prisoners and guns taken in the offensive thus far, the Allied drive must be considered exceedingly successful. The vagueness of the German communiques is the best proof that the Germans are worried greatly about the Western front, where the tide is flowing constantly against them.

In the frenzy of their efforts to prevent further encroachments by the French, the finest infantry the Kaiser has is marching to certain death in counter attacks launched with the barest shadow of artillery preparation. There have been a dozen of these bloody attempts at striking back, and not one of them has recovered an inch of the ground lost.

CALLS JAPANESE AGGRESSORS

Chinese Premier Issuss Statement on Clash in Eastern Mongolia.

Peking, China.—At a secret mission of Parliament Premier Tuan Chi-Jui, replying to inquiries about the recent clash between Chinese and Japanese troops at Chengehiatun, in eastern Mongolia, said the Japanese were the aggressors and fired the first shots. The Premier added he was doing his best to maintain the dignity of China in settling the difficulty.

JAMAICA'S BANANA CROP RUINED

Widespread Damage Wrought by West Indian Hurricane.

Kingston, Jamaica.—Information collected from all parts of the island respecting the damage done by the hurricane indicates that for all practical purposes this year's banana crop has been completely destroyed, the crop for 1917 reduced by 50 per cent, and barring further blows the full output from all plantations will not be in effect before 1918. Bananas represent 90 per cent. of the island exports.

SEE CONSPIRACY IN BAKERS' PACT

Department of Justice Agents Seeking Basis For Advance in Price of Bread

LOOKS FOR WHEAT EMBARGO

Lack of Economic Justification If Found and Action of Bakers in Concert Will Start Criminal Prosecutions Under Trust Act.

Washington.—The Administration is seriously concerned over the bread situation and viewed with alarm the threat of bakers to increase the price of the loaf. Government investigations are in progress, and it is believed here that criminal prosecutions will result if the price of bread actually is increased and two facts can be established. These are: That there is no economic justification for the increase, and that the bakers have acted in association.

An official said there must be an investigation and the facts of it detailed to the public so the public by the weight of its expressed opinion may frown down any attempt to increase unjustly the price of bread. The Federal Trade Commission, through Chairman Edward N. Hurly, has been making an investigation of the economic phases of the question. He is now in Chicago authorized by the commission to pursue this inquiry as far as he deems necessary.

It is understood also that the matter has been brought to the attention of the Department of Justice and that its agents have been at work on it for some time. What facts have been disclosed Department of Justice officials will not admit.

It was stated that if there were an agreement among bakers to increase the price of bread it would be equivalent to a conspiracy and that they could be prosecuted under the Common Law or Anti-Trust Act.

Two natural causes for a possible increase in the price of bread are seen by some authorities here. It was said the great demand for wheat has been for armies, thus lessenging the supply of this country. The other cause is the reduction of this year's wheat crop, which is said to be approximately 20 per cent. less than last year's crop.

Chicago.—Federal investigation of the National Association of Master Bakers' plan to make the price of small loaves of bread six cents instead of five was started here.

Charles F. Clyne, United States District Attorney, said the plan for one baker in a community to advance the price and then have the others follow would constitute a violation of the anti-trust laws.

The plan to advance the price was announced at a meeting of the executive committee of the Bakers' Association here. This step was necessary, it was declared, because of the sharp increase in the price of materials.

An embargo on the exportation of wheat from the United States may be declared in the near future, according to experts. This would mean a lowering of prices in North America as well as elsewhere.

The quality of the wheat now being harvested is poor.

MEXICAN ENVOYS BEGIN PARLEY

Carranza's Wish That Cordiality Surround Negotiations.

New London, Conn.—Constitution and reform was the theme of Dr. Luis Cabrera's opening address to the joint Mexican conference. After the American and Mexican Commissioners had exchanged their credentials it was found that First Chief Carranza had given his delegates the broadest powers to discuss all matters submitted to them by the American Commissioners, on the understanding that the "decisions and rulings" of the conference would be subject to his approval.

Gen. Carranza urged the establishment of the frankest cordiality in relations between both countries on the basis of constitution and reform.

The conference started with an evident desire to get together, in marked contrast to the formal diplomatic reserve of the proceedings at Niagara Falls two years ago. Senor Cabrera, who presided, told of conditions in Mexico and the progress made by the Carranza Government, laying particular stress upon the extent to which peace is being re-established throughout Mexico, the resumption of railroad service, the reopening of mines and establishment and extension of a public school system.

MUCH RUSSIAN GRAIN READY

Harvest of 720,000,000 Bushels is Looked for by Experts.

London.—It is almost certain that Russian grain will be available in large quantities before the end of the season. The indication is that European and Asiatic Russia will secure a harvest of 90,000,000 quarters (720,000,000 bushels), which is well above the average of last ten years.

It is safe to say that Russia can spare 70,000,000 quarters (560,000,000 bushels) of wheat alone.

CONGRESS ENDS LONG SESSION

Plan to Make Railroad Legislation the Feature of Next Winter's Work

CLOSING SCENES ARE QUIET

Immigration Bill, Corrupt Practices Measure and Bill to Permit Combinations of American Exporters to Go Over Until Winter.

Washington.—Adjournment of the first session of the Sixty-fourth Congress without a hitch in the plans of Senate and House leaders was quickly followed by a general exodus of members hastening homeward for rest or the national political campaign.

While the closing saw the Administration legislative programme mainly completed some things wait to be continued at the winter session, notably the remainder of the President's programme of railroad legislation which was partially enacted to prevent the threatened strike.

In a formal statement President Wilson, speaking of the work of Congress, gave notice that the remainder of the railroad programme would be pressed at the new session.

The Immigration bill, the Corrupt Practices bill and the bill to permit combinations of American exporters to meet foreign competition abroad went over.

The closing hours of Congress were remarkably quiet. Only the presence of the President in his room near the Senate Chamber served to attract interest to what would otherwise have been an uneventful ending of an eventful Congress.

Informal conferences of a few Administration Senators and Congressmen turned after adjournment from thoughts of what had been achieved to contemplation of the future.

There was disappointment, but no bitterness, over the failure of some measures during the long session, and the Democrats point to their legislative record, with its $600,000,000 national defense appropriations, the creation of the Farm Loan Board and rural credit banking system, the Child Labor law, the prevention of the nation-wide railroad strike, establishment of a Government Shipping Board to rehabilitate the American merchant marine, creation of a Tariff Commission and many other legislative enactments of more than usual importance.

The Republicans, pointing to the appropriation authorizations for the future, mounting close to two billions, closed their part of the session reiterating charges of extravagance and waste.

For the winter session the Democratic leaders look to the railroad legislation as the dominating feature. Before the strike emergency arose Congress, aroused to the necessity for transportation legislation, had created a joint sub-committee of the Senate and House, headed by Senator Newlands, to undertake a study of all transportation problems, including the advisability of Government ownership of public utilities, and to recommend legislation at the next session.

REVNUE BILL PASSED, 42 TO 18

Amendment Empowers President to Deny Clearance to Offending Ships.

Washington.—The Senate, after having been in continuous session more than fourteen hours, passed the General Revenue bill, designed to raise $205,000,000 annually for meeting extraordinary expenses due in part to the large amount of money appropriated for military preparedness.

In order to meet the emergency in the paper market, news print paper valued at less than five cents a pound is admitted free.

WORLD'S NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

WASHINGTON.—The State Department has received information of an agreement between Great Britain and Norway whereby the latter will place an export embargo on raw copper and will receive without interruption imports of copper from this country.

LONDON.—Italy will shortly publish a blacklist of suspected firms, according to an Exchange Telegram dispatch from Rome.

OTTAWA.—Canada's new war loan will be for $100,000,000 at 97½, bearing interest at 5 per cent. The Dominion's last war loan was $50,000,000, but twice that amount was subscribed.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson signed the shipping bill. It authorizes Government organization of a corporation or corporations with capitalization of not more than $50,000,000 to buy or lease ships and put them in trade if they cannot be leased for operation to private capital.

CHICAGO.—Suit for $1,000,000 was filed by Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, against the Chicago Tribune. Mr. Ford asks for personal damages as compensation for an editorial printed in the Tribune June 23, which, it is charged, called him an "anarchist."

PROCLAMATION

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND CREATING A BUDGET SYSTEM.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1916, an Act was passed, to-wit: Chapter 159 of said Acts, being an Act to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, "Legislative Department," of the Constitution of this State; and which said Act is in words and figures following:

"CHAPTER 159.

AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title, Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, regulating the making of appropriations by the General Assembly of Maryland in regular session, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two houses concurring.) That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 52 of Article III, title Legislative Department, of the Constitution of this State, the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 52 of Article III of the Constitution of Maryland.

Sec. 52. The General Assembly shall not appropriate any money out of the Treasry except in accordance with the followin provisions:

Sub-Section A:

Every appropriation bill shall be either a Budget Bill, or a Supplementary Appropriation Bill, as hereinafter mentioned.

Sub-Section B:

First. Within twenty days after the convening of the General Assembly (except in the case of a newly elected Governor, and then within thirty days after his inauguration,) unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly for the session at which the Budget is to be submitted, the Governor shall submit to the General Assembly two budgets, one for each of the ensuing fiscal years. Each budget shall contain a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the particular fiscal year to which it relates; and shall show the estimated surplus or deficit of revenues at the end of such year. Accompanying each budget shall be a statement showing: (1) the revenues and expenditures for each of the two fiscal years next preceding; (2) the current assets, liabilities, reserves and surplus or deficit of the State; (3) the debts and funds of the State; (4) an estimate of the State's financial condition as of the beginning and end of each of the fiscal years covered by the two budgets above provided; (5) any explanation the Governor may desire to make as to the important features of any budget and any suggestion as to methods for the reduction or increase of the State's revenue.

Second. Each budget shall be divided into two parts, and the first part shall be designated "Governmental Appropriations" and shall embrace an itemized estimate of the appropriations: (1) for the General Assembly as certified to the Governor in the manner hereinafter provided; (2) for the Executive Department; (3) for the Judiciary Department, as provided by law, certified to the Governor by the Comptroller; (4) to pay and discharge the principal and interest of the debt of the State of Maryland in conformity with Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, and all laws enacted in pursuance thereof; (5) for the salaries payable by the State under Constitution and laws of the State; (6) for the establishment and maintenance throughout the State of a thorough and efficient system of public schools in conformity with Article VIII of the Constitution and with the laws of the State; (7) for such other purposes as are set forth in the Constitution of the State.

Third. The second part shall be designated "General Appropriations," and shall include all other estimates of appropriations.

The Governor shall deliver to the presiding officer of each house the budgets and a bill for all the proposed appropriations of the budgets clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each house shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein, and such bill shall be known as the "Budget Bill." The Governor may, before final action thereon by the General Assembly, amend or supplement either of said budgets to correct an oversight or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the General Assembly by delivering such an amendment or supplement to the presiding officers of both houses; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as a modification of or a substitute for any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may affect.

The General Assembly shall not amend the budget bill so as to affect either the obligations of the State under Section 34 of Article III of the Constitution, or the provisions made by the laws of the State for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools, or the payment of any salaries required to be paid by the State of Maryland by the Constitution thereof; and the General Assembly may amend the bill by increasing or diminishing the items therein relating to the General Assembly and by increasing the items therein relating to the judiciary, but except as hereinbefore specified, may not alter the said bill except to strike out or reduce items therein provided, however, that the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be decreased during his term of office; and such bill when and as passed by both houses shall be a law immediately without further action by the Governor.

Fourth. The Governor and such representatives of the executive departments, boards, officers and commissions of the State expending or supplying for State's money, as have been designated by the Governor for this purpose, shall have the right, and when requested by either house of the Legislature, it shall be their duty to appear and be heard with respect to any budget bill during the consideration thereof, and to answer inquiries relative thereto.

Sub-Section C: Supplementary Appropriation Bills:

Neither house shall consider other appropriations until the Budget Bill has been finally acted upon by both houses, and no such other appropriation shall be valid except in accordance with the provisions following: (1) Every such appropriation shall be embodied in a separate bill limited to some single work, object or purdose therein stated and called herein a Supplementary Appropriation Bill; (a) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall provide the revenue necessary to pay the appropriation thereby made by a tax, direct or indirect, to be laid and collected as shall be directed in said Bill. (3) No Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall become a law unless it be passed in each house by a vote of a majority of the whole number of the members elected; and in the yeas and nays recorded on its final passage. (4) Each Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall be presented to the Governor of the State as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution and thereafter all the provisions of said Section shall apply.

Nothing in this amendment shall be construed as preventing the Legislature from passing at any time in accordance with the provisions of Section 28 of Article III of the Constitution and subject to the Governor's power of approval as provided in Section 17 of Article II of the Constitution an appropriation bill to provide for the payment of any obligation of the State of Maryland within the protection of Section 10 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

Sub-Section D: General Provisions:

First. If the Budget Bill shall not have been finally acted upon by the Legislature three days before the expiration of its regular session, the Governor may, and it shall be his duty to issue a proclamation extending the session for such further period as may, in his judgment, be necessary for the passage of such Bill; but no other matter than such Bill shall be considered during such extended session except a provision for the cost thereof.

Second. The Governor for the purpose of making up his budgets shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to require from the proper State Officials, including herein all executive departments, all executive and administrative offices, bureaus boards, commissions and agencies expending or supervising the expenditure of, and all institutions applying for State moneys and appropriations, such itemnized estimates and other information, in such form and at such times as he shall direct. The estimates for the Legislative Department, certified by the presiding officer of each house, of the Judiciary, as provided by law, certified by the Comptroller, and for the public schools, as provided by law shall be transmitted to the Governor, in such form and at such times as he shall direct, and shall be included in the budget without revision.

The Governor may provide for public hearings on all estimates and may require the attendance at such hearings of representatives of all agencies, and of all institutions applying for State moneys. After such public hearings he may, in his discretion, revise all estimates except those for the legislative and judiciary departments and for the public schools as provided by law.

Third. The Legislature may, from time to time, enact such laws, not inconsistent with this Section, as may be necessary and proper to carry out it provisions.

Fourth. In the event of any inconsistency between any of the provisions of this Section and any of the other provisions of the Constitution, the provisions of this Section shall prevail. But nothing herein shall in any manner affect the provisions of Section 34 of Article III of the Constution or of any laws heretofore or hereafter passed in pursuance thereof, or be construed as preventing the Governor from calling extraordinary sessions of the Legislature, as provided by Section 16 of Article II, or as preventing the Legislature at such extraordinary sessions from considering any emergency appropriations.

If any item of any appropriation bill passed under the provisions of this Section shall be held invalid upon any ground, such invalidity shall not affect the legality of the Bill or of any other item of such Bill or Bills.

Section 2. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said foregoing Section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution shall at the next ensuing general election, being the Presidential and Congressional election, being the Presidential and Congressional, election, to be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, nineteen hundred and sixteen, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection in conformity with the directions contained in Article XVI of this State, and at said election the vote on said proposed amendment to the constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot, there shall be placed the following synopsis of said amendment under the caption of "CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROVIDING FOR A BUDGET."

"This amendment provides that the Governor shall present to the Legislature soon after it is convened a Budget giving a complete plan of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the two succeeding fiscal years showing clearly any surplus or deficit in State funds. In these estimates he shall make provision for the interest and sinking funds of all State debts, for all salaries as fixed by law, and for the public schools as fixed by law. With regard to most other matters he may revise the estimates presented to him either by State Officers or State-aided Institutions. The Legislature may not increase the estimates presented by the Governor or pass any additional appropriation act except by a majority vote and must make provision by tax for such increase or additional appropriation. The Legislature may not alter in any appropriation act the provision made by law for the State debt, or for the judiciary, but may reduce all other items in the Governor's estimates;' and the words 'for the Constitutional Amendment' and 'against the Constitutional Amendment' as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote in accordance with Article XVI of the Constitution.

Approved March 28, 1916."

Now, therefore, I, Emerson C. Harrington, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article II of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct a copy of this Proclamation, containing a full, true and correct copy of the text of said Chapter 159 of the Acts of Maryland of 1916, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which said newspapers in the City of Baltimore to be printed in the German language, once a week for three months next preceding the General Election to be held in this State on November 7th, 1916, and at which election the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be submitted, in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND THE GREAT SEAL OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND.

The Great Seal of Maryland.

CAMPAIGN SHIFTS TO THIS COUNTY

Senator Zihlman Will Spend Two Days Meeting Voters At Oakland Fair.

Tuesday morning's issue of the Cumberland News contained the following item of political news with reference to Senator Zihlman, who is spending a portion of this week in Oakland:

The congressional campaign in the Sixth district shifts tomorrow from the tip of the Blue Ridge Valley in Washington county to the crest of the Alleghanies in Garrett when Senator F. N. Zihlman, Republican candidate to succeed David J. Lewis in the House of Representatives, goes to Oakland to spend two days meeting the voters at the Oakland fair.

The fair will give the candidate an opportunity to meet virtually the representative electorate of the western county. Farmers from miles around will be there and the Senator will have two busy days renewing friendships among the voters. He will make no set speeches but will just mix with the Fair visitors and talk things over.

From Oakland the senator will go to Baltimore Friday where, together with all the other Congressional candidates, he will speak before the state central committee and in the evening he will attend the big meeting at the Albaugh theatre when Dr. Jos. I. France, senatorial candidate, will be formally notified. The address of the evening will be made by United States Senator Borah.

Saturday Senator Zihlman will accompany Senator Borah and Dr. France in an invasion of the Western Maryland counties. At 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon a mass meeting will be held in Frederick to be attended by the Frederick county central committee, which is composed of three men from each district.

Saturday evening the candidates and Senator Borah will address the voters of Washington county when the campaign in that county will be launched in earnest. The meeting will be held in the Maryland theatre, Hagerstown, and a list of honorary vice presidents announced by the committee include all the prominent Republicans in the county.

House Warming.

On last Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Smith, of near Deer Park, gave a "house warming." They have erected a large splendid new house into which they have moved just recently. The following attended the "house warming": Messrs. Dorsey Jefferys, Earl George, Paul Thrasher, George Kimmell, Pearle Miller, Bob Friend, Howard Junkins, Willie Schmidt, Lawrence Uppole, Bliss and Bruce Groves, Haven and Davy DeWitt, B. H. Wiley and John Fitzwater. Misses Mattie and Jessie Groves, Katharine and Ada Thrasher, Margaret McDonald, Ida Liller, Gladys, Glenna and Helen DeWitt, Vauda Glotfeltv, Dewey Uppole, Ada and Floe Junkins, Miss Lovada Wilt, Mrs. Luther Groves and Mrs. Ramsey Smith. Every one had a fine time and after dainty refreshments were served all departed for their respective homes.

Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Alexander entertained a number of their friends at their home on Friday evening, Sept. 8, in honor of their son Earl's twenty-first birthday. It was a complete surprise to the young man and indeed a most agreeable one. He received many useful presents, showing the esteem in which he is held by the people of the community. As host and hostess Mr. and Mrs. Alexander are ideal. The guests are grateful to them for the highly enjoyable time they had; for it was indeed an enjoyable affair. Music was rendered by the famous Flatwoods string band. Games of all kinds were indulged in by the young folks until a late hour when refreshments were served consisting of ice cream, cake, lemonade, etc.

There were fifty or more guests present including the following: Mr. and Mrs. J. Roy Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Keller, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Callis, Misses Dora Harring, Lulu and Mary Callis, Sarah Savage, Emma Callis, Dorla Glottelty, Gladys and Mabel Keller, Edith Durst, and Messrs. Elmer Keller, John Keller, Albert Boyer, Gordon Callis, Asa McGettigan, Horace McGettigan, Frank Callis, Wayne Smith, Owen Mattingly and Mr. Jackson. A GUEST.

TWO CAUGHT AT THE FAIR

One Alleged Bootlegger Is In Jail and Another Gave Bond For Appearance.

Two alleged bootleggers were picked up at the fair on last Friday afternoon by a detective in the employe of the State who came here from Pittsburgh at the solicitation of the county officials.

One of the men, an employee of the carnival company which held the centre of attraction during the fair, failing to give bond for his appearance at the December Term of the Circuit Court was committed to jail by Justice West, before whom the hearing was had, whilst the other, Edwin Walker, of Washington, D. C., who has been spending his summers at Mountain Lake Park and Oakland for a number of years, succeeded in getting bondsmen and he was released.

For many years the latter has been connected with a theatre in Washington and during the summer just past he operated a moving picture show at the Park as well as being in charge of the bowling alleys and other amusements at that place. His arrest upon the charge came as a great surprise to many of his friends who have always looked upon him as being straightforward and honorable in all his transactions.

At the Justice's court Walker waived a hearing but to friends he volunteered the information that the Pittsburgh detective approached him and asked that he procure some whiskey, which Walker did and handed him the bottle whereupon he was placed under arrest and held for the action of the grand jury.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Owens and little son, of Spencer, West Va., returned home yesterday after a week's visit to Oakland where they were the guests of Capt. and Mrs. James Brock.

FOURTH ANNUAL FAIR HAS ENDED

One Day Added to Schedule At Last Minute and It Was Appreciated.

An extra day was added to the schedule of the Garrett County Fair last Friday when the management announced late in the afternoon that the school day rally would be held on Saturday instead of Friday on account of the heavy downpour of rain, and the action of the fair authorities was more than gratifying to the school children, who turned out en masse Saturday morning and paraded the streets from the Grammar school building to the fair grounds where they were allowed to enter as guests of the Fair Association. The hundreds of boys and girls in the parade presented a most attractive appearance, dressed as they were in the National colors and singing patriotic hymns as they passed along the streets.

The fair opened upon schedule time Tuesday morning and all that day as well as upon Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the town was crowded with an eager, good natured and intelligent crowd of Garrett countians who came to Oakland for the express purpose of enjoying themselves and this they did.

The fair building was gorgeously decorated with the fruits of harvest and appealed most strongly to the lovers of nature. Here a sheaf of corn, of oats, of wheat or other grain, interspersed with a gleaming yellow pumpkin relieveing the color scheme, made the several floors of the building attractive and beautiful.

While the exhibits in the building were not as large as in former years, which fact is very much regretted, yet the display was creditable considering the early date of the fair and at a time when farmers were engaged in their harvest fields gathering corn and other late crops.

ALLIES EXTEND GAIN AT SOMME

British and French Keep Up Progress on Both Ends of Teuton Line

ALL COUNTER ATTACKS FAIL

London.—British troops north of the Somme have added to their gains by capturing the famous "Danube trench," a mile long, constructed under the Kaiser's supervision and thought by the Prussians to be impregnable. At the same time the French have captured all the remaining Prussian trenches between Ver...mandovillers and Berny, south of the river.

Field Marshal von Mackensen is still pressing forward in the Roumanian Dobrudja, pursuing the Russians and Roumanians, according to the German official report, which, however, admits that the Roumanians are still advancing in Transylvania, having penetrated at some points fifty miles into that country.

In Macedonia the French, Serbs and Russians on Gen. Sarrail's left wing are pushing forward and have arrived before Florina, just south of Monastir and the Serbian frontier, which the Serbs evacuated before the Bulgarian attack some weeks ago. Sofia admits the loss of some ground here.

On the Russian front, Gen Brusiloff has resumed his attacks on the north bank of the Dniester, with Halicz as his immediate objective. Petrograd asserts he has made progress and captured upwards of 3,000 prisoners. Berlin admits the loss of ground east of Halicz, but says a great Russian attack in Volhynia, west of Lutsk was beaten back with great slaughter.

The Russians have resumed their drive on Lemberg with full vigor. The Petrograd War Office announced that they captured Teuton positions south of Brazezany, 46 mils southeast of Lemberg, taking 14 officers and 557 Turkish soldiers. In an encircling movement against Halicz, 60 miles south of the Galician capital, the Russians took 3,174 German prisoners, including 34 officers. The fall of Halicz is expected hourly.

Simultaneously with the resumption of the campaign against Lemberg the Russians took the offensive in Volhynia on a 12½-mile front south of Pinsk.

FRENCH SMASH LINE ON SOMME.

London.—On the Somme front the French in a vigorous advance reach the Bapaume road, menacing Peronnne from the north. On the Macedonian front the Bulgars are defeated with heavy losses and the Allies are pursuing them. The British are firmly established on the east bank of the Struma and the French advance half a mile on a two mile front west of the Vardar. In Athens a Cabinet crisis is believed to be inevitable, and it is reported that the Greeks, if they join the Allies, would like to conduct their own campaign against the Bulgars.

Commands of the Kaiser's armies on the Western front are rearranged, Duke Albrecht, of Wurtemberg being in charge on the north and Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria on the Somme, while the Crown Prince remains on the Verdun sector.

Berlin reports further progress for the German and Bulgarian forces under command of Field Marshal von Mackensen in the Dobrudja region of Eastern Rumania.

Attacks by the Russians in East Galicia and on the lower Stokhod River in Russia have been repulsed by the Austro-German forces, according to Berlin and Vienna. Petrograd reports that in the Carpathians the Russians have captured several additional strategic positions, but Vienna denies the assertion and declares that all attacks there were repulsed.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

During August the Allies on the western front lost a total of 78 aeroplanes, 49 of which fell into German hands. Of the latter, 31 were British and 18 French machines.

Official announcement was made that during August 126 hostile ships, of 170,679 gross tonnage, were destroyed by German or Austrian submarines, or by mines. Thirty-five neutral merchant ships carrying contraband of war to enemy countries were also destroyed.

The Serbs again defeated the Bulgarians in battles before Vaternik and Kajmakcalen, east of the Czerna.

The British troops in their advance across the Struma, in the region of Lake Tahinos, have driven the Bulgarians from four villages, says a War Office statement on the operations in Macedonia.

Austrian troops are still in retreat before the Rumanians in northern Transylvania, where the invaders have crossed the upper valley of the River Maros and the River Toplitsa and still drive ahead.

More than a third of the territory taken from Bulgaria by the Rumanians has already been reconquered by the German-Bulgarian forces.

The Higher Cost of Bread

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 18.—The rise of prices, which has carried even the modest oyster into the class of luxuries, is now threatening the nickle loaf.

At a meeting of the National Association of Master Bakers in Chicago recently, it was proposed to abandon the manufacture of the five cent loaf altogether, and confine the trade to the ten-cent loaf. Now, bakers are talking of raising the price of the five cent loaf to six cents.

The higher cost of bread has been threatened ever since the beginning of the European War. According to the bakers, the five cent loaf of bread is no longer practicable on account of the increased cost of ingredients. Flour has increased a hundred per cent., milk 40; salt 14 and wrapping paper 70, while delivery costs, both in gasoline and in feed for horses, show a tweety-five per cent. increase. Rather than lower the standard of their output, the bakers prefer to increase the price of their product.

The leading factor in the present situation, however, is the scarcity of wheat, which has sent the price of flour soaring. It is particularly unfortunate that just when the whole world is looking to North America for its wheat supply, the crop should be afflicted with a plague of black rust which has crept through the wheat belts turning the brilliant yellow grain into mouldy stalks. In the Northwest, farmers who have borrowed money on their spring wheat crop are facing large deficits, while in the great wheat producing areas of Canada thousands of dollars have been lost.

Incidentally, one optimistic banker believes that, as in the case of cotton in the South, this temporary loss of wheat is going to be, in one sense, a permanent gain. The farmers have come to realize the danger of planting and depending upon one kind of crop, and to recognize the value of at least one sideline to fall back upon. Next year, he predicts, will see the beginning of a large live stock industry in the wheat belt of the Northwest.

This is good advice for farmers, but it does not help the consumer who is paying for the blighted crop. Naturally the bakers are not going to pay more for flour without making it up on the price of their product. Furthermore, they are facing a situation similar to that caused by the shortage in white paper; for they must not only pay an enormous sum for flour, but they are lucky if they can get it at all.

When the Allies failed to open up the Dardanelles, which would have released Russia's wheat crop last year, it became evident that North America would have to become the granary of the world. This alone was enough to start a rise in the wheat market. Then came the news that great damage had been caused to the American crops by black rust, and the Department of Agriculture printed a report in which it estimated that the crop would be just half as large as that of last year. This report has subsequently been confirmed, the latest figures giving 642,000,000 bushels this year, including both spring and winter wheat, as compared to 1,012,000,000 bushels in 1915. From Canada the same disastrous results have been reported. Already the mills have tacked a couple of dollars on to the price of each barrel of flour, and may add a couple more.

The bakers were just beginning to raise indignant voices concerning this increase when the country was threatened with a railroad strike, in which it became doubtful as to whether the bakers could obtain flour enough at any cost to carry on their business. Many large bakeries were running on a couple of weeks' supply of flour. The whole trade was in a panic. On the other hand, the flour mills were not slow to realize their advantage, and it is reported that many mills are now holding large supplies of flour in storage until the strike question is finally settled. As it is, the whole matter is merely lying dormant. Congress has passed the eight-hour day law in favor of the strikers, but its constitutionality is open to question. When the time comes for it to go into effect, the railroads will undoubtedly contest it. So a nation-wide strike still threatens. With the railroads tied up and shipments suspended, the bakers will be glad to get flour at any price, and the mills with a large flour reserve on hand will be especially fortunate. At least, so argues good business.

Already the bakeries have retrenched on all possible expenditures. Notices have even been sent out to the trade warning grocers and retailers not to buy any more bread than they can sell, since owing to the present low margin of profit, stale bread could not be returned. This condition also prevailed a couple of years ago when the price of wheat was excessive.

Within the past few weeks, however, the possibility of relief in the wheat shortage has come from an unexpected direction. Roumania has joined the Allies. It is belived with her fresh troops and new equipment, Roumania will, sooner, or later, be able to force an overland route either to the Aegean or to the Adriatic, thus releasing both her own and the Russian wheat supply. Before the war Russia exported about 146,000,000 bushels of wheat a year, and since the war it has been announced that the harvests are running far above the average. An official estimate places her 1915 crop at 800,000,000 bushels. Hence, it is possible that there is a large accumulation of wheat in Russian warehouses waiting to be exported, which, together with the Roumanian surplus, will go a long way relieving the American resources, and will create a radical change in prices.

Thus it is just barely possible that we may escape paying six or ten cents for our bread. All that is needed is an extra supply of wheat to send the price of flour down and mitigate the hardships imposed upon bakers. The increased cost of sugar and delivery expenses alone would hardly be accepted as sufficient excuse by the American public for a rise in prices. At least a partial bread boycott would probably ensue while American house-wives turned their hand to bread making.

There is still many American households where baker's bread never enters except in an emergency. These are usually provided over by women who have figured out to the tenth of a cent the economic and physiological advantages of home-made bread over the industrial variety. In a series of experiments conducted by domestic science classes in different parts of the country it was found that from the standpoint of economy there were very little, if any, difference in the price, but in some instances the results have been in favor of homebaking. One woman, for example, buys a fifty cent bag of flour every Saturday, which constitutes her week's supply for both cooking and baking. Two loaves of bread are baked twice a week and the rest of the hot rolls, biscuits muffins and hot cakes are placed upon the table. Every bit of bread, pastry and thickening for cooking is made out of that one bag of flour. Counting the other ingredients of sugar, lard, milk and yeast; the gas used in baking bread, and the time devoted by the servant who does the baking, this housekeeper asserts that the expense is less than that of three loaves of baker's bread a day at five cents a loaf, which would be required by her family.

The widespread substitution of baker's bread for home made bread, however, is not entirely based on convenience. In many cases the baker's product is infinitely superior. Usually, the recipes are worked out by experienced chemists and bread-makers in the baking laboratories. As a result, the finished product is mostly uniform in quality, and very digestible.

In the meantime, however, the matter is in the hands of the United States district attorneys who are investigating the alleged difficulties of the bakers. If the price of bread goes up, when in the judgment of these men conditions do not appear to warrant it, prosecution by the government may follow.

BITTINGER.

Prof. A. W. DeWitt, who has been in charge of our school for a few days pending the arrival of Prof. Fike, has now taken charge of the Accident school, and the Bittinger school will be suspended until next Monday.

Rev. McCauley, of the Pentecostal faith with his family, were removed to this neighborhood last week, and are now settled on the old Elias Lohr Farm, north of this village.

Mrs. A. C. Browning, of Pittsburgh, Pa., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Alexander Wiley at this place for a few days.

Mrs. Catharine Brenneman is reported critically ill at her home at this reporting.

Mrs. Mahlon Baker, of Bridgeville, Delaware, is visiting her mother, Mrs. C. J. Brenneman, and other relatives.

The heavy rain which fell last Thursday and Friday was followed by a frost on Sunday morning.

A number of our people motored to Oakland on fair days last week and many had a very uncomfortable return trip on Thursday through the rain and mud.

FOR CAMPAIGN PURPOSES ONLY

Wilson Claims That He "Kept Us Out of War" Rediculous.

Washington, D. C. September 19,—Claims that President Wilson has "Kept us out of war" are so rediculously untrue that it is amusing to those who know the facts, declared Representative Charles F. Curry, of California, in a statement here today.

"His refusal to recognize Huerta as the de facto President of Mexico, a was done by European nations, encouraged bandit chiefs to continue their guerrilla warfare. Since then his vacillating policy, putting on embargoes one day and lifting them the next, supporting one faction today and another tomorrow, dictating who should not be a candidate for the Presidency of Mexico, and his meddlesome muddling generally, caused by his personal antipathy to Huerta, based on an uncomplimentary remark made about him by Huerta, prolonged the revolutions.

"President Wilson committed two acts of war against Mexico. One punitive expedition was for the avowed purpose of compelling Huerta to fire a salute of twenty-one guns to our flag, a number of American Marines and Mexicans were killed at Vera Cruz; the supply of note paper at the White House was exhausted, but the salute was not fired. The second punitive expedition was after the raid on Columbus and was to 'get Villa dead or alive'. Villa still lives and is at liberty.

"The President called for a conference of Mexican factions to establish a de facto government but said he would not recognize the leader of any faction that failed to attend. Carranza was the only leader that refused to pay attention to the conference and President Wilson recognized him.

"In handling the Mexican situation the Wilson administration has invariably 'done those things it ought not to have done and left undone those things it ought to have done.'

"The President has reiterated and his mouthpieces have claimed so often that he is entitled to the credit of 'keeping us out of the European war' that many persons accept the statements as true. Neither the Allies nor the Central Powers want the United States to become involved in the conflict.

"Nothing can involve us in that conflict unless we deliberately cease to maintain strict neutrality and blunder into it. "The United States is three thousand miles away from the European conflict. Denmark, Holland, Sweden, Norway, and Switzerland are right at the doors of the warring nations and yet these little countries are not involved. It is absurd for the President's partisans to claim that 'he has kept us out of war'.

"The President is an exceedingly erudite, well-meaning, kindly, polished gentleman, possessing more book learning and less wisdom than any of his predecessors. During the time he has occupied the Presidential chair it has been demonstrated conclusively that it is one of the most easy of intellectual efforts for a scholastic idealist to dream dreams, evolve theories, and in imagination govern the world from a philosopher's chair, but when it comes to dealing with flesh and blood, human nature, economic conditions, and international problems as they are it is an entirely different proposition. It is not dreams and theories but facts and conditions that must be considered, not abstract philosophy but concrete wisdom that must be used to effectively govern a people in such a manner as to surely safeguard their rights and liberties and advance their prosperity at home and protect the national welfare and maintain the dignity, honor, and power of the commonwealth abroad.

"The people have not forgotten that after a Conference with the President on diplomatic complications of an acute nature between our Government and one of the Europena belligerents, distinguished members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told Senators and Representatives and even stated to newspaper men that the President had become very much excited during the conference and in a vehement manner had said in effect, 'It might not be a bad thing for civilization and would hasten the end if the United States would enter the war on the side of the allies.'

"Early in his administration the President was 'too proud to fight,' even in defense of national honor; later he was looking for an opportunity to break into the war; today he claims to be entirely neutral; what his attitude will be tomorrow nobody knows."

Damage Suit Settled.

State Senator Harvey J. Speicher, of Garrett county, who was sued by Christopher Weires and son, Robert E., aged 8 years, settled the suit in Hagerstown Monday. The father sued for $1,000 and the son for $5,000, the former for the services of his son, and the later for injuries sustained, when he was struck in Cumberland by Senator Speicher's automobile, on May 4, 1915. The suit was docketed at Oakland and was later removed to Hagerstown. The boy sustained a fractured leg.

COMMISSIONER AND SPEEDING

Colonel E. Austin Baughman Explains Thoroughly the 1916 Law.

"Part four of the automobile law takes up the operation of motor vehicles," says Commissioner of Motor Vehicles E. Austin Baughman in the fifth of a series dealing with the law governing auto traffic passed by the last Legislature. "It sets out in the beginning the necessary equipment for operation.

"Before a car can be operated on the highway it must have displayed the tags or license plates furnished by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. These tags must be displayed entirely unobstructed—one on the front and the other on the rear. They must be kept clean and securely fastened so as not to swing. In the event that one of these tags is lost the owner may secure a duplicate tag upon the payment of $1, and while the tag is being made at the factory he may use his car by displaying one of the yellow pasteboard tags furnished at the office at the time of application for a new tag.

"Every motor vehicle before being operated must also be provided with adequate brakes, and in addition a horn or signaling device sufficiently loud to serve as a warning of danger and must be sounded on approaching curves, tops of hills, intersecting highways in the open country and any place where the operator's view is obstructed.

Automobiles must carry two white lights on the front of not more than 30-candle power and one light on the rear, showing red behind and white on the side, so arranged as to illuminate the rear license plate. In Baltimore city certain restrictions are placed on the use of strong headlights by the Board of Headlight Inspection. This does not apply to the counties, but a very commendable habit is in vogue on the State roads by operators dimming their lights upon meeting another vehicle. Lights must be carried between the periods from one-half hour after sunset and one-half hour before sunrise while being operated. Every motor vehicle must also be equipped with a muffler in order to reduce the noise of the engine. Cut-outs are not allowed to be used at any time within the limits of cities, towns and villages in the State.

'Section 149 of this law takes up the speed of motor-vehicles. I believe this section is understood by the public, but for those who are ignorant of the speed provision I will quote from the law:

" 'No person shall operate a motorcycle or motor-vehicle over any public highway of the State recklessly, or at a rate of speed greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to width, traffic and use of the highways, or so as to endanger the property and life or limb of any person, or without due regard to wear upon said highway so as not unnecessarily or unreasonably to damage the same.

"No speed contest or contests shall under any circumstances be allowed to take place upon any highway of this State. If the rate of speed of a motorcycle or motor-vehicle operated upon any public highway of this State exceeds 12 miles an hour in the thickly settled or business parts of cities, towns or villages, or 18 miles per hour in the outlying or not thickly settled parts of cities, towns or villages, such rate of speed shall be prima facie evidence that the person operating such vehicle is operating the same at a rate of speed greater than is reasonable and proper and in violation of the provisions of this section, and the burden of proof shall be upon him, to show that such rate of speed was not greater than was reasonable and proper."

The above does not apply to solidtire vehicles that weigh in excess of four tons, as they cannot be operated at a rate of speed greater than 15 miles an hour. In addition to the above law regulating speed, the Legislature has fixed a maximum speed limit above which no motor vehicle can be operated under any circumstances or condition, and has set a minimum fine for violations of this character. This maximum rate is 35 miles an hour, and the maximum fine in case this speed is exceeded is $25 and costs, the justice of the peace having no power to impose a smaller fine in these cases. Numerous convictions and in some cases the violators operating licenses have been revoked. Speed must also be reduced in rounding curves, across bridges and passing other vehicles.

Section 151 has to do with accidents. It provides that in case of collision the operator of the motor vehicle involved must stop, give his name, number of license, and render such assistance as may be reasonable and within his power. If the accident results in a fatality or serious injury, it must be reported within 24 hours to the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. Operation of a motor vehicle by a person when intoxicated or at all under the influence of drug or liquor is prohibited and punished by a fine of not less than $25 and a revocation of his operator's license. The law also prohibits an operator leaving his motor vehicle with engine running unattended. Motor vehicles must not be tampered with while standing along the street or be driven by unauthorized persons.

Section 155 provides a penalty of $25 for throwing glass or nails or tacks upon the highways. It is also a violation of the law for a chauffeur to receive directly or indirectly any bonus or discounts on supplies purchased by him for use of a motor vehicle.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

The season just closing has been the most successful for ten years. This was largely on account of the excessively hot weather. The season was shortened by the fear of a railroad strike. The different meetings and conventions were well attended and interesting, especially the Moody Bible institute, which brought a great many people to the Park. This Institute will continue to be one of the star attractions here.

Quite a number of families still continue with us, as well as quite a few others.

The new road, in course of construction connecting with the state system at Weber's, is rapidly nearing completion and will be finished before the winter sets in. This will be a great convenience to our people, and when completed to the station our joy will be full.

Many promises are made for next season, but we have heard them before and our faith is not strong.

Rev. Flanigan will preach his last sermon before Conference Sunday night, when the sacrament will be administered. Brother Flanigan will doubtless be returned. We understand that it is his wish and we know that it is the wish of his congregation.

All the hotels and boarding houses are open, and have some boarders. Many of the houses are occupied and will be througout this month. During the month of August the hotels and boarding houses could not accommodate the demand for rooms. Many private cottages rented rooms. Mrs. Schrock fed eighty people a day, others did as well.

Miss Vernie Schrock, who has been spending her vacation here, will return to the Woman's Hospital to resume her duties Saturday.

A number of cottages have been rented for 1917. Contracts have been given for painting and remodeling several cottages.

The sum of $1200 has been raised to secure a Shoemaker road from the terminus of the road on G street to the B. & O. depot. This is somewhat in excess of the amount required by law. E street from Oakland avenue will be graded this fall so as to secure a five per cent. grade from the State road.

Dr. and Mrs. John R. Abercombrie, of Baltimore, were week-end guests of The Braethorn. They were here to complete plans for the girls camp to be established at Mountain Lake Park. The camp will be located on the flat just above Crystal Spring. About twenty tents, with floors, will be pitched on the ground, a dining hall and a pavilion will be erected. There will be some fifty students of the Girls Latin School and the Park School for Girls, with about twelve or fifteen instructors a trained nurse, camp physician, etc. The camp will be established about July 1st and continue through that month and August. The camp will be a permanent one. This is the first camp located in Maryland by the State. They generally go to Maine. The location of this camp at the Park will create a demand for products of the farm, and leave a large sum of money among our people. These campers will come to the Park in a special car from Baltimore.

We hear a report that the Allegany House has been purchased by Mrs. Martin, who has been successfully running it the past several years. She will make a number of improvements for next season.

Last summer Judge Cuppett sold Dixie cottage to Miss Mollie Hamill. Last month Mr. Cuppett was offered $1,000 more for the cottage than he sold it for. He took the party to the present owner, who refused to sell, even at that advanced price.

Mrs. Charles Dawson and family have moved to Oakland, where they will make their future home.

The electric light plant will run at least up to the 2nd of October.

Visits Gormania.

D. W. Snyder, a newspaper man of Cumberland, at present field agent for the Keyser, (W. Va.,) Echo, recently visited Gormania and in the columns of the Echo related his experiences in that town as follows:

"At Gormania I stopped with A. W. Swartz at his splendid hotel and made him pay me $1.25 after I paid him $1.40. Mr. Swartz is a busy fellow. He runs a hotel, butcher shop, barber shop, ice cream shop, besides keeping two hens and one duck and the Mrs. keeps him on the hop. He barbers left handed too for the same price as others charge for a right handed shave. I only got ten subscribers in Gormania and then went to Gorman, just opposite in Maryland, canvassed the whole town and got none. One boy said the Mountain Echo was not a paper it was just an echo. Then I concluded that Gorman must be an echo of Gormania so I bought a ticket for Schell."

WILSON AND THE LABOR PROBLEM

He Has Never Shown Solicitude For The Laboring Man.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 11.—A comparison between the records of President Wilson and Governor Hughes is not to the credit of Mr. Wilson in the eyes of organized labor. It is immensely to the credit of Governor Hughes.

President Wilson has never shown solicitude for the laboring man's welfare—his efforts to settle the railroad embroglio was the first time the President manifested the slightest interest in labor's affairs, and that interest was not due to any love for labor but to the spur of public opinion which demanded there should be no strike.

The dispute had not been brewing many months but the President waited until a little more than sixty days before the National election to summon the brotherhood chiefs and the railroad heads to Washington.

Perhaps there was a "psychological" reason for that, if not the reason of political advantage.

Labor unions are justified in looking askance at the President in view of his spoken and written utterances regarding labor.

In Mr. Wilson's "History of the American People" he says: "The Chinese were more to be desired as workmen, if not as citizens, than most of the coarse crew that came crowding in every year at the Eastern ports."

The "coarse crew" the President described as "crowding in" included the millions of foreign-born persons of every nationality who are now loyal citizens of the United States.

In the same book the President said: "And now there came multitudes of men of the lowest class from the south of Italy, and men of meaner sort out of Hungary and Poland, men out of the ranks where there was neither skill nor energy nor any initative of quick intelligence."

What do American citizens of German, Italian, Hungarian, Polish, or any European ancestory think of that?

On June 3, 1909, in an address to the graduating class of Princeton University, Dr. Wilson expressed his remarkable views on labor in the following words: "You know what the usual standard of the employee is in our day. It is to give as little as he may for his wages."

At a dinner in the Waldorf Hotel in New York, March 18, 1907, Dr. Woodrow Wilson spoke as follows: "We speak too exclusively of the capitalistic class. There is another as formidable an enemy to equality and freedom of opportunity as it is, and that is the class formed by the labor organizations and leaders of the country."

Contrast the labor record of President Wilson with the labor record of Governor Hughes.

Governor Hughes has never written or spoken a single word inimical to labor. On the contrary he was the greatest friend of labor that ever occupied the governor's chair at Albany. Legislative records at Albany show that during his two terms as governor of New York he signed 56 labor laws.

In New York State, during 132 years, only 162 labor laws were passed. One-third of these were signed during Hughe's two terms as Governor.

With these records known it will be easy for organized labor to select its candidate in the November election.

A Socliaistic Preacher.

Rev. James L. Smiley, assistant rector of St. Ann's church at Annapolis, Socialist candidate for Congress in the Fifth District, thinks a clergyman can consistently go into politics. He writes in the Annapolis Advertiser-Republican:

Who shall lead the people out of tyranny? The old political parties cannot, as long as they connive at capitalism. Their best efforts are pathetic patch work. Capitalism is at the root of all social troubles. The only remedy is its antithesis—Socialism. It stands for the public ownership of the means of producing and distributing the necessaries of life. Like the postoffice, it would serve the people at cost. Socialism will elevate the world to a normal condition of brotherhood and will enable men really to live and enjoy this earthly paradise. Having the conviction, I would preach it oftener, in the pulpit, but such preaching gives offense. Therefore, I must preach it from the platform. In doing so, I am not resigning my ministry; I am enlarging it. As a physician of the soul, I must go everywhere where evil lurks in order to eradicate it.

I am more and more convinced that my acceptance of this nomination is a sacred duty and that the call of the Socialist party is the call of God.

Anti-Spitting Campaign.

As a means of protecting public health, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad System has inaugurated an anti-spitting campaign through which it will make a personal appeal to those who patronize its trains and passenger stations to refrain from expectorating in public places.

On a designated day each month this railroad will distribute through the coaches of its trains a small card on which the attention of the public is directed to the danger of spreading disease. Public health and other authorities in the states through which the railroad operates have lent their approval to the campaign, which will give effective co-operation to those who are striving to safeguard the public health.

Trainmen will distribute the cards on the 15th day of the month. Instructions to the train employes and station forces concerning distribution point out that the plan adopted offers an inoffensive and forceful means of directing the attention to the danger of spitting in public and makes it possible for the railroad to lend its assistance in a compliance with the law and promoting sanitation.

Pleasure Cars in Maryland.

Statistics compiled in the office of State Motor-vehicle Commissioner Baughman show that Maryland has 25,723 automobiles devoted to pleasure riding. According to these figures one Marylander in every 54 owns a pleasure car. The increase in the number of cars in six years has been prenomenal. In 1910 there were 4,919 cars in the state.

JENNINGS

Jack frost has visited our little village several times this fall already, but has done very little harm.

Thos. McHale, of Wilkesbarra, Pa., is trying to learn the Buick 6, so he can serve as chauffeur for Wilson Bittinger. Tom is a very scholarly young man and can soon learn to operate the machine.

Harvey Pfeiffer has secured a position with the B. & O. R. R. and is going to resign his position as stenographer for Jennings Bros.

Our old friend and store manager Mr. Gray, wife and daughter, Helen, were spending their vacation with us here at Jennings.

Clarence Bevans and wife, Alvin Stark and wife and Warren Dill and wife spent Sunday at the Jennings Hotel.

Mrs. Sallie Huff is back from the Miners' Hospital where she was operated upon for gall stones. She is convalescing.

Mrs. Lott Sheets is back from the Miner's Hospital where she was operated on for appendicitis. She is getting along nicely.

The Lutheran church people had a picnic a couple of weeks ago. They served dinner and supper. It was conceded that they set the best table upon this occasion that was ever known in this part of the country.

Henry Bittinger and family, Arch Warnick and family and Erner Bittinger and family spent ten days with us recently. They came by automobile from Akron, O., where the men are engaged in carpenter work as contractors and builders.

Howard Patton and family, of Detroit, Mich., are visiting relatives in this section. They came from Detroit in his Overland automobile.

H. A. Patton, purchased a fine new 4-cylinder Buick of Klotz & Roberts.

Miss Ethel Brenneman and Mr. John Hoban are visiting Austin Shaws this week, they are both of Frostburg, Md.

The Pentecostal people are having a very successful meeting upon Bear Hill. They are accomplishing a great deal to advance Christ's Kingdom among men.

The Dunkard Brethren held their annual lovefeast at Maple Grove, Sunday, the 3rd inst, at 5:30 o'clock. It was well attended.

The Methodist church is having a lawn fete and picnic in the Swauger Grove for the purpose of raising the deficit in their pastor's salary, Sept. 9th. The band played. They had refreshments of all kinds. Supper was served on the platform.

George Hoover was at Pittsburgh and brought home a new model Ford car.

For Congressman:
FREDERICK N. ZIHLMAN
of Allegany County

THE PROGRESSIVE COLONEL

Newspaper reports from Baltimore on Saturday concerning the Progressive party convention held in that city the day preceding gave the Republicans and Progressive alike in Garrett county something to think about:

It was somewhat of a surprise as well as amusing to read that Col. Pearre of Cumberland, should arrogate to himself the authority to represnt and speak for Garrett county in that convention, and as a result of his action in thus assuming to be the mouthpiece of the people of this county the question naturally arose: "Who authorized Pearre to speak for us? We are old enough to speak for ourselves." Col. Pearre does not represent the sentiments of the Progressives of this county. Everyone of them, so far as it has been able to ascertain, is behind and boosting the candidacy of Gov. Hughes.

The people of this county have not forgotten that Col. Pearre was a radical of the radicals in his numerous campaigns in this Congressional District and especially when he addressed the Republican voters of Garrett county while he was drawing a salary of $7500 per year as a Republican Congressman from the Sixth District of Maryland, but immediately after the Republicans of the District determined that they desired a more progressive candidate Pearre got into the sulks and began to abuse the party and people that gave him all the prominence he ever had; neither do they forget that notwithstanding the fact that he was in Congress for twelve years all he ever accomplished that attracted any great degree of attention to him was the disruption of the party in Allegany county by having his brother appointed postmaster of Cumberland in the face of numerous protests of the city's best citizens.

No, Colonel, you may speak for yourself but not for us. You will find out where this county stands when the election takes place, and you will further ascertain that your views in this campaign are wholly inconsistent with the views of the people of Garrett county.

FOURTH ANNUAL FAIR HAS ENDED

The live stock exhibit, while no large, was also creditable and showed off to advantage what our farmers are doing in the way of improving their animals.

The point of most interest was the carnival grounds where entertainment was afforded at a low price and this feature was patronized without stint by all who attended the fair.

A good natured rivalry existed between the suffragettes and those opposed both parties having booths upon the third floor of the building. At times wives and husbands arrayed themselves against one another and it was indeed amusing for a bystander to hear the arguments pro and con on questions of woman suffrage.

HARRY BACHTELL KILLED AT KEYSER

Was Crushed Under Wheels in B. & O. Yards Yesterday Morning

Harry Bachtel, unmarried, a Baltimore and Ohio brakeman was killed at Keyser, W. Va., early yesterday morning while assisting in making up a train which was to move out to Grafton. His body badly mangled by the wheels, was found by the conductor and it is supposed in getting off a car to handle the switch, he fell beneath the wheels.

The deceased was a son of Elias Bachtel, of near Red House, this county. The father went to Keyser yesterday afternoon and will bring the remains of his son to Oakland this morning. The funeral will occur tomorrow from the Red House Home.

Senator and Mrs. Robert Moss, of Annapolis, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Sincell at their home on Second street for several days last week, returned to Annapolis Sunday afternoon.

Senator H. J. Speicher returned to his home at Accident from Baltimore Sunday morning, having gone to that city Friday afternoon to visit his two sons, who are students at Blue Ridge College.

Miss Skelton, of Detroit, Mich., who was the guest last week of Miss Lowenstein left Oakland Monday afternoon for Washington, D. C., where she will teach in a domestic science school this winter.

The first frost of the season which did any material damage to vegetation, visited this section of the country Sunday morning. Much corn, yet uncut, as well as some buckwheat still standing in the fields, was frosted.

Prof. Alvin J. Miller, of Grantsville, Md., who was a member of the faculty of the State normal school at Kent, O., will teach in Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, O., the coming year, returning to Kent for the summer school.

Misses Edith and Almira Lichliter and Carrie Johnston, and Walter Johns of town, and Miss Anna Smith of Pittsburgh, motored to Grantsville Tuesday evening and took dinner at the Casselman Hotel. The trip was made in the Lichliter Cadilac.—Elk Lick Star.

Rev. George S. Hanleiter, recently appointed pastor of the Oakland Circuit, United Brethren church, filled his appointments in his new field Sunday, preaching at Underwood, Loch Lynn, and one other point. He will move his household effects from Junior, his former station, to Loch Lynn Heights this week.

Mr. Milford Frazee, formerly of Selbysport, but who left there more than forty years ago and located at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is spending a few weeks visiting his brother, Mr. U. S. Frazee at the old home farm. Both gentlemen were in Oakland a day or two last week when they were guests of Mr. A. Totten Matthews.

County Commissioner George Warnick, of Bloomington, who was injured some two or three weeks ago in an accident on one of the county roads, drove to Oakland in his automobile Monday and it company with Commissioners Dixon and Smith and Surveyor Mason went to a point south of Oakland to locate a proposed new county road which had been petitioned for by taxpayers of the section directly interested.

Mrs. Margaret Delawder, of Lisbon, Md., and her daughter Miss Delawder, of Baltimore, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. King Delawder at their home in Oakland, leaving Monday afternoon. Mrs. Delawder is the widow of the late Andrew Delawder, a former resident of Oakland, who removed from here more than forty years ago. Her recent visit was the first made to Oakland since her removal at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thayer, of Baltimore, are in Oakland visiting Mr. Thayer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Thayer. Mr. Thayer is in the employ of the State Roads Commission and has been stationed in the city for more than two years as one of those engaged in the building of the new Light Street bridge, a structure that will cost when completed upwards of two millions of dollars and will be one of the modern bridges of the world.

Mr. D. C. Feather, of Pitcairn, Pa., where he occupies a prominent position in the business life of the community, spent Thursday last in Oakland. Mr. Feather is well known by Oakland and Mountain Lake Park people, having resided here a number of years ago. He was accompanied by his father, Mr. J. W. Feather, of Bruceton, West Va., his sister, Mrs. Corel E. Whitesell, and two aunts Mrs. Margaret Michael and Mrs. Mary Falkenstein.

Messrs. A. D. Naylor & Co., of Oakland, delivered to Mr. D. M. Schrock, of near Gortner, yesterday a Waterloo farm tractor which the purchaser will use on his farm for various purposes, including plowing, reaping, etc. The machine is fitted with pulleys which may be utilized in operating such machinery as silo cutters, threshers, and other farm implements requiring power. The tractor weighs about 5000 pounds and is rated at ten horse power.

Veteran B. F. Friend, of Friendsville, was in the city one or two days during the fair last week and thoroughly enjoyed his outing, meeting here a number of familiar faces he had not seen in many months. Recently Mr. Friend was awarded a large acreage of land in Northern Washington which was selected by lot under Government supervision, but owing to the state of his health he thought himself unable to comply with the requirements laid down by the Government and gave the matter up. One of the requisites for one drawing public lands is to be upon the property within a certain length of time from the awarded date and homestead it for the period of two years. Mr. Friend's land, being a soldier, embraced 320 acres for which he had an offer of $5000 to be paid at the expiration of the homestead period.

TYPHOID FEVER IN CRELLIN CHECKED

State Health Officer Riley Vaccinated 132 There Last Week.

Dr. Robert H. Riley, Deputy State Health Officer, First Sanitary District, with headquarters in Cumberland returned there last Tuesday night from Crellin, where he had been called to inaugurate a fight against an epidemic of typhoid fever among employes of the Kendall Lumber Company and members of their families. Mrs. Charles Ream, wife of the manager of the company, is among the stricken. It was thought at first the disease could be stamped out without trouble, but its spread became alarming and the aid of the State Board of Health was sought in combatting it.

Dr. Riley began a sweeping investigation of the town and for the first time known in Western Maryland was given the privilege of going into the schools where he administered the typhoid serum to all the school children and members of the Kendall Lumber Co., and their employes who had not been stricken. In all, 132 persons were vaccinated.

Dr. Riley said that Crellin is the first town in Western Maryland to comply to the letter with the regulations regarding sanitation as laid down by the State Board of Health and he believes the epidemic has been gotten under control. The town started a general clean-up campaign which has been continued and every precaution is being taken and the advice that Dr. Riley gave out is being followed very closely. A sample of the drinking water used by the residents of Crellin was taken and analyzed but it was found to be pure and no trace as to where the fever got its start has been discovered. The investigation will continue, however, in order to clear up the mystery.

Dr. Riley was accompanied to Crellin by William A. Gunther, bacteriologist of Cumberland.

Dr. Riley in speaking of the work, confidently predicted the attitude of the Crellin school will go a long way as an example to other communities. The visit of the health officer was the second in the past ten days, the first being the occasion of the innoculation of all the employes of the Kendall Lumber Company, and much credit was given these men and their employers for the way in which the health department's recommendation in the anti-typhoid campaign have been carried out.

The same measures that have been adopted by the enterprising people of the vicinity visited, have been largely put in practice in several other towns in the district and in all homes where conditions conducive to typhoid prevails, the whole work being undertaken by the State in its efforts to combat typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. William White, of Cleveland, Ohio, arrived in Oakland Sunday morning for a week's visit to relatives and friends.

Miss Gertrude Lake returned to Grafton, Monday morning after having spent a few days in Oakland visiting her mother, Mrs. James Brock.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Legge and G. W. Legge, Sr., left Oakland yesterday by automobile for Steubenville, Ohio, where they will be guests of Mr. George Zink, a relative.

County Treasurer J. W. Kimmell, is experiencing more than his share of tribulation on account of the new tax law which became effective on June 1st, at which time all discounts on State taxes paid before September 1st ceased and after September 1st interest charges are made upon the money due the State. In remitting taxes property owners almost invariably overlook this provision of the law and as a consequence the Treasurer is compelled to return the money to the remitter and explain the new provisions of the law. Mr. Kimmell has requested that this paper make mention of the new law and its provisions and request all tax payers to bear in mind that taxes (State) must be accompanied by interest after September 1st.

Pastor's Aid Musical.

A musical under the auspices of the Pastor's Aid Society of the Oakland Lutheran church will be held at the home of Mrs. Benj. H. Sincell on Friday evening of this week, when a silver offering at the door will be the price of admission. In addition to local talent to be present upon the occasion Miss Leonie Frank, of Cincinnati, Ohio, a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and of Berlin, Germany, will play a number of selections. The program will include vocal and instrumental music and readings.

Off to School.

Numerically the youth of Oakland has been somewhat lessened during the week on account of a number of young men and women leaving for school in other sections of the country, those having taken their departure are Mr. Playford Naylor, who is a student at Ohio Wesleyan; Felix Robinson and Morris Sincell Pennsylvania College at Gettysburg; Harold and Louise Harned and Mary Sincell to Western Maryland College, Westminster, Md.; Dana Moore, to West Virginia University, Morgantown.

Friendsville Delegation Here.

A representative delegation of business men and farmers from Friendsville and vicinity visited Oakland Monday for the purpose of interviewing the Board of County Commissioners relative to the building of a State-Aid road from Friendsville up the north prong of Bear Creek to connect with the State road at the Bear Creek bridge, that route being favored by some of the Friendsville people as against the route recently selected by the way of Elder Hill and Hoyes to connect with the State road at the Callis store south of Accident. Among the delegation appearing before the Commissioners were Messrs. J. W. McCullough, Wm. H. H. Friend, Fred. G. Fox, R. M. Holman, J. G. Kolb, W. W. Savage, Basil Garlitz, Orvil Jenkins, E. M. Coddington, Fred. McCullough, Jas. W. Friend, Fred. Ludwig and others. While the Commissioners did not take definite action upon the proposed road it has been tentatively agreed between the parties interested directly in the road that the two routes be surveyed by the State Roads engineering corps and the one selected that is recommended by the Roads Commission.

Mr. Charles W. Wenige, of St. Louis, Mo., returned to his home in that city Tuesday night, being accompanied thence by his two daughters and son Carl, who have been in Oakland as guests of relatives for several weeks past.

New Headings Please.

In remitting his subscription for The Republican, Mr. J. D. Ashby, formerly of Crellin, but now connected with a large publishing house in Washington, D. C., says, in a letter to the editor:

"Enclosed herewith is my check to cover subscription to July 1917. The improvement you have made in the headlines, etc., I like. The paper looks much better than it did and it improves the appearance in general. Hope you have had a successful county fair. I would have enjoyed being there to attend it. With all good wishes for yourself, The Republican, and dear old Garrett county I am,

Sincerely yours,
"Joseph D. Ashby."

Insane Man Jailed.

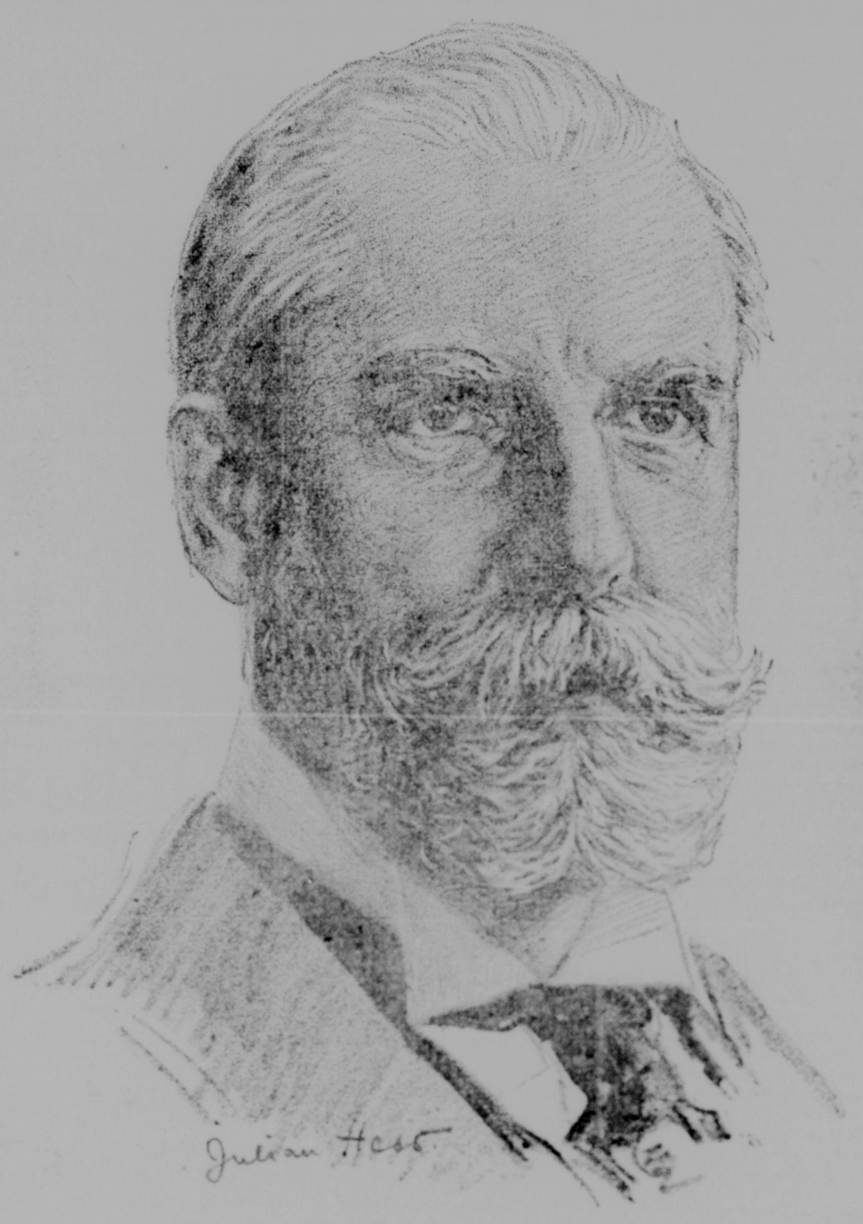
A man of about fifty-four years, evidently insane, was picked up at the lower water station in Oakland last Friday night and committed to jail where he is being held pending advices from the authorities in Wetzel county, West Va., where it is presumed his home and friends are located as at times he speaks of persons and towns in that section. From what can be determined by his disjointed utterances his name is John H. Rider. He claims that he has been robbed of a large sum of money. He is fairly well dressed and of good appearance.

B. & O. Operators Get Wage Increase.

Under an agreement just signed telegraph operators all over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad system, numbering about 3,500 men, receive an eight per cent. wage increase, together with better working conditions.

The wage increase is in effect as of August 1. The operators had the matter of a raise up with the Baltimore officials before the threatened Brotherhood strike. Pending adjustment of it negotiations were halted only to be resumed after the strike scare was passed.

CHARLES EVANS HUGHES



Hughes Sympathetic With Demands of Labor Which Are Proved to Be Just.

"I am sympathetic with every demand to improve the conditions of labor, to secure reasonable compensation for labor. I am in sympathy with every effort to better human conditions, and particularly the condition of those who toil in industrial pursuits, in railroad pursuits, in all these great activities that are essential to our prosperity. But when you have a proposition to change the scale of wages you have a vital proposition which requires examination. You must at least know whether the demand is a just one.

"Labor, of course, should not desire anything but what is just. I do not believe labor intends to ask for anything but what is just. What is just can be examined and will survive investigation. Nothing is lost by having the process of reason applied if only that which is just is required."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

DEMAND WAS NOT FOR AN EIGHT HOUR DAY.

"It is said that the judgment of society has made the demand for the eight-hour day. This was not an eight-hour day, and the judgment of society had nothing to do with the proposition laid before congress and passed by congress. The proof of this is found in the bill itself, which proposes an investigation to find out whether Congress had any business to do the thing which it was asked to do, and which it did do."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

PUBLIC OFFICER SHOULD STAND LIKE A ROCK.

"Government under pressure is not American government. Whenever pressure is applied to any public officer he ought to stand like a rock and say: 'Here I stand until we substitute reason for force. It is not an American doctrine to legislate first and investigate afterward.'" — Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY TO VOTE FOR HUGHES.

He Says Wilson Has Failed to Enforce Pure Food Law.

"I favor the election of Mr. Hughes to the Presidency for entirely different reasons than those held by most of his supporters. It is not because of the Mexican policy nor the foreign policy of the administration nor by reason of its domestic policies. It is because of the apparent indifference of the administration of President Wilson to the cause of pure foods and drugs. Practically all of the abuses which were injected into the pure food law by the preceding administrations are still in force. Benzoate of soda is still rampant. The fumes of burning sulphur are marching along undisturbed. There is evidently a lull in the activities of the administration of the law. A well known beverage, declared by the supreme court misbranded and amenable to the food law has not been molested. No attempt has been made to enforce the law in regard to the bleaching of flour. The repeal of the mixed flour law, that splendid safeguard to the purity of our bread, has been tacitly approved by the treasury department.

"Mr. Hughes in his activities on the supreme court has stood like a stone wall for the proper administration of the food law. I believe his election would see a radical change in the attitude of the government towards pure food and pure drugs, so vital to the welfare of our people. For this reason I sincerely hope that Mr. Hughes may be chosen as our next president.

"I should expect Mr. Hughes as president to have the same attitude toward the pure food and drug law that he had as a judge on the bench and to appoint a secretary of agriculture with subordinate officers who would be enthusiastic and earnest in the enforcement of the pure food law for the benefit of the physical, mental and moral welfare of our people."

WE SHOULD CONSIDER WHAT IS RIGHT, THEN DO IT.

"Our government is based on the idea that we have Legislatures to investigate, to consider what is right and to do what is right. It is based on the idea that public opinion is formed from discussion of questions, and that we can come possibly to right solutions. It is not based on the idea that the Government must act without knowing the justice and merits of the cause in which it acts."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

THERE SHOULD BE NO ACTION UNDER PRESSURE, UNDER DICTATION.

"We have one priceless treasure in this country, and that is the reign of good judgment after public discussion. In the long history of the people, victory after victory has been won over tyranny and force. We have a free press, we have a free form of public discussion, to the end that there may be a general understanding of our activities and a general appreciation of what is necessary to the improvement of our conditions. We may disagree about this measure or that, but we have confidence in the public judgment in the long run. Hence there is one thing which we must always maintain, and that is that there shall be no action on the part of our elected representatives, taken under pressure, under dictation. We must know what the facts are and what justice requires."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

NO ONE WAS AFRAID OF HAITI.

Haiti did not behave as badly to us as Mexico behaved; but Mr. Wilson intervened, fought the Haitiens, shedding their blood and the blood of our troops, took possession and now has our armed forces in control of Haiti and directing its government. His course of action in Haiti can be defended only if his course of action in Mexico is unqualifiedly condemned; for such action was far more needed in Mexico than in Haiti. But there was a difference in the two cases; and to Mr. Wilson it was a vital difference. Haiti was weaker than Mexico. No one was afraid of Haiti.—From the Speech of Colonel Roosevelt Delivered at Lewiston, Maine, in Behalf of Charles E. Hughes.

The President says that he is above all things else "an American citizen." Fortunately for him, nothing has taken him to Europe or Mexico during the past few years.

Papers that used to call McKinley a crook and Roosevelt a tyrant are scandalized now that anybody should breathe a whisper against our high and holy Woodrow.

Political Jottings

The Houston Post reasons that it was easier for its own beloved Democracy to indorse the president's Mexican policy than to define it.

While he was about it Senator James Hamilton Lewis also might have explained that the Rome that was "too proud to fight" died a rather disastrous death.

"In all fairness," asks the Boston Transcript, "shouldn't the expense of financing Carranza be borne by the Democratic campaign committee?"

Democrats really haven't any objection to big appropriations for army and navy and internal improvements. They expect the Republicans to rustle the revenue to foot the bills for the next four years.

Hughes says he would like six months to investigate the administration, but the administration figures he's doing very well as it is.

Yes, and the same policies that have filled Judge Hughes and others with "a deep sense of shame" have sent many other Americans to their graves.

The president has changed his mind about sending more troops to the border, thus running true to form.

When Tom Taggart talks economy to them it is time the Democrats stopped their extravagance.

The Hughes smile is beginning to attract favorable attention.

President Entertains Five Progressives. — Headline. Others he simply amuses.

Democratic papers chide Hughes because he says he is "100 per cent a candidate." The Wilson papers naturally prefer a fifty-fifty candidate.

The president says he has no interest in any political party "except as an instrument of achievement." If that's it then how did he happen to select such a poor instrument as the Democratic party?

Carranza isn't a candidate for president of the United States, but he did more for American preparedness in three weeks than Woodrow Wilson did in three years.

Another thing you never hear of since the Democrats reduced the cost of living is the "baker's dozen."

Mr. Hughes is criticised for his frequent use of the word "now." Evidently his immediateness is worrying the watchful waiters, who put things off until tomorrow.

Families living in the rural districts where mail service has been curtailed will be interested in knowing that Postmaster General Burleson has sent Secretary McAdoo a check for $1,200,000, representing surplus postal revenues.

Mr. Gardner should not quote what Mr. Wilson said while president of Princeton. His utterances are outlawed by himself in seven days.

That man Hughes in causing the Democratic newspapers an endless amount of worry. Apparently they will never be satisfied until he turns the management of his campaign over to them.

Mr. Hughes speeches are giving poor satisfaction to the Democratic press, which proves they are very good speeches indeed.

Secretary Baker is developing an agility in changing his mind that must endear him to his discoverer.

Mr. Wilson's administration must confess itself incompetent in one respect or the other. It either has appropriated for an unneeded navy or it has neglected a needed navy. It can select its fault to suit itself. In one respect or the other it must be wrong.

"I believe in efficiency in politics just as much as in anything else," says Mr. Hughes. Efficiency is an excellent watchword, and its use in the campaign is merely a forerunner of its use in the White House when he gets there.

First they said that Hughes was an iceberg; now they are saying that he is a mud slinger. He cannot possibly be both and, as a matter of fact, is neither. The Democrats must feel in a mighty bad way when they cry out "mud and treason."

WILSON ADMITS HE PRECIPITATED WAR

When Mr. Wilson forgets himself he admits that we have been at war. For example, on May 11, 1914, in an address over the dead marines at the navy yard in Brooklyn he said that the marines had been engaged in "a war of service." A war of service to whom or to what? Certainly not to the United States, nor to Mexico, nor to humanity at large. Was it to Mr. Wilson?—From the Speech of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Delivered at Lewiston, Me., in Behalf of Charles E. Hughes.

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY

Entrance Examinations

State Scholarship in Engineering Courses

Entrance Examinations for the Department of Engineering, as well as for the College of Arts and Sciences, will be held in the Academic Building of the Johns Hopkins University, Homewood, Baltimore, September 18-21, 1916, beginning at 9 a. m. each day.

Application For Scholarships in The Department of Engineering, established in the Johns Hopkins University under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, may now be made. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, a competitive examination must be taken in the Academic Building, Homewood, on September 22, 1916, beginning at 9 a. m.

Each County of the State and each Legislative District of Baltimore City, with the exception of Charles, Harford, and Queen Anne's Counties will be entitled to one or more scholarships for the year 1916-17, in addition to those which have already been assigned. In the three counties mentioned above all the available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City scholarships in the Department of Engineering are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted to them. The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text-books, and exemption from all regular fees. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is no greater than at other Maryland institutions.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, Maryland Agricultural College, Mt. St. Mary's College; and one scholarship will be awarded "At Large."

Applicants should address the Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University, for blank forms of application and for further information as to examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction.

300,000 TEUTONS SENT EASTWARD

"Offensive in Balkans, Defensive Everywhere Else," Is Decision of Berlin Conference

USE VETERANS FROM VERDUN

London.—Three hundred thousand Teuton troops will be dispatched at once from their theatres of war to the Balkan front. Germany will furnish 200,000, Austria-Hungary 100,000 men. This army, combined with the Germans, Bulgars and Turks now fighting in the Near East, is to accomplish the dual aim which the Central Powers and their Allies regard as absolutely vital for the continuation of the war: the crushing of Rumania and the expulsion of the Allies from Macedonia, so as to safeguard the communication between the Teutonic empires and their eastern Allies, the Orient railway.

This, according to a wireless dispatch from Rome, based on reliable authority, is the decision reached by the general council of the Central Powers at the Kaiser's headquarters in the East.

"Offensive in the Balkans, defensive everywhere else," is the slogan created by the recent developments in the Near East as the result of Rumania's intervention.

Evidences of a gradual shortening of the German western front are accumulating. Indication that Verdun will be abandoned is contained in the latest Paris War Office statement that a whole division has been sent from that front to the Somme, and far behind the Picardy lines the Teutons are feverishly constructing new defense systems.

News comes from Amsterdam that large numbers of German troops stationed in Belgium are being transferred to the eastern front, presumably to relieve front line units from the Russian to the Balkan theatre.

All passenger service on the German railroads has been held up for two days to facilitate troop movements.

Meanwhile an extensive campaign has been initiated by the General Powers to impress upon the populations the necessity of taking the initiative in the Balkans in disregard of any exigencies on the other fronts, and to prepare the people for possible withdrawals elsewhere.

BRIDGE SPAN COLLAPSES

5,000-Ton Link of Quebec's Greatest Work Falls Into St. Lawrence.

Quebec.—More than 50,000 persons, massed along both banks of the St. Lawrence River here, and on the heights of the historic Plains of Abraham, to watch the start of the raising to its buttresses, 150 feet high, the largest bridge span in the world, saw it sag suddenly at the huge chains that held it, quickly buckle in the middle, and with a roar like an explosion and amid the crash of its rended steel, collapse and sink 200 feet to the river's bottom.

The accident carried 25 men to their death and injured many more. Ninety men were at work on the structure when it fell.

Disaster seems to be part and parcel of this bridge, which when completed would have been one of the greatest engineering feats in the world. In 1907, during the construction of the cantilever span, the bridge collapsed and 70 workmen lost their lives, most of them Americans.

While officials and engineers were striving to learn the cause of the collapse from the varying stories of eye witnesses, the Dominion Government, which had offered a million-dollar subsidy to the builders, the St. Lawrence Bridge Company, for completion of the work, had started an investigation to place the blame for the accident. The loss in material is estimated at $600,000.

The bridge was to connect this city with the opposite bank of the St. Lawrence River, and to carry the traffic of eight railroads, cutting off 200 miles of the rail distance from Halifax to Western Canada.
